ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre

Two more days remain for local film fans to see "The Patent Leather Kid," First National's special production starring Richard Barthelmess and now attracting huge crowds to the Bread theatre. Tomorrow night it finishes its engagement after breaking all attendance records so far and achieving a reputation as one of the finest, most entertaining pictures that has ever been seen in this city. It is 100 per cent audience picture and no screen production ever presented at the Bread has drawn such a varied clientele, according to the management.

Today as has been the rule during this engagement, there will be the usual two performances at 2:15 and 7:30 and "The Patent Leather Kid" shown at 2:30 and 8:15.

Tomorrow, the last day of the engagement, showing will be continuous from 1 until 10:30.

Strand Theatre

"What Price Beauty," the Pathe picture produced by Natacha Rambova and showing tonight and Saturday at the Strand theatre, deals with the age-old vanity of woman and her struggle to bring men to her feet. Natacha Rambova wrote the story, in which Nita Naldi plays a gorgeously-attired siren whose rule is that all men must come bearing gifts—and costly ones. Dolores Johnson, her prototype, a sweet little girl from the country whose charm is her innocent simplicity. Both women love the handsome young proprietor of a beauty shop and the love story is of the triangle type but of vastly different treatment from the usual run. Pierre Gendron is the man. A fashion parade of the seven types of women, wearing amazing costumes, and some very striking stage settings, are unusual features of What Price Beauty.

"Heavy Hikers," a ton of fun with "Fat" Karr and Kewpie Ross, is a delightful comedy that will chase away the blues.

"Sharps and Flats" is a humorous and interesting Kartoon.

"Burton's Agency Sells Another"

Mrs. Lillian Beckwith has sold to Adelard Morin, of this city, a large brick house containing 13 rooms and baths and located at No. 85 Church street.

The new owner has purchased the property for an investment. The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

Palace Theatre

Adolphe Menjou, world's most popular "other man," abandons his famed dress suit in his latest Paramount starring vehicle, "A Night of Mystery," now on the screen at the Palace theatre.

Instead the star wears a scarlet uniform of the French-African Chasseurs, and in one of the sequences on the Sahara desert dons the tropical headgear and burnous of the native.

But, despite his change of wardrobe, it is the same Menjou, the same able actor who, in his pictures, breaks the hearts of beautiful women.

"A Night of Mystery" is an adaptation of Victorien Sardou's French play, "Captain Ferreol," and it is said to contain all the elements of good entertainment — romance, melodrama and an occasional dash of comedy. Ernest Vajda, Hungarian playwright, author of several of Menjou's previous screen successes, is responsible for the adaptation and the supervision of the production, which Lothar Mendes directed.

On the stage, Bob Larry's Entertainers are making a decided hit. This revue with its snappy jazz band, novel scenic effects and unusual song and dance numbers, is one of the best acts to be seen on the Palace stage in some time.

Duvall and the Richardson sisters present a pleasing song and dance number and close with a dance called the Cave of Sorrow, in which one of the girls takes a 14-foot drop into the arms of her partner. Montagne and Knapp, the acrobatic funsters appear in a novelty acrobatic act. Their closing stunt is a knockout when, seated on two chairs, they fall from a dazzling height, turning a complete somersault and land on the stage seated in the same chairs. Startzman and Kane, a black-faced comedy pair, give ten minutes of good clean fun, and Michel, the juvenile xylophonist renders several pleasing selections on the xylophone. Michel is without doubt the peer of xylophonists on the stage today and he plays himself right into the hearts of his audiences.

Eagles' Baseball Dance

A special meeting of the dance committee of the Eagles baseball members was held in Eagles hall to make final arrangements for the first dance of a series that is to be held in Pulaski hall on Friday evening. One of the specials for the evening will be the "Surprise," which the members of the team claim will be worth your while. Through the courtesy of the Connecticut company, car will be run to Taftville after dance.

THIRD RAILWAY MAIL CLERK GOES ON RETIRED LIST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 12—Lewis L. G. Curtis, Huntington street, after 36 years of railway postal service, has resigned, Mr. Curtis concluding his duties yesterday. He is the third New London man to go on the pension list within a comparatively short time, the other two clerks to retire from service being Henry Champion and James A. Morrison. Mr. Curtiss had been assigned to duty between New London and Worcester, Mass., holding that run since the Norwich branch was extended to this city. Prior to that time Mr. Curtis' run was between Norwich and Worcester.

But one prisoner was locked up at police headquarters tonight and he was released prior to midnight and will be in the police court tomorrow charged with intoxication. He was arrested on North Main street this afternoon by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Officer Michaud, but tonight a relative went to police headquarters and furnished a cash bond for the appearance of the accused in court.

Daniel Wutten, employed by the New London Collapsible Tube company, made complaint to the police tonight that while his automobile was parked on Waller street this afternoon that someone disfigured the body of the car by making chalk marks on it. The disfigureing, it is believed, was the work of boys going from school.

The meeting of New London lodge of Elks, No. 860, tonight was attended by one of the largest gatherings of members and visiting members that has been the case in a long time. After the installation ceremony the newly installed exalted ruler addressed the meeting after which refreshments were served and an entertainment was provided.

Although the special meeting called for last evening by Mayor James A. Max for the purpose of permitting the members of the council to discuss the plan of Hibbard N. Alexander collecting delinquent taxes, was not held because of the absence of a quorum, it is not believed that any attempt bordering on the drastic measure, will be tolerated in the tax collections. While it was admitted there are many property owners who are in arrears as regards the payment of taxes, it is known that these taxes will be paid in time, but that to enforce payment by the collection of the taxes at this time might result in some of the manufacturing concerns being forced into bankruptcy, so there will be no harsh methods taken in collecting them. One concern, which is known to owe taxes amounting to between $26,000 and $27,000, it was stated today by a representative of the concern is solvent, but that it has been unable to sell its production as rapidly as it was believed would be the case, which condition resulted in the taxes not having been paid. It was said, however, that there is every reason to believe that the money due the city would be paid, but that the concern would have to be extended ample time to do this.

The Humphrey-Cornell company is desirous that Sparyard street, which extends from Bank street to the tracks of the New York, New Haven Hartford railroad shall be widened and the matter has been brought to the attention of City Manager William A. Holt. To permit the widening of the thoroughfare its entire length would of necessity require the removal of the headquarters of Niagara Engine company. Should such a procedure result it would undoubtedly result in the establishment of fire headquarters in some other location than that which exists at the present time or else it would compel the Niagara Engine company being housed with another fire company, probably the F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company, whose quarters now are but a half block away from the engine company. The quarters of the truck company, however, would have to be enlarged to permit the housing of the two companies and to do this probably a new building would be erected, something that the Allen company has sought a long time. City Manager Holt will give the request consideration before making a report or recommendation to the council. A few months ago Building Inspector William Gunn inspected the truck house as a result of officers of the company contending that the house was not sanitary and a new house should be erected. The inspector at the time would not recommend the condemnation of the building, but he did suggest alterations, especially that the sleeping quarters be improved by repairs.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Beware of black cats. Look out for ladders and if you find a horseshoe don't keep it. Today is Friday, the 13th, when superstitution holds sway and luck is likely to go by the board.

This is the day celebrated as the birthday anniversary of Thomas Jefferson, customarily the occasion for numerous democratic banquets.

In the states of New Jersey and West Virginia this is the day set apart for the annual observance of Arbor day.

Centenary of the birth of Joseph John Davis, a distinguished jurist of North Carolina and a representative in congress.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Oakland and Pontiac Autos

There is a big year ahead for Oakland and Pontiac in the Norwich territory, in the opinion of the Rosoff Motor Mart. All indications point this way, the local dealers assert. Throughout the state, Pontiac especially has been showing up decidedly well and in some places, as Hartford, for instance, where competition is very keen, this well known six has maintained the lead not only in its own class but in those at higher and lower prices.

Naturally the Norwich dealer is interested in the welfare of the distributor, the A. C. Hine company, of Hartford. The retail sales force of this company in March exceeded its best previously high month, August of last year, by 25 cars.

Deliveries are coming through fast throughout the state and the Norwich dealer is able at this time to make prompt deliveries. It would not be surprising if there is a shortage of Pontiacs before the summer sets in. There is such demand throughout the country that with all distributors calling for increased allotments the factory will be hard pressed for a time at least.

The advice of the Rosoff Motor Mart is to order now and thus be sure of early delivery.

POSED AS "DOCTOR" HERE BUT TURNED OUT TO BE A BURGLAR

Admitting the charge of burglary against him in the city court Thursday morning, Ovila DesRochers, 37, of this city, was bound over to the next term of the criminal superior court under bonds of $2,000. He is charged with entering the home of Mrs. Peter Peraldo, No. 88 Dunham street, Monday, and taking three watches, a diamond ring and about $100 in cash.

DesRochers, who is known as Dr. Ovila DesRochers, suite 2, No. 107 High street, was arrested at Maryville, R. I., Wednesday, by the state police and brought back to Norwich. Sergeant Albright of the Groton state police barracks, trailed DesRochers to Rhode Island. The sergeant had inspected DesRochers' belongings in his room in this city and picked from a list of addresses those of two women living in Maryville. Letters from the Rhode Island women were found among a large number of other letters from women all over the country and from Canada. Letters from his most recent admirers contained appeals for funds.

Confronted at Maryville, the man is said to have admitted his guilt. All of the missing jewelry was found on him and also a part of the missing money. While Mrs. Peraldo was at work Monday morning, DesRochers got into her bedroom, through a window, the pane of which had been broken. He was unable to furnish the $2,000 bond and went to jail to await trial.

Three letters of recent date from Mrs. Minnie E. Swallow of Gillen avenue, Maryville, R. I., were the clue that led Sergeant Albright to look for the "doctor" there, and the wanted man was found dining at the home of Mrs. Swallow.

The "doctor's" love affairs came to light when Sergeant Albright opened the two suitcases that his man had taken with him in his flight from this city to Maryville. Several hundred letters in which women from all parts of the country expressed their love and begged the "doctor" to return to heal their heart aches, were found; several bulky notebooks containing the addresses of several hundred more women; a number of snapshots and pictures autographed in endearing terms were found in the cases, as were a large number of articles of feminine wear and several bottles of perfume. Each of the articles of women's wear bore a little card showing that it was a present to the doctor from a "sweetheart."

The suit case also revealed a book containing a large number of the doctor's soliloquies and philosophies on the interesting subject of love, a number of prescriptions as to how the art of love making should be pursued and many recipes as to the manner in which a swain should approach his lady fair to "pop the question."

The state police at Groton are firmly convinced that DesRochers is badly wanted in a number of cities and while he languished in the county jail Thursday Sergeant Albright went about the task of arranging from the letters to stop over points on the doctor's trail of broken hearts, and the police authorities in each of these places will be furnished with a photograph of the king of all sheiks and asked to at once inform the Groton barracks if the ardent lover is wanted.

One of the most interesting things brought to light was the following recipe in the doctor's handwriting on how to serve a kiss:

"To one piece of dark piazza, add a little moonlight. Take for granted two persons—a boy and a girl. Press in two strong, masculine ones, a small, soft white hand. Sift and add two ounces of attraction and one of romance. Add a measure of folly and one or two whispers. Dissolve half a dozen glances in the well of silence. Dust on a small quantity of hesitation, one ounce of resistance; two of yielding. Place the kisses on a flushed cheek or two lips. Flavor with a silent sigh and then permit to cool off. This recipe will prove highly satisfactory in any climate if directions are carefully followed."

HIGHWAY DEPT. TO BEGIN ATTACK ON CATERPILLARS

That the Connecticut highway department will renew its battle, begun last year, against the destructive tent caterpillar was made known Thursday through a letter sent to all department officials and division engineers by Commissioner John A. Macdonald, containing complete instruction for ridding roadside trees and bushes of the pest which annually preys upon the Connecticut trees. While considerable work was done last year toward ridding the state of this insect, continued vigilance is necessary to completely eliminate the pest.

An attempt will be made by the highway department to clear road shoulders of all small scrub apple and wild cherry trees which are the favorite lodging places of the tent caterpillar, and to destroy the tent-like nests found on other growths. Division engineers will solicit the cooperation of abutting property owners in eradicating these particular trees and in wiping out nests on other trees, for unless all property in a given territory can be cleared, the caterpillar quickly spreads to all neighboring land and carries on its work of destruction.

According to the bulletin sent from the department headquarters, the minute eggs of the caterpillar, of which there are likely to be as many as 200 in a cluster, hatch late in April. The caterpillar feeds ravenously for about six weeks and then abandons its nest to weave itself a white silken cocoon. Late in June or early in July it again emerges as a brown moth, which in turn lays its eggs in a brown sticky ring around an apple or wild cherry twig. These clusters are about an inch long and might easily be mistaken for lumps of chewing gum.

During its six weeks of feasting the caterpillar dines upon the April buds and young leaves, completely destroying them and causing defoliation. They are best attacked in the egg stage by pruning off and burning the infested twigs, or by destroying the tents. After the hatching stage is reached, the best attack is by spraying their prospective food with lead arsenate or paris green and quick lime.

FAMILY SECTION IN SOCIAL WORK CONFERENCE

The meetings of the family section of the Connecticut Conference of Social Work which is to be held in Stamford, April 22 to 25, will take place Monday, April 23. In the morning at ten o'clock at the First Presbyterian church there will be a round table meeting on the subject "The Long Time Relief Case—Whose Job is It?" George Warren of Bridgeport will act as chairman. Arthur Dunham, secretary of the Child Welfare Division of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, will be the speaker. His subject will be "The Foundation of Mother's Aid Laws."

The Intercity Conference of Family Welfare societies in Connecticut has discovered 359 families of alien widows whose children were born in the state of Connecticut and who are now being assisted by private and municipal agencies. There are 555 children under sixteen years of age whose education and future is dependent upon what assistance their mothers can secure. Throughout the state there are also 186 families of American citizenship in which the mothers and children are having a hard time to get along because their husbands are either insane, incurably ill or in prison for long periods. There are 344 children under sixteen years of age living in these homes. The Round Table is to discuss with representatives of the state institutions the question of who should be responsible for the continued care of these families.

At 12.15 there will be a luncheon meeting at which Miss Margaret Rich, associate executive secretary of the American Association for Organizing Family Social Work, will speak. This is the national organization with which Family Welfare societies all over the country are affiliated.

In the afternoon at 2.00 at the First Presbyterian church there will be another Round Table on the subject "The Family Budget." The point of view of the home economist will be presented by Miss Lucy Gillette, home economics director of the New York association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The point of view of the psychiatric social worker will be presented by Miss Henrietta F. Thatcher of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene. The view of the insurance company will be presented by Miss Elizabeth Guilford, of the Metropolitan Insurance company in New York. The economic aspect will be presented by Mr. Henry Schenck of Stamford. The point of view of health will be given by Miss Elizabeth Van Patten of the Visiting Nurse association of New Haven.

MISSIONARY WORKER ON SPEAKING TOUR HERE

Rev. Wheeler Boggess will speak next week in several Baptist churches in Norwich and vicinity. An itinerary has been arranged as follows:

Tuesday evening 7.30 p. m. Leffingwell Baptist church; Wednesday 1.00 p. m., Preston City Baptist, 7.30 p. m. Jewett City Baptist; Thursday, 7.30 p. m. The First Baptist, Norwich, 8.15 p. m. Central Baptist, Norwich; Friday, 6.00 p. m. Norwich Hi Y club at the Y. M. C. A., 7.30 p. m. Third Baptist, Norwich.

Rev. Mr. Boggess came home on furlough in the fall of 1927 from service in the Remapatnam Baptist Theological seminary, where he had been stationed during the absence of Principal W. E. Boggs. This seminary is the most important Baptist institution in the South India mission, as it is engaged in the training of an indigenous Christian ministry. It is not only developing leaders but is constantly sending them out during their course of instruction for practical work in surrounding villages. Wives of students come also for training. However ignorant at the start, they go out happy at being able, through what they have learned, to greatly help the women and children of the villages in which their husbands will find work.

Mr. Boggess is a native of West Virginia. In January, 1892, he was appointed to missionary service, sailing for South India late in that year.

Kandukuru was Mr. Boggess' first station, and to it he gave most of his years of service until 1914. In 1919 this station was put in charge of the Home Mission society of the Telugu Baptist convention and it has since been carried on entirely as an indigenous enterprise. In 1920 Mr. Boggess was made general evangelist for the South India Mission, a position created at the time to coordinate all evangelistic effort. In one year he reached to over 32,000 people. In 1924 Mr. Boggess was designated to Sattenapalle, where he remained until called to Ramapatnam.

Spoke Before Providence Club

G. Reginald Ashbey, formerly of this city, who is the head of the copy writing department of the Larchar, Horton company advertising agency of Providence, R. I., gave an address before the Woman's Business club of that city on Tuesday evening. The subject of Mr. Ashbey's address was "The Art of Advertising" and was given in a very able manner. A discussion followed the talk. This meeting was held in the Plantation club and is the first of a series of talks which Mr. Ashbey hopes to give.

PRESIDENT LARRABEE MAKES ANSWER TO QUESTION

In the April issue of "Norwich Progress", the publication of the Norwich chamber of commerce, President Harold D. Larrabee answers in the following effective way the question, "Are industrially dead?"

"There has been in some quarters the idea that eastern Connecticut is industrially Dead?"

This, of course, results in the impression that for some reason or other it is perhaps not a good place to locate industries. Neither this idea nor the impression which results from it is correct.

"There is probably no business which has any greater regional competition than the manufacture of tire fabric; and in this activity one of the large tire manufacturers is operating a mill in eastern Connecticut which is running 22 hours a day. Another tire company is just completing a large addition to a mill which it owns in eastern Connecticut for the manufacture of the same class of goods. Either one of these companies could have located its mills anywhere in the United States that they might have found it of advantage to do so, and yet they are not only in New England but in eastern Connecticut.

"So far as industrial activity is concerned, it is conceded that one of the best measures thereof is the consumption, or change in the consumption, of electric power. Comparing the output of central electric stations of 1927 as against 1926, we find that for the United States as a whole there was an increase in electric power of 9.48 per cent. The increase of 1927 over 1926 for New England was 8.03 per cent. Coming a little nearer home, we find that the increase for Connecticut as a whole was 6.73 per cent. and may be gratified to observe that the increase for eastern Connecticut was 14.11 per cent.

"This is, of course, a purely statistical story, but the figures are taken from a source which is conceded by the electrical industry to be a very reliable one. It shows in point of fact exactly what has happened, and, upon the basis of cold fact, therefore, it seems very clear that industrially speaking at least eastern Connecticut, as compared with the rest of the country, as compared with New England, and in most any way in which you care to compare it, is a long ways from being dead."

FISHING CRAFT BRINGS $300 AT NOANK AUCTION

The steamship George Squires, 28-year-old 142-foot fishing craft, was sold for $300 to John A. Hayes of New York, at public auction conducted by Deputy United States Marshal John B. Doherty at the Noank Shipyard Wednesday afternoon. The sale was by order of the United States district court to settle claims amounting to about $1,500 against the ship, made by Mr. Hayes and by the Noank shipyard. Mr. Hayes and a representative of the Noank Shipyard were the only bidders and a few others were present.

Mr. Hayes owns several fishing boats which have been laid up at the Noank yard all winter and the George Squires will probably be tied alongside the others.

GAVE BOOK REVIEW FOR CLUB'S LITERATURE DEPT.

With Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott presiding and presenting a most complete review of books, entitled "Whats What," the literature department of the Woman's City club met Tuesday afternoon at the club room at the Wauregan hotel, for the fifth occasion of its winter programme which has been the approach to the literature of 1927-1928, in the broadest sense of the word, through reviews and studies (incidentally) including two centenaries, and which course will be completed at the May meeting when Miss Louise Howe gives the closing paper, on "Modern Poetry."

Mrs. Abbott gave to her audience that delight that can come only through the intimate interpretation of a genuine book-lover. The review brought to each listener a pictured understanding of each author in turn, a comprehensive delineation of the characters and the environment in the novels, a child's and youth's point of view in the books for childhood and adolescence, and of serious thought in following the books for adults, they receiving from Mrs. Abbott's review, fresh inspiration and through the writer's encouragement, renewed desire to enter into daily tasks certain of their relative importance.

Few possess the innate quality that Mrs. Abbott owns, to make each book so real as to cause her listener to say to her neighbor, "I feel that I simply must read every book that Mrs. Abbott has mentioned today!"

Mrs. Abbott's intensive study in these reviews was deeply appreciated by her hearers, and her concentration, her literary appreciation, her delicate and ever kindly humor, and her unusual talent in entering into the sympathetic understanding of each writer in turn, and above all else, her own delightful use of the "King's English" gave to the Woman's club once more a red letter day.

The books which she mentioned, all in the Otis library, were the following:

Fiction—Southern Charm, Eden, Adam and Eve, Red Sky at Morning, Over the Boatside, The Bonney Family, Now East, Now West, November Night, Kitty, Red Rust, Wintersmoon, Claire Ambler, The Bridge of San Luis Rey, The Ugly Duchess, A President is Born, Iron and Smoke, My Wife, Poor Wretch, Deluge, Hanging Johnny, Crusade, Debonair, Mr. Hodge and Mr. Hazard, The Dreadful Night, The House of Dr. Edwards, The Story of Ivy, The Murder at Fleet, The Old, Dark House, The Haunted House, The Greene Murder Case, Anne Bellinda, The Squealer, The Light Beyond.

AMERICAN PRINTS TO BE IN TEXTILE EXHIBITION

In the textile exhibition which will be shown under the joint auspices of the Slater museum and the Woman's City club, will be a collection of the designs of the Stehli Fabrics company, which have just come on from the exhibition at Jordan Marsh in Boston.

The accompanying booklet says: "The first series of Americana prints, produced in the fall of 1915, broke all traditions and ventured forth into an entirely new field by employing such themes of modern life as skyscrapers . . . jazz, as the motifs of their fascinating designs . . . born of the very restlessness and speed of the age in which we live. . . . Again a new note was struck. Design by photography! . . . the most commonplace articles of everyday use were glorified into remarkable designs. . . . Matches, tacks, aspirin tablets caught by the magic of a master photographer, became the theme of these new silks."

Here is the list of designs in this collection: Metropolis, F. V. Carpenter; Je T'Aime, Russie Green; Eve's Garden, Katharine Sturges; Tugs, A. Petrucelli; Buttons and Thread, Edw. Steichen; Harvest, Helen Dryden; Rhapsody, John Held, Jr.; Pegs, C. B. Falls; If, Russie Green; April, Clayton Knight. An interesting contrast will be made between these designs and the antique designs of the Schumacher and Fortuny Fabrics, as well as many antique pieces which will be shown.

The private view for the City club will be on April 17. The exhibition will be open free to the public from April 18 to 22, both dates inclusive. Hours on school days, 10:30-3:30; on Saturday, 2-6; on Sunday, 2-5.

Because of the preparations for the exhibition, Converse art gallery is to be closed this Sunday.

Albertus Held Without Bail

A fake clergyman who visited Norwich some time ago turned up in New York last week, as briefly noted in The Bulletin. Charles J. Alburtus, an ex-convict charged with having fleeced ministers and church workers by posing as a clergyman, was held for trial without bail. The specific charge against him is that he failed to pay a board bill of $119.

The police said that Albertus has preached in various churches in the eastern states on "From Prison to Pulpit."

HOW CAN YOU KNOW?

You've never looked through the sharp, perfect eyes of another person to compare your vision with his. You can't measure your height without a tape measure—you can't know your weight without a scale. And by the same token you can't know if your eyesight is up to par without a scientific eye examination. Have your eyes examined and wear FULL-SIGHT—they are the best.

JUNKERS PLANE, WITH CREW WELL, HAS LANDED ON GREENLY ISLAND, OFF N. W. COAST NEWFOUNDLAND

Well Authenticated Reports Have Been Received From Various Sources—It is Believed the Bremen Was Forced Down After Passing Over the Bay of Fundy About Noon Yesterday—Landing Was Necessitated by the Exhaustion of Fuel—Greenly Island is in the Strait of Belle Isle, Between Newfoundland and the Quebec Mainland—The Island Lies Nearly 400 Miles to the Northwest of the Bremen's Plotted Course.

(By The Associated Press)

Apparently fully authenticated reports announce the German monoplane Bremen and her German-Irish crew have beaten that aviation hoodoo—a non-stop westward flight of the Atlantic.

They did not completely achieve their announced objective—"Mitchel Field or Heaven"—but they tied in the eastern and western shores in a 34-hour jump from Ireland to Labrador, assert despatches from several reliable sources.

Slightly damaged in a forced descent, the Bremen was said to rest under the sheer rock cliffs of Greenly Island, a little "dot" on the map marking the northern tip of Labrador.

Her crew of three—Baron von Huenefeld, Captain H. Koehl and Col. Fitzmaurice—unharmed by the long, arduous, almost fatal, flight from Baldonnel field, were guests of the island lighthouse keeper.

The plane landed about noon yesterday, all reports agree, but because of the isolation of the spot, no news reached the outside world until nearly seven hours later. It came in a wireless message from Point Amour, Lab., apparently relayed there by courier: "German plane landed Greenly Island noon. Slightly damaged. Crew well."

MESSAGE FROM ONE OF THE CREW OF THE BREMEN

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP)—The North German Lloyd announced tonight receipt of a wireless message from Baron von Huenefeld, one of the crew of the monoplane Bremen, confirming the safe landing at Greenly Island, Labrador. Termination of the flight was necessitated by exhaustion of fuel, the baron reported.

The message was:

"Made a safe intermediate landing on Greenly Island necessitated by lack of fuel and strong head winds encountered on way.

(Signed) "Von Huenefeld."

FIRST MESSAGE OF THE LANDING OF THE JUNKERS

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 13—(AP)—A report that the German plane Bremen was at Greenly Island near the western entrance to the straits of Belle Isle, was received here tonight at 8:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, from the radio operator at Point Amour, Labrador.

The message received here was as follows:

"Point Amour—German plane at Greenly Island. Wind southeast. Thick. (Signed) W. F. Barrett."

Barrett is the radio operator at Point Amour, on the southern tip of Labrador, where the Newfoundland government maintains a small station in its coastal chain for the protection of the fisheries.

The message was received here by J. J. Collins, superintendent at St. John's for the Marconi Wireless company. Barrett is the operator at the Marconi station at Point Amour, which is about 20 miles distance from Greenly Island.

Officials of the Newfoundland marine and fisheries department said tonight that if the plane has landed at the island and is unable to take off again it will be necessary to send a sealing steamer from this port to take the fliers off.

Greenly Island is at the mouth of Blanc Sablon bay at the western entrance to the Straits of Belle Isle, at the exact boundary line between the Canadian and Newfoundland sections of Labrador. It would take the fliers weeks to travel along the seaboard to Quebec.

Greenly Island is a tiny speck near the mouth of the strait of Belle Isle, on the northwest coast of Newfoundland between there and the mainland of Quebec. Its bulk consists of two hillocks, one 85 feet high, the other 62 feet, joined by a barren plateau. A large fishing establishment operated by Canadian interests is located there. Its southern coast is a bare-faced rock. To the north the coast is rocky and bold. The island lies nearly 400 miles to the northwest of the Bremen's plotted course over St. John's, N. F.

WIRELESS ADDRESSED TO THE LONDON TIMES

PHILADELPHIA, April 13—(AP)—A wireless message addressed to the London Times and believed to have been sent by one of those aboard the German plane Bremen, stating that a safe landing had been made on Belle Isle, was picked up tonight by an operator of the Reading railway.

The message read:

"Landed Belle Isle 8:06 Atlantic time. All well. Unaided."

The Reading operator was unable to decipher the signature to the message.

SISTER SHIP READY TO FLY TO THE STRANDED BREMEN

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP)—Fred Melchoir, representing the Junkers company in America, announced tonight that if developments warrant he would fly the Junkers C-32, sister ship of the Bremen, to Greenly Island, Labrador, to aid the crew of the German plane reported to have landed there in its attempted Ireland-New York flight.

Melchoir said he would await further details before deciding definitely whether to make the flight. He said it might be that he could carry repair parts and supplies to put the Bremen in condition to continue her flight to New York.

Hertha and Erhardt Junkers, daughter and son of the designer of the Bremen, who spent the day at Mitchel field, prepared to go with Melchoir in the C-32 to meet and escort the trans-Atlantic plane, were jubilant when reports that the plane had landed safely were received.

BOY FLASHED TO WORLD LANDING OF THE BREMEN

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 13—(AP)—An 18 year old amateur radio operator of this city, tonight flashed to the world news of the landing of the German plane Bremen, on Greenly island.

Stewart Davis, who has a small experimental station, intercepted the first message sent out by the Canadian government radio station at Louisberg, N. S., describing the forced landing and relayed them immediately into the Manchester Union.

Mr. Davis who has conducted important experimental work for the government received his first crystal radio set when he was five years old.

BELIEVE BREMEN MUST HAVE LANDED ON ICE

OTTAWA, Ont., April 13—(AP)—Harrison F. Lewis, of the national parks branch of the Canadian department of the interior, said tonight he believed the monoplane Bremen must have landed on the ice beside Greenly Island.

"It would not be possible to land on the island itself," he said. "The plane must have come down on the ice beside the island and if the plane is not damaged it would be possible to take off from the ice. Even as late as this an auto truck makes trips from the mainland to the island on the ice."

Mr. Lewis, who visits the island every year on his annual inspection of bird sanctuaries and parks, said the island is about half a mile long, quite narrow and rises to a height of about 80 feet. There are no trees or bushes, he said, but the rocks and earth are overgrown with moss.

He said the island is about two miles from the Quebec shore and three miles inside the boundary line between Quebec and the Newfoundland Labrador.

"At this time of year the ice between the island and the shore should be solid so that the airmen could walk across to the postoffice and telegraph station on the mainland," he said. "The postoffice bears the name of Lourdes de Blanc Sablon and is sometimes known as Long Point. Point Amour is 10 or 12 miles along the coast."

CRIMINALS IDENTIFIED BY WITNESSES OF GUN FIGHT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 13—(AP)—Connecticut police authorities have lodged warrants at Hampden county jail here charging Roland T. Lalone 21, and Albert J. Raymond, 20, alleged "ice box" bandits, with murder. The youths held here in connection with ten holdups are accused of slaying Trooper Irving H. Nelson at Pomfret, Conn., last Friday. The trooper was slain after Motorcycle Officer Raymond P. Gallagher had fought a running gun fight with the same bandits here.

The pair will be given a hearing here on the 23rd on various charges and following the hearing it is expected legal steps will be taken to turn them over to Connecticut authorities. Supt. Robert T. Hurley of the Connecticut state police was here today furthering Connecticut's case.

Ten new eye-witnesses to the running gun fight between the bandits and Officer Galagher here appeared at police headquarters today and identified the pair. Their affidavits were taken down and sworn to. Supt. Hurley has started to trace the source of the bandit car from this city to Dudley where they abandoned it. Search for guns reported to have been disposed of by the bandits in that vicinity has also been started.

SENATE REAFFIRMS THE CONFIRMATION OF GREW

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—After two hours discussion behind closed doors, the senate today reaffirmed its action of last week in confirming the nomination of Joseph C. Grew, of New Hampshire, to be ambassador to Turkey.

A motion to reconsider was made by Senator King, democrat, Utah, after confirmation had been made in his absence from the chamber, but it was rejected without a roll call, but with a number of democrats supporting it.

Senator King explained that the fight was not directed at the former undersecretary of state so much as it was against the Modus Vivendi by which the state department resumed diplomatic relations with Turkey after the senate failed to ratify the Lausanne treaty in the drafting of which Grew, as minister to Sweden, had quite a large hand.

HEAVY INCREASE IN THE RESOURCES OF NAT'L BANKS

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Resources of national banks increased two and a half billion dollars during the last year.

In making this announcement today Currency Comptroller McIntosh, reported that resources, including all national banks in Continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii, aggregated $27,573,687,000 on February 25, the date of the last bank call, comparing with $25,136,426,000 on the same date a year ago.

Although the resources showed this increase for the year there was a decrease of $590,532,000 since last December 31. The comptroller's report explained the decrease on the grounds that it represents the "seasonal demand for funds."

The same ratio held for loans and discounts, including rediscounts, which were reported at $14,399,447,000, an increase for the year of $1,078,725,000 but a decrease since last December of $431,812,000.

Amounts due from correspondent banks and bankers aggregated $4,113,393,000 showing a reduction since the precious call of $349,419,000 but an increase for the year of $121,461,000.

Paid in capital stock aggregated $1,537,214,000 and showed increases since last December and February of $8,705,000 and $100,168,000 respectively.

NEGOTIATING WORLD-WIDE TREATY RENOUNCING WAR

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Negotiations for a world-wide treaty solemnly renouncing war in favor of the pacific settlement of international controversies, were initiated today when Secretary Kellogg invited the British, German, Italian and Japanese governments to join France and the United States in agreeing upon and signing a pact to that end.

It is the first time in history that the United States has embarked upon so extensive a project for the promotion of world peace. It has the sanction of President Coolidge and the state department is confident of its ultimate success.

The United States is of the opinion, said Secretary Kellogg in offering his draft treaty to the four foreign ministers for their consideration and comment, that every nation in the world can, with a proper regard for its own interest, as well as for the interests of the entire family of nations, join in such a treaty.

The four governments were asked by Mr. Kellogg whether they were in a position to give favorable consideration to the conclusion of a treaty such as that submitted and, if not, what specific modifications in the text would be acceptable to them. At the same time he announced that so far as the United States is concerned no effort would be spared to find a solution for any technical difficulties which might arise in the course of the negotiations.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY FOR SMUGGLING LIQUOR

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 13—(AP)—Discovery of an alleged conspiracy involving United States and Canadian customs officials, by which shipments of liquor were passed through the customs barriers into New York state resulted today in imposition of a sentence of heavy fine and imprisonment by Federal Judge Bryant on a former deputy collector of customs.

Kenneth B. Wood of Richville, former United States deputy collector at Fort Covington, was sentenced to serve four months in Onondaga county penitentiary, and pay $2,000 fines with an alternative of an additional jail sentence. Wood entered pleas of guilty on four counts of an indictment involving him and two other men.

The indictment moved by Russell E Harrington, assistant United States attorney, charged Wood with being a member of a ring which routed shipment after shipment of liquor from Canadian cities to fictitious consignees in New York cities, billing the contraband as pulpwood or shavings.

A Stern Indictment of the Ku Klux Klan

By Federal Judge Thompson in Dismissing the Injunction Suit.

PITTSBURGH, April 13—(AP)—A stern indictment of the Ku Klux Klan, in which it was held to be responsible for riots, bloodshed, and the burning of men alive, was made here today by Federal Judge W. H. Thomson, in an opinion dismissing an injunction suit brought by the order against five former members.

The court, after hearing sensational testimony for five days, including a general denial by Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans, of charges made against the Klan, held that the organization came into the court of equity with "filthy hands" and that it could not gain any relief from him.

In dismissing the Klan petition for an injunction to restrain the former members from using its name, and asking for $500,000 damages, Judge Thomson placed the costs upon the Klan.

The court upheld practically every bit of testimony offered by the defendants against the Klan, including allegations that Klansmen had burned a Negro alive in Texas; that they had flogged other citizens; that they had maintained a secret terrorist organization known as the Knight Riders" and "Black Robe" gang; that they had fostered riots; that they had caused bombs to be set off in an effort to increase Klan memberships; that they had kidnaped a child in Pittsburgh; and that they had stirred up racial and religious feelings throughout the country.

Judge Thomson held that the Klan, with the sanction of Evans and other leading officers, had not only violated its own constitution and laws, but had invaded the rights of citizens who were not members of the organization.

After entering his order of dismissal, the court noted that the plaintiff took exception. Klan attorneys said they probably would confer on the question of carrying the case to a higher court.

Several days ago, in another opinion, Judge Thomson had dismissed the cross complaint of the five defendants, in which they sought to have a receiver named for the Klan in Pennsylvania and asked that the Klan account for some $15,000,000 said to have been collected in the state.

At that time the court said that if the charges entered against the Klan were upheld, it would not only be the right but perhaps the duty of the state of Pennsylvania to revoke the charter under which the Klan operates.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., April 13—(AP)—The New York east conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in a resolution adopted at its annual convention today attacked a proposal of the national affairs committee of the National Republican club urging that the party's Kansas City convention write a plank favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Such a proposal, said the resolution, introduced by the Rev. M. L. Robinson, general secretary of the New York City Society of the Methodist Episcopal church, "tends to leave the forces of civic righteousness without any strong party leadership, and in our judgment will be detrimental to the best interests of the party in this state and throughout the nation."

Another Trade in Senate By Heflin

Makes New Attack on Gov. Al Smith—Calls Mayor Walker a "Smooth Artist."

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Outmaneuvering senate leaders who sought to delay his speech, Senator Heflin, of Alabama, made a new attack today on Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, and brought nito the range of his fire Mayor James J. Walker, of New York city.

The Alabaman charged that the New York governor and candidate for the democratic presidential nomination is the head of "the Roman Catholic political machine in America," and asserted that the Smith campaign fund was "the largest and most corrupt ever used."

Mayor Walker was declared by Heflin to be "a smooth artist, the slickest eel in the pond."

The Alabama senator urged Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, to introduce a new resolution for investigation of campaign expenditures and said that Mayor Walker should be the first witness called, but he added that all of the "Tammanyites" should be examined by the senate committee he would have created.

Heflin charged and Senator Steck, democrat, Iowa, vigorously denied that the Smith forces had used huge sums in Iowa in the contest against Edwin T. Meredith for the Iowa delegation to the democratic national convention at Houston.

Asserting that Arkansas is ten to one against Smith, although the state is claimed for him, Heflin warned that if the Arkansas delegation was delivered to "the anointed of the pope" there would be "more political tombstones around here than you have ever seen."

The claim that Oklahoma is for Smith was described by Heflin as "shocking." He also said that James M Thompson, publisher of the New Orleans Item, had been in Washington, as he understood, "trying to get a vote in Louisiana so that the people may express themselves and say that the Louisiana delegation is for Smith."

Heflin made two starts before he finally was permitted to get under way. He obtained the floor immediately after the senate convened, but Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, took him off his feet on a point of order. The Alabaman was up again in a few minutes and that time Vice President Dawes ruled he was entitled to speak although Senator Curtis tried to shut him off.

Explaining that the senate desired to act on the naval appropriation bill today, the republican leader suggested that Heflin's speech could be made some other day. Heflin disagreed with him and inquired why the Kansas senator "is so nervous over this speech."

"I am not 'nervous'" Curtis replied, adding that he had "no interest in anything that the senator from Alabama may say."

U. S. C. OF C. PRESSES DEMAND FOR $400,000,000 TAX CUT

In Lively Session of the Senate Finance Committee Acting Secretary Mills of the Treasury Department Attacked the Proposal as "Unsound"—Declared That Such a Reduction Would Retard the Program For Retirement of the $18,000,000,000 Public Debt and Terminate the Government's Life Policy of Closing Its Books at the End of Each Fiscal Year—A Heated Argument Revolved About the Treasury's Estimates of Income and Outgo For Next Year.

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Presenting again its demands for a $400,000,000 tax cut—double the amount proposed by the administration—the Chamber of Commerce of the United States encountered a violent attack from Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury today at one of the liveliest sessions of the senate finance committee in recent years.

For three hours Mr. Mills and the chamber's tax experts battled across the committee tables, with committee members throwing in occasional walops for each side, the republicans standing by the administration and democrats generally supporting the chamber.

Even on the basis of treasury estimates that a surplus of only $212,000,000 was in prospect for next year, the chamber argued that the $400,000,000 cut could be made by applying about $160,000,000 to be collected in interest from foreign governments on account of war debts to tax reduction rather than debt retirement and by carrying over some of this year's prospective $400,000,000 surplus to next year.

Mr. Mills countered that this not only would retard the regular program for retirement of the $18,000,000,000 public debt but would necessitate the government terminating its lifetime policy of closing its books at the end of each fiscal year and he insisted this was "unsound."

Much of the argument, which grew quite heated at times, revolved about the treasury's estimates of income and outgo for next year. Every now and then Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the committee, recalled that always in the past the administration has "greatly underestimated" the prospective surplus for the government. The chamber touched on that with some emphasis.

Secretary Mills admitted this but challenged the chamber or any one to show where the estimates for next year were wrong. He said the statement read to the committee today on behalf of the chamber had sought to show that the estimates on income tax returns for next year and on back tax collections were wrong.

He asserted that the chamber had resorted to income statistics rather than to actual returns which were available in making its estimates and he recalled that the government's estimates for back tax collections were the same as the chamber had originally estimated.

The chamber and the administration have been at swords points for several months, particularly over the government's fiscal program, and recently the organization drew a rebuke from the White House for its efforts in behalf of tax reduction and larger appropriations at the same time. The row broke in the open today as Secretary Mills rushed to the capitol upon hearing of the plea of the chamber before the finance committee. He was granted an opportunity to reply.

Felix McWhirter, of Indianapolis read the argument of the chamber for the $400,000,000 reduction program but gave way to John Redpath, in charge of the experts of the organization who drafted the program, and he and Mr. Mills then went at it with vigor. At one point in Mills' reply, Redpath leaped to his feet and shouted "That is not true." Mills had described the manner employed by Redpath in making his estimates on prospective income.

When the smoke of battle had cleared, the committee called Prof. A. S. Adams, of Yale university, who was referred to as a friend by both sides and who has assisted both the government and the chamber in tax matters. He endorsed the treasury estimates for next year on which the $200,000,000 program of Secretary Mellon is based, but he also criticised the contention of Mr. Mills that it would be unsound to carry over a portion of the surplus from one year to another. He advocated that means of getting greater tax reduction.

SOUTHERNERS CHEER GOVERNOR AL SMITH

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 13—(AP)—Smiling and light hearted Governor Smith of New York, started in today in a golfing vacation to the cheers of several thousand southerners who greeted him on his arrival here.

Farther south than he ever had been before, the democratic presidential candidate went to the palatial Biltmore Forest Country club, on the outskirts of Asheville. There he expects to take it easy, after a strenuous executive session at Albany for several weeks, and the word has gone out that he has come into the south to rest and play, not to discuss politics.

Even before his train came to a stop at Biltmore station, in the suburbs of Asheville, shortly before noon, the New York governor had a taste of southern hospitality. Before he was up this morning, men, women and children gathered at way stations to get a glimpse of him.

At Old Forest, N. C., he came to the rear platform and listened to a greeting from the station master, which, he said later, struck him just right. Then, at his journey's end, he found approximately 5,000 persons waiting to welcome him.

As he stepped off the special car which had carried him from New York the governor was greeted by cheers. He paused, hat, walking stick and a long cigar in his hand, while photographers swarmed around.

CONFUSION FOR POLITICAL CONVENTIONS IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, April 13—(AP)—Possibility of the disruption of the republican and democratic state conventions in Springfield one week hence appeared tonight with the discovery of an unexpected demand in the primary law passed hurriedly by the last legislature.

That the newly chosen county committees meet next Monday, organize and elect delegates to the state conventions based upon the votes cast in the primary was the provision uncovered.

It was pointed out that in the smaller counties such action could be taken, but that it would be impossible in Cook county (Chicago) because the canvass of last Tuesday's primary vote will not begin until next Monday and will require at least three weeks.

The old county committee in Cook cannot function because it went out of existence, according to the new law, when its successor members were chosen. A state supreme court decision has held that candidates have been "chosen" when the polls closed.

The only hope tonight appeared to be to have the Cook county delegates act by agreement of the opposing factions.

WITNESS CONTRADICTED HIS FORMER TESTIMONY

BOSTON, April 13—(AP)—Joseph D. Webster, former vice president of the Decimo Club, Inc., of New York, today contradicted his testimony of yesterday before the special legislative committee investigating the conduct in office of Attorney General Arthur K. Reading. He had testified yesterday that a letter signed "Herbert L. Barrett," was received and filed in the club offices as having come from Reading.

Today he said he had consulted with Reading last night and the latter had convinced him that the letter was under the letter head of Herbert L. Barrett, Boston attorney, and was signed by Barrett himself. He said a telephone conversation with Barrett also refreshed his memory and he wanted to change his testimony.

REAR ADMIRAL BRUMBY COMPLETELY EXONERATED

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP)—Complete exoneration and even commendation of Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, in charge of the S-4 salvage operations, were included in Secretary Wilbur's final action on the case, an endorsement of the court of inquiry's supplemental findings, issued today. Admiral Brumby will consequently retain his command of the control force.

Instead of agreeing with the court's recommendation that Admiral Brumby "be removed from his command of the control force" because of "an insufficient familiarity with the details of the construction of submarines," Secretary Wilbur's endorsement specifically commends the admiral for having "remained on board the Falcon in constant contact with all of those engaged in the work," and adds that "any errors or oversight or failures in his testimony are insufficient to overcome his splendid record of achievement covering more than 31 years of service in the navy."

"There is nothing in his conduct in connection with the rescue or salvage operations which is considered blameworthy or other than commendable," the secretary's statement concluded.

The court's further finding of negligence on the part of the officers of the Paulding, and declaring that there was wholly insufficient proof "to justify a finding of guilt" on the part of Lieutenant Commander Jones, the commanding officer of the S-4, also was endorsed by the secretary.

The condemnation of Admiral Brumby to which the secretary has taken exception was based on omissions and inaccuracies in his testimony. In a protest the admiral filed in his own defense, he explained these by the length of time that elapsed between the disaster and the hearing and on the fact that he had left many technical questions to be answered by his expert technical assistants.

PLANNING PROSECUTION OF MRS. FLORENCE KNAPP

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13—(AP)—With the return to Albany tonight of three members of the staff prosecuting criminal charges against former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp, plans went forward rapidly for continuance next week of the grand jury investigation into the activities during the 1925 state census.

The three prosecutors, who left Albany yesterday on important missions in connection with the case, were Deputy Attorney General Albert J. Danaher, Chief of Staff George Z. Medalie and W. Earl Ward. They would give no information tonight as to the nature of their trips, the work accomplished, or their destinations, but it was indicated that all were well satisfied with the results.

STATE RESTS CASE IN THE SINCLAIR CONSPIRACY TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Climaxing its headlong rush to gets its conspiracy case against Harry F. Sinclair before the jury, the government rested today after the defense had prevented—for the time at least—the introduction of testimony which the prosecution considers highly important.

Two questions were taken under consideration by Justice Jennings Bailey for decision on Monday. These deals with $25,000 in liberty bonds which Sinclair gave Albert B. Fall when he made a trip to Russia, and the Elk Hill lease Fall gave E. L. Doheny. The court said he was inclined to exclude this evidence but withheld a ruling on both issues until the resumption of the trial on Monday.

WINDHAM GIVEN SCARE BY BOISTEROUS YOUTHS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 13—Residents the back road of Windham, especially those who have been reading accounts of the wild and wooly Chicago gangsters, were given a start Thursday evening, when a touring car bearing a party of young men came tearing through the isolated section and discharged flare bombs at various intervals. The sharp explosions and accompanying lightning flashes of the bombs put fright into the natives and after the machine had turned and left the vicinity an investigation was made by Charles E. Smith and other residents of the section, but nothing was found. It was reported later that the party had gone to Chaplin and there performed with their explosives. In the opinion of some of the residents the car bore a party of young men out for a good time.

WINDHAM MUST CARE FOR DESERTED WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 13—In the event that Mrs. Bertrand Lemaire, mother of four young children, ever becomes dependent on town funds she must be taken care of by the town of Windham of which she is a native, according to an opinion issued at Hartford today by Assistant Attorney General Raymond A. Johnson of Manchester. The woman was deserted by the man she married some years ago and now resides with her children in New Haven. The assistant attorney general points out that since the husband never gained settlement in any town in Connecticut, having never been long in a district since coming from Canada, his wife continues her settlement in Windham just as if she never left here. The opinion was rendered at the request of State Agent Raymond F. Yates who desired to know the status of the family.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

ATTEMPT TO STEAL GAS GETS ARMSTRONG IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, April 12—Jerry Armstrong is serving 60 days in Tolland jail as a result of an attempt to steal gasoline from the tank of Sam Kaba on Stafford street. Armstrong, in company with James Grundy, 15, went to the Kaba place about 10 Tuesday night, taking with them a five-gallon gasoline can. They opened the door in a small barn of Mr. Kaba and after entering the barn proceeded to fill the can with gasoline. It was dark in the building, so Jerry lighted a match to see if the can was full, when it blazed up without warning. Jerry and young Grundy ran hurriedly from the place, dropping the can after running about 40 feet, leaving a streak of burned grass from the gasoline tank to the can. Mr. Kaba, who was preparing to retire, saw the blaze and with the help of neighbors quickly extinguished the fire. Armstrong's name on the can, also the fact that his hands had been burned, led to the suspicion that he was the one who attempted to lift the gasoline and accidentally set the fire. The Grundy boy made a complete confession of the matter, telling just how it happened. Armstrong was arrested by State Police Officer Starkel of the local barracks and locked up Wednesday night. He was presented in court this morning and Judge Heald said he believed the fire was accidental and the breaking and entering the building was of little consequence, as all Armstrong had to do was open the door, which had not been locked. He therefore assumed jurisdiction in the case and handed Mr. Armstrong a 60-day sentence with costs amounting to $14.62. Grundy was presented in the juvenile court and had his case continued one week.

WESTERLY

KAMM BIPLANE MISTAKEN FOR THE OVERDUE BREMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 13—Westerly residents directed their gaze skyward today, with the hope that the Junker monoplane Bremen might be sighted as it winged the last lap of its trans-ocean flight to Mitchel field, New York. Many listened to the hourly and half hourly radio reports and with a report that the plane had been sighted over Brockton, Mass., business activity was suspended in many cases while the south county shore was visited with the assumption that an unobstructed view could be obtained. The keepers and crews of the coast guard stations became alert and shortly before 3 p. m. Capt. Adolph A. Rohdin of the Quonochontaug station sighted a plane high over Bradford. It proved to be the new Swallow biplane of Aviator Robert Kamm, of Charlestown, R. I., field. At an extremely high altitude Kamm drove his plane against the strong southwest wind and when about opposite Watch Hill point banked his plane so that the silver gleam of its underbody came into the brilliant sun as he retraced his journey in search of the Bremen, with which it was his intention to fly to Mitchel field.

JAIL AND COSTS FOR LUGAR—PARAMOUNT TO REFORMATORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 13—When Judge Oliver H. Williams held a short session of the Third district court this morning, George E. Lugar, of Rocket street, was arraigned by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. He was charged with being a lewd, wanton and lascivious person in speech and behavior. Pleading guilty, he informed Judge Williams that he realized what the consequences must be.

Solicitor Ferguson informed the court that for a year and a half the accused had harbored a woman, adultery had been committed and then by reason of his taking another woman, the first had to get out of a Main street house. Chief Brown had warned the accused and the second woman had left, only to return in a few days. When the officer called to make the arrest he found them in bed together. Defendant testified that he was unmarried and was born in Pawcatuck.

"You ought to know better than to take women into your home," said Judge Williams, "and have improper relations with them. From investigation I have found that you notoriously and wantonly lived with them in open concubinage and open adultery. One year in Providence county jail and costs."

Mrs. Mary E. Daniels, 25, who has one child that lived with her mother, was arraigned on the same complaint as Lugar. She pleaded guilty to the charge, which, Probation Officer Mrs. VanSuskirk informed the judge, had been committed because she was a weak-minded woman. A sentence of one year in the Women's reformatory at Providence county jail was imposed by Judge Williams. Following her sentence, Mrs. Daniels moved slowly over to a corner of the courtroom, where Lugar sat at the end of a settee, and kissing him on the lips, bursting into tears, went slowly out of the courtroom.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 13—Antonio Lorello, 67, residing at 79 Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, took his own life shortly before 7 o'clock this morning when he drank alcotine sulphate from a small bottle. DANIELSON

DANIELSON FIREMEN AT MOOSUP CHURCH FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 13—Danielson firemen operating under the direction of Chief A. P. Woodward and Assistant Chief C. A. Hamilton aided Moosup, Wauregan, Central Village and Plainfield firemen in battling the fire that destroyed the Moosup Baptist church this morning. The church is a total loss only the high brick walls of the basement remaining to serve as the sepulchre of the ashes of the historic edifice.

The fire originated in or near carriage sheds at the rear of the church. The cause may have been sparks from a rubbish fire or from children playing with matches in the shed, which could not be determined this afternoon.

Moosup firemen promptly started to fight the fire in the blazing sheds, one end of which was within a dozen feet of the rear of the church, but the water pressure was not sufficient after running through about 1,000 feet of hose to be effective. Driven by a high southwesterly wind, the flames leaped the gap between the sheds and the big frame church and set it afire. It was at this time that calls for aid were sent to neighboring communities, and the Danielson department responded by sending out the Captain Put Engine company.

The fire assumed spectacular features as the flames enveloped the church and reached their height when the lofty belfry went crashing down to the interior of the structure. Men were in the basement at the time in an effort to salvage as many of the the furnishings as possible, but they escaped without injury.

The hose lines in use were run from the Cranska mill, about 1,000 feet distant. It was out of the canal at this mill that the Danielson pumper drew water when it went into action, at a time when the fire was far advanced. The progress of the fire was punctuated by the crashing down of the roof, and, from time to time, by snapping of window glass and tumbling walls. At the noon hour little remained of the church, but parts of gaunt but still flaming walls and an hour later the destruction of the church was complete.

The church was one of the oldest of the denomination in eastern Connecticut. The original structure was built in 1842, and has since stood upon the site where it was destroyed today though a generation ago it was raised that a basement might be built beneath it. It was one of the historic landmarks of Moosup, where there is general regret over its loss. Rev. C. S. Nightingale, the pastor, said this noon that he believed the insurance on the church was $5500 and that it also was his impression that there was an additional $2,000 covering the pipe organ, a comparatively modern instrument installed only a few years ago.

Offers to the pastor were prompt for the use of a hall where services may be held temporarily, but Rev Mr Nightingale at the time was uncertain just what arrangements would be completed for holding services next Sunday. The burned church will be replaced with a new structure, it was said while the fire was still raging.

Danielson's firemen returned to quarters here shortly before one o'clock.

Honoring Rev. Anthony Jollivet, M. S., on having completed fifty years in the priesthood, there is to be a solemn high mass and festival music by the choir at St. James' church at 10.30 Sunday morning. The celebrant will be Rev. Albert Rosset, M. S., Hartford, provincial of the Missionary Order of LaSalette, with Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., as deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., as sub-deacon. Rev Jollivet, who is 75 years of age, will be in the sanctuary. Sunday evening a dinner in his honor will be given at the rectory with numbers of priests from surrounding parishes in attendance.

The actual golden anniversary of Fr. Jollivet's ordination was March 16, which was during the Lenten period, so the observance was advanced to next Sunday. Born in the diocese of Belley, France, Father Jollivet studied at Baurg, and on his 25th birthday, March 16, 1878, was ordained to the priesthood at the cathedral in Belley. He began his religious life as a secular priest and was assigned as a curate in a diocese of France for two years before entering the novitiate of the Missionary Order of LaSalette. As a member of the missionary order he was in Switzerland for a while, coming to the United States in 1902, and being assigned as an assistant at St Joseph's church in Fitchburg. He remained there two years before being transferred to Stansted, Canada, where he was the chaplain for the Ursuline nuns. From 1909 to 1912 he was a member of the faculty of LaSalette college at Hartford. In the latter year he was first assigned to Danielson and remained here a year and a half before again being assigned to Stansted. From Stansted he was again returned to Danielson, in 1917, and has since remained here. Because of his advanced years and his feeble health, Father Jollivet does no parish work here, its only assignment being as chaplain for the mother house of the sisters of the Holy Ghost at Putnam.

An unusually large congregation will be at the mass in his honor Sunday, as members of the parish wish to share in honoring him on the golden anniversary of his priesthood.

THE SUCCESSFUL BREMEN

From what appears to be a reliable report the Bremen has succeeded in making the westward crossing of the Atlantic. This is the first instance where a plane has accomplished this trip, and though the fliers were not successful in reaching Mitchel field they have nevertheless gotten the honor of the crossing. Such cannot and will not be denied them.

They have succeeded where others have failed. They are alive to tell their experiences and point out the perils of such a trip, whereas all others who have attempted it have sacrificed their lives. And there are reasons to believe that they have a most interesting story to tell when it is realized that they were forced to land and did land about 400 miles north of where their course should properly have brought them.

It will be recalled that the first eastward non-stop flight was made between Newfoundland and Ireland. It is between these points that the first westward trip has apparently been completed over a distance of about 1800 miles. The idea of taking off from Ireland reduced the distance materially. The fliers fortified themselves with the last word in equipment and while the time in crossing required much longer than was anticipated the distinction gained by their feat is only slightly less than it would have been had they been able to reach Mitchel field.

Captain Koehl, Captain Fitzmaurice and Baron Von Huenefield have gained the much coveted honor. They have demonstrated what has constantly been insisted could be done. They were so far as known, favored by reasonably good weather conditions and have overcome all the obstacles that stood in their way.

It is a bit unfortunate that they should have been forced to land in such an out of the way spot where no such reception as they are entitled to can be given them, although such will be forthcoming as they make their way into Canada or this country. Someone had to be the first. The Bremen got the distinction and now that the ice has been broken, now that it has been shown that it can be done it is to be expected that others will not only repeat but actually cover the distance from continental Europe to New York or beyond. The westward crossing marks another step in the progress of aviation and the fliers are to be especially commended for their bravery and skill in view of the persistent losses which had accompanied previous attempts.

BASEBALL

For the past few years reference has been made to the falling off in interest in the great American game of baseball. Some have gained the impression that other sports are claiming the attention of Young America and that baseball is due for a slump.

That may be so and yet there is always the alternative. It is never a good time of year to attempt to draw conclusions upon the interest in baseball at the opening of the season. The weather is not such as to arouse all the enthusiasm or to promote interest but that doesn't mean that they do not exist. Even at this stage of the season, as well as through the winter months, there are the ardent followers of the game discussing the relative merits of the respective players and the chances of the various teams.

Conditions have so changed that those who were once able to get the rudiments of the game through contests waged in the streets are now obliged to do their playing elsewhere. Backlots and playgrounds permit of such contests and from the manner in which the youngsters of today are throwing themselves in the game forming teams, establishing leagues and getting practice whenever spare time permits, there is much to refute the claims that the game is slipping.

As for the attendance figures as a means of showing whether baseball is holding its own, it is submitted that just as soon as the favorable influence of the weatherman gets into action there will be opportunity for showing long before the world series opens that baseball is still in a commanding position among sports and going strong. American interest centers where "play ball!" resounds.

THE RIGHT TENDENCY

The action of Secretary Kellogg in sending an invitation to Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Japan to join with the United States and France in the negotiation of a world wide treaty against war was forecast but none the less welcomed.

Just how much will be accomplished will be awaited with hopeful expectation. How the other countries will entertain the idea is not known. There have been indications that it was not being enthusiastically received and yet it seems improbable that such an invitation would have been extended if there had not been some reasons for thinking that there was a chance for success.

If all the nations involved should join hands it would mean setting a tremendously powerful example to the rest of the world, and yet it does not appear that some of the small nations, those that are the most likely to be involved in war, are inclined to follow the examples of the larger ones.

Thus it is possible to look upon the idea as a gesture against war but even if it is regarded no more hopefully, that holds large possibilities. If the largest nations can be gotten to thinking in terms of peace, international arbitration of disputes and the sidetracking of war much will have been gained.

It must thus be regarded as a move in the right direction and an endeavor to put moral influence to work in such a manner and through such nations that it ought to have the best effect. Furthermore if the leading nations, those which can claim to have the most at stake, are willing to enter into such an agreement, it cannot fail to have a powerful influence upon the smaller nations.

It is too much to anticipate that it is going to have the effect of doing away with armaments or ending all possibility of war, if accepted, but the tendency in that direction would be just what is needed in the struggle for the bigger goal. War isn't going to be eliminated in a minute or at one leap. Satisfaction will be felt if there is a steady progress in that direction.

UNWARRANTED RISKS

That we are getting to the season of the year when many unwarranted risks are taken with life as the stake has been interestingly illustrated this week by the action of two young women in trying to reach the floor of the Yosemite valley at night by a short but dangerous cut. That they are alive is a bit of good fortune it would appear from the reports, and their rescue was brought about only after others had subjected themselves to perils in order to get them back to paths of safety. The young women were plucky but it was a case where their pluck came near being their undoing.

Don't get the idea that these will be the only two cases of a similar character during the year or the summer. Perhaps they did not think that they were taking undue chances and relied upon their ability to meet dangerous conditions, but the impression is gained, nevertheless, that in the future they will be more inclined to the view that the longest way around is the surest way home.

The number of chance takers is many. We find them in the streets and highways, where the risk involves not only themselves but others. We find them in surprising numbers at railroad crossings. They show up conspicuously at the beaches in venturing in to deep water when they are not able to take care of themselves under such conditions and they are also included among those who bravely dive into unknown waters regardless as to whether it is a shallow spot or a place where hidden rocks and pilings are to be found.

Such acts too often involve others than those taking the initiative. They unwisely proceed to court danger and then proceed to ask others to take more or less risks in order to extricate them from their position. Sometimes it can be done, and it is done generously, but too often there is no excuse whatever for getting into such predicaments and therefore none for imposing upon others, who, as has repeatedly been the case, have given up their lives in attempting rescues.

It is impossible to completely eliminate mishaps but the need of adequate foresight is emphasized every time needless accidents happen.

THE ATTACK ON ITALY'S KING

Because the king of Italy was unable to pass a certain point at the expected moment he is alive today, but through no wish of some assassin or assassins. Just why he was the object of a bomb is not clear, but the purpose of those who cunningly placed a timed instrument of death in the base of a lamppost was clear and had everything gone according to schedule Italy would today be mourning a king.

Although in late years there have been fewer attempts to take the lives of rulers, there is a risk which goes with the wearing of a crown. This is well known by previous happenings in Italy itself, although the more recent efforts have been directed at the life of the Italian premier than the king.

A most deplorable part of the work of an assassin is that, aside from the cowardly method of attacking the head of a nation, there is invariably no regard for anyone else. The practice is such that the attack is certain to involve anyone who happens to be where the bomb falls, the bullet hits or the explosion occurs. At Milan there was a dozen killed and 40 injured in the attempt to remove the king, with the plans so carried out as to overcome the precautions that were taken.

While there appears little encouragement that those who were responsible for the attempt can be located, it is to be hoped that they will be apprehended and it would not be any more than they ought to expect, although such would not be the method, if they should get a liberal dose of their own medicine. Those who engage in such dastardly attacks or encourage them, regardless of the intended victim, have no reason to expect to mingle with humanity.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It would seem that the Lenten season was more extensively observed this year than ever before. Apparently our so-called Nonconformist churches are not afraid of losing their reputation for simplicity in introducing more of the richness of liturgical communions. We have much respect for the sincerity and courage of our Puritan ancestors, but in their beliefs they were a bit too harsh, and in their church services altogether too austere. The Lenten season this year points to the indisputable fact that the general trend of religious thinking in these days is toward enrichment of form and beauty of expression. Heretofore we have not made enough of music as a mode of religious expression. How it takes with the people at large is seen in the size of congregations. One sometimes wonders just how far music entered into the soul of the Master, and while this is left to conjecture, we can easily imagine that He loved it.

The papers have recently recorded the death of that grand old nonagenarian, Chauncey M. Depew. Does not his life emphasize a lesson for the younger generation? It seems to the writer that the high quality of his character and services stress the following points: First, if you are possessed with a sound physical constitution make a wise use of it. Mr. Depew did this in a marked degree without petting or pampering it. He realized that his body was the "temple of the Holy Ghost." Secondly, if nature has given you a cheerful disposition, make a practical use of it in gaining friends. His cheerfulness became proverbial and it radiated from him in all directions. Thirdly, if you believe in the integrity of party politics, don't be ashamed to be active in politics—in the better sense of the term. Fifthly, have faith in a Supreme Being, and "let your light so shine among men" that they can see it.

The Easter season can make no impression upon us more important than the fact that immortal life can be made a present possession. In one of his great periods of spiritual enthusiasm, the Apostle Paul breaks out in this sublime ecstacy: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." The first part of this verse is perfectly clear to everybody, that "our earthly house of this tabernacle" is simply this body and that sometime it will be dissolved. Nothing is clearer to our repeated observation than this. The second point is that here and now, we have another building of God that will never be dissolved and that is the immortal part of us. Let us get over the notion that immortality is something to be possessed only in the dim future. Paul, you will notice, uses the present tense. "We have a building of God."

Of course, in our thinking we make a distinction between things that are evidently real and those that savor strongly of immortality. There is a mass of testimony that comes provokingly near to conclusive evidence of continued life after death, but it falls just a little short of decisive proof. A certain tree in my garden yielded both leaves and fruit last year. They disappeared when the cold weather came. This year it will be the same tree, but larger and more vigorous, that will produce more leaves and fruit than last year, it will be the same tree in a larger capacity, but it will not be the same foliage and fruit. It is a semblance of a resurrection but not one in reality. Now this natural world is full of these striking likenesses that suggest but do not prove a resurrection. For conclusive evidence we must remain, for the present, in the doctrine so fully stated in the scriptures.

Teachers of moral philosophy in all the ages of the world have insisted on the cultivation of self-mastery; one of the very difficult feats of life to accomplish, simply because there is both the inward and outward urge to activity to be controlled. No class of people in the world need such instruction more than we high-strung Americans. Being as a race naturally energetic, we just simply overdo the thing, and thus naturally invite all kinds of mental and nervous disorders. There are many antidotes advertised for such disorders, but that of the philosophers is most decidedly the best, and that is the cultivation of calmness, which is a sure cure "if taken in time." Cultivate the "dead still" exercises. Whittier says:

"Breathe through the heats of our desires
The coolness of thy balm;
Let sense be numb, let flesh retire;
Speak through the earthquake, wind and fire
O still small voice of calm."

While the American people seem to be heartily sick of this whole Sinclair-Teapot Dome oil business, has there not come to it lately a twist that is morally refreshing? It seems to verify the old familiar saying that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good." It is true that some of the senate lawyers have been using a great deal of wind in setting the matter before the public. If the money has been so ill-gotten that it is not straight to use it to wipe out any political debts, at least some atonement will be made in buying bread for women and children of suffering miners' families, and in other ways relieving grim poverty from homes where help is needed. This act of humanity seems to rub off some of its blackness and shows that though the nation is sore in spots, it still has a heart.

Sixty-three years ago this very day something happened that those of us who were then young boys will never forget. On the day following that awful 14th of April, 1865, a boy who had been out playing came into the house and found his mother crying in fear and astonishment, he inquired "Why, mother, what is the matter?" Her reply was: "I have just heard that Mr. Lincoln, our good president, was shot last night and died soon after." The news affected that boy differently. He didn't cry, but he wanted to go out and fight somebody. That episode represented the two great emotions that surged through the north. Sorrow and indignation mingled throughout the republic that had been saved from disruption as never before. Back of it all was a fear that there were conspiracies at work more general than appeared on the surface. There were many at the time who almost questioned the divine goodness. At length it appeared almost as a logical ending of a stormy life.

One hardly knows how much good it does to send in resolutions to congress, but that august body usually "sits up and takes notice" when there is a national—or even widespread—uprising on some great moral issue, like the present naval increase proposition. If the people have a right to register their opinions at the polls, they certainly have the same right to do the same through petition. Of course, the people ought to use discretion and not bother legislators with petty sectional and unimportant matters. But such questions as prohibition and an increase of warships on a scale never before known have a right to be aired, as there is a trend throughout the civilized world to lessen the liability of war. Let us create the atmosphere that will make another war a crime!

BORROWER'S HALL

Jack and Felicia were at the dinner table. Felicia had just been saying how happy she was in their new apartment, for, though they had lived in the Barton Hall building for six months, Felicia had not lost her first thrill in moving from their old crowded quarters to this spacious apartment.

The door bell rang sharply.

"Oh, I do hate to bother you just at dinner time, but you see the milkman forgot to leave me the extra cream I ordered." Felicia came back to the dining room and Jack glared at her with mock severity as she emptied the contents of their little silver cream pitcher into a measuring cup.

"What the—" he began, but Felicia, without comment, ran hurriedly to the door with the cup.

"Barton Hall should be called Borrowers' Hall, Felicia," said Jack when she returned. "It is really outrageous the way the people in this place come to you all the time for things they ought to have themselves."

"You can't keep a supply of extra cream on your own shelves very well, Jack. We won't miss that cream a bit on our lemon jelly. It's really just as good without it."

"I don't mind missing the best part of my dessert, dear, but I do mind your being so easy with this tribe of borrowers. I've never heard you say 'no' to one yet."

"But, Jack, we are all so friendly and homey in this building. I simply couldn't refuse to help out one of our friends, could I?"

"No, I don't believe you could," sighed Jack, "but you never borrow yourself."

"I never happened to have to. My turn may come any time."

"I don't believe it, Felicia. You're too good a manager."

They had just seated themselves at the dinner table the next night when the door bell rang. Jack grinned. "I wonder who wants our cream this evening."

"You go this time and see," replied Felicia with a smile. An instant later she heard strange voices in the living room, and soon after Jack returned, in utter dismay.

"What's the matter?" Felicia asked.

"Ssh, it's the Clayburns. They think that this is the night we invited them to dinner instead of tomorrow. What on earth can we do?" He glanced at the table which looked unusually skimpy. Felicia, in preparation for a spread the next night had thriftily made left-overs do.

"I can slip out and get some ice cream."

"Oh, no, Jack, no drug store ice cream for the Clayburns. Don't do anything till I see what I can do. Run back and excuse me. Let them think I'm putting the last touches to our dinner, and I'll try to conjure up something, and get into a pretty frock. Go quickly before they suspect anything," commanded Felicia.

Left to herself, she said, "of all the heathenish luck. These Clayburns, for whom Jack was so anxious to entertain when they came to Chicago! I musn't let him down. Mr. Clayburn, the new vice president of the company, must be fed according to his rank, if it's my last act."

It was a late hour when the guests tore themselves away. The dinner had been perfect, and the evening at bridge as merry as if the Clayburns had been friends of long standing. Jack, returning from seeing them into their taxi, fell into a chair, groaned and simulated a faint.

"I feel the same way," gasped Felicia, who was already stretched on the davenport.

"How in thunder did you do it?" asking Jack. "I was petrified when I beheld that stuffed roast chicken. I thought that the bouillon might have come out of a can, but I knew the chickens had come out of an oven. Did you call a caterer?"

"I did not. I borrowed that dinner."

"Borrowed it?"

"Yes—every neighbor in 'Borrowers' hall' offered me her choicest viand. Why! With their generosity I could have given two dinners!"

"Darn nice bunch in this building—I've always said so," enthused Jack.—Exchange.

Carbon Monoxide Kills

By E. O. Palmer, M. D., Hollywood, Cal.

A man is in one respect much like a stove. Fuel being equal, a man lives in exact proportion to the amount of oxygen he consumes. Neither can function without oxygen.

In the stove, the oxygen enters by a hole called a flue. In man the process is a little more complicated. Oxygen enters through flues, called the nose, as far as the lungs. Here it is absorbed into a bluish substance which is called hemoglobin, and which, when loaded with oxygen, becomes red and is carried in small blood cells to the tissues where combustion, chemical action or life occurs. Here the hemoglobin gives up its oxygen, takes on ashes or carbon dioxide, becomes blue again and returns to the lungs, empties its carbon dioxide, and takes on another load of oxygen. If it finds carbon monoxide there instead of oxygen, it loads up with that which not only does not support life, but cannot be unloaded and therefore travels back and forth a loaded wagon, and ceases to be a carrier of oxygen, thus permanently reducing the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood stream; and when a certain portion of this oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood is put out of commission, the man dies. If less of this poison is taken, the man is perhaps only half dead and is called anemic. He is flabby, weak and pale and susceptible to disease. He is said to die of whatever germ attacks him; as pneumonia, influenza or measles.

Where does this terrible poison come from? Every place where carbon, as wood, coal, coal-gas, or gasoline is burned, the less complete the combustion, the more carbon monoxide is produced.

The combustion of gasoline produces it in concentrated form and many a man has been killed by the exhaust of his car in a closed garage. Coal and wood as fuel are always burned with a flue or chimney which carries off the products of combustion. Gas, however, is often burned in stoves which have no vents or, what is equally pernicious with vents which are inefficient. This is not necessary, for gas is a wonderfully efficient fuel and can be burned in the cellar with proper vent, while all the heat is carried to the living quarters in separate pipes.

Between October, 1925, and April, 1926, or six gas stove months, the newspapers of one city in the United States reported 36 deaths from asphyxia from carbon monoxide poison. Head and chest infections were prevalent during the same months.

Stories That Recall Others

Little Daughter Talks.

Little Sharon, age four months, was cooing with contentment after her afternoon bottle feeding. Her daddy was talking to her with great enjoyment from her cackling responses.

"Little angel knows her daddy, doesn't she?" he spoke in the language of Babyland.

Poor little thing developed hiccoughs at that instant and replied:

"Huh-uh."

Soliloquy

I live at home with pop, mom, Joe and Helen. He cuddles me up and then kicks me when I try to kiss him. Mom objects to my riding in the family car. Joe and Helen love and hate me by even hours. Sometimes I eat and then again I don't. When I don't ride I have to walk and run. One night I sleep in the basement and the next night outside. Sometimes I howl, when I'm left out on a rope all night in the winter time. Do you blame me? My life is very uncertain at all times. I am the family dog.

Sunday Morning Talk

Immortality

Why do we believe in immortality? First, because Christ has said: I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. John 11:25. Why did Christ come to earth to suffer and die an ignominious death on the cross but that through Him, and Him alone, we might obtain eternal life without money or price.

What would this world be without that belief and hope? To remove that hope would be like removing the sun from this beautiful world and leave it in total darkness. Christ is the light of this world.

This hope has cheered many when no earthly hand could dispel the shadows. His presence would always lighten the gloom. Even Job in his afflictions could say, For I know that my Redeemer liveth and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth. Job 19:25.

This hope is what Paul speaks of. Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that within the veil. Heb. 6:20. If we are anchored firmly, the storms may blow, we have a safe and sure anchorage and we cannot be destroyed.

When we read of Stephen and of Paul they had the vision and their one aim and thought was to win souls for the Master. They would endure as good soldiers. Paul says, "This one thing I do!" Oh, that we might have more of the apostle's spirit; if each one who has named the name of Christ and accepted Him as their Saviour would strive to win souls, what a change would be wrought. Is it not up to us to be about our Master's business? If we are not faithful to Him, can He say: "Well done, good and faithful servant: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord"

Less Slavery in Kitchens Today

In the days of Abraham Lincoln, housewives toiled many dreary hours in their kitchens. Though the meals may have been good, it wasn't much fun preparing them. Even the best ranges were pretty crude affairs.

How different now with a 1928 Crawford. The patented Crawford Single Damper is just one example of the many wonderful improvements in the modern range.

Slide the knob to "kindle," "bake," or "check"—that's all. Why put up with the fuss and trouble of two dampers, when the Crawford Single Damper regulates the heat perfectly?

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

THE TRAGEDY OF MANY LIVES IS CONSTIPATION

Guard against it in time

This evil scourge ruins thousands of promising men and women. It saps vigor. It kills initiative. It wrecks health and happiness. Sleepless nights, dragging feet, headaches, pain-dulled eyes, follow in its wake. Frequently it leads to lasting and serious disease.

Yet there is safe, prompt relief. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. To surely prevent it. ALL-BRAN is 100% bran—100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, with every meal.

Don't you agree it is better to cure constipation with this healthful cereal than to try dangerous pills and drugs? Or uncertain patent products? Delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Sprinkle it into soups. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

You Bet Your Life

Do you speed on when the sign says "Surprise"?
You bet your life!
Do you take chances when you should take care?
You bet your life!
Do you make blunders you never should make?
Do you take dares that you oughtn't to take?
What are you betting, man?
What is the stake?
YOU BET YOUR LIFE!

You gain a second—or maybe a minute—
You bet your life!
Sometimes there may not be anything in it—
You bet your life!
If you would bet, you should figure the cost;
Too late to argue with Fate when you've lost!
Too late to claim that you've been double-crossed!
YOU BET YOUR LIFE!

Geese in Debate

At Fiddler's Island in the Thames,
Just outside Oxford town,
I watched a crowd of cackling geese
That riverward came down.

Oh, how they craned and trumpeted!
The strident challenge flew;
'Twas, "I'd, I don't agree with that!"
And, "I am telling you!"

They took the water one by one,
And sat there side by side;
And soon their eager clamor ceased
As might a gale subside.

A silent, serried, gleaming fleet,
With a steady breeze a-beam,
They drifted slowly from the shore,
Each bright bill turned up-stream.

Passive and still they gazed ahead;
The wind blew on their flank;
A grey, compacted, floating isle,
They gained the further bank.

And landed just as they set forth,
Singly, in order due;
And sought their island pasturage,
When loud the gabble grew.

The human race hold parliaments
Where many a thing's begun;
Geese, likewise, have their great debates,
But get the business done.

—John Anderson Stewart, in The Spectator.

The janitor is a war veteran, who lost half the side of his face at Verdun.

An American girl who is making good as a dancer at the Casino de Paris and at the same time at the Theatre des Champs-Elysees, has solved the problem of changing her robes so that she can appear in the second theatre within a quarter of an hour after finishing her number in the first. She found that a taxi takes just fifteen minutes to make the jump so she has fitted up a dressing room in an automobile and does her changing en route between the theatres. "Mono," a large monkey owned by Mrs. Anna Mae Morgan, a visitor in Shanghai from Kansas City, Kas., escaped from the baggage room of a large hotel in Shanghai, bounded into the fashionable lounge and created an uproar. Feminine screams were heard and tea tables hastily overturned as the monkey leaped from table to table. Lion-hearted masculine members of tea parties banded together and pursued. The monkey retreated to the billiard room and bombarded his pursuers with billiard balls. J. C. Warner, motor car salesman from Flint, Mich., was struck on the head and knocked unconscious. It remained for Harold Dale Morgan, 18 year old son of Mrs. Morgan, owner of the monkey, to be the hero of the hour. Harold obtained a long rope and lassoed Mono.

WEST WILLINGTON HENS TAKE LEAD AT STORRS

Producing 68 out of a possible 70 eggs for a lay of better than 97 per cent in the 23rd week of the Storrs laying contest, White Leghorns owned by George Lowry from West Willington, Conn., have at last succeeded in overhauling the Broadview Farm entry of the same breed from Winsted, Conn., to sail into first place in what has thus far been the most keenly contested laying trial ever conducted at Storrs.

And the past week, without question, brought out hotter competition than has ever been experienced in any previous seven-day period covering 17 contests. For not only did Lowry's entry pass Broadview to take first place, but Charlescote Farm Rhode Island Reds from Sherborn, Mass., also passed the Leghorns from Winsted to claim second position. Moreover, the high weekly pen record of 66 eggs for the present competition was broken by two entries in the past seven-day period: first, by Lowry's birds with their splendid 68-egg count, and also by Clarence E. Lee's Reds from Auburn, N. Y., with a 67-egg score.

The Broadview Leghorns, which have dropped from first to third place, have been leading all other contestants a merry race since the second week of competition. They have had things all their own way for a long time but the Charlescote and Lowry entries were not to be denied, and now the lead has changed after 21 weeks.

In this connection it should be stated that ten good layers will beat nine good layers every time and therein lies the story of the changes in the past week. Lowry's birds are all laying whereas in both the Broadview and Charlescote entries only nine birds are producing. In all fairness to the Charlescote pen it should be stated that that the non-production of the No. 3 bird of this entry is due to accidentally catching and injuring her head in a trapnest door. While not serious enough to permanently injure the bird, this accident has temporarily stopped production. At the present time this pullet gives promise of hitting her stride again soon.

In laying 6,659 eggs for a lay of 67.9 per cent during the 23rd week the contest flock increased their production by 229 eggs over the score for the proceding seven-day period. This increase also represents a gain of 553 eggs over the score for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Monday night the contest flock had produced a grand total of 116,426 eggs. This is an average of 831 eggs for each of the 140 competing entries or an average of better than 83 eggs per bird. In 23 weeks the present competition has gained 10,465 eggs over last year's laying trial.

Previous mention of 68 eggs for Lowry and 67 eggs for Lee shows that the past week was one of high scores. Following these two entries to take third place on the honor roll for the week was the Barred Rock team of the Kerr Chickeries from Frenchtown, N. J., with a production of 65 eggs. Fourth place for the week was won by the Rhode Island Reds of Naacock Farm, Inc. Tyngsboro, Mass., with a score of 63 eggs.

"Parasites of Poultry" will be the subject of the poultry dialogue to be broadcast from WCAC next Wednesday, April 18, beginning at 7.15 p. m. This will be given by Wallace S. Moreland and Louis J. Logan.

She emphasized the thought that "Give and take" is one of God's laws and one of the most beautiful things in life. The hymn "For the beauty of the earth. For the beauty of the skies" followed the offering.

Miss Coxswell announced that the regular meeting of the federation next Friday will be a sewing meeting, sewing for needs of the parish house. Miss Ritchie will read a play and there will be a review of the early days of the Parish House association

Mrs. Allen Latham announced the 42nd annual meeting of the Women's Congregational Home Mission union of Connecticut, to be held at New Haven, United church on Wednesday, April 25. Miss Bliss invited a large delegation of Park church women to attend and practously announced herself as chairman of transportation.

Miss Elizabeth G. Day of Colchester, a member of the executive board of the W. C. H. M. union was the speaker of the afternoon, telling of her recent trip to Talladega college. It has been customary for several years for Tuskeegee and Hampton to feature trips from the north to their respective institutions as a means of publicity. This year Dr. Oscar E. Wawer, president of the board of trustees, suggested the same for Talladega college. Miss Day was a member of this favored group. She told of the wonderful campus and the group of 35 buildings on a half mile from the village—of the Negro boys and girls going back and forth as neat in appearance and as alert as boys and girls of a northern college. The trip was in honor of the 60th anniversary of founding of Taladega and the dedication of two new building, Silsby hall (Science) named from a professor of long service and the David Hale Fanning hall, a dining hall given by Mr. Fanning. Miss Day spoke of the sermon preached by the Rev. Osora Davis, of the historical pageant given by groups from the 600 students and of the wonderful results accomplished at Talladega in training leaders for the Negro race.

Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe followed Miss Day with most interesting references to his experiences and observations as he had seen slavery in all its forms, was for many years a trustee of Talladega as well as of Tuskeegee and gave commencement addresses at these institutions.

The unusually interesting meeting was concluded with the singing of the hymn "Great God who knowest each man's need," followed by the benediction by Dr. Howe.

LONG SERVICE FOR SALVATION ARMY VETERAN

At a special public service this (Saturday) night at the Salvation Army citadel, the founders' picture will be unveiled and Brother Sterling Nelson, the oldest soldier in the Norwich corps will receive a long service bar. Brig. A. E. Bates, the divisional officer for the Salvation Army in southern New England, will be present and have charge of the service. He will be assisted by Mrs. Bates, Capt. Noel and Capt. Sarer from Hartford.

It is the custom of the Salvation Army to present any one who has put in twenty-five years of unbroken service in its ranks with a long service badge and each five years after a bar for the period. Mr. Nelson has not only lived to get the badge but this is the third bar he has received which makes forty years of unbroken service. Mr. Nelson has worked for a number of years for the U. S. Finishing company

Taftville Fishermen Active

Members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club will be out on the trout brooks at sun-up Sunday, intent on missing no chance to bring home the "big one" that will take the prize offered each year. George Barlow took the prize a year ago with a fish weighing one pound, two ounces. One of the requirements to be eligible for the prize is that a member must be in good standing. At present the club has 275 members and is holding a membership drive that is open to New London county.

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL ACCLAIMED BY CROWDS

ROME, April 13.—(AP)—King Victor Emmanuel, whose brief visit to Milan to inaugurate the industrial fair was made the occasion of a bombing outrage, left the Lombardy capital this afternoon on his return journey to Rome. At all the stations along the way he was greeted by enthusiastic demonstrators rejoicing over his escape.

Many thousands of residents of Rome, however too impatient to wait for the arrival of the king to morrow gathered in the spacious Piazza Venezia around the Victor Emmanuel monument, near the tomb of the unknown soldier, to cheer the sovereign's name, while the government moving picture organization projected a film of the opening of the Milan fair by the king.

Office workers on their way home at 7.30 in the evening had an opportunity to see the film and show their sentiments of fealty in an impressive setting.

Premier Mussolini, who is detained in Rome by the presence of the Polish foreign minister, M. Zaleski, with whom he is to confer on matters of mutual interest has charged Signor Belloni podesta of Milan to represent him at the funeral of the 17 victims of the bomb explosion at Milan tomorrow.

Queen Helena and the royal princess attended the te deum services in the Church of Sudario this afternoon, and were given ovations both going to the church and on returning.

SOCIALISTS DEMAND SWEEPING REFORMS

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—A five day national convention of the socialist party opened tonight to the vigorous demands of its leaders for sweeping reforms in politics and government, business and social conditions and adjustment in international problems.

Presidential and vice presidential candidates to represent the party in the November election will be chosen at the convention, and a campaign platform will be drawn.

After a meeting of the national executive committee today it was announced a plank for local option on light wines and beers will be recommended for the platform. Modification, but not repeal of the 18th amendment, will be urged.

Almost 200 delegates from about 40 states gathered in Manhattan Opera house to hear such men as Congressman Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin, Morris Hillquit, Norman Thomas and others outline the causes of the party and plans for their attainment.

Hillquit, socialist candidate for mayor of New York in 1911, delivering the keynote address, declared there is a need in the political field dominated by the "Siamese twins democrat and republican, for a party dedicated to the people."

He voiced the socialist opposition to "indiscriminate and unrestricted use of alcohol," but added, "we do object to any government interference in the private life and habits of citizens beyond the point of absolute necessity for the public interests."

PENDLETON HILL

The death of George Reynolds, 72, removes from thi parish one of the well known residents who has spent much of his life in and about this vicinity. Mr. Reynolds received spinal injuries while loading hay in the Stubtown district and died at Backus hospital within forty-eight hours after his injury, never having regained full consciousness. The funeral services took place Sunday at the home of his son Stephen in Mystic.

A large congregation attended Easter services. Rev. Mr. Mathewson took for his text I Corinthians 15, and part of the 17th verse "And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain." It was the plea of a lawyer as well as a preacher and deeply impressed his audiences.

The church was beautifully decorated. Hyacinths, jonquils and tulips were in loving memory of Mrs. Mary Cassius Palmer, from her daughters, Mrs. Winnifred Palme Cottrell and Misses Hithe and Cecile Palmer, and daffodils and geraniums were in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Potter Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Gilmore and daughter, Effie Elinor of Fall River and Pendleton Hill were at their summer home over the Easter holiday. Mrs. Gilmore and daughter attended the Easter services.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Palmer and son George 2nd, accompanied by a friend, Miss Cruickshank of Bradford, R. I., were Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer.

Miss Ella Green has gone to live with Miss Mary Wilkinson for the present.

Miss Amelia Palmer of Willimantic normal school, who spent Easter at home, is the first to inaugurate a spring clean-up campaign, and has this work well under way.

The death of Lloyd Hall of Norwich was a great shock to his friends and acquaintances here, where he has frequently been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Birdsey Palmer and family.

Mrs. Etta Miner has returned to her home here, from Alton, where she has been keeping house for Fred Barbour.

This is Easter vacation week for the schools of the town.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP ACADEMY TEAM OPENS SEASON WITH ALUMNI TODAY

The only high school state champions that Norwich has had in nearly a quarter of a century, the Academy baseball team swing into action this afternoon at the campus on what bids fair to be the best season ever experienced at the local school. The Alumni furnishes the opposition, as usual, for the opening tussle and the graduates come this year with as strong a club as has represented them in many years. The game starts at 2 o'clock.

MACE GOLDBLATT

A majority of last year's team, five to be exact, will appear with the Alumni this afternoon, while the rest of the club is composed of several well known local ball players.

The varsity has been outdoors now about two weeks but many long sessions of practice have been held and the team is in better-than-average shape for the opener.

The Alumni starting lineup was announced late Friday by Mgr. McKnight and Capt. Stanley as that above, the only change from the one previously announced being Gil Kampf in the infield in place of Pheno Tombari, who is playing with Conn. Aggies this afternoon. The varsity lineup was not definitely announced but the batting order printed above is that which has performed the last few days.

Many New Faces

As the Wildcats take the field this afternoon many new faces will be seen. Cummings, Arico, LaCroix and Gibbs will be starting their first games as regulars although the latter player is a letterman from 1927. The team this year is less experienced than those of the past two years but the material which Coach Brigham has had is much better. Today's game ought to give a fairly definite line on the team that will carry the city's hopes this year against the best in the state in defense of its titular laurels. It is expected that either Jarvis or Greene, veterans, will start while Weisgraber a promising recruit, is also conceded a chance at flinging the opening ball.

It is expected that one of the largest opening day crowds in history will jam the bleachers this afternoon and with any kind of a weather break such should be the case.

ERICKSON FIRST AS RUNNERS TROT INTO OKLAHOMA CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 13—(AP)—Dodging thousands of persons who waited along the official route, cross country Pyle's marathon racers trotted through other Oklahoma city streets today to a welcome by Gov. Henry S. Johnston, after a run of 33.5 miles from El Reno.

Nestor Erickson, New York Finnish-American, won first place in the day's stunt, finishing in 3 hours, 55 minutes, 24 seconds.

Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., youth, although retaining his lead in elapsed time for the grind disappointed home state crowds by trailing in more than an hour behind Erickson Peter Gavuzzi of Southampton, England, who lately has pushed Payne hardest for the lead, ran today's race in a dead heat with Payne, in 5 hours and 2 minutes flat. Fourteen other runners were in when Payne and Gavuzzi arrived.

Arrival of the caravan in Oklahoma City meant a court action for C. C. Pyle, the promoter. A garnishment certificate attaching the $5,000 put up by the Oklahoma City chamber of commerce for routing the race through the city, was issued in district court to Ralph K. Scott of Illinois, a former member of Pyle's professional football team.

PROFS BEAT YALE AGAIN FOR CITY TITLE BY 5 TO 3

NEW HAVEN, April 13—(AP)—The New Haven team of the Eastern league won the city championship from Yale here this afternoon by defeating the Elis in a close game by the score of 5 to 3. The Profs won the first game yesterday 12 to 0. After seven innings of even playing the Profs produced the winning tallies, when they scored two runs in the eighth inning, hitting Loud for three singles which added to a hit batter put over two runs, the professionals' margin of victory.

Ten errors marred the contest, Yale making six mistakes and New Haven four in a poor fielding exhibition. Yale's errors contributed three of the victor's runs. The feature of the game was the pitching of Brewster Loud who held the leaguers hitless for the first six innings. Score by innings:

Babe Ruth managed to get one double as the Yankees nosed out the Athletics while Harry Heilmann went to bat four times and collected one single for his efforts. Hornsby, one of the active members of the half dozen, failed to hit safely. Score:

COMMISSIONER DONOHUE SUSPENDS BUCK SHEA

State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue suspended indefinitely Raymond F. Shea of Colchester, a professional boxer known as Buck Shea, for fighting on amateur cards under the name of Young McLean. Young McLean, who came to Norwich with Willimantic fighters under the guidance of Captain of Police McLean and County Detective William E. Jackson, has fought several times on the Pastime and Willimantic cards. Shea has been a professional boxer for the past four years.

Not only did Commissioner Donohue suspend Shea but he sounded a warning to A. A. U. clubs in eastern Connecticut when he stated that he had evidence on several that money had been paid the boxers other than legitimate expense money.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

Warren Harding

Warren Harding high of Bridgeport should have another dangerous baseball team this season. Although a number of regulars have gone, still Coach Mead has high hopes of finishing near the top in state baseball.

Harding will miss Johnny Michaels, pitcher, Kozlowski, first baseman and Leo Fisher, shortstop, in particular this year and much of the chances for success for the Presidents rests upon the ability of their predecessors.

Michaels had a tryout with the Hartford Senators and will probably be farmed out to the New England league while Fisher is at Conn. Aggies. Both of these boys were a big part of Harding's strong club in 1927.

Harding's strongest spot will be its outfield with the infield half intact. Eddie Sweesey, diminitive third sacker, is still present and he no doubt will be the pivot upon which the inner defense will be built.

Harding again plans a stiff schedule and on it is the annual Memorial Day game here with the Academy.

Monday—New Britain High.

'BOUT SPORTS

Today sees baseball back in Norwich again. It ought to be a big opening for there seems to be interest aplenty in the Academy's doings. The Alumni team is probably the strongest that has been recruited in recent years and although, lacking a bit in practice, still they should be able to keep the schoolboys on the jump throughout. In fact, many think that they are powerful enough to down the varsity and when you look at the lineup that they have mustered, you may think that that thought is not far amiss.

VOIGT WINS NORTH-SOUTH AMATEUR TITLE WITH 69

PINEHURST, N. C., April 13—(AP)—George Voigt, Washington golfer, stroked the Pinehurst course three under par today to win the north and south amateur championship for the second consecutive year.

With a 69, the District of Columbia player defeated John Dawson, Chicago, one up at the thirty-sixth hole.

The Washington golfer brought the contest to a close with a birdie three on the 36th hole. After finishing 27 holes one up on the Chicagoan, Voigt lost the advantage when Dawson sank a 12 foot putt to win the tenth. They halved the eleventh and see-sawed into the lead for the rest of the match.

STANLEY CUP WINNERS WILL RECEIVE ABOUT $800 EACH

MONTREAL, Que., April 13—(AP)—It was stated at National Hockey league headquarters here today that no announcement concerning the amount and division of the Stanley cup money pool would be made until the series had been concluded. The players split in on the receipts of the first three games on a basis of 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losers after expenses have been deducted. It has been unofficially estimated, however, that the ultimate winners will receive in the neighborhood of $800 each and the losers around $600 each.

MUSH MORIARTY GETS TWO K. O. WINS ON PASTIME AMATEUR CARD

It was "Moriarty night" at the Pastime amateur show in the Olympic hall last night. "The popular local favorite who," as John Callahan is wont to say, "is the always satisfactory fighter" came through with flying colors. After taking some wild punches from wild-swinging Jack West, a local colored boy, Mush brought over one of his famous rights to the jaw in the second round and had West on the verge of a K. O. The latter fell into a clinch. In breaking away Mush, in his anxiety to bring over the finisher, half pushed and half hit West through the ropes and west landed on his back and hunk over the edge of the ring badly hurt. He was carried to his corner and the bout awarded to Moriarty on a technical K. O. It was an unfortunate ending. Much sympathy was felt for the injured boxer but Mush made a hit with his win.

In lieu of a main bout Mush went on again, and had Major Bell from the sub-base on the verge of a K. O. in the third round when the referee stepped in and awarded the fight to Moriarty on another technical knockout. The local iron man Mush being the martyr won the hearts of the fans and looked like a million dollars doing so.

The Willimantic continent failed to make their appearance and consequently the fighting trolley man Harold Talbot had no opponent, which did not set so good with those present, who had travelled miles and miles no doubt to see him do his stuff. Farmer Steve happened to be in the audience, but had not trained lately and could not go on even though he wanted to. The other advertised bout which helped draw the crowd between Vic Darr and Young Metty, fell through because of Metty's illness and the show ended after the ninth bout.

However, the fights were interesting and full of action and the popularity of the amateur fights did not apparently wane with the past investigation in the Simon pure ranks. The first go of the evening ended in a win for Sailor Foley of the Sub-base over the game Young Bogash of Danielson, and he had his hands full in gaining the decision. Foley a hard-hitting little lad, brought over his hardest blows, but Bogash was fighting back every minute. It was a very good bout to start the card off. They weighed 124 lbs.

Chick Mara, who has been winning consistenly since he started, won a technical K. O. over a local colored boy, Joe Jackson, in the second round. Both boys staged a hard fought battle and assimilated plenty of punishment. Jackson was rather wild due to his inexperience, and was somewhat tired when hi seconds tossed in the towel. Jackson was almost down in the first, but managed to last the round. He weighed 154 and Mara 152.

The third bout ended in a K. O. to the credit of fast little Johnny Dosh. He caught Young Foster coming in with a hard right to the chin and the blond boy went down, thought twice about getting up, rolled over and was counted out. Foster has been coming along fairly well too, but Johnny swarmed all over him and did'nt give him a chance to get started. The bout only lasted about two minutes, but there was quite some action for the time being. Dosh is getting better with each fight. Both lads weighed 111 lbs.

The fourth go was a hectic bout between the Westerly fat boy, Young Phillips, and Billy Alcier of the Sub-base. Alcier started off as though he could tie Phillips in knots and do about anything he wished with him. But the latter kept getting in with his blows and earned a draw. The first round was the best for Alcier and he had Phillip's head bobbing back with his left jab and right crosses. But he seemed to lose the left after the second and relied on his right. Both boys were pretty tired at the final bell. The Westerly boy weighed 166 and Alcier 167.

Yound Rida brought his bicycle up from Westerly and used it to good advantage in his bout with Young O'Brien of New London. O'Brien was mighty anxious to get close enough to his man to bring over his hard right, but Rida was just as anxious to keep away and he made out very well doing so. When O'Brien did manage to connect he staggered the Westerly boy. Only occasionally did the latter show signs of fight, but when he did, he took one in return. O'Brien won the decision for his aggressiveness and willingness to mix it, and Rida lost it for his usual tactics. Rida tipped the scales at 126 and O'Brien at 127.

The sixth bout was between Moriarty and West.

Kid Alberts of New London put over a real, genuine, unadulterated knockout on Billy Moore of the Sub-base and how. Never has a man been knocked any colder. Both boys exchanged hard wallops in the first but it was evident that Alberts had the stiffer punch, and he hurt Moore when he landed. He had Moore on the floor for the count of nine in the second, and as the bout turned out he should have stayed there. However, he rose to his feet and Alberts jabbed with his left and crashed his right to the point of the jaw, and Moore went down and out and had to be carried to his corner, and it was five minutes before he was brought to. This man Alberts in his first fight here showed up wonderfully well, and made a great impression, and it is honed he will show again. Both weighed 149 lbs.

The eighth go found the popular Young Barra of the Coast Guard making short work of Dinty Moore of the Sub-base. The latter just couldn't get started against the terrible onslaught of Barra, who swarmed over Moore with hard lefts and rights, with no let up, and had Moore on the floor badly beaten when the towel came into the ring. Barra weighed 128 and the Sub-base lad 125.

The ninth and last bout was the return of "our Mush."

Luke Riley and Alex Pasnik were the judges while Chick Stanley ticked the seconds off, and Bobby Mays refereed in his usual excellent fashion.

SEEN FROM THE RINGSIDE

Plenty of knockouts for those who like their fighting short and slashing. Six out of nine was the score.

Mush Moriarty, blonde king of swat, polished off two at the show, his first victim going out like a light, while his second was goofy when Bobby Mays stopped the slaughter.

It was Mush who saved the show after Talbot ran out and Vic Darr could find no opponent willing to go on. Hooper refused to go against the local whirlwind.

Talbot and Young Hagen, together with Talbot's Montville fighting relatives, would not go on unless they could pick their opponents. This will just about wind up these boys in this part of the state.

Young Rida proved himself to be the Clarence DeMar of the ring. The Westerly lad had no time for his usual clowning, he was too busy pedaling his feet in hot retreat. The amateur bicycle races are to be held at Newark this year.

For real funny, deceptive and agile movements Jack West dusky battler was the original bouncing brown baby. He bounced and bounced until Mush bounced one off his jaw and then West bounced off the ropes bounced once on the floor and bounced no more.

West was really hurt. He received a bad sprain and wrench to his back and was mighty score when he left the hall.

For a real honest to goodness knockout the one that Kid Alberts handed Billy Moore was the prize. When Alberts clipped Moore his head snapped back twice and he wilted out cold before he even hit the canvas. It was some minutes before he knew what it was all about.

Last night's show was probably the last amateur show to be run by the Pastime A. C. The next show in two weeks will probably be one of the "new talent" shows under state supervision.

This would eliminate any running out of bouts such as was the case last night which is a very good feature. There will probably be eight four round bouts.

BOUT WITH LOUGHRAN WILL NEVER HAPPEN, SAYS DELANEY

BRIDGEPORT, April 13—(AP)—The proposed light heavyweight championship bout between Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia and Jack Delaney, of this city will never take place so far as the former champion is concerned, he said tonight, in answer to several pointed remarks made by Loughran in New York against Delaney recently.

"I won from Loughran on two occasions but pressure was brought to bear in our bout in Philadelphia the decision of the judges and the referee was changed to a draw about an hour after the bout after they had given me the decision at the ringside," Jack said. The other victory over Loughran came in Boston, Delaney pointed out and at that time Loughran had a ten pound advantage.

According to Delaney, Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Tex Rickard had been dickering with his manager, Joe Jacobs, for a championship bout on June 7.

SIX HOMERS AS YANKS BEAT ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, April 13—(AP)—The New York Yankees apparently have lost none of the bone-crushing power that carried them to an American league pennant by an overwhelming margin last year.

The champions put together three home runs, two triples and a pair of doubles, along with sundry singles, to nose out the Philadelphia Athletics today, 8 to 7. Lou Gehrig started his 1928 home run campaign in the second inning with a tremendous drive over the fence that sailed into a window in a house across the street from the park. But homers were the rule rather than the exception. Six drives good for the circuit were poled out, each team getting three. Joe Hauser hit two and Cochran one for the Athletics while Combs and Meusel aided Gehrig in upholding the Yankees' prestige. Ruth got only one hit, a double.

Eddie Rommel started on the mound for the Athletics but was driven out of the box in the midst of a Yankee rally that netted five runs in the second inning. Jing Johnson finished the inning and then Ossie Orwoll took up the burden for the rest of the game. After a shaky start, Orwoll pitched effectively.

Wilcy Moore, Al Shealy and Waite Hoyt divided the Yankees' mound duty, Moore and Shealy both being driven to cover in the late innings. Moore suffered a spike wound in his foot in the fifth but remained in the game until the Athletics' bats drove him to cover in the eighth. Score:

Ray Benge, Texas league recruit, went the route for the Phils and was touched up for eight hits, including home runs by Del Bissonette and Harvey Hendricks, doubles by Freigau and Vance and a triple by Riconda. IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Two weddings occurred in Norwich just fifty years ago this week. One was the marriage of William K. Shew and Miss Florence E. Sturtevant and the other was the wedding of John Trankla, for years employed by The Bulletin, and Miss Jennie B. Campbell. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of April, 1878, are as follows:

Monday, April 8, 1878—The regular temperance meeting on Saturday evening was addressed by E. H. Palmer, Esq., of Montville, who was quite enthusiastic and happy in his remarks. At the meeting yesterday morning Dr. Wilson spoke of the dangerous results of alcohol and tobacco; but he thought that Mr. R. J. Finley carried the matter a little too far the preceding Sunday in deprecating the use of tea and coffee. The Rev. Mr. Montgomery spoke briefly, dwelling mostly upon personal attacks upon himself and his fearlessness of their effect.

The increase of pay allowed at the jails has the tendency to check the payment of fines. One dollar a day with board is more than transient laborers can get outside the workhouse, and a good many of those sentenced to pay a fine can work it our much easier than they can raise the money in any other way.

The remains of William Kerby, whose untimely death was noticed in Saturday's issue, were followed to their last resting place by a very large procession. The members of William M. Williams S. F. E. Co. were in uniform and several of the Catholic societies to which he belonged wore their regalia. Services were held at the Catholic church.

Tuesday, April 9, 1878—The funeral of Thomas Williams, formerly of this city, was held at the Universalist church yesterday at 1 o'clock. The Rev. L. P. Blackford officiated at the church and Worshipful Master Moses, assisted by Brothers Waldron, Brown, Merrit and Tilton of Wooster lodge, No. 79, F. and A. M., of New Haven, and P. M. Jacob B. Mershon of Somerset lodge, No. 34, of this city, conducted the Masonic service at the grave. A delegation from the lodges in this city was also present.

The milliners and dealers in boots and shoes have, with unusual unanimity, made an arrangement for closing their stores on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 6 o'clock from this time until September.

Wednesday, April 10, 1878—Dr. C. E. Stark, who recently graduated from the New York Homeopathic college, and who has many friends hereabouts, has been appointed to a position in the hospital of that school of medicine in New York, which, being the result of a competitive examination, is highly creditable to him. He has already entered upon his duties.

Amy Stone and company appear at Breed hall next Monday evening in "Fanchon." A very fine feature of the entertainment is their superb orchestra. The character of Fanchon is one of Amy Stone's best, and in this, her chosen line of acting, she displays her best qualities.

The old elm tree at the corner of Main and Market streets is still decorated with the large and enduring advertisement of the entertainment of Don Munio, which occurred in January.

The churches that have already sold their slips for the ensuing year report favorable results as compared with the years immediately preceding. The Universalist church sold the sittings last Wednesday evening and the First Baptist church on Monday evening. Sales in each case showed a slightly larger total than was reached one year ago.

Thursday, April 11, 1878—A noteworthy event in Norwich's social circles, last evening, was the marriage of Mr. William K. Shew and Miss Florence E. Sturtevant, with the delightful festivities attending the occasion. The marriage ceremony took place at the Broadway Congregational church and was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's father, A. P. Sturtevant, Esq., on Washington street, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

Friday, April 12, 1878—The New London Northern railroad has begun quite an extensive improvement at the spile bridge over Massapeag cove, near the Montville station. It is proposed to fill in with earth the whole length of the spile work, save the space for a new bridge. Earth for the purpose is obtained near at hand and the work, thus far, has developed less trouble from the bottom mud that was feared.

Saturday, April 13, 1878—The Ladies' Social and Benevolent circle connected with the Central Baptist church held the concluding social for the winter season last evening. The society has done a deal of work during the winter that has proved a "blessing bestowed" to many a needy one. Packages have found their way from the busy hands of the association to quite distant sections in the west and south.

The meeting closed with the salute to the flag and the singing of America.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

Nancy Hempstead council of New London has accepted an invitation to attend the fourth anniversary of Lady Buckingham council in Norwich on April 19. The council will charter a bus and will attend the celebration in a body.

At the next meeting of Nancy Hempstead council there will be initiation ceremonies. Stonington, Norwich and Noank councils have been invited to be present.

CANTERBURY GREEN

A capacity audience marked the annual school exhibition and library supper at Grange hall Tuesday evening. Work from the various town schools was displayed about the room. Following the supper a program was given portraying old and new ways of conducting schools. The Frost school, Miss Dawley, teacher, showed the former method, including a visit from the school committee. Miss Ruth Davis, with Packer school, illustrated a modern school session. A visit from the district nurse was one of the features. Supervisor Floyd announced the winners in a written contest on the subject, "What I Have Done This Year to Improve my Citizenship." Ten dollars had been donated by an interested Canterbury woman for awards for this purpose. First prize of $5 went to Anna Kucatsloff of Packer; second prize, $3, to Dorothy Hart of the Green; third, $2, to Robert Miller of Gay Head. Judges from out of town passed on the work exhibited. The result was announced by State Supervisor Conolly of Lebanon, their decision giving first mention to North Society school, Mrs. Lovell, teacher. A prize picture was presented that school by Mr. Floyd. Music was furnished during the evening by an orchestra of five, including Curtis Kinne, Malcolm Wibberly, Wm. Wright, Mr. Busnell and Mrs. Wright.

Mrs. Belle Holcomb Johnson of Hartford was in town Tuesday in the interest of the Community library.

A prayer meeting was held Wednesday evening at the Havarnun home by the Nazarene church people of Danielson, Rev. Mr. Gallup, pastor.

Carleton Lovell was an Easter visitor with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lovell.

Guests Sunday at Levi Clark's were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton and Samuel Cooper of New London and Mrs. Walter Newton of New Jersey.

James Dawson of Clearwater, Fla., recently visited at the home of Arthur Bennett.

Clinton Frink was at Hartford one day this week.

Mrs. Frank Nelson and daughters, Helen and Julia, also a niece and nephew, Elinor and James King, have been spending a week at the Nelson place, their former home.

Miss Lula Bennett of New Bedford called Sunday on Mr. and Mrs. George Smith.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY LAUGH.

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care;
When it's strong as your hand can make it
Put all your troubles there.
Hide there all thought of your failures,
And each bitter cup that you quaff;
Lock all your heartaches within it
Then sit on the lid and laugh.

Tell no one else its contents,
Never its secrets share;
When you've dropped in your care and worry
Keep them forever there;
Hide them from sight so completely
That the world will never dream half;
Fasten the strong box securely—
Then sit in the lid and laugh.

IF WE ONLY UNDERSTOOD.

Could we but draw back the curtain
That surrounds each other's life,
See the naked heart and spirit,
Know what spur the action gives,
Often we should find it better,
Purer than we judge we should—
We should love each other better,
If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives,
See the good and bad within,
Often we should love the sinner,
All the while we loathed the sin.
Could we know the powers working to o'erthrown integrity,
We should judge each other's errors With more patient charity.

If we knew the care and trials,
Knew the effort all in vain,
And the bitter disappointment,
Understood the loss and gain;
Would the grim, external roughness
Seem, I wonder, just the same?
Would we help where now we hinder?
Would we pity where we blame.

Ah, we judge each other harshly,
Knowing not life's hidden force;
Knowing not the fount of action
Is less turbulent at its source,
Seeing not amid the evil
All the golden grains of good.
Oh, we'd love each other better
If we only understood.

AROUND THE CORNER.

Around the corner, I have a friend,
In this great city that has no end;
Yet days go by and weeks rush on,
And before I know it a year has gone,
And I never see my old friend's face,
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days then I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then,
And now we are tired busy men—
Tired with playing a foolish game,
Tired of trying to make a name.

"Tomorrow, say, I will call on Jim
Just to show that I'm thinking of him."
But tomorrow comes and tomorrow goes,
And the distance grows and grows;
Around the corner, yet miles away.
"Here's a telegram, Sir." "Jim died today!"
And that's what we get and deserve, in the end
Around the corner a vanished friend.

NOW.

There was not a flower on her coffin;
Not a rose or a lily so bright
Was laid on the old mother's bosom
As she lay in her garments of white.
She loved them so well in her lifetime,
"They were smiles of the angels," she said,
"To brighten our pathway to heaven,
Or to lovingly cover our dead."

Could it be that her children were thoughtless,
In the hurry and worry and strife,
That so often make up the sum total
Of the atom we mortals call life?
Some pansies that grew in her garden,
Or the violets over the way—
It were easy to gather a handful
Just to place in those fingers of clay.

Ah, me! As we fall by the wayside,
And lie sleeping—the long dreamless sleep—
How soon we're forgotten by others!
How long will our dearest friends weep?
But I care not how soon they forget me,
Or if no wreath is laid on my brow,
If they'll gather the roses of kindness,
And will scatter them over me now.

HOW TO MAKE WALLPAPER LIVE LONG

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As spring advances, the wallpaper may be faded or soiled, and you cannot afford to repaper this spring on account of sickness, etc.

Decorators are constantly telling the housekeeper that dingy walls make dingy rooms. We don't any of us doubt that, with evidence on each side.

Here are the cleaning facts we discovered:

If your walls are greasy and dulled with dust and coal smoke, first fill small burlap bags with bran. The bran, seeping through the meshes of the burlap, cleans the paper spotlessly. Oatmeals gives just as good results.

To avoid spots on paper it is advisable to varnish the kitchen and bathroom wallpaper. This is easy to do and gives a durable wall that can be cleaned with soap and water. Apply two coats of white waterproof varnish, allowing each coat to dry thoroughly before putting on the next.

When the background of a gay bedroom paper has faded into a gray, you can paint the entire wall with blue size tinted with dry kalsomine watercolor paint. This gives a warm glow over the paper, the brighter colors of the design showing through in an interesting pattern.

If your paper shows any tears, try patching it. Take a small piece of paper and cut around the new design instead of shaping it into a circle or a square. The piecing will not show so much this way. If the paper has faded, put the new piece in the sun a day or two, until it has faded the correct shade.

In one small bedroom the flowers design were so faded that we went over it with oil paint and a small brush. It made the whole room bright and new. The hand painting is a long process, if your room is large, but if it is small it is well worth the time.

Rhody Louise: I was very much pleased to read your letter in the Corner. I haven't seen Neighbor's for some time.

Neighbor: Why don't you come down to Norwich? We will all be pleased to see you.

Mother Preston: You should have entered the contest "what to make of flour bags." That is one contest I started and wrote 23 ways of using, but did not send it. I am going to answer your letter this week and will send them to you. There might be a new idea you never thought of, but am not sure.

Rhody Louise: Look for Amy L. Gray and also Amy Graef when looking for Kitty Lou's writing in the paper you spoke of. There was a little jealousy, because I obtained so many prizes, and the editor advised me to write under different names.

I am always glad to see the other fellow get there. I thought Norwich harbored all the jealous people, but I am glad to say there isn't any who belong to the Corner.

KITTY LOU.

GOOD OPINION OF NEIGHBORS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: As I turn into the middle age road of life, I find myself, like Tramp Starr, caring more and more for the good opinion of my neighbors. When I was younger, I cared but little about them and what they thought, or didn't think, was of small consequence. I had an idea that all the worth-while folks whose opinions were valuable lived far away. I know now that isn't true. The opinion of those at a distance may be worth as much as my neighbors', or a whole lot more, but I know this; it isn't as difficult to obtain.

"Kind words," says the proverb, "cost nothing and are worth much. But helpful actions are worth more."

Many a family, bereaved and despairing, because of the loss of a father and bread-winner, has been put back on the high road of happiness by the kindly interest of some neighbor in finding work for the children, or by stocking the larder, so that the wolf could be kept away for a while.

One reason people seem hard and cruel is that they are so often intent on their own affairs that they do not think about the troubles of others.

I think really it is a kindly world, and that most people in it are ready to help others when the need arises.

It is hard to understand the plight of others and how much they need help.

A recent biography of Abraham Lincoln tells how he could never pass by a hog mired in the mud without stopping to lift him out. And when Lincoln later in life became a figure in a great crisis the distress of a whole people appealed to him and he did heroic work to save them.

I am sending a recipe for fried clams by request:

Fried Clams: Clean clams and dry them. Be sure your fat is hot. I watch it closely and when it begins to smoke I put the clams in. I use the fine meal that looks like flour, as I find the clams taste better than when fried in the coarse meal. Do not fry too many at once, because it cools the fat off, and they will be soft and like rubber. I divide a pint of clams in four parts, roll them in meal, put a few at a time in the fat, as it only takes a minute to cook them. When you put them in the fat, it hisses and bubbles, and the minute the hissing dies down I take them out. They come out nice and crispy. I use a long-handled fork and separate them, while cooking, as they are apt to stick together, and will not cook so well. Of course, it takes practice. I know, for the first few times I fried them I had terrible luck with them; but now I just as soon fry them as anything else. If anyone tries these, let me know how you come out.

LIKES LETTERS ON TRIPS

Dear Social Corner Members: How time does fly! It does not seem that next week is time for Club No. 6 to meet again, but so it is. Every one bear in mind that the members of Club No. 6 will meet on Tuesday, the 17th, in Grange hall at North Stonington. Cosmos is to be the hostess and Lucile Drew will have charge of the program. We hope to see a large number of our own members and many visitors from the other clubs. I think if the Westerly members will club together and get the jitney drivers to take loads, they will find it will not be expensive to get there. Don't forget your dishes and something good for the dinner.

Well, Soma, I see you went over the new road through Westminster. I went over it just before they commenced work on it—some road, then, it was almost impassable, and we had no idea how long a stretch it was, or where we were. I hope before long to go over the new road. I recently went from here to Washington, R. I., then up through Coventry, Summit to Greene; was going on to Rice City but the road did not look very good, so came back a little way, then took a turn that took us through Sterling, Plainfield, Wauregan into Brooklyn, up Hampton hill, through Chaplin to Willimantic. A little way below there went cross country to Baltic, down through Greeneville and Norwich home—a nice trip. I like to read the letters telling of nice day trips. Wish the sisters would write of more and how to get to them.

Skipper: Congratulations! What are you going to buy? Hope you don't join in the beef trust. You might lose out.

O. D.: Have you and Beth C left town? Hope the sick one is better.

Rebecca: Hope we have you with us Tuesday.

Ruthma: Wonder if you have been to Hartford yet? I have given up all hope.

Commuter: Get Lizzie tuned up for Tuesday.

REGRETTED MISSING CLUB 4'S MEETING

Dear Socials Corner Sisters and Editor: How is every one? Have not written in quite a while, but read every letter every Saturday. Was awful sorry to miss No. 4's meeting in Danielson but was not able to get away. I know the Social Corner sisters had a great dinner and also a good time. Hope to see you all at some future time. Suppose all the sisters will be cleaning house soon. That is a busy time for everyone then.

ROSY POSY: How are you? Hope you are not sick, I heard you were not at No. 4's meeting.

Ma of Green Gables: Received your message through a Social Corner sister. Glad you remembered me. Hope you are in good health. I was up to Mollie's two weeks ago. She told me your pen name so I recognized it when I heard it. Best wishes.

Skinny: Have you seen those two coons lately?

Hope to get to some of the gatherings before the summer has gone. Good luck to all.

TRY AGAIN

CLUB NO. 3 TO MEET AT LEBANON APRIL 18

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I have been asked to take charge of the April meeting of Social Corner club No 3 and so am sending this letter of invitation to a meeting at the chapel of the Baptist church in Lebanon on Wednesday the 18th and hope that all that possibly can will come.

Please bring the usual dishes also something for the dinner aside from sandwiches as we buy the rolls for the dinner. If some of the members of other clubs or friends, who would enjoy meeting with us, can come they will be more than welcome. To those who have autos, I would say the road is all hard state road.

Hoping that Club No. 3 members will be on hand for the day and that it will be fair, I will close with best wishes for the success of the Corner

WHERE LAFAYETTE STOPPED

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I went to a house yesterday where the great Lafayette spent a night when he passed through this country. The old inn has not changed so very much since I was a small girl. The stately old trees are there.

Once the inn held a large number of young folks who attended the old Academy that stands on the crest of the hill a short distance away. In years gone by it was a pretty place and many a jolly time has been held there.

Whoa Emma: Glad you have joined the Corner. You should now join Club No. 4 which is the nearest to you.

Aries: Many thanks for the box. Sorry I could not get any Easter cards.

I thank members of Club No. 4 for the box. It is nice to be remembered

Ann Tenna: Many thanks for the pretty card.

NONESOPRETTY (Club No. 4)

PEN NAME FROM SONG NUMBER

Hello, Everybody: I thought it about time I should write again. First I want to thank those who sent me birthday cards. I have moved since I last wrote and have been busy trying to get settled. I have moved on the farm where I spent nearly all my days. It's so nice and pleasant and plenty of room for everything. I am looking forward to the next meeting, which I hope I can attend if nothing happens. I suppose everyone is busy cleaning house.

Sumac: Glad to know that you are the good kind, as I feel rather timid when I get near you.

Prairie Chicken: I suppose you are glad you don't live on the prairies now. You must hitch up your speed and come up some time.

As everybody is writing where they got their pen names from, I will tell you where I got mine. I wanted to join the Corner but didn't know what name to take. I thought of all kinds of names. One day I was singing the song Brown Eyes and I said to myself that is a good pen name, so it is my pen name. I also have brown eyes. I wonder if any of the Corner members ever made a cracker pie? It tastes something like apple. You soak the crackers, but not too long, as they get too soft. Then fill a pie plate the same as apple pie. Make it just the same except add a little vinegar. I wonder if any of the members when making dried beef gravy ever tried grinding it up? I make mine this way as the children can eat it better. I guess I have written enough for once.

Country Sister: I suppose you are busy trying to get settled.

Hope all the ailing ones are feeling better.

BROWN EYES.

WHAT THE LILY SAYS

Dear Editor and Everybody: This is Easter Sunday! Hail, Easter morning! How bright and how beautiful are the flowers! All of them a voice, all of them full of speech today. I look at my sword palm lily, which we found open for us this morning (as we hoped it would) and I hear it say: "Consider the lilies, they toil not, neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these," and best of all to think we could behold them on this glorious Easter day. I only wish everyone could see this most curious plant.

"I've heard the bells of Easter ring,
I've heard the robins sweetly sing,
Which makes me think it's gentle Spring."

Twice Twenty: Thanks for the pussy willows, the first I had seen, and thanks to Prinet for the ones she gave me.

Thirty-Two: I have heard Cheerio every morning for a long time. Isn't he wonderful? He can say the most nice things in 15 minutes that I ever listened to.

Daisy Dean: Many thanks for the box of nice cake (nine kinds) which you sent to me by Tate from the Social Corner meeting. Club No. 4 is noted for its wonderful cake makers.

Ethelyn: Your letter entitled Spending Money was a good one. I am with you on that subject, and Tying the Third Knot was another good one.

Aries: Thank you for Easter greetings.

ANN TENNA (Club No. 4).

HOW TO CURE CHILBLAINS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: I thought I had better take Prinet's advice and look at that rusty pen, polish it up and answer the roll call for 1928. I do wish I could write as well as Ann Tenna does.

Prinet: You certainly did miss a good time and a fine dinner by not attending the meeting of Club No. 4 April 5th at G. A. R. hall.

Bug and Ma of Green Gables: Have you seen any showers of cup cakes lately. I haven't.

Queen Marie: Save this remedy for chilblain and use it another winter. I am sure it will help you. Peel and slice a cupful of onions. Have heated two cups of lard and boil, not fry, the onions in it. Let simmer on the back of the stove a long time in order to extract all the juice from the onions. There should be plenty of lard left after the onions have taken up all they will. When cooked as long as necessary, strain through a thin cheesecloth and put in small jars. This onion salve will cure severe cases of chilblains. Common baking soda is one of the best remedies for the removal of warts and corns. Bind on wet and moisten the soda several times a day. The warts and corns will quickly disappear. Try cleaning your enameled beds this way: Drop a few drops of turpentine on a cloth and rub over the enamel. This removes dirt and spots instantly, besides being much easier than the old way. It gives a high gloss to the enamel.

I will sign off this short letter with this joke:

"What's the matter, old top? You look sick."

"I've just undergone a serious operation."

"Appendicitis?"

"Worse than that. I've had my allowance cut off!"

TATE (Club No. 4).

NON-ESSENTIALS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: One way of solving at least part of the non-essentials from the house and particularly from the kitchen and pantry, if you have kept house several years, you have without doubt accumulated many an article of furniture and decoration which is not in the least necessary to the routine of your daily life.

Step into your kitchen and take a look at the pots and pans. Some of them, perhaps, you use frequently. You have had them for years, bought them before the days of granitware, probably, and have never thought how heavy and cumbersome they are. Discard them at once and replace them with the modern lightweight pots and saucepans. Aluminum, etc., saves much wear and tear o' patience and muscle. Until you have made the change you will never realize how hard it was to live with those great, black, heavy iron kettles.

Having settled the kettle closet, look into the pantry and china closet. Here you will find broken and cracked pieces of fine china which you have placed on the top shelf, thinking to have them mended some day; but that day has never come, until now, and the best way to mend them is to throw them out; a mended cup or pitcher is never safe, for it is almost sure to go to pieces, bringing disaster of one sort or another in its wake. You will now find a great saving of time and labor for you have not to wash and wipe those useless pieces every time you clean the closet.

China and silver too fine for daily use are non-essentials. Have a reserve stock of the pattern that serves the family, and you will find that company will not be so much of a task, and you will be relieved of considerable labor, for it is no small task to get out a whole dinner set, wash and wipe all the pieces for an extra guest or two.

Fine table napery is a joy to every housewife, but large cloths and napkins in common use necessitates great labor. There are two ways of eliminating a portion of this labor; one is to have a cloth just the size of the table and no larger. I have seen this plan in use in several families and while at first it looked strange, the good sense of the housekeeper was at once apparent. Another way is to use doilies at breakfast and luncheon and at dinner, too, if you are willing to make so much of an innovation.

But, you say, "why not wash tablecloths as well as doilies?" Simply because two or three dozen doilies are much more easily handled in the wash than two or three large cloths. If your table is not mahogany—and we are not all so lucky as to own one—polish the table you have and use doilies or luncheon cloths. These may be made at home; the simplest are made of a circular piece of linen with a buttonhole scallop around the edge. If you have time and skill, you may make embroidered ones, or crochet or knit them from the many designs found in the household magazines. Paper napkins, which cost a few cents a dozen, with a large one for centerpiece, will last for several days, and the expense will be no more than will pay for having the linen laundered. Children take to the colored bordered napkins and, my word for it, once you have tried them, you will find they add considerably to the gaiety of the breakfast table.

Of course, if you have hot dishes, you will need plates under them, or some other protection for the table, but that can be easily managed. A little thought in rearranging things is all that you will find irksome, and the new conditions will be a great relief. I would not eliminate the damask cloth entirely, but a suggestion or two gathered while visiting in Amsterdam may be of service.

After each meal the cloth was looked over very carefully and every spot removed with hot water (that is, ordinary spots), the cloth was then folded in the original creases and put under a press, something like a letter press, from which it emerged next mealtime looking quite fresh. As the Dutch have wash days much less frequently than we do, this is their way of economizing in laundry work.

A large amount of floor scrubbing may be saved—indeed, all the floor scrubbing—by having the kitchen floor painted, if you haven't hardwood floors, but putting down rugs, home-made ones or others, in the parts of the room most used. Linoleum is a good floor covering. Get the inlaid (I have it in almost every room in the house.) Here is where the dustless mop gets in its work and relieves you of a back-aching, nerve-destroying job.

Stationary tubs and tables should all have covers of oilcloth (I have linoleum on mine). They are easily cleaned and are very durable.

Of today the short window curtains, think of it fashion is for once sensible—reach only from the top of the window to the sill, but as mine seemed to get so soiled I made mine two inches below the sill. If you have any long curtains cut them all off or cut off the superfluous length and make your new curtains of the pieces and you will find you have saved time, labor and material.

ETHELYN

TRIMMING SHRUBS AND BUSHES

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: As this is the time of year to start work in the gardens and yards I am going to tell you how I trim the shrubs and bushes as I do the work myself. I find it very interesting, and anyone has to know the kinds of shrubs and their habits. Winter killing (so called)) of roses and bulbs is due mostly to the cold drying winds of March and April, which cause the ground to crack and allow the cold air to circulate too freely around the roots, drying them out. Cultivation of the soil should begin at once to fill the cracks. The early blooming varieties should be pruned after the blossoms have gone by, as one is very apt to cut off the buds if pruned too early. Lilacs need very little attention, only cutting new shoots close to the ground soon after appearing, allowing a few of them to remain. All dead shoots should be taken from spirea. Do not leave stub. Hydrangeas should be rather severely cut back at this time for the best results later.

The old woody stalks should be cut out eery two or three years, from the rose bushes. Barberries need very little care and are the most satisfactory as they are hardy and have bright red berries all winter. All dead blossoms should be cut off with a generous stem after dying both for beauty and strength, but don't by any means give them a hair cut. Dead wood should be taken out at any time.

I hope everyone will have the best of success all the year through.

MILKY WAY (Club 6)

GREETINGS FROM SISTER READY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters—Just a few lines to let you all know where I am. The last time the sisters knew anything about me I was eloping with the deacon. I did not get very far, flat tire. I guess the deacon thought it must have been over loading on one side.

Crimson Rambler—I guess it will be after Easter. You will not have one slice, but a whole loaf.

Calla Lily—Just got busy that was all.

Aunty No. 1—Am glad to know uncle is better.

L. S. B.—May one who neve makes a mistake comfort you now in the great loss.

Scottie—Am glad you are improving.

To all the sick and shut-ins I send Easter greetings and best wishes to all members.

SISTER READY.

ANTICIPATES S. C. PIONICS

Dear Social Corner Friends — Springtime is with us again, and the hard job of the season is housecleaning. If the man of the house who cannot hold the stove pipe while putting it together and can't hold his temper, he is a mighty good fellow. The women folks have no vacation in view just now with 199 things needed doing at once. One thing will encourage them for they can soon have a good New England dinner of cowslips. The Corner page is out with a full sail and will make a good port during 1928. Everyone has a right to their opinion. Some think we have passed through a hard winter, while others say it was mild and there was no use going to Florida. What would we do without the telephone and the radio. How we would miss listening to our friends a thousand miles away. There has been much sickness and deaths in the Corner family during the past winter. Let us hope as the warm weather returns that there will be less trouble for one and all. Why not plant a Social Corner Garden this coming season and not forget with all the other beautiful flowers the Corner color of yellow. The rural mail carrier's automobile looks more like a poultry show these days than the U. S. mail as one listens to a thousand chicks being delivered by parcel post. The birds have come back and the trees will soon be green again and it will be time for one of those Social Corner picnics where everybody feels at home with the Corner family. To those who have never attended the picnics you have missed the time of your life.

RURAL DELIVERY.

RECIPES FROM GUESS WHO:

Dear Social Corner Sisters—I am sending a number of recipes, which I hope may be of assistance to many of the Corner members. They are.

Pickled Carrot Sticks—Good sized carrots scraped and cut into sticks not quite 3-4 of an inch square on the ends and long enough to fit nicely in a pint fruit jar. Boil until tender and pack snugly into the can. Have ready some boiled vingear salted and peppered to taste, to pour over the carrots. Fill the can to the brim and seal at once. In about two weeks they can be used, so if you wish them for New Year's dinner you are obliged to fix them ahead of time.

Walnut Cone Creams—These are especially a treat for young people and are delicious served with hot chocolate. Thoroughly beat 3 eggs and gradually 1 cup light brown sugar, while you continue beating; next 3 tablespoons of sifted flour to which has been added 1-4 teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt; add 1 cup of English walnut meats which have been broken into small pieces. Drop this mixture from a teaspoon on a buttered pan, having the cakes about 2 inches apart; as soon as they are baked loosen them carefully from the pan and roll them into cones. After they are cold fill each one with whipped cream or ice cream and decorate each one with a candied cherry.

Apple Custard Pie—Choose two ripe apples, scrape to a pulp with a silver knife. Mix with one cup of sugar and one salt, spoon of cinnaman and add 2 well beaten eggs, one cup of milk. Bake in one crust.

Mince Meat—This recipe was made by an old lady 20 years ago who was famous for her mince pies. Two bowls of finely minced beef; four even bowls of chopped greenings; 1 1-2 bowls of stoned malaga raisins; one bowl of best currants; about 1-2 pound of citron. Put through grinder. A small teacup of butter, grated rind and juice of two lemons, one bowl of sugar. One half cup of New Orleans molasses, a wine glass of brandy and enough of the beef liquor to moisten it. Two teaspoons of mace, 1 teapsoon of ground cloves; 2 teaspoons cinnamon, two whole nutmegs grated, and salt to taste

RECIPE FOR EGG FOO YONG.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner—I hope you all had a lovely Easter. It was a very nice day. I was very sorry to hear that one of our Sister's loved ones is ill. At the last meeting in Westerly I lost my book and a pink turkish towel. Will the Sisters that found them bring them to the next meeting. I have a recipe here for Egg Foo Yong—5 eggs; 1-2 cup shredded onions; 1-2 cup finely chopped bacon; ham or cold roast meat of any sort; 1-4 cup sliced water chestnuts; 1 cup La Choy sprouts. Beat the eggs with the other ingredients until a thick consistency is secured; divide into six portions, mold into a soup ladle or cup and pour carefully into a shallow pan or hot frying fat or oil. When one side is brown turn over and brown the other. Make gravy with La Choy Coy sauce and serve white hot. I hope we have a good attendance at oru next meeting.

CLUB NO. 6 MEETS APRIL 17.

Dear Social Corner: Replying to a recent inquiry in these columns, would say that I have not thrown away my pen. Perhaps it has grown a little rusty. It is easy to put off writing letters when one hasn't much to write about. I have appreciated the cards that have come to me, also the pretty calendar from the mysterious Social Corner members. It is late to be saying it, but better late than never.

We have been asked to relate how we chose our pen names. I made up mine from my husband's name, which become my name when the prefix Mrs. is placed before it. Personally I like two names, as for instance Dorothy Bradford. But every one for her fancy, as the woman said when she kissed the cow.

I suppose you will all bear in mind April 17, at the Grange hall in North Stonington, at least all Club No. 6 members will bear it in mind and a general turn out of the sisterhood and a sprinkling of brothers-in-law will be welcome. I may bring one of these for the dinner, as he is not partial to a cold bite alone at home. Cosmos will have charge of the dinner and that means that everything will be just right. It will be provided on the usual picnic plan, with a nominal charge for incidentals, all the same to members, friends and neighbors. Following dinner, the customary program, ranging from grave to gay, from lively to severe, will be presented.

Until we meet, farewell!

LUCILLE DREW (Club No. 6).

PROGRAMS AT CLUB MEETINGS

Dear Editor, Members and Friends of the Social Corner: As many of you are not able to be present at the gatherings, I have been asked to write about the club meetings. Club No. 4 met in Danielson April 5th. Twice Twenty and her able helpers served the wonderful food brought by the members at 12 o'clock, after singing Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow. Coffee was made by Paisley and poured by Arlee and Francis. There were over 50 seated at dinner, which comprised salads of many kinds, beans, scalloped potatoes, ditto carrots, boiled ham, pickles of all kinds, cheese, pies, cakes, cookies and other eatables too numerous to mention. A social period followed, then a short program of songs, readings, a vocal solo by a visiting sister, a poem by Loretta, two whistling solos by 1926, a quartet of ladies playing on combs covered with tissue paper, piano accompaniment by Bug. There were various other items on the program too numerous to mention, as I want to write about Club No. 2 meeting in Norwich April 10th.

The tables were decorated with mauve candles in crystal holders, pussy willows and spruce.

Black-eyed Susie was hostess and with her able helpers served a very fine dinner composed of salads, baked beans, rolls, pies, cakes and coffee. After a social period an interesting program was given. Many songs were sung, readings by members and, best of all, the Virginia reel was danced, piano and violin accompanied (Black-eyed Susie and Country Sister playing until greatly fatigued.) Home again, tired, but happy.

Club No. 4 is expecting to entertain members at Moosup early in May. A notice will be given later with the exact date. As May is the month dedicated to the Great Mother Spirit of all ages, we would like each one to bring a poem, song or prose on this wonderful subject.

Through the courtesy of the Plaut-Cadden Co. of Norwich Club No. 4 has been presented 25 song books to use at our Social Corner meetings, where other song books are not available.

Quite a flock of robins were on my pasture one morning about a week ago and I saw two pairs of honest-to-goodness bluebirds prancing around my bird food box in the maple tree near our door only a few days since. Then today a kingfisher preceded me all the way over the meadow from the bus on which I rode from Norwich. Spring, gentle spring, must be here, although we feel a trifle chilly at times.

Twice Twenty: Would May 3d be agreeable to Cub No. 4 for meeting in Moosup?

Kentucky Wonder: Left my galoshes at G. A. R. hall. Old ones, fine for working about the farm.

I wish to thank all who sent me cards and letters this month. They have been much appreciated.

My great sympathy goes out to all sick and sorrowful ones.

Now, girls, "Why is anger like a potato?"

Ah, the clever ones guess it right away:

"Because it shoots from the eye."

ARIES (Club No. 4).

AN OLD RELIC.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members—In the Corner page we have so many fine letters. I enjoyed one by Betsy Bray on The Historic City of Boston. The Boston Tea Party especially interested me.

I have a relic handed down from my great-great-grandfather, Phillip Raub, who fought in the Revolutionary war. He was at Valley Forge. My relic is a handkerchief, 19x22 inches, tan cloth with red print. It has pictures of Gen. George Washington, Gen. Thomas Jefferson and Gen. John Adams. It has the Declaration of Independence of the United States and names of the signers in congress, July 4, 1776.

We are having beautiful weather.

Betty Lou—I hope every one will get the third knot tied and well now and enjoy this beautiful weather.

Etholyn—I wish people would profit by your letter, on spending money and saving properly.

Nenna—Your Easter box received. Wish our Social Corner Sisters could see what a nice dinner it will make.

Ann Tenna—Your poem received. Your pet must have been a fine one.

Wiltwyck — You have my sympathy in the loss of your dear mother-in-law. I lost one of the best mothers-in-law, who always took my part.

Best wishes to all.

MARY FRANCE.

WAYS TO USE SALMON.

Dear Corner Sisters: These recipes may prove helpful to some of the cooks in the corner:

Baked Salmon Rarebits: Cut bread into six slices one-third inch thick and trim crust; place on a baking sheet and over the bread lay a rather thick slice of cream cheese, over the cheese place a thick slice of ripe tomato. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place one tablespoon of flaked salmon on top of slice of tomato. Lay two very thin slices of bacon over all and put into a very hot oven and bake until the cheese melts and the bacon crisps and curls.

Beets stuffed with salmon: Cook beets in unsalted water until tender, slip off skins, shape into cups, sprinkle with salt, sugar, lemon juice or vinegar and cool, at serving time fill with a mixture of flaked salmon to which has been added a few capers celery, two sweet pickles, half pimento; mix with French dressing, season the beets with French dressing, fill and serve on shredded cabbage.

Salmon Salad croquettes: Can of salmon, 3 hard boiled eggs, one cup finely minced celery, one large white potato boiled and cooled, sprinkle well with paprika and add a bit of onion juice; mix well with just enough French dressing to form into croquettes. Roll each croquette in finely ground nut meats and serve in lettuce leaves with salmon rubbed through a colander into a plain mayonnaise dressing.

Baked salmon and sweet potatoes: Bake 6 medium sized sweet potatoes, mash, season with salt, pepper and butter, add 2-4 can of finely flaked canned salmon, mix all together, place in buttered baking dish, spread top with melted butter, garnish with quarter or fourth canned salmon in large pieces, heat 5 or 6 minutes and serve.

PAULA.

A FEW TIME SAVERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I have just bought a Boston fern, and I wonder if someone will tell me how to care for it, as I never seem to have any luck in trying to raise them. They always turn yellow and die.

Here are a few time savers that I find very practical:

When a recipe calls for chocolate and you wish to use cocoa, use two level tablespoons of cocoa for each square of chocolate called for, increase the amount of fat a little, as cocoa has less fat than cake chocolate.

Mix cocoa and sugar together thoroughly—an easy way is to shake them together in a glass jar—to make them easier to add to the other ingredients called for in a recipe for a cooked chocolate dessert.

When a recipe calls for part of a cup of butter, fill a cup with cold water and pour out as much as the amount of butter called for. Then add butter to the partly filled cup of water, until the water reaches the top. This is a much easier way than to pack the butter into a cup and dig it out again. The measure is more accurate and no butter is lost on the sides and bottom of the cup. For instance, if you wish a third of a cup of butter, fill a cup two thirds full of cold water and then add the butter until the water reaches the top of the cup. Pour off the water and dump out the butter. Small bits of butter are just as easily measured as if it is all in one mass.

Javelle Water: Put four pounds of bicarbonate of soda into a kettle over the fire, add one gallon of boiling water, let it boil for 15 minutes, then add one pound of chloride of lime stirring constantly to avoid lumps. When cool, keep well corked until ready to use. This is fine for bleaching linens, for taking stains out of white goods, for removing fruit stains and mildew and for removing lettering from flour bags. It can be made in smaller quantities.

Mother Preston: Try the above javelle for your bags, and the letters will come out in a jiffy.

Kitty Lou: I enjoyed your letter last week on tying the third knot.

Ethelyn: I think you have the right idea about spending so much money on funerals. It always seemed to me that one could express themselves without spending so much money when they cannot afford it. I have seen funerals where there were no flowers (by request) and it was more impressive than a room full of flowers. I know from experience that when a loved one is taken away that in our grief we don't care much for the flowers, or anything else. I don't remember seeing any at all, but I've been told that there were many of them, at the three deaths in our family.

Palm Leaf: I wish I could give you some of my strength so you could get out in the sunshine once more. But I am sure, you have a lot to be thankful for. It's so wonderful to be alive, and trust in the loving Savior that we are all privileged to love, no matter what our station in life is. Your letter was so kind of blue that it sort of went right to my heart.

Will someone please write and tell me how to care for my fern before it does?

FORGOT TO SEND OWN NAME.

Dear Editor: I have been the guest of the Social Corner Club No. 4 several times. Would like very much to join the Corner and this club.

Baked Eggs With Cheese—Cut 12 hard boiled egs in thick slices and having a buttered baking dish well sprinkled with dry crumbs, place a layer of egg in the center. Sprinkle with grated cheese and season lightly with salt and paprika. Add another layer of eggs and cheese until dish is filled, finishing with the cheese. Pour in a cream sauce thickened with the yolks of three eggs, sprinkle with fresh bread crumbs mixed with cheese, dot with butter and bake ten minutes in a hot oven, or until the crumbs are a golden yellow. Serve at once.

(You have neglected to send in your own name and address. When this is done you will be enrolled as a Corner member.—S. C. Editor.)

DESIRES LARGE TURNOUT

Dear Social Corner Sisters The next meeting of Club No. 6 will be held on Tuesday, April 17, at the North Stonington grange hall, and we hope to see a large number from other clubs, and any who care to join. Lucilla Drew has charge of the entertainment and is working hard to make it the best ever. Bring cup, plate, fork, knife and spoon and something good to eat. We hope it will be warm and pleasant. There is lots of parking space. Go north from postoffice and take left-hand turn until you see the yellow bow.

With best wishes to all.

COSMOS.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fifth Street Property Sold

The estate of August P. and Virginia Juneau has sold through the agency of Francis D. Donohue the two tenement house 37-39 Fifth street to Rose Caron, who purchases the property as an investment.

Palace Theatre

King Vidor has immortalized the vast middle class, their hopes, triumphs, joys and tears in "The Crowd," a production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which comes to the Palace theatre, and which has been Vidor's pet idea for a motion picture ever since the filming of his "The Big Parade."

Critics who have seen "The Crowd" pronounce it to be as great in its way as the war picture. It is a slice out of every day life, great in its realism and its truth. There isn't a character in it any higher than a petty official in a large business firm, yet the scenes teem with drama, heart throbs and human interest.

JAMES MURRAY

A large cast was required to film it, including a mob of extras larger than any ever before used for any but a war picture. Scenes were built on a lavish scale, one of them being a reproduction of famous Coney Island. Other scenes, including one using Niagara Falls, were taken on the original locations.

Eleanor Boardman and James Murray head a noteworthy cast. The story was written by Director Vidor and took more than a year in making.

Breed Theatre

Showings today of First National's super-production "The Patent Leather Kid," mark the conclusion of a remarkable engagement at the Breed theatre. Today's performance will be continuous from 1.00 until 10.30 p. m.

Striking a new note in screen entertainment, "Chicago," a De Mille Studio production based on the successful stage play of the same name which will be presented at the Breed theatre for three days beginning tomorrow night, strikes a new note in picture production.

In the past this type of drama has been almost wholly confined to the stage, producers believing the success of a satirical play to be purely local, with the subject of sarcasm well known to a certain group of theatre goers. But when "Chicago" was produced as a play the nation-wide scope of the drama was self-evident, as it ridicules the dramatization of murder trials and consequently, applies to all communities alike.

Ronie Hart, the beautiful jazz slayer of the stage play, is ably interpreted by Phyllis Haver in the screen version of "Chicago" while the husband is capitally portrayed by Victor Varconi. The criminal lawyer by Robert Edeson and other prominent roles are capably portrayed by May Robson, Virginia Bradford and T. Roy Barnes. The direction by Frank Urson was exceptionally good. Through the superior direction of Cecil B. De Mille, the screen version of "Chicago" includes an emotional strength absent in the more superficial stage presentation. The picture is worth while.

Strand Theatre

Mothers, fathers, husbands, daughters and sons, as patrons of this theatre, do not forego seeing "The Fourth Commandment" which will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights at the Strand. An epic of mother love, true to life and seething with sensational situations, it will be the dramatic treat of the season. Its smashing story of everyday life is brought to the screen with a dramatic sympathy and fire that is regarded as one of the fine things of the cinema world. As Virginia, the wife and mother who falls in the test and chooses between love and luxury, Belle Bennett eclipses any of her former accomplishments. Magnificent in disaster, irresistible in happiness, Miss Bennett's performances is outstanding. A supporting cast of players including Mary Carr, Rocert Agnew, Henry Victor and June Marlowe make this picture worthy of much praise. This is a newly released picture and is shown for the very first time in this city. See it and talk about it.

In "Straight Shootin'" his latest starring vehicle, Ted Wells gives new proof of his right to be called the screen's greatest horseman. In this new type of western picture being shown at the Strand, Wells does some wonderful riding, especially when he pursues and stops an escaping bandit in a thrilling chase. Others in the cast are Buck Connors, Lillian Gilmore and Wilbur Mack.

"King of Sports" is an especially attractive color scenic.

BULLS IN STOCK MARKET FORCED DOZEN OF PRICES UP 5 TO 12 POINTS

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP) — Bull tactics had their own day in the stock market today, forcing up dozens of activities to several points of new high ground, 5 to more than 12 points, and rekindling buying centered in the high grade investment rails, public utility, industrial and specialty shares as stocks encouraged by a renewal of call money at 5 per cent, and a later drop to 4 1-2, got into action again.

There was little added in the way of definite news to influence the price movement. Predictions of excellent first quarter earnings by some of the premier industries undoubtedly had a strong bullish effect, and the unprecedented following build up by the sustained advances provided high powered ammunition for operators for the rise.

As judged by the averages, the industrial division made the best showing, 30 leading issues of that group reaching a new high level. The average of 20 leading rails, while higher, was below its previous peak total and crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the fifth time in as many days, with an aggregate of 4,579,000, the third largest in history.

Although General Motors again forged into the lead and established a new high record of 189 1-2, General Electric provided the most inspiring demonstration of strength. This issue was off at the bell, and by a series of consistent gains, climbed to 169 3-4, a new maximum price, and 12 7-8 points above yesterday's close.

While United States Steel moved within a comparatively narrow range of 3 points, some of the independents attracted heavy buying. Bethlehem closed with a new year's peak of 49 7-8, and was followed into new high ground by Ludlum, which sold at 50, a net gain of 5 1-2.

Buyers flocked to the tobacco issues, Liggett & Myers, Reynolds and American Tobacco issues ending the day at or close to their best prices of the session with advances of 4 to 9 1-2 points. Such miscellaneous issues as Otis Elevator, Electric Auto Lite, Allied Chemical and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe were prominent in the trading with gains ranging from 5 to 8 1-2. Wright Aeronautical jumped 5 points, reflecting interest in the Bremen trans-Atlantic flight.

Seasoned dividend paying issues were most conspicuous in the climb of the public utility group, although there were a few new highs among the issues of lower price. Brooklyn Edison, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas and Philadelphia Co. were popular as a result of a revival of merger reports, all attaining new peaks after gains of 6 1-2 to 10 1-2. Columbia Gas sold up more than 4 points, reaching 103 for the first time.

Eastern systems stood out among the railroads, with Lehigh Valley leading the way up and selling at 105 1-2 for the first time. Although the price fell back to 103 7-8 on profit-taking toward the close, it still had a net gain of 3 5-4 points. New York Central, which reached 182, a new top, was one of the features of the late trading.

There was a surprisingly small number of soft spots. Radio dropped nearly 2 points under yesterday's final price, but in the afternoon recovered its loss and closed at 172, up 2 points on the day. Southern Dairies A had a net loss of 2 points, but not until it had established a new high of 38 3-4.

The principal commodity markets showed only moderate changes, most of them toward higher ground. Wheat quotations advanced around 2 cents a bushel, and oats and corn were slightly higher. Small advances also were recorded in cotton and coffee, while sugar prices were practically unchanged.

The lower rates for call money were attributed to a large volume of funds pouring in from outside points. Other divisions of the money market, including time loans, bankers acceptances and commercial paper all showed a slight stiffening.

The foreign exchange market was steady, featured by a new year's high of $4.88 3-8 for sterling cables, and French francs ruled slightly higher around 3.93 9-16 cents.

WOMAN DRAGGED FROM WALK AND BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 13—Mrs. George Gilmore, of 7 Huntington street, was brutally assaulted last night as she was walking to a house, 28 Colt street of which she is caretaker. The attack occurred just before midnight. The man seized her and dragged her a distance of over 150 feet to the rear of the home of Dr. Julian D. Ely of 41 Huntington street and there inhumanly attacked her.

Mrs. Gilmore was walking slowly along the street when the man jumped from behind a bush beside the street, choked her into submission and then carred her to the place where the crime was committed. Groans from the woman finally attracted the attention of Mrs. Ely, who summoned Patrolman George Cockell and William J. Riordan. They upon arrival, found Mrs. Gilmore sitting on the running board of the Ely automobile which was parked nearby. She was in a semi-conscious condition and upon the advice given by Dr. Ely she was rushed to Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

As evidence of the extreme brutality of the attack, the woman's legs and other parts of her body were horribly bruised. Her throat also was black from the choking given her by the man who made the attack. The police have been searching all day in an effort to locate the man, but as they haven o clues their work has so far been without success. Mrs. Gilmore, who is much improved today states that the attack was sosudden that she had no opportunity of noting the appearance of the man. Neighbors of the vicinity have been closely questioned in an effort to learn if any suspicious character had been loitering around the street last night. A trail showing where the woman was seized and dragged to the rear of the Ely home was plainly visible to officers, even as late as this morning.

The boy was at play in front of his home and in running about the street was struck by the car and knocked down. It was apparent that the boy was seriously injured and he was rushed to the hospital where he was given emergency treatment.

A combined meeting of members of Union and Brainard lodges, A. F. & A. M., was held last night in the lodge rooms of the former. Most Worshipful Master Arthur N. Mrs. Verna was born in Italy but came to this country many years ago, since which time she had made her home in this city. She was widely known among the Italians residing here.

MORRIS CONNELL'S BODY DISCOVERED IN BATES WOODS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 13—The body of Morris Connell, 55, was found in Bates' woods this afternoon, Connell having fallen from rocks and sustained a fractured skull.

Connell, who was for many years employed as a worker in the gas department of the Connecticut Power company, several months ago was admitted to Hillside home. When his condition did not improve, it was decided to commit Connell to Norwich State hospital. The commitment had not been made, howevey, and last Sunday, Connell, who was not violent, was permitted to roam at will. He undoubtedly went to the wooded section in the rear of the home and then wandered to Bates' woods. He climbed the rocks and in walking along the ledge evidently lost his balance, fell over the side, and dropped about 20 feet to the rock-covered surface, landing on his head and sustaining a fractured skull from which he expired almost immediately. This afternoon when Elnathan Rowley was walking through the woods he noticed the form of a man and going to the place found that the man was dead. Mr. Rowley communicated with police headquarters and Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith was assigned to the case and went to the woods, accompanied by Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman and Martin Kane, superintendent of Hillside home, for Mr. Rowley was unable to identify the body. Superintendent Kane immediately recognized Connell as his missing charge. The body was removed to an undertaking establishment and is being held, pending its disposal by relatives. It is thought that Connell had been dead for several days. He is survived by a brother, Joseph, long employed by local hardware firms.

Joseph Syracusa, of Belden street, was in Waterford town court this afternoon, charged with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty. Judge Frederick N. Dimmock imposed a fine of $25, which Syracusa paid. Syracusa was driving a borrowed automobile on the New London-Norwich turnpike several nights ago and when about three-quarters of a mile north of the Connecticut College for Women, the machine, which contained six passengers, rounded the curve at such a fast rate of speed that Syracusa was compelled to drive to the opposite side of the highway. In doing so, he sideswiped the Humphrey automobile, a Dupont, with the result that Syracusa's car went off the highway and then overturned. All of the occupants slipped away after the accident, but Syracusa remained until State Police Officer Peter Busch arrived and he arrested Syracusa. Besides paying his fine of $25 and costs, Syracusa will be compelled to defray the expense connected with the destruction of the car.

E. W. Falconer, 80 Court street, reported to the police this afternoon that the car he was driving collided with a car which carried registration N-5928, which was parked on State street. The damage was not heavy, but Falconer will probably have to settle.

Louis Itzcowitz, 32 Squire street, was in Waterford town court this afternoon, charged with reckless driving. The court decided that there was no actual evidence of criminality and an absolute nolle was entered.

Work upon lampshades was continued, that upon which Mrs. William Shea is sewing being especially beautiful. Mrs. Sullivan proved a delightful hostess and served a delicious lunch consisting of assorted sandwiches, fancy cakes, several kinds of home made cookies and coffee. The rapidity with which these good things disappeared showed the club's appreciation of Mrs. Sullivan's ability as a cooky maker. Programs in regard to the annual banquet which is to take place in the near future were reported by the chairman, Miss Carroll. The class voted the meeting an another very happy evening in the series it has enjoyed this past winter. A number of beautiful flowers were made during the afternoon and at the close of the meeting the ladies were invited to the dining room, where a bountiful luncheon was served by the hostess. The dining table was resplendent in its decorations pertaining to Easter and the color scheme was yellow and white. FIRE OPENING GUN IN CAMPAIGN OF Y. M. C. A. FOR $10,000 BUDGET

There was plenty of interest and enthusiasm Friday evening at the opening meeting of the annual campaign for the current expenses of the Young Men's Christian association for which a budget of $10,000 is set this year. A large number of the workers were present.

Judge Allyn L. Brown, the campaign manager, was in charge and presided in his usual efficient manner. Livelyand enjoyable music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra including John M. Swahn, Joseph S. Adams and Henry Ladd.

President Herbert B. Cary asked the blessing and the women of the Central Baptist church furnished and served a most appetising supper. The meeting delegated W. S. Williams to express hearty thanks to them for their kindness. Folowing are those who served: Mrs. Willis F. Hill, Mrs. A. F. Wyman, Mrs. William H. Covey, Miss Belle Rathbone and Miss Ruby Vaughn.

After supper the campaign manager, Judge Brown, made some very timely opening remarks stressing the great importance of getting immediately into the game as the time (one day) was very short.

Harry Hedley Smith, the Y. M. C. A. state secretary, was introduced and enthused the men as he told of the wonderful adaptation of the Y. M. C. A. to al kinds of men, and in many cases women also. He complimented the Norwich "Y" on its splendid record and its fine company of workers. He was given hearty applause.

President Herbert B. Cary by request spoke briefly but very much to the point. He thanked the faithful men, the campaign manager and all concerned in the campaign, and expressed confidence in the outcome of the drive.

James L. Case, made specially appropriate remarks.

General Secretary Edwin Hill and Emery Davis each made brief remarks, stressing the importance of sticking to the job from the first to the last moment. L. M. Crandall acted as song leader and the men responded finely.

The campaigners will ask the friends of the association to give as liberally as possible, and to increase their gifts as they are able, as the expenses this year will be increased over the past year.

Following is the campaign organization:

NORWICH TOWN

G. O. A. L. CLASS SUPPER PROVES HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

From the unusually large gathering Frdiay evening at 6:30, in the Norwich Town Congregational chapel, when the G. O. A. L. class of the Sunday school, gave its first supper, it was evident that this class of energetic young men, taught by Clyde M. Beebe had reached the goal the members sought to attain. Members of the class are Reginald Aavry, Crosby Peck, Luther Whaley, Henry Counterman, Carl, Ernest and Oliver Nylen and John Carter. The class organized recently to work in every way possible to aid this parish in its numerous worthy causes, selecting the letters G. O. A. L. as its title. Tables for the supper Friday evening were arranged in the auditorium also the ladies' parlor, the committee in charge having planned to serve two hundred. Following was the tempting menu: Chicken patties, mashed potato, mashed turnip rolls, celery, cranberry sauce, cake and coffee.

The young women who assisted the class as waitresses were: Misses Rose Durr, Lucile Browning, Eleanor Smith, Margaret Connolly, Eleanor Moore and Ruth Hyde. The mothers of several of the young men assumed the greater share of the responsibilities and served as helpers in the kitchen. Among them were, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Mrs. George A. Peck, Mrs. Philip B. Whaley, Mrs. C. H. Nylen, Mrs. Richard Carter also Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, wife of the class teacher.

Eight members of the W. I. T's, an organized class of the First Congregational Sunday school, spent a most enjoyable evening recently at the home of the president, George Durr, of the New London road. After the devotional period and a brief time given over to business, about nine o'clock, the company of young men and their teacher, sat down to a delicious supper of cold meats, salads, sandwiches, wafers, cake, coffee and ice cream. The favors at each plate, were dainty May baskets filled with candy. Misses Esther and Rose Durr, sisters of the host, served. Later in the evening games and radio music provided entertainment. Miss Jessie E. Hyde is teacher of the class.

At the Junior C. E. meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Congregational chapel, at 4 o'clock, several children from the Methodist church united in the service, which was under the direction of Miss Florence M. Bennett and Miss Jessie E. Hyde. The leaders were Arthur Belden Bennett, from the Methodist church and Bruce Ladd, of the Congregational society. The prelude was by Miss Virginia Ward, while Miss Doris Estelle Rose accompanied for the singing. The juniors recited the First Psalm in unison, and following prayer by Mrs. Carl Holdridge of Ledyard, chairman of the junior committee of Norwich C. E. union, several of the children offered brief individual prayers. The principal speaker was Russell Blair of Massachusetts, who for a period of three weeks is doing C. E. field work throughout Connecticut. Mr. Blair, spoke interestingly of junior societies, also told a story to illustrate that service to others, is a more acceptable gift than anything we can give "Our King, the Heavenly Father."

Among those from Norwich Town, who attended the meeting of Norwich C. E. union, also attended the banquet which preceded the meeting Wednesday evening at Hanover Congregational church were—From the Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Reginald Avery, George F. Hyde, Carl Nylen, Ted Moore, Henry Counterman and Mr. Smith of Saratoga Springs, who was the guest of Norwich Town relatives. The young women from this parish were Misses Elizabeth Avery, Eleanor Smith, Eleanor Moore, Grace Wheeler, Rose Durr, Lucile Browning, Ruth Hyde and Jessie Hyde. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Aldrich and Miss Effie Ladd, president of the C. E. society of the Methodist church, represented that parish.

Mrs. Grace Whittemore and daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Fi London, of Hudson, Mass., who were called to Norwich Town a week ago Friday, by the death of Mrs. Whittemore's cousin, Mrs. Sarah J. Moffitt, returned home Monday. During their stay in town, Mrs. Whittemore and Mrs. Fi London, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Underwood of Peck's Corner. Of interest to her Norwich Town friends, is the fact Mrs. Fi London was classmate at Smith college, of Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, wife of President Calvin Coolidge.

At the coming recital of Organist R. Huntington Woodman, who has an international reputation as organist, he will be assisted by Henry J. La Fontaine promising young baritone of Norwich. This will be Mr. La Fontaine's first public appearance since he rang in Slater hall about a year ago. Among other numbers he is to sing from the oratori "Elijah."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook and two sons, moved recently from West Town street, Norwich Town, to a location on the East Side.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen S. Smith, have reached their home on Washington street, following several months' stay at their winter home in Eustis, Florida.

Special Sunday Music

At the Central Baptist church on Sunday morning some of the beautiful Easter music in addition to that rendered last Sunday by the choir will be given. This will include the prelude "Easter Morning" by Malling and "The Heavens Are Telling" from "The Creation" by Hadyn as postlude, "Hosanna" by Gracmer and "Victory" by Shelley will be sung by the choir. "The Meaning of Easter" will be the pastor's theme.

GROTON AIR FIELD TO PROVIDE FOUR RUNWAYS

Work on the grading of four runways on the land at Poquonoc Plains, where the state recently took an option from the Plant estate for the development of the site into an airport has started and is expected to be completed within a few weeks so that the field will be ready for use by the Connecticut National Guard air squadron this summer.

The four runways will each be from 2,500 to 3,500 feet long and each will be in a different direction so that it will be possible to take-off from the field regardless of the direction of the wind.

Gen. Morris B. Payne, who recently examined the field, stated that the grading will be a comparatively simple task in that practically all that needs to be done is to eliminate any rough spots.

Other work, such as clearing the property of fences and stones was started last week and is well near completion.

WOMAN IS INSTANTLY KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE ON ROAD TO MOOSUP

(Special to The Bulletin)

CENTRAL VILLAGE, April 13—Mrs. Rose Sullivan, about 60 years of age, was instantly killed just before 8 o'clock tonight on the highway between Moosup and Central Village and just near the houses leading on the highway out of Central Village, when she was struck by a Hudson coach driven by Carl Sandberg of 60 Tour avenue, Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Sullivan was walking along the highway as two cars carrying musicians, who were bound from the greater Boston district to the community house at Plainfield to play for a dance were heading east into Central Village. Another car at the time was heading out of Central toward Moosup. The first of the pair of cars carrying the members of the orchestra barely missed hitting Mrs. Sullivan and the Sandberg car blinded by the light by the car coming toward them did not see her before she was struck and killed.

The body was taken in charge by Tillinghast and Sons of Central Village. Sandberg said that that he knew nothing about the presence of the woman walking along the shoulders of the road until he felt a thud against the front of his machine and stopped immediately, as did also the car ahead of them with his fellow musicians, they sensing the fact that the Sandberg car might hit the woman. Riding with Sandberg were Richard A. Goodale of Dorchester, Russell Bentley of Boston and Albert Dorr of Everett. The men were not held responsible for the accident, which was regarded unavoidable and which was checked up by State Officer R. V. Scranton of the Danielson barracks. Coroner Arthur G Bill have arranged tonight to hold an inquest of the case at Central Village Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Medical Examiner W. W. Adams of Moosup viewed the body of Mrs. Sullivan and gave permission for its removal.

FLAMES SWEEPING THROUGH RHODE ISL. HOTEL, WESTERLY

On Dixon Square in Business Center—Norwich Chief and Engine Respond To Call For Help—Pleasant View and Watch Hill Apparatus at Work—Help Also Asked From Wakefield, Stonington, Mystic and New London.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 16—(Monday)—Fire, threatening the Rhode Island hotel with destruction, was discovered shortly after midnight in Room No. 69, which is on the third floor in the ell about opposite to the entrance to the Rhode Island garage. Capt. S. T. Webster of Narragansett, R. I., captain of the steamer Lake Farmer, running to Porto Rico and Buenos Aires, occupant of Room 71, was awakened by smoke and gave the alarm. Night Clerk Gordon Cottrell thought there was an occupant of Room 69, where the blaze started but Capt. Webster declared that he had entered the room and pulled bedclothes from a bed that had been occupied.

Four rounds of fire alarm number 56, Dixon square, brought all available fire fighting apparatus of the Westerly and Pawcatuck fire departments. Pumpers were stationed at hydrants on Broad street and three lines of hose taken into the alleyway leading to the rear of the hotel. Another line was taken up the front entrance and carried up the stairways from the third floor to fight the fire from the interior. Ladders were placed to the roof of the Rhode Island garage and more hose lines from Union street on the other side.

At 2:15 fire had broken through the floors both above and below the rooms in which the fire started and flames leaped out the window into the alleyway.

Howard D. McFarland, a fireman, had his toe broken when a truck of the U. S. Barber Hose Co., backed into him. He was taken in charge by members of the Westerly Sanitary Corps and treated by Dr. John Helfrich.

The Rhode Island, formerly the Dixon house, is a five story brick building on Broad street owned dby Mrs. Harry Williams and Mrs. Walter S. Price. The manager is Ray K. Littlefield.

At 1:45 flames broke through the roof and were beyond control. They threatened the First Baptist church adjoining to the eastward and also the Welch Block adjoining at the corner of Union and Broad streets. All policemen were called on duty and also all the fire police.

About this time the Pleasant View and Watch Hill pumpers were at work and help was asked from Wakefield, Norwich, Stonington, Mystic and New London.

James Smith, of Floral Park, L. I., who had been occupying Room 69, said he had retired at 9 o'clock and had been awakened by flames coming through the wall. Police Chief Brown had Smith taken to police headquarters for examination by Dr. M. H. Scanlon.

At 2.50 the hotel was an entire loss. The loss will be between $150,000 to $200,000. The First Baptist church was expected to go. The firemen were devoting their attention to the church and other buildings.

Norwich Sends Help

At 1:30 o'clock the Westerly fire department called the Norwich fire department for help. Chief Howard L. Stanton ordered Engine No. 1 to the scene and went to Westerly himself. Engine No. 1 left the Central station at 1:42 o'clock and the chief followed a minute or two later.

ANDREW JACKSON STATUE ACCEPTED BY PRES. COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—The bronze figure of Andrew Jackson was accepted today by President Coolidge, in behalf of the nation, to join the statuary circle of bronze and stone denizens of the great which stands under the dome of the Capitol.

Representing the statue of "Old Hickory" from the state of Tennessee as a contribution to Statuary hall, Mr. Coolidge paid tribute to Jackson as one who exemplified the unlimited opportunities offered to men, regardless of crushing handicaps.

History accords to Jackson "one of the high positions among the great leaders of our country," Mr. Coolidge said. "He gave to the Union a loyalty through nationalistic strength which was decisive for years. His management of our foreign affairs was such as to secure wholesome respect for our government and the rights of our citizens. He left the treasury without obligation and with a surplus.

"Coming up from the people, he demonstrated that there is sufficient intelligence in self-government to solve the important public questions and to rise to a perplexing crisis. Like a true pioneer, he broke through the restraints and impediments into which he was born, and leaving behind the provincialisms and prejudices of his day, pushed out toward a larger freedom and a sounder government, carrying the country with him."

The president sketched Jackson's personal young manhood, and the period of his service in congress and as president, speaking of his high and resolute temper, his disregard of obstacles, and his notable military exploits.

He stressed the point that Jackson nevertheless insisted upon the "supremacy of the law." Jackson, he said, held the first duty of the citizen to be "obedience to the laws, even when we think them unjustly applied." The seventh president, he added, "believed that at all time and in all places the duly constituted authority of law should be supreme."

In speaking of the pioneer spirit of the early settlers, President Coolidge said, the frontier long since has disappeared, the opportunity for exploitation into infrequented land is gone, we seek no additional territory, but the ambition to enter uncharted regions of industry, of enterprise, of social relations and of thought continues with increasing fervor.

"We would miss much of the significance and meaning of the history of the United States unless we took into account this outstanding quality," he said. "Our whole outlook has been greatly influenced by it. It is the complete antithesis of all systems of class and caste. The people who came here were seeking freedom of action and freedom of mind. The great revelation of our country has been that men are not born to servitude and obscurity. They are born to all the possibilities of a glorious destiny which can be won by their own achieving."

President Coolidge also praised Jackson's affection for his wife, Rachael, in whose benign presence he said the turbulent warrior was all submissive.

"Yet at times he was high tempered and over-bearing," he said, "there is no fairer story of chivalrous devotion and affectionate consideration than that which he lavished upon his wife."

The statue is in bronze and is about seven feet high. It shows Jackson in a standing attitude in the battle with the British at New Orleans. It is mounted on a marble pedestal two feet high.

TESTIMONY FOR SINCLAIR WILL BE GIVEN TODAY

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—For the first time since congress evinced interest in the Teapot Dome oil lease, Harry F. Sinclair tomorrow will begin to unfold his side of the deal when his witnesses lay before the jury trying his case for conspiracy testimony he hopes will show he committed no unlawful act in securing the naval reserve.

The government charged that Sinclair was given the lease by former secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in exchange for $272,000 in Liberty bonds. The indictment alleges that Sinclair and Fall "and other persons unknown to the grand jury" conspired to defraud the government.

40 PERSONS KILLED WHEN EXPLOSION WRECKED GARAGE

WEST PLAINS, Mo., April 15.—(AP)—An hour after his funeral this afternoon, the body of J. W. Welser, proprietor of the garage in which an explosion Friday night killed 40 persons, was ordered exhumed for an examination to determine whether burns on his face were caused by fire or acid.

Prosecuting Attorney H. D. Green, Jr., in issuing the order to Coroner Tom Burns, said doctors had told him they believed the burns were caused by acid.

Prosecutor Green said he was not entirely convinced the explosion in the garage, which wrecked the building while a dance was in progress on the second floor, was caused by gasoline fumes. He said he would recommend an appropriation by the county to bring experts on explosives here to examine the ruins.

The coroner's inquest will be resumed tomorrow Green announced one of the witnesses summoned is a man who said he noticed a sputtering blaze in the garage five minutes before the explosion.

Welser was not accustomed to visiting his garage at night. A. E. Sieberling, night chief of police, who walks a beat past the place, said he had seen Welser at the garage only once at night. The explosion occurred after 11 p. m.

Although in the habit of eating dinner at home, Welser left at 4 p. m., Green said he had learned. Members of his family said he did not tell them where he was going. He was 47 years old and is survived by his widow, a daughter and three sons.

Another body, taken from the ruins today, brought the total dead to 39 or 40. There was some doubt whether a few bones recovered were of a distinct body or parts of other bodies previously uncovered.

Three more bodies were identified today, which lowered the number of unidentified bodies to 16. The names of 14 persons believed to have been killed in the explosion are known but the bodies are so badly burned and mutilated there is no hope of establishing identity of some of them.

Meanwhile, this little Ozary city today paid final homage to three of the victims caught when three explosion which is still unexplained, turned laughter and dancing into screams of death. Tomorrow, still other funerals are planned, and on Tuesday the unidentified dead yill be buried.

SNOWSTORM IN BERLIN PREVENTED AERIAL PARADE

BERLIN, April 15.—(AP)—A snowstorm blown by strong easterly winds today prevented the aerial parade in honor of the birthday of Captain Hermann Koehl but Lufthansa christened its largest and most modern plane the "Hermann Koehl" in compliment to the natial anniversary of the pilot of the Bremen. Authorities forbade the aerial parade as too dangerous.

Hans Von Huenefeld, brother of the backer of the Bremen flight, received a radio message from the baron at Amour Point which read:

"Made successful intermediate landing on other side. Cordial greetings. (Signed) Gunther."

Word came from Bremen today that Von Huenefeld was enabled to acquire the plane which he named after that city through financial assistance by Bremen bankers and industrialists including August Strube, director of the Bremen branch of the Darmstadt National bank, and G. C. Lahusen, a leading textile manufacturer.

Among scores of congratulations sent to Von Huenefeld was this from the National German Officers' league:

"It fills us with grateful pride that the spirit of German officers conquered the ocean and revived respect for the sacred colors of black, white and red in far-away parts of the world."

Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of the republic, in a political speech at Leipzig, referred to the flight as "a success for Germany's foreign policy, since at first the building of planes of a type suitable for trans-Atlantic oceanic flying had been forbidden to us."

FIVE ALLEGED GUNMEN ARE HELD IN GREENWICH

GREENWICH, April 15—(AP)—Five men, believed by the police to be New York city gunmen, are held here following their capture when Motorcycle Policeman Frank O'Connor wounded the driver of a stolen automobile in which they tried to escape.

As the five men were passing through Greenwich, Officer O'Connor saw the rear license plate was missing from the machine. When he signaled for a stop, the car speeded away. O'Connor followed and fired a shot into a rear tire of the escaping car. This failed to check the men and the officer's second shot pierced the rear of the car and struck Petazzansi in the right arm. He lost control and crashed into another machine driven by George Salara, of 23 Davenport street, Stamford.

The five men ran across the fields with O'Connor in pursuit. Nearby residents, hearing the firing, telephoned to police headquarters and four men were sent to aid O'Connor. Four of the prisoners were immediately rounded up but it was several hours before the wounded man was found in a field, weak from loss of blood.

Steven Liskiev, of Stamford, who was riding in Salara's car, was sent to the Greenwich hospital suffering from cuts and bruises received in the crash.

NEW BEDFORD STRIKE WILL AFFECTS SOME 30,000 OPERATIVES

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 15.—(AP)—The strike in the New Bedford mills tomorrow morning is expected to affect at least 30,000 operatives.

Strike has been declared against 27 mill corporations of the city, 26 where notices of a 10 per cent. reduction have been posted, and one where a recent cut fas made a abounting to between 16 and 45 per cent., according to the officials of the New Bedford textile council.

It is expected that the 8,000 union operatives will remain away from their spindles and looms, and that a much larger proportion of non-union operatives will follow suit. This has been the case in all strikes of a general nature in the past, and union officials do not look for any difference of attitude of the non-union operatives in the present situation. They declare that they expect a 100 per cent. walkout in the morning.

A last minute effort to prevent the strike by the merchants of the city who met the members of the manufacturers' association and induced them to agree to a week's postponement of the cut failed, because the members of the New Bedford textile council when the proposition to postpone the strike a week was put up to them by Mayor Ashley stated that they could not legally postpone the strike without notifying each union and getting its consent, and there was not time to do this.

The employes in the 26 mills number 26,939.

Eight corporations with 13 mills will not be on strike and their employes number 9,000.

COLD WAVE ABATING IN THE MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—Winter began to relax its grop on the middle west today. The cold remained but the skies were clear and slowly rising temperatures were in the offing.

Around Duluth and the upper lake region, spring still lagged far behind with the temperature hovering around 28 above zero and a heavy wet snow still falling. St. Paul and Minneapolis and surrounding country reported more mild temperatures with only a light snow and at Milwaukee the mercury had climbed above the freezing point and stood at 34 with no rain nor snow since Friday.

At Lincoln, Neb., the day was clear but somewhat cold at 34 degrees. The mercury was up to 40 at Des Moines, Iowa, and the day was nice.

Illinois experienced a severe frost during the night and several districts reported it was killing. At Galesburg it was reported the temperature dropped to nearly 20 above.

Chicago experienced an ideal day with clear skies and a warming sun although the thermometers stood around 40.

Back Bay Station Destroyed By Fire

Loss is Estimated at $500,000—Six Fire Companies Were Taken to City by Special.

BOSTON, April 15—(AP)—The Back Bay station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was destroyed by fire today, with a loss estimated at $500,000.

The fire was discovered at 8 a. m., and within half an hour had spread through the whole interior of the structure despite the efforts of the fire department to check it. Five alarms sounded in quick succession, brought all available fire apparatus in the city to the scene, and the firemen were hard pressed to prevent the flames from spreading to surrounding property.

Six firemen were taken to the City hospital after they had been overcome by smoke or injured by falling debris and a score of others narrowly escaped death when the roof of the station collapsed. While fighting the flames the firemen were constantly endangered by crumbling ruins and one fire truck, engine 22, was partly buried when the roof fell in. The crew retreated just in time to escape being crushed in the twisted mass of steel and masonry.

Train service over both the New Haven and the Boston and Albany lines were disrupted by ruins which blocked the tracks, preventing traffic into or out of the south terminal. The Back Bay station was built in 1899 at a cost of $500,000. It was a two-story structure of Indiana lime stone.

BRITISH SCHOONER HAS MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED

BOSTON, April 15—(AP)—The fate of the British schooner Nova Queen and her crew of seven was a mystery today. After a three day search coast guard craft which had covered a wide area had found no trace of the schooner, which was sighted by the fishing schooner Elsie last Thursday, 65 miles east-southeast of Thatcher's Island, water-logged and in need of assistance.

The Nova Queen was bound from Parrsboro, N. C., to New York with a cargo of spruce laths. She was caught in a gale Wednesday night and when the Elsie sighted her, the crew were huddled on the after cabin house to escape the water which had driven them from their quarters. The crew refused to abandon the schooner, but asked the Elsie to ask the coast guard to send a craft to tow her to port.

The cutter Morrill searched the area in which the Nova Queen was reported Friday, but found no trace of her. When the Morrill was obliged to return for water, the search was undertaken by the Jackson, Tuscarora and Jouett, and they also could not find her. The Tuscarora, Jackson and Paunce were continuing the search today, but in a wireless message to coast guard headquarters reported that it was fruitless.

The Nova Queen, a three-masted schooner, sailed from Parrsboro April 6. She was commanded by Captain Joseph Merriam and the members of the crew were from Nova Scotia. The schooner was built at Advocate, N. S., in 1919.

WOONSOCKET WOMAN SHOT HUSBAND; THEN HERSELF

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Grover Vleveland Vacher, mother of two small children, this afternoon, shot and probably fatally wounded her husband and then killed herself during a quarrel in their home. Vacher, who was reported as dying in the Woonsocket hospital tonight, assigned jealously of another woman as his wife's motive for the act.

Police believe that Mrs. Vacher had planned the shooting because of the fact that she recently confided such a desire to a woman friend and that she sent her oldest child, a lxa year old girl, to the home of a relative today. Another daughter, three years old, was in the house at the time.

Steamer Aground in The Cape Cod Canal

The 400 Passengers Have Been Taken Off the New York—Refloated Last Night

SAGAMORE, Mass., April 15—(AP)—The steamer New York of the Eastern Steamship company, which went aground in the Cape Cod canal near the Sagamore bridge while bound from Boston to New York last night, was still hard and fast on the sand today.

The 400 passengers were taken off this morning after three tugs had tried in vain to float the steamer at high tide. The passengers, who were in no danger, were removed from the steamer in the tugboats and in two boats from the Sandwich coast guard station and were landed at the Sagamore wharf, less than half a mile from the stranded vessel. A fleet of motor buses was waiting to transport them to Boston and Providence, R. I. Most of them went to the latter city to continue their trip to New York by train.

The tugs were standing by until high water tonight, when another attempt to float the steamer will be made. The bow of the steamer was resting in the sand on the westerly side of the canal, almost within reach of the bank, with the stern extending diagonally across the stream. The crew remained on board. The steamer listed heavily to port at low tide, but was apparently undamaged.

Officials of the steamship company attributed the grounding to a strong southeast gale combined with a powerful head tide which swept the steamer off her course and into shallow water.

The mishap was the second that has befallen the Eastern Steamship vessels plying from Boston to New York within little more than a month. The steamer Robert E. Lee is now on Mary Ann rocks off Manomet Point.

She struck during a blinding snowstorm on the night of March 9.

STEAMER WAS REFLOATED APPARENTLY UNDAMAGED

SAGAMORE, Mass., April 15—(AP)—Five hours after her 491 passengers had been put ashore safely today, the steamer New York, of the Eastern Steamship company, was re-oated in the Cape Cod canal where she grounded last night near the Sagamore bridge while bound from Boston to New York.

The New York returned to Boston, apparently undamaged and will make her regular sailing tomorrow. Thousands of spectators lined the canal and cheered as two tugs hauled the steamer into deep water.

A small sloop, which endeavored to pass the stranded steamer during the night, also grounded but was re-floated by the tugs. The canal, which is now toll free, was blocked for 18 hours by the mishap to the New York and officials estimated that 75 to 100 vessels probably were delayed or re-routed around Cape Cod until the water way was cleared.

PROHIBITION THE MOST VITAL POLITICAL ISSUE

PORTLAND, Me., April 15—(AP)—"Prohibition is the most vital issue of this political campaign notwithstanding Senator Reed's foolish and hypocritical effort to scowl it down," declared Rev. R. V. Johnson, field secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, in an address here tonight before the Maine conference of the church.

"Since the people function directly and solely through political parties, we must fight the enemy now attacking the constitution at the ballot box. It is absolutely necessary that the temperance forces of this country are united to see that no man, be he democrat or republican, Catholic or Protestant, shall go to the white house if he is wet," he said.

FLIER WAS UNABLE TO TAKE OFF FROM AIRPORT

CONCORD, N. H., April 15.—(AP)—Robert S. Fogg, commercial aviator who carried mail into flood stricken Vermont last fall and winter, made three unsuccessful efforts to take-off from the airport here today with newsreel cameramen bound for Greenly Island.

Head winds, heavy photographic material and skis strapped to the side of the plane prevented the tak-off. Fogg left out his mechanic, Caleb Marston, on his second attempt to get off the ground and dropped his skis and other material he could spare on the third attempt. The plane took the air but could not gain enough altitude to suit the pilot. He will make another attempt tomorrow morning, planning to make the trip in two hops.

THREE OF FAMILY WERE KILLED AT A GRADE CROSSING IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 15—While returning to their home, 24 Maple avenue shortly after 6 o'clock this evening, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Billingly, each 47, were instantly killed and their nephew, Ernest Clark, about 13, son of Everett J. Clark, 29 School street, Rockville, suffered a like fate when the automobile was struck by a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad locomotive at the Maple avenue crossing. Billings suffered a fractured neck and fractured pelvic bone. Mrs. Billings received a fractured skull and a fractured pelvic bone and the youth sustained a fractured pelvic bone. Two other occupants of the automobile, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Russell, of the same address, and son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billings, escaped serious injury. Russell sustained a fractured leg and is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital. Mrs. Russell recently removed from Rockville to New London and the boy came to this city a few days ago to visit his uncle and aunt.

The two families and the boy went for an automobile ride late this afternoon and were on their way to the Maple avenue house when the fatality occurred. The auto was driven by Russell and passing through Pequot avenue, the turn was made into Maple avenue where a short, but steep grade exists and over which the railroad tracks pass. Russell drove the auto in second speed and as it reached the railroad tracks, one of the largest types of locomotives of the railroad and running light to New Haven was about to pass over the crossing. Russell evidently did not observe the approaching locomotive for he continued to drive to the tracks where the locomotive struck the auto on the right side and about two feet from the rear. The automobile was struck with such force as to be turned around and with its occupants all imprisoned in it. Before the locomotive could be stopped the automobile was dragged a considerable distance. When the engine crew reached the wrecked auto, Mr. and Mrs. Billings and the Clark youth were dead. The hospital ambulance was summoned and Russell, accompanied by his wife, was taken to the institution. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was notified of the triple fatality and after viewing the remains and ascertaining the facts of the accident, ordered the bodies removed to an undertaking establishment.

Billings was employed by Francis Ailanach, local contracting carpenter.

The father of the Clark youth was notified of the death of his son by the New London police and is tonight on his way to this city.

The locomotive was in charge of Engineer J. J. McCrorey, 132 Lombard street, New Haven; Fireman S. E. Toxell, 47 Ward street, New Haven and Flagman A. M. Kutska, 337 Eighth street, South Boston.

JUNKERS AVIATORS ARE MAROONED BY WEATHER

Bad Weather Has Baffled the Attempts of Two Canadian Planes to Reach Ice-Bound Greenly Island, Where the Airmen Were Forced to Land Friday After a Flight From Dublin—A Canadian Government Steamer Has Progressed to Within 75 Miles of the Island—Couriers Traveling by Dog Teams Furnish the Only Means of Communication.

(By the Associated Press)

Tiny, ice-locked Greenly Island in the Straits of Belle Isle, between Newfoundland and Labrador, has clung to its prisoners the crew of the German Junkers monoplane Bremen another day and defied the efforts of the outside world to rescue them.

Bad weather baffled the attempts of two Canadian planes yesterday to reach the ice-bound island where the three trans-Atlantic fliers—Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenefeld, Captain Hermann Koehl and Capt. James Fitzmaurice—were forced to land their plane Friday after a flight from Dublin.

Another Canadian plane piloted by Dr. Louis Cuisiner, took off from Murray bay in mid-afternoon in an attempt to reach the island.

The Canadian government steamer Montcalm meanwhile was plowing along through ice-choked waters and reported that she had progressed to within 75 miles of the island. Officers were confident that the Montcalm would get through, but the rate of progress was expected to be very slow and the ship could not reach the fliers before today.

Couriers traveling by dog team furnished the only means of communication from Blanc Sablon, the mainland outpost neares tGreenly Island, after the breakdown of the telegraph line between Point Amour and Blanc Sablon.

In response to a radio message from Baron Von Huenefeld the Junkers and North German Lloyd line at New York decided to send a mechanic by train to Quebec with a new propeller and equipment for repairing the damaged landing gear of the Bremen, the mechanic will wait at Quebec for definite instructions from the Bremen's crew.

Ottawa reported that advices received there indicated the German fliers and their Irish companion would not try to attempt to continue their flight to New York. The lighthouse keeper at Greenly is making it as comfortable as he can for the first men to make a non-stop westward airplane flight across the Atlantic.

DOG TEAMS THE ONLY MEANS OF COMMUNICATION

HALIFAX, N. S., April 15—(AP)—Dog teams traveling a 25 mile trail today furnished the only means of communicating with Lourdes de Blanc Sablon, the point nearest Greenly Island where the German monoplane Bremen is stranded, the Postal Teelgraph company here was advised.

A breakdown of the telegraph line from Lourdes de Blanc Sablon to Point Amour wireless station, left Blanc Sablon without means of communicating to the outside world except by couriers using dog teams, a message from Point Amour said. The telegraph line apparently went out of commission yesterday.

Reports by wireless from Captain Mercier on the government steamer Montcalm proceeding to Greenly Island, advised the local superintendent of government wireless services that closely-packed ice impeded the vessel's progress. He estimated the Montcalm 75 miles from Greenly Island, would arrive there tomorrow morning.

TAKING REPAIR PARTS TO STRANDED JUNKERS

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—An airplane mechanic, taking a new propeller and equipment for repairing the landing gear of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen, stranded on Greenly Island, was dispatched to Quebec today by Junkers representatives here.

Spurred by a radio message from Baron Gunther Von Huenfeld, on Greenly Island, to Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the plane manufacturer, officials of the Jugkrs and North German Lloyd line at a conference today decided to send the mechanic to Quebec where he will await further news from the iers. The message asked that a new propeller and other equipment be sent as soon as possible.

Heinrich Segal, general manager of the North German Lloyd company, announced at the close of the conference that the means of forwarding the equipment from Quebec to Greenly Island would be decided upon later.

"At the conference it was decided to have a mechanic at a point in Canada where he would be accessible to the fliers as soon as we are able to establish contact with them," Segal said.

The message from the fliers also asked why no answers to their previous messages had been received and Segal said he believed that Von Huenefeld and the two pilots Captain Herman Koehl and Commander James Fitzmaurice sent out messages, by dog teams, which were either lost or delayed in the blizzard reported raging there.

Segal said he had sent word to his main office in Bremen, Germany, that no further messages of information and plans had been received and warned them to place no credence in reports that the fliers were preparing to hop-off again.

He also reported that the North German Lloyd line had picked up a Western Union cable to the effect that Duke Schiller, aviator who took off in an effort to reach Greenly Island, Saturday, had landed safely when forced down by a blizzard, on the shores of the Bay of St. Lawrence.

The mechanic, on his way by train to Quebec, will take his equipment to the Quebec flying field, and await orders, he will be instructed later whether to use an airplane or other means or transportation in getting the material to Greenly Island, Segal said.

TO CARRY PHOTOGRAPHERS TO GREENLY ISLAND

HARTFORD, April 15—(AP)—Two airplanes carrying newspaper photographers will take off from Brainard field early tomorrow morning for Greenly Island, Labrador.

One plane will be piloted by Lieut. Carl A. Dixon, with Sergeant Charles Arnold as mechanic. Both are from Hartford. The other will be in charge of Lieut. Crocker Snow, of Boston and Nels Nelson, mechanc, of New Britain.

The aviators plan to fly over the Island and, if possible to land near the stranded trans-Atlantic plane Bremen. Meanwhile, if conditions permit, their passenzers will make photographs of the island and the plane.

The aviators said tonight that they probably will hop off at 3 a. m. and go as far as Portland, Me., where they will recharge their fuel tanks. Their halt will be a short one and they will continue their journey to a point in Newfoundland, where they will again refuel and continue to the island.

POLE-BOUND DIRIGIBLE RAN INTO ROUGH WEATHER

BERLIN, April 15—(AP)—A thrilling battle against the elements was fought tonight by the dirigible Italia, bearing General Umberto Nobile's Polar expedition on the first leg of their journey from Milan, Italy, to Stolp, Germany.

The Italian explorer started out against the advice of German weather observers and for the first few hours of the trip made good time. Soon, however, the airship ran into head winds and electric storms which reduced her speed to about 25 miles an hour. Instead of reaching Stolp this evening, as General Nobile had hoped, the big ship will do well to reach her hangar in Germany by 9 a. m., Monday.

The troubles began soon after the Italia had passed over the Czechoslovakian city of Brunn at 3:15 p. m. From that point she headed north.

At 8 p. m., she was sighted over Gleiwitz, 300 miles from her destination.

Next the dirigible was caught in a series of violent thunderstorms. The navigators lost their bearings and apparently drifted westward toward the mountainous Glatz region. General Nobile sent a radio message to the Lindenberg observatory near Berlin, asking whether he had better make an intermediate landing or return to Milan and await better weather.

The observatory advised that he try to get across the river Oder where meteorological conditions were more favorable. The general did this and reappeared over Gleiwitz about 11 p. m. His rocket signals at that time were understood to mean that he wished to land, but after maneuvering for half an hour over the Gleiwitz flying field, General Nobile signalled he had found his bearings again and would continue the flight.

Two and a half hours later the Italia was over Breslau, 70 miles from Gleiwitz, her speed thus was again approaching 25 miles an hour.

The Italia is now believed to have cleared the bad weather zone. If she keeps up her present gait, she will be over Stolp about 9 a. m. (3 a. m., astern standard time).

WOMAN FELL OR LEAPED FROM TWELFTH FLOOR

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Mrs. Lorna V. Bowen, 28, daughter of Hiram Royal Mallinson, millionaire silk manufacturer, either fell or leaped early today from her parents' apartment on the 12th floor of a fashionable Park avenue apartment building. She was dead when found.

Her body, clad only in a green night dress and green and brocade dressing gown, was found in the drive which encircles the sunken Italian gardens in the inner court of the apartment building. A resident of the apartment found the body and notified the doorman who called police.

Mrs. Bowen, wife of a stock salesman employed by a firm of Wall street brokers, with her infant daughter, the child's nurse and the Mallinson servants, were the only occupants of the apartment Saturday night, police said.

A statement issued by Albert H. Watson, secretary to Mrs. Bowen's father, said death was accidental. Mrs. Bowen, the statement said, arose early today to heat milk for her child, who has been ill, and slipped and fell over the low ledge of the pantry window when she raised the sash to get some air.

She had been in the best of spirits Saturday night and had gone to her father's home a few days ago, preparatory to joining her family in a visit to her sister, Mrs. Young Kaufman, at Syosset, L. I., today, the statement said, planning to return to her home at Washington square Monday.

At the Golden Rod club, the big seven-tube radio set was worked by Elmo Cote, where 75 crowded the room to get word about the flyers, staying there until 8 o'clock, and went home without good news. The betting was ten to one on East Main street they would make it. Several reports that the plane went over Westerly were heard.

Sam was down cellar getting a pail of coal and, returning, found the kitchen full of smoke and saw the paper burning; also the curtain afire. His quick work put out the blaze. Not much damage, only he had to go to bed. No paper to read is like missing your breakfast. The 13th was unlucky to him and he said he knew something on Friday would happen and with no more Fridays, the 13th, this year my luck will change.

DANIELSON

FISHERMEN REPORT GOOD OPENING DAY CATCHES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 15—Out of the darkness and the grayness of this particular morning there swarmed such a host of trout fishermen as would have been undreamed of a generation ago, these legions converging on the brooks of this corner of state, particularly the state-leased and heavily stocked Snake Meadow brook that flows through the easterly section of this town and on into the town of Plainfield.

This, it may be mentioned, was the opening of the trout fishing season of 1928. A raw and penetrating winds driving in from the northwest, greeted the enthusiasts who were up in the small hours of the morning and in scores of instances camped at the favorite locations on brooks before the first streaks of dawn began to brighten the eastern sky.

There was a bit of punishment mixed with the thrill of getting out onto the trout streams for the first time this year, punishment means little to a real lived-in-the-wool trout fisherman. And there were rewards! Hundreds of trout were taken in this territory between the hours of early morning and the fall of darkness tonight. Hardly anyone failed to get a few and many reported catching the limit allowed for the day.

Snake Meadow brook attracted the greatest number of fishermen of any stream hereabouts—too many to have the peace and quiet that is a traditional requirement for proper fishing conditions—but it was the first day of the season and much could be overlooked on this account. Other streams hereabouts also had their quota of anglers and yielded numbers of beautiful fish.

Opening the season two weeks later this year than has been the rule for a great many years in the past had one outstanding effect. It greatly reduced the number of out of the state fishermen, particularly from Massachusetts and Rhode Island in this section for the opening day, for the brooks of the other states were also thrown open today.

Special patrols covered Snake Meadow brook today, and every fisherman encountered along the stream was required to show his fishing license in the checkup. The cold today cut down the number of fishermen, though others reported splendid luck.

MANY ATTEND GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY MASS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 15—Hundreds of the members of the parish assembly at St. James' church at 10:30 this morning for attendance at the solemn high mass celebrated in special honor of Rev. Anthony Jolilvet's golden anniversary in the priesthood.

The beautifully decorated high altar, the golden vestments of the officers of the mass, the brilliant lights and the festival musi cby the choir combined to make the solemn service particularly impressive. Within the sanctuary was the aged jubilarian in pious adoration of Him he has so faithfully served for half a hundred years.

Rev. Albert Rosset, M. S., Hartford, provincial of the Missionary Order of LaSalette, was celebrant of the mass, with Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., the pastor of St. James', and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., as deacon and sub-deacon.

The sermon, dealing in special manner with the event observed, was preached by Rev. Fr. Demers. The ever faithful performance of his priestly duties by Rev. Fr. Jolliver, in France, where he was ordained, in Switzerland, the United States and Canada was recalled by the preacher, who stressed the fact that this long career in the priesthood, striving for the salvation of souls, must today bring Rev. Fr. Jollivet particularly close to God.

This evening secular priests from surrounding parishes were dinner guests at the rectory in honor of aged cleric, and on Monday visiting missionaries of LaSalette will be here to attend another dinner in his honor.

PUTNAM

D. S. ELLIOTT BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 15—Dyer S. Elliott, former town clerk and treasurer of the town of Thompson, was arraigned before Justice Percy P. Tourtellotte in North Grosvenordale Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock charged with embezzlement from town funds, during his term of office. The former treasurer entered a demurrer but his plea was overruled by the justice, and he was bound over to the next term of the criminal session of the Windham county superior court on bonds of $5,000 which were furnished.

Mr. Elliott, who has held the office for a number of years, had always been a capable and highly respected citizen of the community in which he lived and much trust had been placed in his hands by citizens of the town of Thompson who had dealings with him. His shortages were discovered when a firm of auditors came and examined his books. Mr. Elliott resigned his position and was succeeded by Selectman Charles V. Chase.

WILL THE SABIN STREET WILD CAT COME BACK?

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 15—With the return of the spring to Putnam and vicinity, it is assumed that the Sabin street puma, tiger, or bob cat, which terrified so many ladies in that section during the spring and summer months last year and each week commanded front page space in the local papers, will make its return again this season. On many various occasions the would be wild cat had been reported seen by school children and women in that vicinity of the city, but Putnam's he-men only laughed and joked over it.

It will be remembered that one evening about sunset two of the practical jokers saw what they thought was either a tiger or a puma and it was not long before the town was ringing with the word "Wildcat." Hunters organized a posse in an attempt to capture the beast with an undetermined name, but each time the animal failed to make his appearance and when the summer season bowed to the fall months it was thought that the terror of Sabin street had accompanied the robins to the "Sunny South."

One of the most brilliant social affairs held this season in Putnam yet was seen Friday evening in the state armory on Harris street when the Junior class of 1929 of Putnam high school promenaded down the floor of the large company drill shed for the grand march to the tunes of "Dick Newcomb" and his orchestra from Northampton, Mass.

The affair was opened with the grand march led by President William Shann and Vice President Miss Eva Jane Covell, class officers, with over one hundred couples in line. The large floor space of the new state armory was filled to its capacity. Many beautiful gowns adorned the ladies present. The patronesses were Mrs. Ralph C. Jenkins, Mrs. Abbie H. Keith, Mrs. Sarah T. White, Mrs. William F. Shann, Mrs. E. L. Robinson, Mrs. L. F. Noyes, Miss Irene Bernier, Mrs. Kate M. Sherman, Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. William Murdock.

The music was furnished by Dick Newcomb and his famous radio orchestra from Northampton. Mr. Newcomb had with him his widely known tenor, Mr. John Wade, who sang many pleasing numbers that brought him many encores.

The Putnam fire department started a new record for an "alarm-a-day" on Friday and continued it Saturday when they were caled out by a four stroke call to the home of George Anas on Mechanics street to extinguish what was thought to be a dangerous catastrophe, but upon investigation was found to be a pan of grease that had caught fire in the oven and had given off a large volume of smoke. The damage was small.

Sunrise Sunday morning found many energetic fishermen off to their favorite trickling brook in search of the much wailed trout. The warm misty weather was highly in favor of the early season anglers. Although many went during the course of the day to their favorite haunts none brought back any proof that the large beauties were going after the hook and worm, though many of the local sportsmen brought back many that were long enough to cover the law and to make a hearty breakfast for the following morning. The game patrol was early on duty watching for violators of the law, but it is assumed that every angler had his credential button with him as the wardens reported no arrests.

The annual prize drill and dance given by the members of the drill team of the Garde Foch was held Saturday evening in the state armory on Harris street. The dance was preceded with a large parade in which the different companies participating for drill honors took part. The companies that contested for the honors were Sharpe Shooters of New Bedford; Garde Nationall of Webster; St. Anne's of Fall River; Garde Martial of North Grosvenordale; Sacred Hearts of Willimantic.

The judges were Owen White, Ernest Durand and Lieutenant John Moss all of Putnam and all ex-service men well versed on the subject of exhibition close order drill.

The many teams competing for honors executed many beautiful military movements and it was thought that the judges had a task in awarding the winner the prize. A decision brought the first prize to the Sharpe Shooters of New Bedford. The New Bedford team were splendidly trained for a group of civilians and they clearly outlined their interest. Dancing followed the drilling.

Putnam people were shocked Saturday to hear of the death of a well known former resident of the city, Patrick Prout of Webster. Mr. Prout succombed to an illness of about three months late Saturday afternoon. Mr. Prout was in the insurance business in Webster and through his business he made many trips to this section and became well acquainted in Putnam.

Marjorie C. Bradford, assistant clerk of the Windham county superior court in Putnam has been busy during the past few days issuing second citizenship papers to aliens who have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States. Saturday Miss Bradford made Americans of the following foreigners: Albert Demers of Putnam; Josef Wisiel of Danielson; Wilfred Levesque and Michael Dzihi of Danielson; Andrew Molek of Moosup; Maurice Steinman of Moosup, Peter J. Dunas of Sterling went through the necessary procedure and was granted his first papers by the assistant clerk of the court.

Marcus A. Elliott a lifelong resident of North Grosvenordale died at his home in that village Saturday morning at the age of 85 years. Mr. Elliott was born in Thompson and had lived there practically all of his life, attending schools there and later taking up farming as a life work. Mr. Elliott although well along in years and in a failing condition for many months his death came unexpected and came as a shock to the community in which he lived.

WEEK ENDING APRIL 14, 1928:

WHY NOT?

Periodically it is deplored that there are not more sheep raised in Connecticut and New England. There are not enough to supply the demands in the New England states, either in wool or spring lamb, and as a consequence those who might raise them are losing the benefit of a considerable income.

When sheep and woolmen get together it is inevitable that they should advocate greater activity in the sheep industry. Speaking before the New England association last week Vice President Kendall of Maine strongly urged it and insisted that in ten years New England might have 4,000,000 sheep which would be using such land that is now going to waste and return a good profit to the owners. In his opinion "hundreds of acres of land in these states are growing wild with such plants as wormwood, hawkweed and goldenrod, which are commonly regarded by farmers as pests. These plants make excellent forage for sheep and could be harvested and fed to them during the winter at very little cost."

There was the time when there were over 3,700,000 sheep on New England farms, but that wasn't last year. The total census for the six states totals only 172,500 at the present time and unless there is a stimulation of interest it will probably decrease.

There are problems involved in the raising of sheep but Mr. Kendall has apparently reached a favorable solution of them, and he is finding that they are helping in the solving of other problems.

Since the decrease in the number of horses there is a hay problem. Many who raised hay to sell find the market less interesting. In fact there are those who cannot get their fine stands of grass cut even when they offer to give it to those who would do the cutting. Hay is a drug on the market beside what it used to be. And yet Mr. Kendall is using 800 tons of hay which he used to ship to Boston each year for the feeding of his sheep and this industry has been developed to the point where he uses 1200 acres in raising sheep.

If it can be done successfully in Maine, why not in the other states, including Connecticut?

ACTION ON BRUMBY

One of the big surprises in connection with the finding of the court of inquiry concerning the loss of the S-4 was the manner in which Rear Admiral Brumby was found to have done everything possible in the efforts to rescue the men and raise the ship and yet was criticized because he was not familiar with the construction of submarines and the recommendation made that no one could have done any more, yet it was proposed that the rear admiral be removed from his position because he couldn't answer certain questions.

It was the inconsistency of the recommendation which brought much criticism down upon the court of inquiry. It resulted in the navy department bringing the court together again and now it has been followed by the exoneration of Admiral Brumby by Secretary Wilbur who finds "There is nothing in his conduct in connection with the rescue or salvage operations which is considered blameworthy or other than commendable, and under all the circumstances any errors or oversight or failures in his testimony are insufficient to overcome his splendid record of 31 years of service in the navy, approved as it has been by his superior officers and also by the selection boards whose recommendations resulted in his recent promotion to the rank of rear admiral."

Secretary Wilbur takes a similar view in regard to the blame jointly placed upon the commander of the S-4 and the commander of the Paulding for the collision. He found no evidence had been obtained that would warrant a finding of culpable responsibility against Lieut. Commander Jones, the proof being "wholly insufficient to justify a finding of guilt." In other words he was unwilling to allow condemnation of the dead commander to rest upon guesswork.

The disaster has raised many questions which have not been answered without the elimination of doubt because no one could tell what happened aboard the submarine. The secretary of the navy has declined to accept the finding of the court of inquiry and there will be little wonder.

THE CHINESE SITUATION

Is the civil war now underway going to straighten out the situation in China? This is a question which have na? This is a question which has which the conflict looms up at times and then subsides, with the fires of strife still smouldering and ready to break into flame at each new encouragement.

But the need in China today doesn't appear to be war, but peace. The warring factions haven't been accomplishing anything except a greater destruction over a wider territory. Less attention has been given to the China situation in the last few months but it still exists and conditions from the standpoint of the people are getting worse instead of better.

One may well wonder what the outcome is going to be. Does the solution lie in the continuation of the struggle, or is it to be obtained through some effort that will result in the establishment of a government under an agreement among the fighting elements?

War has directed attention from agricultural activity and the latter is necessary in the provision of food. Conditions may go on, growing from bad to worse, but the effect upon China is bound to manifest itself in a rapidly increasing manner.

Efforts on the part of the powers in China have not always been welcomed. In fact too much of it, in the opinion of China, has resulted in certain of the grievances which exist there today. Thus whether it would be possible for an effort on the part of the powers to get a movement for peace beyond the launching stage is a questio nwhich might find its answer in a careful study of the present day situation and the attitude of the various leaders. It would call for a lot of cooperation, and the willingness to participate in such has not been conspicuously manifested in many months.

It is deplorable to see China making a wreckage of itself, but there's little chance for a change until there is a willingness in China sufficiently strong to turn the tide in the opposite direction.

THE FARM BILL

Whether the McNary-Haugen bill will get the same reception in the house that it did in the senate will be known before long. There is unquestionably a strong effort to have the house also give its approval to the measure. This would put the bill before the president again. The problem would be only slightly changed. The measure has undergone some amendments. Certain of the advice which was given by the president in his veto of the former bill has been heeded, but there still remains the irreconcilable equalization tax which the president has said was sufficient to condemn it and which, in his attack upon the measure, Senator McLean pointedly showed that it would amount to putting a bounty on a surplus. It is economically unsound and as far as giving relief to the farm problem would be like jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

In view of the manner in which President Coolidge denounced this provision before there seems to be no chance that he will do otherwise than veto it for a second time if it comes to him in the present form.

It is even maintained that there are those in the senate who have voted for the bill who did so for political purposes and hope and expect that the president will apply his veto. They are putting the decision up to him again and the alignment of members indicates even now that the veto would not be overthrown.

The unfortunate part of such action would be that it would mean no farm legislation and yet it is known that the administration is desirous of extending such assistance as it can under the circumstances and do it on a sound basis.

THE FOG HAZARD

As later stories come from Greenly island concerning the landing of the Junkers plane at that isolated spot, it is learned that fog was a factor in preventing a different outcome, or in causing the first successful westward flight across to make its first stop on this side at that point.

Fog is an element of great uncertainty whether in the air, on the water or on land. It was encountered by Lindbergh in his flight to Europe, by Chamberlain and it was a matter of great difficulty to Commander Byrd when he tried to find a landing place at Paris. If Captain Koehl was actually lost in the fog for hours, and lost to the extent that he was traveling in circles, there is no telling how much progress he might have made down the coast in that period of time. Fortune favored him, however, in being able to pick out a spot where he could make a landing without being forced to drop into the sea.

There are means possessed by an airplane in getting away from fog that do not prevail with vessels. The flying machine may rise above it, duck down under it on the surface or fly to either side to escape it. That is, such attempts may be made whereas the vessel must stick to its course. But whether it is going through the air aloft or on the surface of the water, the handicapped outlook may mean all kinds of hidden perils for fliers have plunged into mountain sides even as navigators have crashed into rocks or other vessels.

The experience of the Bremen with fog proves again that necessary fact that there are as bad and bothersome fogs on this side of the Atlantic as on the other.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The governor of New York says politics is taboo in Asheville. Think how painful it will be to people with chapped lips who read that.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cabbage should be cooked not more than from 12 to 13 minutes.

If meat is tough, a little vinegar or tomato juice added to the cooking water will help to soften the fiber.

A little soda or vinegar added to the water when meat is tough will soon make it cook tender.

The thick starch may be used to paste a bit of loosened wallpaper on or paste recipes in your cookbook.

Painted walls are best in the kitchen on account of the washing possibilities.

With the very low cost of coat hangers, it is a very foolish person who does not have one for each suit, frock or coat.

Varnish the insides of bureau and dresser drawers. This will prevent warping and sticking, besides acting as a warning to mothers.

Be sure to run the newly painted window frames up and down several times a day for a few days following their painting.

To save space or fuel, both parts of the double boiler may be used at once. While vegetables are being boiled in the lower part, other food may be heating in the upper.

Wearing old misshapen shoes for housework is an uncertain economy, for it may cause backache and tired feet, with a consequent lack of efficiency.

Fruit fritters are very nice served with fried chicken.

A ring of fried apples is appropriate on the platter of fresh country sausage.

Small rice croquettes and cubes of currant jelly are good with the roast duck.

Fried bacon that has been cooked crisp and then chopped very finely is delicious sprinkled over the top of the vegetable salad. It blends so well with the mayonnaise.

Plunge boiled eggs into cold water and you will find the shells peel off easily.

WHEN THE PAINTING IS DONE

About now, after the outside spring painting is completed, we frequently find the painter has spattered some unsightly spots on the front steps of pavement. Make a strong solution of potash and wash the steps, leaving the solution to sink in. When the paint becomes dry wash it off with soap and water. Rinse finally with cold water.

FINGER-MARKED DOORS

Finger marks on painted doors should be removed with a soft flannel, wrung out in water in which a few drops of ammonia have been mixed, and then rubbed with soap. Having removed the stains, the paint should be washed with clear water and thoroughly dried.

RUST AND WARM WEATHER

To keep a stove from rusting in summer cover it with a mixture of raw linseed oil and chalk. When you wish to use the stove, remove the compound with turpentine or gasoline.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

The water-drinking habit means a clear complexion.

Film may be removed from the teeth with lime water.

A hot bath, followed by an alcohol rub, will put new life in tired feet.

Backache may result from the wearing of old shoes about the house.

A large proportion of the wrinkles and worried squints and tired, listless faces that you see may be laid to improper shoes. Bad stockings, incorrect methods of walking and unintelligent methods of caring for the feet are other causes for wrinkled faces.

WILL GIVE ROOMS A HOMIER TOUCH

Some accessories which add to the home that distinction of being in good taste are:

Extra pillows for the sofa, of taffeta, satin, striped, brocade or plaid, made very plain with only a piping in the seam used for trimming. Avoid the use of flowers in the trimming of pillows for the living room, these being more appropriate for the boudoir.

Hanging book shelves placed over a table desk, or two small ones used in pairs—one each side of a window, mirror or picture.

Nests of tables prove a real pleasure and comfort for impromptu serving of tea in the afternoon; or they may hold the necessary needle, thread, scissors for sewing.

Vases, low, high, short and fat or tall and slim, should be kept in a section of the china cupboard set aside for their particular place; then, regardless of the flowers to be used, there is a vase sure to be in harmony with them.

Footstools, covered with a material to harmonize with the scheme of the room, and yet of quality to withstand hard wear, add to a large easy chair the comfort of a full length sofa.

A TIP FOR THE CARVER

When a cut of meat includes portions choice and those less desirable, such as sirloin steak, try to serve a little of each to each person. It proves what a good carver you are as well as divides things up more evenly.

NEEDS NEW TUBING

When the odor of gas cannot be abolished from around the gas heater, and you have made sure there is no leak, you can be certain the rubber tube itself has become saturated with gas. The only remedy is a new hose.

TO RESTORE FADED INK

When the ink of the old documents has faded and it is desired to restore it, this can be done by washing with any of the substances that blacken on mixing with iron—infusion of nutgalls sodium sulphide or acetic ferrocyanide of potassium, for instance.

LONGER BLANKETS

Sometimes we are given a pair of blankets that are lovely but not quite long enough for our bed. If so, cut them apart at the fold and insert a strip of outing flannel as nearly the same shade of the blankets as possible. It is the part tucked in at the foot of the bed and therefore is out of sight and not necessary that it be entirely of wool. As much flannel may be inserted as we feel would make for absolute comfort.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The newest of costume jewelry, copied from very old and interesting pieces, is set with many different stones.

Cheruit is introducing for pastel colored evening gowns a new novelty chiffon which is crisp and stiff as organdie.

Lace frocks are imperative in spring wardrobes. Warm colors, particularly deep pinks and purples, are very good. They usually have light foundations.

The gayest and smartest of lingerie is made of crepe de chine printed with tiny flowers in rather delicate colors. Some of the pieces are bound with color.

From lingerie to hats lace is chic this spring. The wood brown lace dinner gown as this season's smart innovation. One has a tiered skirt and scarf collar.

A pillow in keeping with the modern trend is covered with black satin and has bands of rose, yellow and blue ribbon put on in an odd design.

A traveling suit of frock and three-quarters coat is fashioned of lovely soft gray mohair, in a new basket weave, with flat crepe in blue for bandings.

The more mature woman—the young one as well—will look her best in a seven-eighths coat of violet, untrimmed save for a few rows of stitching on collar and cuffs.

A silk that has undoubted style has a very dark brown or black background covered with a small design of appleblossoms. The effect is particularly lovely.

Strikingly attractive are the new silk blouses, which are hand-painted. These blouses are sleeveless and collarless and have scarfs of the same to wear thrown around the neck and knotted at one side.

It seems almost impossible to think that anything new could be originated in printed silk frocks, but that very thing has been achieved in a dress of printed chiffon which has a long coat of crepe de chine in the same pattern.

Taffeta is one of the most desirable fabrics of this season, but the demand is less for the plain taffetas than for the flowered patterns. The latter are in all the designs, usually stressing small flowers.

VARIETY IN SLEEVES

Sleeves show variety. Some houses widen them at the wrist. Jenny shows a kind of inverted leg-of-mutton sleeve with the puff between elbow and wrist. Touches of white pique or little frills of lace and lingerie cuffs and collars are often seen.

NEW HOMESPUN HATS

The tweeds and homespuns are not confined to the sport clothes or the tailored suits. Some of the most attractive new hats of the season are of homespun materials. These are inlaid with felt of a contrasting hue in many instances. The hats are light in weight and conform admirably to the shape of the head.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Sponge shiny cloth with a strong solution of powdered alum in water. While the material is still damp, press lightly.

Filet lace will look like new if it is pinned on a board or the floor to dry instead of ironing. Each point can be stretched out and pinned carefully and the full beauty of the lace will be shown.

If ink has been spilled on a linen tablecloth, steep the cloth in boiling milk immediately. This, it is said, will remove the stain.

Flannels will not shrink if washed with a tablespoon of ammonia in the first water.

Addition of a little borax will prevent starch from freezing out of clothes.

REMOVING STAINS

Chocolate and cocoa stains from candy, frosting, etc., can be scraped off with a dull knife. Washable material will require only regular washing.

Soak stubborn spots in wood alcohol made alkaline with ammonia solution.

Table linen can be soaked in cold water over night, then covered with boiling water and washed; or sprinkle borax on the stain and soak it in cold water, then rinse thoroughly in boiling water.

If fabric is not washable rub stain with chloroform, alcohol or any grease solvent, then sponge with hydrogen peroxide made alkaline with lukewarm water; or if fast color use ammonia.

WHERE THE RUB COMES IN

Rubbing is the part of the laundering process that is hardest on clothes. Some mechanical action is necessary with most soaps to force the water through the fabric, but a plunger or other device which provides suction is better than a washboard. When washing delicate fabrics by hand, use the palm of your hand in the same way. Have plenty of suds. Make soap, rather than friction, do the work, and you will spare yourself and the clothes, too.

WHERE IS THE SHOE HORN?

When away on a trip and a shoe horn is needed to assist in getting on the new shoes, use a folded envelope just as you would the horn. It will take the place nicely of this elusive article.

USE PASTRY BRUSH

To brown pies and tarts use a small pastry brush to apply milk lightly before putting them into the oven, and to glaze pies, brush them with the white of an egg if you wish them to be a shiny brown.

CLEAN CRUETS

Brown stains left by vinegar on a cruet will vanish if household ammonia is poured into it and left standing a few minutes.

FISH SANDWICHES

Delicious for lunch are open toasted sandwiches that have for filling crabmeat, oysters, lobster or any other left-over fish creamed and highly seasoned.

CONCERNING WOMEN

More than 81 per cent. of the women marrying in Bavaria in 1924 had been engaged in some earning capacity.

During the past year the Catholic Daughters of America have donated more than $1,000,000 to various charities.

Out of 193 honors granted by King George V of England at the beginning of this year, only 25 were conferred on women.

According to a Swedish statistician, the average woman of 70 years of age has spent 6,000 hours in front of the looking-glass.

Sister Agnes who recently celebrated her 70th birthday, has been for 41 years in St. Vincent's Home in Santa Barbara, Cal.

Mrs. L. G. Buxton is Cincinnati's first woman receiver, having just been selected to take over the affairs of the Bartson Driveway company.

RUBBER SHEETS

When using rubber sheeting on invalids' or babies' beds, sew bandings of unbleached muslin down each side wide enough to tack clear under the mattress.

STAMPS STUCK TOGETHER

Lay a thin paper over the stamps that have stuck together and run a not iron over them. You will then be able to separate them without injury to the mucilage.

RECIPES

Clam Chowder: One quart shucked clams or 2 dozen clams, 1 cup diced potato, 1 medium sized onion, cut in small pieces, 1-3 cup diced salt pork, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 pint milk, 2 tablespoons flour, few drops tobasco. Drain the clams from the liquor and chop or grind them fine. Strain the liquor through cheesecloth or a very fine wire strainer to remove any small pieces of shell. Crisp the finely diced salt pork and remove from the fat. Cook the onion in the fat until yellow, add the flour and stir until well blended. Then add the clam liquor and the potatoes. Place this mixture in the upper part of a double boiler and allow it to cook until the potatoes are almost done. Then add the milk and the chopped clams. Cook for a few minutes, add the salt and the tobasco. Sprinkle finely chopped parsley over the top and serve with crackers.

Tomato Surprise Salad: Stuff large tomatoes from which the centers have been removed with chopped pineapple and nuts mixed with a mayonnaise and whipped cream dressing. Serve on a lettuce leaf. This makes a variety from the usual stuffed tomato.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why Build Bridges Over Unused Railroad?

Mr. Editor: According to today's issue of Moosup Journal, there is to be a hearing at Hartford to discuss, cuss, and otherwise air a lot of views about the grade crossing at French's, Central Village. Several plans for spending money are on tap. And what for? To build bridges over a railroad on which no trains run. Can you beat it? For, according to another article in same paper, same day, "There ain't going to be no more trains on that line." If you can figure out anything more assinine than to build bridges over a couple of streaks of rust where trains used to run once upon a time, I should admire to know it. There are no trains to kill anyone at the crossing any more, so why worry over 'em. Better buy the railroads and turn them into speedways for the buses, and save the money to make straighter roads where through traffic could run without going into town. I wonder if the plan to build a bridge over the railroad at Central Village and another bridge six miles above at Danielson, also over the same railroad, to avoid going straight up Green Hollow road, is still alive, and if so Why? The Green Hollow road plan has no fillings, no bridges, no hills to dig away; a straight line from French's crossing to east of Danielson.

More About the Dow Family

Mr. Editor: Have been looking each day in The Bulletin for more letters giving facts about Lorenzo Dow and the Dow family. Recently I came into possession of a letter written by my mother, Cornelia Dow Lewis, in which she states that her grandfather, Solomon Dow, was a cousin of Lorenzo. While not a direct descendant of Lorenzo (as he left no children), our ancestors being the same, it is very interesting to have all the information possible. Solomon Dow married a relative, Terza Dow. They had eight children, three daughters died in infancy. Their sons were:

Simon (my grandfather), five children.

Cyrus had five children.

George had two children.

Beverly had three children, died in infancy—Beverly was tax collector in Preston.

Ezra had three children.

Frederick Horton had five children.

George married a woman from Vermont. He died, leaving wife and two sons. She returned to her people and we lost all track of them.

Lorenzo states in his book that of three brothers from Ipswich, below Boston, (whose ancestors came from Norfolk, England), one settled in Plainfield, one in Voluntown, the other in Coventry; and from those three in Connecticut, the Dows spread abroad. Lorenzo Dow was the son of Humphrey B. Dow and Tabitha, his wife, who was, Tabitha Parker, daughter of James Parker. His grandparents came from England. They were murdered by Indians. Their three children (two sons, one daughter), escaped by hiding in the grass. I think that Arthur Dow of the Dow ranches, Sheridan, Wyoming, perhaps was related to my grandfather, Simon Dow.

Will those who have any information of this family send articles to The Bulletin? Thanking you for past kindness in publishing my article,

CARRIE LEWIS HUNTINGTON.

YOUR HEALTH

THE HEART AND CIRCULATION.

By L. Winifield Kohn, M. D., New York, Member of Gorgas Memorial.

The heart and blood vessels are among the most vital organs of the human body and it is very evident that afflictions involving them may result in disaster. To keep the heart and circulation in proper condition is therefore essential to the maintenance and prolongation of life.

The circulation enters almost every part of the entire body through a system of blood vessels. The heart is the chief pumping station from whence the blood is forced out into the arteries, finally reaching its destination in some particular part of the body where it passes into the tissues which it feeds. The blood then enters the venous system which carries it to the lungs for oxygenation and from there it is forced onward to the heart to be again sent out through the arteries. That is the purpose of the circulation. Incidentally it must be added that just as the blood takes up oxygen during its passage through the lungs, it absorbs food material during its transport through the digestive areas of the intestines.

The smallest arteries are located in the tissues and are in close relationship to the smallest veins, which are the beginning of the venous system which conveys the blood back to the lungs for aeration and thence to the heart.

Disease of other organs, such as the liver, or lungs, may be attended by disturbances in the general circulation. Of course, the influence upon the circulation will depend upon the type of disease and degree of involvement. In pneumonia or congestion of the lungs from other causes, the heart will suffer a certain amount of secondary embarrassment.

The prominent factor which, of course, most commonly affects the circulation is the condition of the heart itself. The heart muscle and valves must be in good order, so that the blood may be properly distributed throughout the body. When the heart muscle is diseased, the heart may not be able to execute proper contraction and in consequence the blood may not reach its destination in normal time or manner. When the valves are affected, the blood may be obstructed in its outflow from the heart, or there may result a backward flow of blood into the heart instead of its complete expulsion.

Therefore it can readily be appreciated that the circulation depends upon many factors for its sustenance. It is also plainly recognized that the variation in the expressiveness of these factors may be many. For the reason it is difficult to solve many disorders involving the heart and circulation. A detailed study of the heart and circulation implies an expression of effort on the part of the physician in many directions and requires prolonged observations.

CHILD TRAINING

Concerning the Nature of Rewards

Pauline Herr Thomas

"Will someone please tell me why it is that the things that are least healthfulor beneficial for our children are generally the things they want the most?" demanded Mrs. Johns of the other mothers over the teacups.

"Well," said Mrs. Moore, "perhaps it's just human nature to want what we can't have."

"Oh, it's just perverseness, that's all," said Mrs. Hunt, rather heatedly. "They know they can tantalize. Billy is always tormenting me for something he shouldn't have."

"You know," said Mrs. Sheldon, thoughtfully, "I believe that this very thing which is so commonly characteristic of our children—to say nothing of ourselves—is our own fault to a great extent."

"I can't see that," said Mrs. Hunt. "Aren't we always trying to instill knowledge of what is best and what is not? Unless you mean it is our constant talking about the forbidden thing that keeps them reminded of it."

"Yes, that is obvious," said Mrs. Sheldon, "but I think there is another reason which escapes most of us. We say to Mary, 'Now if you eat that soup, you may have this cake,' or to Billy, 'If you don't go to bed this minute, you may not stay up late Saturday evening.' By such tactics we give to the less healthful cake or the less beneficial late hours the role of reward. It becomes at once the coveted thing."

"Oh, yes," answered Mrs. Hunt, "but what good will it do to say to Mary, 'If you eat your soup, you may have a nice dish of spinach'? That wouldn't be any inducement."

"Of course not. I admit that cake tastes better, and our tastes areflckle always rejecting the old when something more palatable can be had; but one of the reasons why cake is more of an inducement is that it has always been used for one.

"My little Jeanne is a wonder to everyone because she will play in a room where candy is uncovered and within reach and seldom think of asking for a piece, much less helping herself. She has never had one piece as a reward for good behavior. She eats it when it is passed at table or elsewhere, as the case may be. It has never been presented to her as anything but something to eat.

"She is also a source of considerable admiration to my friends because she 'goes to bed so nicely.' Never has she been allowed to remain up late as a reward for good conduct. She goes early regularly, unless some unusual occasion makes it necessary for her to stay up somewhat later.

"You'll say, perhaps, 'She is an unusual child,' but I insist that she is not, for she misbehaves like any other child, at times.

"Spinach, as you say, seems ridiculous to us as a reward. Nevertheless, I am sure that if parents would cease to surround the less healthful and beneficial things with the atmosphere of reward, and not withhold only such things by way of punishment, they would, in turn, cease to be the most coveted by the children."

We were all thoughtful—at least for the rest of that cup of tea.

The sun will only set in the west but an old hen will set anywhere.

Has Your Back Given Out?

A Constant Backache Often Warns of Sluggish Kidneys.

EVERY day and you lame, stiff and achy? Feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are kidney secretions too frequent, scanty, or burning in passage?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys act sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say Connecticut Folks:

MRS. FRANK KASTNER, 908 Farmington Ave., Hartford, Conn., says: "I wouldn't be without Doan's Pills. My kidneys acted irregularly and my back ached so severely I could hardly stoop. I tired easily and felt miserable. Doan's Pills relieved me of all these difficulties and I felt fine. I have used Doan's since, whenever I have needed them and they have always benefited me."

GEO. W. HUBBARD, 10 Beacon Court, Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Doan's Pills have never failed to relieve me promptly when I have had occasion to use them. I was annoyed by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions, especially at night and the secretions were scant and painful. My back pained me, too. Knowing about Doan's Pills I tried them and they fixed me up in good shape."

Headaches and nervousness and other troubles far remote from the eyes are oft-times the direct result of an eye strain, which if corrected with the proper glass, would give immediate relief. It is not necessary for the eye to be sore to indicate their need of glasses. In many cases the eye may be perfectly healthy but glasses may be needed for the reasons which are only apparent to the physician or skilled oculist.

Question about the Eye and Selection of Spectacles

Persons having normal vision will be able to read the print at a distance of 14 inches from the eyes with clear and comfort; also will be able to read it with each eye separately. If unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. The lenses sold in the chain groceries of unusual density and have imperfectly polished surfaces. Continued use of these poorer lenses will result in restrictive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles of the eye in trying to supply the defects in the glass.

RANGERS BEAT MAROONS; BRING STANLEY CUP BACK

MONTREAL, Que., April 15—(AP)—The Stanley cup, that old and battered piece of silverware emblematic of the professional hockey championship of the world, has gone to the United States for the second time in its long and colorful history since 1892.

Seattle won the trophy in 1917, but the following year it was returned to Canada and had been held here until last night when the New York Rangers scored a 2 to 1 victory over the Montreal Maroons in the fifth and deciding game of the 1928 world series. Thus, the New Yorkers, only in the second season of their existence as a team, have climbed the heights to capture the honors that hockeydom has to offer.

The Rangers' triumph also evened an old score for their veteran manager Lester Patrick. Two years ago, Patrick, then mentor of the Victoria Cougars, champions of the now defunct Western league, led his charges east in quest of a world title. The Montreal Maroons opposed the Cougars and won the series easily by winning three games out of four.

Patrick's battling Rangers this year put the skids under a powerful Maroon sextet, which after scoring a decisive 2 to 0 victory in the first game of the competition, was picked to take the championship without a struggle.

However, the Gotham squad, forced to play all their series' tilts here due to lack of ice accommodations in Madison Square Garden, unleashed some of the fighting qualities of their manager in one of the most stubbornly fought series in the history of the cup, being returned victors on a basis of three games to two.

Although defeated last night, the Maroons were by no means disgraced. They opened up on the attack and practically throughout the sixty-minutes of play held a commanding margin in territorial play. In fact the Montrealers consistently outplayed, outskated and outshot the blue-clad Rangers and did everything but outscore them.

Out of the heat and smoke of the battle, there arose two outstanding heroes, Joe Miller and Frank Boucher, both of the Rangers. Miller, the goalie, who replaced the injured Lorne Chabot since the second game of the series gave one of the greatest exhibitions of goal keeping ever seen on the ice.

While the Ranger defense was strong, it was not rugged enough to turn back the swarming Maroon Shirts and it was then that Miller thrust aside the Montreal threats virtually single handedly.

Miller's performance was all the more sensational considering that he played practically the entire game with a pair of badly swollen eyes, the result of an accident early in the initial session when he fell on a Maroon player's outstretched stick.

Boucher put in a brilliant evening, taking advantage of opportunities to crash through the Montreal defense to score both goals for New York, one coming in the first period and the other in the final session.

GAVUZZI ASSUMES LEAD AS DERBY HITS BRISTOW

BRISTOW, Okla., April 15—(AP)—Peter Gavuzzi of outhampton, England, jogged into the lead of the Pyle cross country bunion parade today. Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., youth who had led the runners for the last week, now faces the possibility of passing through his home town as a runner-up when that point is reached in the next few days.

With their arrival at Bristow, the marathoners completed 1,578.2 miles of the trek which started at Los Angeles.

Gavuzzi not only tied with Ed Gardner, Seattle Negro, for first place in today's lap from Chandler, in 4:27:57, but was clocked in elapsed time at 265:44:05, 21 minutes and 26 seconds better than Payne's mark after he had checked into this control point in 5:20 flat along with Harry Abramowitz of New York. On Saturday Payne had a lead of 28 minutes 37 seconds.

Harry Rea, Long Beach, Calif., was third into the control point today, in 5:05:28, his elapsed time being 309:45:46.

John Salo, Passaic, N. J., holder of fourth place, was sixth in 5:18 flat after a late start.

NATIONALS WIN CUP BEATING BRICKLAYERS

CHICAGO, April 15—(AP)—In a game marked by fist fights, arguments, tripping and police interference, the New York National defeated the Chicago Bricklayers, 3 to 0 today to win the national chalenge cup, which carries with it the blue ribbon of soccer in the United States.

The game was played on Soldier field before 20,000 spectators. The teams played an overtime 1 to 1 tie last Sunday in New York and today's match was a play-off.

With the Nationals holding their three point advantage early in the second half, the game suddenly developed into a pitched battle of fists. Bob Millar, veteran New Yorker wingman, and Tom Scott, Bricklayer back, started the fist throwing and were ejected from the game by Referee James Walder of Philadelphia. A moment later, Goalkeeper Benzulli of the Nats and four Brickies tangled and the police rushed on the field and broke up the fight. As the game progressed, arguments between the players became more bitter. Willie MacLean and Dace Coutts, Brickie wingman and center, respectively, were hurt and carried from the field, as a result of one of the mixups.

"Short" Henderson, elongated National center, led his team's attack with two field goals and assisting in a third, made by Sigfried Wortman. The New York defense was exceptionally tight, Hughie Hill, Bricklayer inside right forward, being the only Chicago player who could break through repeatedly.

Henderson scored the first goal when he took a pretty pass from Martyn on a free kick and shoved the ball over. The Brickie came right back, but on an attempted goal, the ball hit the uprights. After an almost even exchange for the next forty minutes, McGhee, Nationals' outside left, passed to Walker on the opposite side of the field. Walker then passed to Henderson, who scored directly in front of the goal.

The third New York goal was scored in the second period when Wortman took a long pass from Henderson drew Goalie Maceman of the Brickie out of position and then shot a beautiful kick squarely between the posts.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS HOLD THEIR FIRST MEMORIAL SERVICE

Thames Valley council, No. 209, United Commercial Travelers, which includes membership in this city and in New London, observed its first annual memorial service Sunday afternoon, with a service held at 3 o'clock in Steiner hall and about 40 attending. There are 22 names on the council's mortuary list, covering the years from 1911 to the present time. These are the following with the dates of death:

George A. Allen, April 10, 1911; William T. Lane, March 9, 1917; Frank C. Gage, April 9, 1917; Frank H. Smith, Sept. 25, 1917; George E. Walker, Oct. 7, 1918; George R. Havens, Oct. 8, 1918; Joseph D. Haviland, July 29, 1919; Harry M. Leonard, Jan. 27, 1921; Harold E. Peck, Feb. 4, 1921; Henry A. Wickstrom, Nov. 2, 1921; Daniel F. Connelly, Feb. 16, 1923; Bennett Wells, June 23, 1923; William L. Cramer, July 19, 1923; Charles E. Rice, March 21, 1924; Walter H. Rogers, Aug. 20, 1924; John B. Collins, Nov. 26, 1924; Moses J. Solomon, Jan. 28, 1925; George A. Lathrop, May 26, 1925; Raymond J. Jodion, Sept. 3, 1925; Frank H. Patrick, Nov. 30, 1925; Henry D. Buckley, Dec. 22, 1927; Charles S. Peckham, April 7, 1928.

Eulogies were pronounced for the two members whose deaths have occurred within the past year.

Senior Councilor George W. Mitchell, of New London, called the meeting to order for the brief opening exercises and then turned the chair over to Past Senior Councilor Everett N. Lyon to preside for the memorial service. After brief words in memoriam by Mr. Lyon, Chaplain A. J. Perry offered prayer and the roll of the deceased members was called.

Secretary J. E. Campbell presented the eulogy upon Henry D. Buckley, speaking as follows:

"Friends and Brothers: We are assembled here today, to pay the tribute of respect the living may pay to the dead. It hath pleased our Beneficent Father of All to remove from our midst during the year of 1927, our friends and brother, Henry D. Buckley, born Feb. 10, 1881, and died Dec. 22, 1927. Henry D. Buckley was a member of the United Commercial Travelers of America over 12 years.

"The young may die, the old must die, the wheels of the juggernaut of time roll relentlessly onward, crushing beneath their weight the young, the old, the rich, the poor, the bondman and the freeman alike, without distinction or favor. Spring comes, the flowers bloom, the buds swell and burst into foliage, which is hardened by the heat of the summer's sun, and made ready for the autumn's frost. The white mantle of the winter's snow is melted by the warmth of returning spring. Thus season doth follow season, and life and death pursue each other in quick succession.

"But with these brothers the frost of death came and laid hold so hard that naught out the eternal warmth of God's love can warm them back into life. Weakness, decay, and death are inscribed on every living thing. It is appointed to all men, once to die. When man is born, that moment he begins to die. Life and death are coequal in the span of existence, and the cradle and the grave are mute witnesses of this melancholy truth.

"Yet as we turn from the dark side of the lesson of this hour, how quickly are the clouds of our gloom dispelled by the promises of the Supreme Counselor on High. 'I am the Resurrection and the Life, sayeth the Lord; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and he that liveth and believeth in Me shall never die.'

"We shall not offend the memory of these dear ones with the compliments that were justly theirs while they walked among us in the struggle for bread. But let us in the presence of these quickened memories resolve to uphold more strongly the dignity of personal character and the character of our honorable profession; to link ourselves anew to the destinies of the widows and helpless orphans of our departed brethren, and those dependent upon them by other ties.

"We beseech Thee, Oh, Our Father, to gather them into Thy loving bosom; be unto them as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. As Thou didst cause the seas to separate, so that Thy children on a former journey might pass from the stern realities of fate into a land of milk and honey, so guide and direct these wards of our fraternal household that they may safely pass through life's troubled seas and find rest in the Promised Land above. And now, may the doors of the Heavenly Council Chamber be opened to receive you as when you have completed this earthly journey, and a smile of divine approval be your final reward."

Chaplain Perry sang "Abide With Me," and Herbert W. Gallup presented the eulogy upon Charles S. Peckham, who had been elected chairman of the executive committee of the council just before his recent death. Mr. Gallup paid a warm personal tribute to the character of Mr. Peckham, whom he had known from a boy up as they were both natives of Ledyard and had grown up together there.

After the solo, "Face to Face," rendered by F. R. Smith, junior councilor, the service ended with the closing exercises conducted by Mr. Lyon.

NORWICH MAN'S MACHINE IN FATAL ACCIDENT

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Conn., April 15.—(AP)—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. William Cunningham, of 74 Allen place Hartford, were killed and the third seriously injured, when the automobile in which the family were returning home collided with another machine three miles north of here tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were severely cut about the head and face and James H. Cunningham, who was driving the car suffered a broken nose and cuts about the face. William, 4 years old, was killed instantly; Vincent, aged three, died on the way to the hospital and Brendon, aged three months, suffered concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull.

The car with which the Cunningham machine collided was driven by William Combies, of Norwich, who was accompanied by five friends. All were slightly injured.

State Policemen Woods and Stevens after investigating the accident arrested James H. Cunningham. He was placed under $2,000 bonds on the technical charge of reckless driving pending the report of Coroner John E. Fahey.

William Combies resides at 54 Church street and is employed at the Thermos factory.

RAMMED ICEBERG AS PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE

LIVERPOOL, England, April 15—(AP)—By ramming the smaller of two icebergs which confronted the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose when she was three days out from St. John, N. B., the captain of the vessel prevented what might have been another Titanic disaster.

The steamer came in here yesterday with two of her crew dead and two of the passengers slightly hurt. Bows of the steamer were crushed in above the waterline for twenty feet back of the prow. One anchor was gone and the other was jammed into the steel plates.

The Montrose encountered the ice while going slowly through a light fog. Two big masses loomed in front of the steamer and the captain had to make an instant decision. He steered straight for the smaller berg which split in two when the ship struck it bows on.

After the crash the Montrose backed away, lifeboats were swung out and the passengers and crew donned life belts. But there was no panic and when examination showed that the steamer was not sinking, she proceeded on her way.

Members of the crew said they had to move about a hundred tons of ice after the smash. The passengers adopted a resolution of congratulations to the captain and subscribed to the relief of the relatives of the two sailors who were killed when the bows crushed in.

RECORD FOR SUCCESSFUL LEAPS FROM AIRPLANE

CHANUTE FIELD, Rantoul, Ills., April 15—(AP)—Ten rookie parachute jmpers of the Army Air Corps Technical school established a new world's record for successful leaps from an airplane today when all ten of them leaped safely from a tri-motored 16 passenger Ford ship in 8.2 seconds.

The previous record was held by the marines at Quantico, Va., where nine men leaped successfully from one airplane.

Perfect flying conditions greeted the rookies and all of them floated to safe landing on Chanute field after their jumps from the giant plane as it roared across the airport at nearly 100 miles an hour.

The jump in addition to making a new record, was planned to indicate how quickly passengers of an airship could clear the plane in safely in case of an accident in the air. Sergeant Harry Wilson, trainer of the rookies who had just been graduated from their course on Friday, the 13th, said they could have probably cleared the ship in five seconds if he had not held them back.

The plane was at an altitude of about 2,000 feet when the jumpers led by Pat Doyell, of Boston, slid off, into space from the side door as Sergeant Wilson held his stop watch and told them.

TAMMANY LEADER OLVANY VISITED GOVERNOR SMITH

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 15.—(AP)—After a visit with Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York who is on a vacation here, George W. Olvany, Tammany leader, departed for New York city to attend the meeting Tuesday of the democratic executive committee. At that time delegates at large from New York to the Houston convention will be selected and it is planned to put Smith formally into the presidential race by the adoption of laudatory resolutions.

Olvany, accompanied by a group of friends who had been on a fishing trip in Cuba and Florida, stopped off here over night, in the party, which went north with him today, was Surrogate James J. Foley, of New York.

The probable course of events at the committee meeting Tuesday and those expected to grow out of its action were discussed with the governor by Olvany. It is expected that the endorsement of the committee will give Smith Tuesday will draw from him in the near future a statement that will go into some of the issues facing the nation.

Encouraging Report of J. M. Lee.

A report that is looked upon as favorable and encouraging has been received from John M. Lee, secretary of the Porteous and Mitchell company, who last week went to a famous sanatorium at Rochester, Minn., for treatment for a stomach condition. A telegram said the trouble had been removed, that Mr. Lee was conscious and had recognized his daughter, who had come from St. Louis to see him. It was also learned that Mr. Lee was taking nourishment through artificial feeding.

Santos.

Santos, Brazil, where a recent land-slide buried scores of homes, is one of the commercial giants among South American cities, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Coffee built Santos and keeps it growing at a marvelous rate, just as cotton stimulates the prosperity of Houston and Galveston, and rubber adds to the wealth of Singapore," says the bulletin. "Fifty miles inland on the plateau lies the city of Sao Paulo in the heart of the world's greatest coffee producing area, and from it more than a billion pounds of the green berries annually pour down grade into Santos for shipment overseas. As a result of this strategic economic situation Santos is the greatest coffee port in the world, shipping each year approximately nine million sacks of 132 pounds each, and worth more than $150,000,000.

"This is not the only commercial record that falls to Santos. In total exports it surpasses Rio de Janeiro and so is Brazil's premier port for outgoing trade. In shipments to the United States Santos is the first port in all South America. In most years, the coffee taken by the United States from Santos runs close to $100,000,000 in value.

"The population of Santos has grown amazingly in recent years and is now close to 150,000. The town was established by the Portuguese nearly 400 years ago, but modern Santos is little more than a generation old. It was a small place, on an undrained semi-tropical plain in the 80's when the marked development in coffee production began inland, and it became necessary to enlarge the port facilities. Drainage canals were extended through the plain, a sewerage system constructed, and streets paved. One of the most important improvements was the construction of concrete, rat-proof wharves. Santos now has three miles of such wharves. Along them are more than a score of immense coffee warehouses, and farther from the waterfront are as many more. Altogether, these storage places could house more than five million bags of coffee at one time.

"Modern loading machinery is in use, and a ship, pausing at the Santos wharves for 24 hours can receive an astounding amount of coffee in this short period. A typical loading scene would disclose five belt conveyors, three electric cranes and five lines of laborers pouring continuous streams of burlap bags into a single vessel's hold. While they work their supplies are built up by countless carts and wagons drawn by oxen, horses, mules and donkeys—transferring the bulging sacks from distant warehouses. Few motor trucks are seen.

"The Santos wharves are along an estuary several miles from the Bay of Santos, and in reaching them a steamer winds about directing its prow to every point of the compass. From the stream stretches the plain on which the city is built, with miniature mountains rising from it at intervals.

"The chief height is Monte Serrat, from the sides of which the destructive land-slide came. This little mountain rises virtually from the heart of the city to a height of 700 feet. One steep slope extends to within several city blocks of the water front, and residences and business buildings approach its base on all sides except that farthest from the river. The peak affords a wonderful view of Santos and the sea. In recent years a funicular railway has been built up the slope and an amusement casino established near the top. On the crest is a famous shrine to Our Lady of Monte Serrat, and nearby is a wireless tower.

"The rainfall at Santos is heavy, some years reaching a total of more than 100 inches. The hottest and wettest season extends from December to March."

Negro Likely To Get Madden's Seat In House

Representative Martin B. Madden, dean of the Illinois delegation in the House of Representatives, who will in all probability be edged out of his seat by a negro next fall in the elections. Madden represents the first district of Chicago, which is three-quarters negroes, who have decided they want someone of their own race to fill the post that Madden has held for so many years.

Paulino will remain here two months awaiting news from the United States regarding future combats. He said he intended to engage only in contests with leading heavyweight contenders and will probably meet Risko and Godfrey when he returns to the United States. The Basque still desires to have a "shot" at Tunney but believes there is not much chance of a bout with the champion at least until September. Paulino has been offered a bout with Beriazzolo of Italy for the heavyweight championship of Europe for a purse of 200,000 pesetas put up by a Barcelona promoter named Laurnaga, but the Spaniard said he would await the arrival of his manager, now in Paris, before making a decision.

HARTFORD AND NEWARK EXPECTED IN 1929 CAN-AM

BOSTON, April 15—(AP)—Charles C. Clapp and Thomas J. Kanaly, of Boston, were reelected president and secretary of the Canadian-American Hockey league at the annual meeting here today. Representatives were present from each of the six clubs in the league. After the election of officers, the league officials took up the matter of selecting referees for next season. Indications were that Hartford and Newark would have teams in the league next season, making it an eight club organization.

ALL-EAST TEAM WINS RIGHT FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

ST. LOUIS, April 15—(AP)—The all-east amateur soccer team won the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games at Amsterdam by defeating the St. Louis Olympic team today, 3 to 2.

The St. Louis players, comparatively young and inexperienced, apparently were playing under a strain and were too eager to make good. Their goal shooting was not up to the standard shown in other contests and it was open shots which went wide that proved decisive.

The eastern players did not get as many shots at the goal as St. Louis, but they were more deadly in the chances afforded. They displayed remarkable teamwork, considering the fact they had not been playing together. Their trickiness of foot was particularly brilliant, and this lead to some clever passing.

A crowd of 5,500 saw the game.

OPENING GAME POSTPONED, ACADEMY GETS READY FOR DEEP RIVER FRIDAY

Still lacking the experience of actual combat, the Academy baseball squad now prepares for its first scholastic slash of the year Friday afternoon at the campus with Deep River high.

May Play Wednesday

The Alumni game Saturday was called off after a wait of over a half hour convinced Coach Brigham and Umpire Hank Morin that old Jupe Pluvius was going to have his way. There is a possibility of this game being played off Wednesday. A game with a team known as the All-Stars was carded for that date but the Alumni may be moved in as a substitute. In case both games fall through the team may meet Riverview in a practice tilt

The postponement Saturday may have been a big disappointment to some but, according to reports, it was doubly welcome to a few of the Alumni, who, after watching the varsity practice, developed a yearning for the old fireside.

At any rate, there was no game. It is to be hoped that the game Wednesday will go through.

The varsity looks to be in for some stiff drills this week for the game with Deep River is looked upon as one of the most important on the early part of the schedule This afternoon the drills are expected to start and, weather permitting, a rugged session is expected.

Plainfield After Deep River

Whether there will be any changes in the lineup by Saturday is not known but it seems fairly certain that the one announced to start Saturday will do the same thing for the Friday game. Should a game be played Wednesday it s expetced that practically the entire squad will see action. Saturday Plainfield High furnishes the opposition at the campus.

How They Look

Capt. Mace Goldblatt looks to have ample help in the catching department from Pepin and Fontaine with Montie another likely looking prospect. Weisgraber, Joe (Boots) Greene, Cotter, Mish, Abugel and Stockwell are the pitchers to help Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene along. On first there are Arico and Chet Berghinzo with Shorty Hamil, Jackie Marks and Buckley at second, Chubby Gibbs and Wilkin at short and Mickey Breen, Buck LaCroix and Red Fagan at third with Billy Tirrell in left, Jarvis or Greene in center and Cummings and Pingree in right. Pingree has been hitting the ball better than either Arico or Berghinzo, the first basemen now and it may be that he will go back to the initial sack if this continues for Cummings is too good a man to displace in right field, although Cummings can also play the infield. Breen is expected back at third this week after suffering an ankle injury last week.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—When the arrival of an ex-champion with no more exciting prospects than a battle in court, instead of the ring, gives the arrival of the baseball season a fairly good run for headlines it's something to think about. Tex Rickard probably is.

The commotion upon Jack Dempsey's return to New York, the popular acclaim that has greeted him everywhere he has gone and all the journalistic furor emphasizes in what the boys call poignant fashion the old mauler's hold on public imagination. The probability that neither Gene Tunney nor Tom Heeney, both of whom have very definite fighting objects in mind, would create as much excitement in Gotham makes it all the more poignant to the calculations of a promoter.

Consequently it isn't strange to find all manner of rumor floating about, dealing with Dempsey's return to the ring, in spite of his flat reiteration of the statement that he is through.

Dempsey's boxing equipment had been shipped here secretly for use at Gus Wilson's camp up-state. Wilson denied this.

Thereupon it is suggested Dempsey will stay in the background until after the Tunney-Heeney fight in July, then decide he has changed his mind and will return to battle the winner in September.

There is not much, if any plausibility to this, profitable though it unquestionably would be as a business arrangement. It has been difficult all along for the boys to think of Dempsey in retirement. They have heard him say it so often before that they cannot be blamed for being skeptical.

But there is a ring of sincerity to the former champion's tune now. He has every reason to rest on his laurels. In fact the very popularity he enjoys now, the prestige that resulted from his second and sensational fight with Tunney, are arguments in favor of his quitting the ring. Dempsey doesn't need money and it is difficult to perceive how another fight would add distinction to his record, especially as he is willing to admit himself he is only 40 per cent of the old champion, in fighting equipment.

If it has taken this long for Dempsey to recover from the effects of injury to his eye in Chicago it would seem foolhardy for him to risk possibly permanent damage, if not physical disaster in another bout. He has no desire to join the list of those who have stayed in the ring too long and become punch-goofy.

There seems to be much regret among the intimates of the incumbent champion, Gentleman Gene Tunney, over the persistence with which he is "misunderstood." This comes from one who has been closely associated with him, both before and since his rise to the title.

"Just because Gene has a desire to read some of the better literature and because his vocabulary has assimilated a word or two that isn't tossed across the pie counters with every crust; because his companions are rather well refined ladies and gentlemen; because he would rather hear Fritz Kreisler play a fiddle than infest a night club or see a burlesque show; because he doesn't play on cheap emotions for the tin pan plaudits of the curious, he is misunderstood by a public that would admire him tremendously if it knew him at all.

"Tunney would be an unusual young man—as the world knows it—young men today—whether he had become a bill clerk or a resident banker. In the fight business his unusualness is magnified by his individuality and by the traditional comparison with other incumbents of the heavyweight championship throne.

"He doesn't pose as a mental giant because he reads books. He reads books with the same zest that others enjoy bridge or play poker. It is a recreation. He isn't high hat because he chooses his own company.

HULBERT AND KENNEDY NAME FRIDAY FOR INQUIRY

NEW HAVEN, April 15—(AP)—Murray Hulbert, of New York, president of the National A. A. U. and William J. Kennedy, head of the Connecticut body, have designated April 20 as the date for the opening of a formal inquiry into allegations that amateur boxers throughout the state have received financial considerations for their appearances in the ring.

At this hearing, Bobby Mele, handler attached to the Elm City gymnasium who made the original charges against Joseph M. Wirtz, chairman of the board of registration, will be called to place his statement formally before National President Hulbert.

It is the intention of the national and state officials of the A. A. U. to thoroughly investigate the entire situation not as it affects New Haven alone, but as it effects the entire state.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

New Britain High

New Britain high's athletic prestige has slipped some in the last year or so. This school used to be a leader in sports year in and year out, together with Hartford and New Haven Hillhouse forming the "big three" of the state. Now, only Hillhouse remains as a chief figure in state title arguments in the sports.

New Britain had a fair season last year, winning from its chief rival, Hartford High, but getting some bad beatings outside. Coach Cassidy had none too capable material with which to work.

This year the outlook is little changed with no outstanding new players to replace the veterans of last year. This school was not so very hard hit by graduation and it may be that she can turn out a good team this year with the material on hand. However, things do not look overly bright and it is fairly certain that New Britain will be no serious threat this season, at least.

A rather light schedule has been arranged with two games with Hartford public high, its ancient rival and Weaver, also of the Insurance City being the objective ones. The Hardware City club plays the Academy here on May 12.

'BOUT SPORTS

Basketball has slipped by with Norwich not getting the promised city league. After last year's loop there was much talk of forming for the season now history and it was thought practically certain that a league, fashioned somewhat after the successful Industrial one in baseball last summer would have been organized. But, although Physical Director McKeen of the Y made many attempts to get enough teams together to start something, way back in December, nothing happened.

Of course, basketball does not rival baseball in the heart of Norwich fandom but it seems, that with so much interest in a diamond loop each year, some of the overflow of this interest ought to fall on the court sport. It takes time to properly ingrain a sport like basketball into the sporting life of a community and probably next year or in a few years, Norwich will have a strong organization in basketball that will be awaited each succeeding year with enthusiasm.

Those two old rivals, the Academy and New London Bulkeley, ought to get a fair line on how good each is during the coming week when the fast little Deep River high aggregation tackles both of them in the space of two days. Wednesday the Whalers play Linder and Co., at Mercer field while the Wildcats are the hosts Friday.

While this will be the Red and White's first scholastic clash as a state champion it will also probably be its first game. There is nothing certain about a game Wednesday for the locals and, going against such a team as Deep River is for the first game and winning will be quite some task.

Bulkeley has two scholastic clashes under its belt already, these being wins over Westerly and Plainfield and in a comparison between her and N. F. A. she would have an edge. However the Deep River coach will no doubt use his pitching ace Walter Linder against one of these two teams and if it be against the Orange and Black that he ascends the hill, then here is an edge for the Red and White team.

SEVERAL TEAMS ALREADY PREPARE FOR INDUSTRIAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

Although the season is two months off, there is much interest at the present time being shown by various teams about the city in the proposed Industrial league. Already several teams have started practice and have either played or are on the verge of playing their first games.

It is understood that a meeting will be called shortly by the recreation to start things moving for the second season of the Dusty league, which was such a success last summer. The league will not open until the middle of June but it is thought desirable that something definite be known at this time about the formation of the loop.

May Have Six Teams

It is said that this year the league will be of six teams, two being sliced off last year's number. What the make up of the league will be is not known as yet, although several teams desiring to enter such a loop are already planning on their players.

The Thermos Bottle has stolen a march on all the teams, having its entire team lined up and ready for action. Its first game was slated for last Saturday against Riverview at the Hospital grounds but now the game has been moved up to this week end. William Hastedt was chosen manager and he promptly went to work, sized up his men and announced his starting lineup, which is pretty much the same as that of last year's. However, it is worthy of note that Stanley, the southpaw hurler, is in the harness this year and no doubt will be ready for the first Dusty league game. Last year, this player was ineligible for the league race.

The Y. M. C. A., strong entrants in last year's league, have been holding practice at their gym for several nights now. They have a likely looking squad slated to appear for outdoor practice in two weeks. It is understood that two teams will be carried with 30 men on the squad. Two schedules will probably be drawn up with several Saturday games outside the league on them.

The Richmond Radiators, last year's champs, are holding informal practice sessions daily and will probably burst out with regular drills when daylight saving time comes. The champs will be missing a few of last year's team but Manager McCrum has strong hopes of again making a great showing.

Nothing definite has come out of other shops who were entered in the league last year. The International Silver has practically the entire 1927 bunch on hand while Wermans is said to be enthusiastic about getting started. J. B. Martin, Corticelli Silk and Atlantic Carton were the other teams last year who, if they entered this year, would need considerable of reinforcements.

New London On May 13

New London's league, known as the City league, will open its season on Sunday, May 13, with the Sub Base and Socony teams, champs and runners-up in 1927, respectively, furnishing the fireworks. The league in the Whaling City is to be on six teams this year instead of the usual four, the Ockfords and Waterford firemen having been accepted to play alongside the Socony, Fort Trumbull Stars, Kaceys and Sub Base. The league may use Mercer Field, Bulkeley's new athletic plant.

CARR AND RICKARD IN POLE-VAULT DUEL AT U. OF PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15—(AP)—A pole vaulting duel that will have a sequel in the Olympic games is set for the second day of the Annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival on April 27 and 28.

Since Charles Hoff has been banished for professionalism, the two best vaulters in the world are declared to be Sabin Carr, of Yale, world's outdoor and indoor record holder for the event, and Victor Pickard, of the University of Pittsburgh.

Carr, is the hope of this country in the event, and Pickard though a student at a university in the United States, is the hope of Canada, his native land. Pickard competed in the 1924 Olympics for the dominion.

Pickard holds a verdict over Carr which he gained at last year's relay carnival. He won the event with a leap of 12 feet 10 11-2 inches. The best Carr could do was 12 feet 6 inches giving him a tie with Sturdy of Yale. Carr regained his form and soared over the bar at 14 feet for a new world's record in the eastern intercollegiate meet.

That Carr ha sloat none of his form of last spring was evidenced during the winter campaign when he leaped 14 feet 1 inch for a new indoor world's record.

Frank O'Brien, of St. Xavier's college, Cincinnati, Sturdy and Pond, of Yale, and Pitman, Williams and Berry of Cornell, are other stars who will engage Carr on the last Friday and Saturday of the month.

PAUL WANER STILL LEADS IN "BIG SIX"

(By the Associated Press)

Paul Waner remained in the lead of the "big six" by smashing out a single in the Pirate-Red game at Cincinnati yesterday, although his average fell from .455 to .400. Big poison drove in a run which helped the Pirates win their first game of the season over Cincinnati, 3 to 2. Heilmann got a double in the Detroit-Cleveland game, boosting his average fifteen points to .250. Hornsby and Cuyler went hitless while Ruth and Cobb were idle.

RUTH AND GEHRIG BOTH HIT FOR CIRCUIT AS YANKS WIN

BALTIMORE, April 15—(AP)—The home run twins—Ruth and Gehrig—gave Baltimore baseball fans, who jammed Oriole park today, what they wanted by way of circuit clouts when each of them, together with Dickey, Yankee catcher, smashed out homers to win over the Baltimore internationals by the score of 5 to 2.

Jack Dunn's Orioles started the scoring in the second inning and tallied another in the fourth when the Yankees hit their stride. Score by innings:

AROUND THE RING

(By Charles W. Dunkley, Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, April 15—(AP)—With a record of 29 knockouts in 32 bouts, K. O. Christner of Akron, Ohio, is reaping the reward of publicity these days by having his name mentioned as a possible contender for the world's heavyweight championship.

Christner may or may not be a contender. Battles of the future will determine his status as a fighting man. To date all his contests have been against minor league opponents. What he will be able to do against foes who know what it is all about is the important question but 29 knockouts cannot be laughed off.

Christner, who is employed in the rubber works at Akron, is no yearling in the boxing game. Like Bob Fitzsimmons, Christner did not start until he was 30 years old. That was two years ago. He fights in the same clubbing style as Luis Firpo, and like the Wild Bull of the Pampas, never lets up on his opponent until he is resting on the canvas.

The big Ohioan is following the footsteps of Sergeant Bob Martin, who got his start in the Akron rubber works, later winning the championship of the A. E. F. Like Martin, Christner also served in the army, but not overseas. He was with Pershing in Mexico.

Christner seaves a battle with Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy, if for no other reason than to determine the heavyweight championship of Ohio.

Joey Sangor, the Milwaukee featherweight, who aspires to unseat Tony Canzoneri for the ownership of the world's featherweight championship, may get his chance in Chicago, June 21. Promoter Jim Mullen wants to stage the match in White Sox ball park. The freckled-faced Sangor has become a favorite with Chicagoans as a result of his technical knockout victory over Buddy Taylor.

Wisconsin has joined with the New York state athletic commission in warring against boxers who specialize in clinching. Ralph Wettstein, chairman of the Badger athletic board, has instructed referees to be more severe in the future with battlers who display ballroom holds and show no desire to stand off and punch.

Henry Komrofsky, Detroit merchant and former public school inspector, is the newest member of the Michigan state athletic commission. He was appointed by Governor Green, replacing Charles M. Hall of Detroit, who, with two other members of the board, resigned when they demanded the resignation of Chairman Thomas Bigger. Gov. Green, instead of acceding to their demands, accepted their resignations. Komrofsky, who is 56 years old, has been an ardent boxing fan for years. He says he is not a boxing authority, but just a fan who likes the game and wants to see it in a healthy condition.

Cecil ("Seal") Harris, giant Negro heavyweight of Chicago, will invade Germany to take a few socks at Hans Breitenstrater, claimant of the heavyweight championship of Germany. The bout will be staged in July. Harris, 21 years old, standing 6 feet 3 inches, and scaling 235 pounds, is a protege of Jack Johnson, one time world's heavyweight champion. Harris has engaged in only a few contests, but Johnson is convinced that he is a promising heavyweight prospect.

Billy Wallace, one of the outstanding challengers for the lightweight championship, is getting ready to resume boxing after being idle since last November as a result of an operation on his left hand, broken in his contest with Jimmy McLaurin at Detroit.

CHAMPION PIRATES OFF TO BAD START

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, National league champions, were left at the post as the big league hordes moved into action in the opening of the 1928 pennant races.

Picked by a majority of observers to repeat their championship stride, the bold Corsairs have been unable to advance in their first three games, two of which were lost by shutouts.

The Cardinals made an impressive showing in jolting the Buccaneers with the colorful figure of old Grover Cleveland Alexander, the "great one," exercising his wizardry by whitewashing the Bushmen.

Frisch Gets Good Start

With two home runs in successive games, Frankie Frisch, ex-Giant, forecast another brilliant year with the Cards. The Cardinal outfit rolled up 20 runs for the commencement week, the high total for all the major aggregations while 34 hits corraled fell one short of the mark attained by the Cleveland Indians.

Those who insisted that Art Nehf's days were numbered have come to attention. Nehf was sold by the Giants to the Reds two years ago when he had neuritis. Cincinnati in turn despatched Nehf to the Cubs. The former New York star, whom McGraw describes as "one of the greatest world series pitchers I ever knew," turned in a sparkling performance against the Reds, blanking them and yielding only six hits.

Cleveland, St. Louis and New York shaded the other American league clubs at the getaway, the Indians and Browns ringing up three consecutive triumphs while the Yankees took the "number" of the Athletics twice.

Yanks As of Old

Any feeling that Connie Mack's roster of old warriors would check the stampede of "murderer's row" disappeared after the opening tiffs. Cleveland and Washington led their circuit in runs scored at 19 for each club.

The week's major league record of games won and lost, runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs and home runs, including games of Saturday, follows:

"JOSH" BILLINGS HURLS TIGERS TO FIRST WIN

DETROIT, April 15—(AP)—Haskell "Josh" Billings, Detroit's young pitcher, held Cleveland to five scattered hits today while his mates were pounding out a 8 to 2 victory. It was Detroit's first victory of the season and Cleveland's first defeat.

Billings retired the last fourteen Indian batters to face him in order, besides driving out a double and single in two official turns at bat.

Senators 6, Red Sox 5

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Timely hitting gave Washington a 6 to 5 decision over the Boston Red Sox today. About 10,000 fans braved a cold day to see Fred Marberry, former relief pitcher turn in his second win in as many starts.

Goslin's home run in the third, with two on base, and his circus catch off Hofman's bat in the second inning while stretching high up on the left field wall were features. Both Ruffing and Marberry were hit freely.

Braxton relieved Marberry in the ninth when Boston threatened to tie the score. He fanned Ken Williams for the final out.

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—The Giants scored their third successive victory here today, defeating the Phillies, 8 to 1, for the first time this season. More than 40,000 persons ventured to the polo grounds in chilly weather.

Frank O'Doul, one-time Yankee and lately a Pacific coast leaguer, led the Giant attack with a home run and two doubles. Jackson and Cohen also hit homers.

BROOKLYN, April 15—(AP)—Watson Clark shaded his fellow southpaw, Dutch Brandt, Seattle recruit, here today, and Brooklyn nosed out Boston, 3 to 2 in the opening game of the series. About 30,000 persons attended, despite the cold, and several thousands more were turned away.

Brandt was found for seven hits while Clark held the Braves to six. Three Boston safeties were bunched in the sixth when the Braves tied the score. Riconda's triple and Freigau's sacrifice fly gave the Robins the winning run in their own half of the sixth.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL TRADE SLOWED UP FOLLOWING THE EASTER RUSH

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Improvement in business conditions last week was confined largely to the so-called heavy industries, while wholesale and retail trade were slowed up by the usual slump which follows the Easter holiday rush. March reports, just appearing indicate activity somewhat in advance of that for the same month of last year, although handicapped in some regions by bad weather and heavy roads.

As in previous weeks, the steel and automobile industries made the most progress, as compared with a year ago. Schedules of operations were maintained on practically the same level as those of the preceding week, and there was little change in prices. Needs of motor makers and structural interests were among the chief factors sustaining the steel trade through early April at about the level reached in March. There was a renewal of heavy buying for the account of the railroads.

Further increase in employment at Detroit was only one of the signs of improvement in the motor trade, with production fully equal to that of a year ago in the first quarter, despite a failure to come up to expectations of early January.

Building showed marked progress, both number of permits and value of proposed construction during March comparing well with the figures of the same month in 1927. In this branch, a particularly good report for the first quarter was made by the manufacturers of and dealers in cement.

Freight loadings for the last week of March, and for the first 13 weeks of the year, were below those of both 1927 and 1926. This barometer, however, was short of much of its significance by the fact that a large part of the decrease has been represented by shipments of bituminous coal, which were at high levels in the two preceding years. Coal shipments fell off sharply with the beginning of April, 1927, following the strike of miners in the eastern bituminous fields.

The textile industry was featured by continued activity of moderate proportions in cotton goods, and a belief among wool merchants that a distinct turn upward was to be expected withing a very short time.

The stock market continued to attract widespread interest, with the most active week in history. Every full session of the week recorded sales in excess of 4,000,000 shares and the prices of many stocks continued to march upward.

Some tightening of the money market was noticed, time loans, commercial paper and bankers' acceptances all ruling slightly above the foregoing week, while call loans reached six per cent., the highest level of the year. Call money, however, softened late in the week, when an enormous volume of funds flowed in from interior points and was made available to traders in securities. Early predictions that the federal reserve bank would increase its rediscount rate were not borne out as directors of the institution at their weekly meeting on Thursday made no change in the existing charge of 4 per cent.

The movement of gold to other markets was not large during the week, but attention was drawn to the fact that $300,000,000 has been exported or earmarked since September. Although about $100,000,000 has been shipped to France in recent months, most of it has been withdrawn from the republic's earmarked reserve in this market, and has had no bearing on the money situation.

Bank clearings dropped about 25 per cent. under the total of the preceding week, but showed a moderate gain over the same period of last year.

FRANKLIN

Two small grass fires have been reported to Fire Warden F. I. Date this season. The first was on land owned by Frank Date and was set by sparks from a passing railroad engine. The second fire was on land owned by Fred Rodman. Small boys set this fire in trying to smoke out a rabbit. A permit to kindle a fire is needed now if one complies with the law concerning outdoor fires. There is a greater danger of fire spreading in the woods, for leaves were not packed down and dampened by heavy winter snows.

SMOOTH SWINDLER LANDS IN TOILS OF LAW BY ALERTNESS OF POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 16—The police Saturday night arrested a crook who, they believe, has been making a practice of swindling merchants in New England and before his case is disposed of in the police court, it is probable that a complete check-up of the crook's record will be made for it is understood that he just concluded a sentence in New York state. He gave his name as Charles Sullivan, 24, and residing at the Hotel Commodore, at Hartford. He said he was employed as a salesman. It is possible that this name is fictitious, especially as a certificate of membership in the Newspaper Writers' and Advertising association, made out in the name of George E. Patterson was found in his possession. Sullivan and a companion, arrived in New London yesterday afternoon and according to the former from Boston. About 6 o'clock the pair went to Bank street, where Sullivan started the fraudulent scheme known to the gambling fraternity as "laying the note" Sullivan entered the National Economy store and started his method of robbing a clerk. He purchased a box of cigarettes, tending a $10 bill in payment. As the clerk, Joseph Memphle returned the change to Sullivan, the latter exhibited some change and requested that he be given on the $10 bill back and that payment for the cigarettes would be made in specie. In returning the money to Memphis Sullivan palmed a $5 bill and left the store. Hardly had Sullivan departed than Memphle discovered the fraudulent scheme and reported the incident to the store manager. The police were notified and Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case. Going to the store, the officer was given but a meagre description of Sullivan, simply that he was young, tall and slim and wore tortoiseshell glasses and light clothes. Sergeant Cavanaugh was scrutinizing passengers in the vicinity of the bus station when he observed two young men and apparently strangers approaching and as one wore glasses, the pair were held up and questioned. Sullivan pretended to be humiliated, especially when informed that he must accompany the officer to the Bank street store for the purpose of identification. At first Sullivan refused to accompany the officer, but a brief conversation resulted in Sullivan walking to the store where the clerk positively identified Sullivan as the fellow who had crooked him. Sullivan was taken to police headquarters and locked up and when searched a crumpled $5 bill was found in his clothing. Sullivan finally admitted his act, but would not reveal the identity of his companion. Sullivan attempted to establish communication with some friends in Hartford for the purpose of entreating them to become surety on his bond, but he was not successful. Sullivan's record will be sought of the New York and Hartford police.

Sullivan was released this afternoon when a New London man qualified as surety on his bond of $1000.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. E. Stockel Saturday ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of two New London men. One is Prof. Colin S. Buell, 54 Vauxhall street and principal of Williams Memorial Institute. The other is Morris Luchansky, 427 Bank street.

Walker Pfeiffer, Holbrook, Mass., was arrested Friday night by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh at the request of the Holbrook police. Saturday an officer came to New London from Holbrook and escorted the prisoner back to that city for trial.

A fire occurred Saturday night at the Connecting Motor Transportation company's garage, Water street, when a lively blaze was discovered in the chimney. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and Nameaug Engine company responded. The blazing soot was extinguished with chemicals for not until after the firemen had worked on the fire 30 minutes. The building was extensively damaged and nine busses, either destroyed or damaged, by a fire several months ago.

Mrs. Celindy Newby Simmons, 83, widow of Joshua Simmons, formerly of New London, died last Thursday at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Lettie Huggins, Brooklyn, N. Y. During her residence in New London, Mrs. Simmons' husband was employed by the Sheffield Dentifrice company.

John Mulcahy, who week before last struck Lorraine Sisan, 11, while walking down Howard street, was hailed before the police court Saturday morning. He pleaded not guilty to the charge brought by the girls parents and the case was continued for one month. The facts of the case in which Mulcahy is embroiled are that the girl claims that when she went into the yard of the house owned by the defendant to retrieve a ball that had been lost during play, she was grabbed by Mulcahy and struck in the face with such force that she fell to the ground. Her statement was corroborated by 13 year old John McArthur, who was playing with her at the time The defendant claims that he did not strike the girl and that her fall was due to the fact that she rushed into him with great speed as he started to walk from his yard to the street. After hearing all the evidence Judge S Victor Prince continued the case and ordered the police and probation officer to investigate all the facts of the case so that an equitable decision might be rendered when the case comes up for a final hearing.

Contrary to the general impression in this city that Hibbard N. Alexander recently appointed tax collector, is to receive a salary of $18,000 for 18 months work in that office, it was announced Saturday that all he would receive would be a commission of four and one half per cent. on all money that he succeeded in collecting. Back taxes amount to little less than a half million dollars and his commission on this sum, should he successfully collect it, would, it is true, amount to something like the sum he is reported to have been hired for. In addition to his duties of collecting from delinquent taxpayers, Mr. Alexander is duty bound to install a new system of accounting in the city office. City officials want it clearly understood that Mr. Alexander gets no salary whatever, and that his remuneration is to be in direct proportion to the amount of overdue taxes he may be able to collect.

Despite efforts of the New London police no clue has been found as to the identity of the assailant of Mrs. George Gilmore, who was brutally assaulted shortly before midnight Thursday night. Mrs. Gilmore was in a greatly improved condition today yet when questioned by police, was unable to furnish any accurate description of the fiend who attacked her. She stated that she was grabbed so suddenly by the man, who immediately choked her into a semi-conscious condition, that she cannot remember one single thing regarding his appearance or actions that might aid the police in finding the perpetrator of the crime.

Whitham was held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her former residence, Pleasant Valley, Groton and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Relatives and former intimate friends of Mrs. Whitham officiated as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Henry A. Champion, 79, former veteran railway postal clerk, died Friday night at his former residence, 40 Franklin street. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Florence Champion with whom Mr. Champion resided. Mr Champion's health displayed signs of breaking down several months ago and since then, because of the infirmities attending his advanced years, his condition gradually became worse. Mr Champion had been a postal clerk ever since he was a young man and was pensioned several years ago. Mr Champion for many years had a run between New London and New Haven, making a round trip daily. His last postal service was at the sub-station at the union depot.

E. Norrie, James Orkney, George Marquardt, B. O. Fowler and Matthew P. O'Brien; clerk, Leo W. Brogan; treasurer, Milton M. Baker; caucus committee, Raymond Farwell, Mrs. P. G. Arthur Scott Dart, 146 Bradley street, New Haven, and Martin Baglin, United States Coast Guard academy were arrested this afternoon charged with violation of the automobile laws. Dart was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin charged with failing to reduce speed or sound a signal on passing intersecting streets and Baglin was arrested by Patrol Officer George Perkins charged with driving an automobile without having a driver's license, or registration. Both were ordered to present themselves in the police court Monday.

Adelaide French, about 8, residing at 891 Bank street, was struck by an automobile driven by William C. Stanton, New London road, Mystic, but escaped with injuries no more serious than minor bruises and contusions. The child ran into the street in front of her home and in front of the auto. She was knocked down and Stanton caused the girl to be taken to the office of a physician where the injuries were determined to be trivial. The girl was then taken to her abode.

Henry Titisky, Montville, came to New London tonight in his Buick automobile, registration, N-1709. He drove to State street where he alighted to purchase a cigar. While Titisky only absented himself but about three minutes, that time was sufficient for a thief to steal the car, for when Titisky emerged from the store he discovered the automobile missing. He reported the theft at police headquarters and the state police at Groton and Centerbrook, as well as the police of Norwich, Westerly, Middletown, Hartford and New Haven were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen auto.

The funeral of Miss Adelaide Louise Moxley, former teacher in the Montville school, who died in her apartment in the Crocker house several days ago, was held at 15 Masonic street this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Miss Amire Lovell, First Reader, Christian Science church. The bearers were A. Denison Smith, Robert H. Byles, Albert B. Hart and Cecil Spicer. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

The funeral of John Raymond, one month and 20 days old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Clifford Friars, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Edward Taft, formerly of New London and Waterford, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital where he had been a patient but a few days He was of advanced years and had been in failing health some time.

James L. Gard, about 70, died suddenly this afternoon at his lodging house, 33 Golden street, death ending an illness of about three weeks. So far as is known he is unsurvived, for his father and aunt died about a year ago and a brother died about four years ago. Mr. Gard was one of the former veteran hack drivers in this city and for many years he and a dozen other hack drivers had a stand at the union station where the present taxicab drivers maintain a stand When the horse-drawn public conveyance passed out of existence because of the advent of the automobile, Mr. Gard disposed of his horse and hacks and since then had operated a taxicab. Mr. Gard had not been confined to his bed, but had remained in his room since becoming indisposed. About 2:30 o'clock an occupant of the rooming house went to Mr. Gard's room and found his dead in bed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

It cannot be denied that "Chicago," a De Mille studio production for Pathe, which was shown at the Breed theatre yesterday, is a great picture. It scored a triumph. Its reception by local picture fans was most enthusiastic. It must be admitted also that Phyllis Haver, as the jazz-crazed wife, and "Victor Varconi, as her forgiving husband, presented portrayals so artistic in conception and execution as to amaze their most ardent admirers. Directed by Frank Urson, this screen version of Maurine Watkins's celebrated stage success, "Chicago," is decidedly one of the best productions presented here in many years.

The story deals with a vixen wife who, to gratify her wild desires, deceives her husband. When her "uncel daddy" seeks to rid himself of the shackles with which she has enslaved him she deliberately murders him. Although her husband is aware of her infidelities, his love for her prompts him to do all in his power to save her from the chair, and when a rascally criminal lawyer, portrayed by Robert Edeson, demands an excessive fee he commits a burglary. Roxie Hart is heralded by the press as "the beautiful jazz slayer," and she reveals in her notoriety which ultimately results in her acquittal. Then her husband casts her off and she finds herself an outcast, alone and forgotten.

There are many scenes of dramatic force and the swift-moving action is revealed by flashes of genuine comedy. The work of the supporting cast which includes, besides those named, May Robson, Julia Faye, Virginia Bradford and T. Roy Barnes, was eminently satisfactory. "Chicago" is a picture that lives up to its reputation and it is quite worthwhile.

Strand Theatre

"The Fourth Commandment," which opened to a well filled house at the Strand theatre on Sunday night is one of those pictures that everyone should see. The real message of the big production is "Honor Thy Father and Mother." Belle Bennett, magnificent in disaster, achieves another fine mother role. Her power to sway the audience with her moods is a fine tribute to her talent as a great actress. Supporting Miss Bennett in the surging story of mother love is Mary Carr, beloved screen mother of "Over the Hill." Other screen notables in the supporting cast are Henry Victor Robert Agnew, June Marlowe and Kathleen Myers and Wendal Phillips Franklin. This is a newly release picture and is being shown in this city for absolutely the first time. For all lovers of romance, action and thrills, Ted Wells in "Straight Shooting," is earnestly recommended. This is a fast moving tale, punctuated literally with thrilling scenes, fights, hair-raising rides and not a little comedy Wells in proving himself a hero in saving an unfortunate mine owner from a band of crooks, falls in love with the owner's daughter. The cast supporting Wells is an excellent one comprising Lillian Gilmore, Buck Connor and Wilbur Mack.

"King of Sports" is an attractive color scenic.

Palace Theatre.

It might well be said that King Vidor gives the picturegoers three new things in "The Crowd," his Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which opened yesterday at the Palace theatre.

Something new in screen drama.

A new Eleanor Boardman in the featured feminine role.

A brand new male lead in James Murray, erstwhile extra man who will never grace the "extra list" again.

"The Crowd has made James Murray just as a single picture in years gone by has established other screen players.

Eleanor Boardman has done good work before in many Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions. She was lovely opposite John Gilbert in "Bradleys, the Magnificient." She was good opposite Charles Ray in "The Auction Block," and she helped carry on with the remainder of the principals in "Exchange of Wives," but she has never before been cast in a role which has permitted her to really show her wide range of acting ability.

With the showing Eleanor Boardman has made in "The Crowd," there is little doubt that she will be given other roles which will permit her to exercise her powers of emotion.

James Murray was an extra boy for three years before he was suddenly thrust into one of the really big films roles of the season. It is a pity that three years have been allowed to elapse with a boy of Murray's ability seeking atmospheric work by the day when he should have been appearing in featured parts. His "discovery" by Director Vidor is another feather in the cap of that directorial ace.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patents.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Shelly the Armadillo

From tip of nose to end of tail
I'm guarded by a coat of mail,
—Shelly the Armadillo.

Peter Rabbit arrived quite out of breath at the place Bobby Coon and Prickly Porky the Porcupine had been listening to Scrapper the Kingbird and Boomer the Nighthawk as they told of some of the queer folk they had seen on their travels to the far-away Tropics.

"Yes," said Scrapper, watching Peter from the corner of one eye, "that certainly is a handy coat."

Instantly Peter Rabbit sat up and his two long ears stood up like two interrogation points. "Whose coat is handy?" he demanded.

"Shelly's," replied Scrapper.

"Shelly? Shelly?" exclaimed Peter, looking very much puzzled. "Who is Shelly?"

"Why, Shelly the Armadillo, of course," declared Scrapper, in a tone which suggested that he was surprised that Peter didn't know.

Peter scratched one long ear with a long hindfoot. Then he tried with the other long hindfoot to scratch the other long ear. "Say that again," said he. "I don't believe I've ever heard of that fellow."

"Then it's high time for you to learn something about him," retorted Scrapper. "Every one in the neighborhood where he lives knows Shelly the Armadillo. I guess a good many envy him."

"Why should he be envied?" demanded Peter.

Scrapper replied by asking a question in his turn. "Who," he asked, "besides Prickly Porky the Porcupine finds protection in his coat? He is one of your old friends."

"Spotty the Turtle," replied Peter, promptly. "Prickly Porky and Spotty the Turtle are the only ones with coats good for anything except to keep them warm."

"Well," replied Scrapper, "now you know of someone else. Shelly the Armadillo has just such a protective coat, only a much more handy one. It is a good thing he has, too, for he certainly cannot defend himself. He can't bite, for he has almost no teeth at all. He isn't big enough to do any damage with his feet. So it is a good thing that he has that shell coat."

"Does he curl his tail around the way Spotty the Turtle does?" Peter inquired.

"Why should he be envied?" demanded Peter

"He doesn't have to," retorted Scrapper. "His tail—and his tail is quite long—is covered with shell clear to the tip. Even his face is protected in that way."

"Huh!" said Peter. "I suppose he's a slow mover, like the members of the Turtle family."

"Not so you'd notice it," replied Scrapper. "When he's in a hurry, or is dodging some enemy, he can get about in a way that would be a credit to a member of the Rabbit family. And, by the way, Peter, he lives in a hole in the ground."

"Does he dig it himself?" inquired Peter.

Scrapper nodded. "Yes, indeed," said he. "He digs it himself and he spends a good deal of his time in it. He likes to come out late in the afternoon and roam about. But he takes pains not to get too far from that hole."

"What does he live on?" demanded Peter.

"O-oh, different things," replied Scrapper, "ants and worms and insects and grasshoppers. There's one thing I like about him and that is that he minds his own business. I know of no one more given to minding his own business than Shelly the Armadillo."

COLLEGE PRESIDENT COMMENDS Y. M. C. A. FOR CHARACTER BUILDING

The churches of Norwich united Sunday evening in a mass meeting at the Central Baptist church, which was the annual anniversary service of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. The address was delivered by Dr. Benjamin T. Marshall, president of Connecticut college, New London, and Maurice Wallen, well known tenor soloist, was heard in several splendidly rendered numbers. Herbert W. Cary, president of the Y. M. C. A., presided at the service which opened at 7:30 o'clock. During the service General Secretary Edwin Hill briefly reviewed the activities of the association the past year which he said has been a most active one and the busiest year in the association's history as far back as can be remembered. The activities have not been confined to one department, as all departments have been active. The boys' department has seen an exceedingly busy year.

Mr. Hill said that it was with regret he announced that the association, during the past year, has lost by death a number of its finest supporters and he expressed the hope that others will take their place in order to enable the association to continue its work. Mr. Hill, speaking of the annual financial campaign which opens this (Monday) morning, said he hoped that there will be at least 100 subscribers who will increase their subscriptions this year.

President Cary spoke briefly of the campaign which starts this morning. He said that if any subscribers are obliged to go out of town today before they are interviewed by campaign workers they may call the Y. M. C. A. by telephone and state the amount of their subscriptions.

President Benjamin T. Marshall of Connecticut college was presented to the congregation by President Cary. Dr. Marshall spoke on the topic, Men Touched by God. He read a selection from the tenth chapter of First Samuel and announced his text as the 26th verse of that chapter, "And there went with him a band of men whose hearts God had touched."

The Israelites recognized that it was the fashion to have a king, said Dr. Marshall. They hungered perhaps for royalty, pageantry and display. Here was a great day for the people when they chose a king. When he turned from the moment of choice and people honored him, he went not alone. There went with him a band of men whose hearts had been touched by God.

Every leader, every king or president, kaiser or premier, needs about him men whose hearts God has touched. Man is on the way to acquire a kingdom; to develop in himself the qualities of kinghood, not to rule over others alone. He is on the way to acquire a rulership over his own spirit. He has a long way to go.

There is not a day in your life you are not in debt to the chemist. We are indebted to the scientists, our engineers and our inventors. Speaking of the great progress science and invention has made, Dr. Marshall called attention to the fact a message can be sent around the world, over continents and under oceans, in less than an hour.

HERBERT B. CARY
Y. M. C. A. President

In terms of government, man has no such success. In terms of conduct he still savors much of the animal. We have learned to harness vast forces and make them do our bidding. The question is, is man gaining a kinghood over his own soul?

With reference to the work and value of the Y. M. C. A., Dr. Marshall said that he is chiefly for the young. He said he is in service and thought with those who believe in the rising generation. The speaker said that he was glad to notice that young women have had the opportunity of participating in the advantages of the Norwich Y. M. C. A.

It is an organization for youth, he said. It is working for youth, making appeals to its taste, recognizing its plastic condition, and its love for the hero and strength. The Y. M. C. A., to my mind, is Christian. It considers the whole man, body, mind and spirit. It is one of the wisest organizations under the skies in that it recognizes its service is for the whole man. Many a church has taken a leaf out of the Y. M. C. A. and added a church house, gymnasium and swimming pool. The Y. M. C. A. is an association, another name for fellowship. It forges fine friendships. The finest men of the community are at the disposal of the Y. M. C. A. in the interests of youth. These are some of the things this organization has been doing.

The Y. M. C. A. has a definite aim. Its aim is to build successful men of character, reverence and power. That is the kind of men who are wanted. The cast credit on which business is conducted rests on character. The Y. M. C. A. builds bodies and minds. In closing, Dr. Marshall voiced a hope that the Y's financial campaign will be a success. The service closed shortly after 9 o'clock.

MENTAL HYGIENE TOPIC IN SOCIAL WORK CONFERENCE

The section of mental hygiene of the Connecticut state conference of social work, which will hold its meeting on Wednesday, April 25th, both morning and afternoon, in Stamford, is emphasizing the positive idea of mental hygiene; that is, what the right sort of normal, every-day routine life can do in establishing mental health.

Discussions will take place on home, school and the church in their relations to mental health and well-being. Mental is used here in its most inclusive sense, referring to emotional attitudes as well as intellectual interests.

Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at the First Presbyterian church there will be a round table on the subject "Mental Hygiene and the Home." The chairman of the meeting will be Dr. Roy L. Leak, superintendent of the Connecticut State hospital at Middletown. The speaker, Mrs. Gladys Hoagland Groves, of the University of North Carolina, will speak on the subject "Wholesome Family Life". There will be discussions by Dr. Lloyd J. Thompson and Miss Hester B. Crutcher of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene, New Haven, and the Rev. Gerald Cunningham of Stamford. In the afternoon at two o'clock there will be another Round Table meeting. The chairman will be Miss Eleanor Hope Johnson of the Connecticut Society of Mental Hygiene, New Haven. The general subject will be "Mental Hygiene and the Public Schools." The two speakers will be Miss Elizabeth E. Farrell, inspector of ungraded classes, board of education, New York city, and Dr. Ira S. Wile, director of child welfare clinic, Mount Sinai hospital, New York city.

At four o'clock at Stamford hall sanatorium tea will be served and there will be an exhibit under the auspices of the Occupational Therapy and Mental Hygiene groups.

FAMILY AT CHURCH WHEN HOUSE CAUGHT FIRE

An overheated kitchen stove caused a fire early Sunday morning which resulted in considerable damage to the house at No. 25 High street, occupied by Kostas Kendros. The family had left the house to attend the Easter services at the Greek church and the fire broke out before they had returned. The drafts on the stove had been left open and the stove became overheated, setting fire to some paper on top of an oil cook stove, nearby. The burning paper, in turn, caused the oil stove to catch fire and the flames spread to the kitchen floor, burning a hole about four feet square in the flooring.

Two children, on the way home from the Greek church, saw smoke coming from the house and notified Police Officer Eugene Calkins, who immediately pulled in box 141, High and Summit streets. The box was pulled in at 2:26 a. m. o'clock, calling out five pieces of apparatus.

As soon as he had pulled in the box Officer Calkins hurried back to the house and gained an entrance to see if there was anyone in the house. Chemical was used to extinguish the flames. The damage was $250 or more.

MISS M. C. ADLES' BROTHER STRICKEN WHILE AT DINNER

Norwich friends of Dr. Mary C. Adles, of New York, for a number of years in business in this city, have learned of the sudden death of her brother, whose home was on the Pacific slope, shortly after reaching New York from a business trip to Europe. He was at dinner with Dr. Adles when he was seized with acute indigestion. Becoming critically ill, he was taken to a hospital and died early the following morning. Mr. Adles was father of the gifted young actress, Marie Adels, a member of Walter Hampden's company playing in King Henry V at the Hampden theatre. Although Mr. Hampden provided a substitute, the young woman bravely continued to play her part, putting aside her grief.

The funeral was delayed until the arrival of another brother, Dr. Adles, a physician, from his home in Illinois. Much sympathy was expressed for the stricken family and members of the theatrical company and others sent most beautiful flowers for the funeral.

Dr. Mary C. Adles, whose nephew is a New York dentist, is now president of a dental company in Manhattan.

CREW OF BREMEN WILL ALL REACH NEW YORK TOGETHER

Irish Member of the Crew Will Remain in Canada Until His German Companions Are Ready to Continue in Their Own Plane or Another—An Endeavor is to Be Made to Repair and Refuel the Monoplane Bremen For Flight From Greenly Island to New York—Relief Plans For the Bremen Are Going Forward.

(By The Associated Press)

The three members of the crew of the Junkers monoplane Bremen, who braved together the dangers of a westward flight across the North Atlantic, were divided today, the two Germans standing by their disabled ship on Greenly Island and the Irishman continuing his journey in another plane.

The Bremen left Ireland last Thursday morning, and Friday afternoon, while thousands were waiting to welcome them at New York, the airmen were forced down on the little island locked in ice between Labrador and Newfoundland.

Sunday two pilots and a mechanic forced a hazardous way to the island from the mainland. Yesterday one of those pilots, C. A. (Duke) Schiller, flew away with Capt. James Fitzmaurice, co-pilot of the Bremen, taking him for the night to Natashquan, on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Schiller's companion pilot, Dr. Louis Cuisinier and his mechanic stayed on Greenly Island to give what help they could to Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenfeld, sponsor of the Bremen flight, and Capt. Hermann Koehl, the Bremen's chief pilot.

From Natashquan it was believed Schiller and Fitzmaurice would fly on to Quebec and thence down to New York. Some, however, thought that the Irish member of the crew would stay in Canada until his German companions were ready to continue in their own plane or another, so that all might reach New York, their original destination, together.

Relief plans for the Bremen continued during the day. Another Canadian Transcontinental Airways plane, similar to the one Schiller and Cuisinier flew, was at Seven Islands, to the south of Natashquan, ready to make the flight to Greenly Island today if it was decided that any assistance could be given.

A sister ship of the Bremen, the Junkers F 13, left New York yesterday for Montreal and was to establish a relief base either there or at Quebec today. The plane was flown by Fred Stedeker, Junkers expert who was accompanied by Herta and Erhardt Junkers, daughter and son of the manufacturer.

It was planned to strip the F-13 of any parts needed by the Bremen and ship them on to Greenly Island, with fuel, by plane. If it should prove impossible to repair the Bremen on Greenly Island, Miss Junkers said she would take the crew back to New York in the F-13.

In the meantime, the Canadian Government Ice Breaker Montcalm was pushing forward to the rescue and was expected to arrive at the island today unless piling ice should completely block its course. The Montcalm was prepared to take the Bremen and remaining members of its crew aboard and transport them to some point where they could get all the materials they might need for quick repairs to the plane.

Wives of both the married members of the Bremen crew, Capt. Fitzmaurice and Capt. Koehl, announced from Europ that they would come to America to join their husbands. They will sail on the same ship, leaving Kobh, Ireland, on April 21.

BREMEN MAY CONTINUE ITS FLIGHT TO NEW YORK

MONTREAL, April 16—(AP)—(Canadian Press)—The Junkers monoplane, Bremen, will continue its journey to New York Wednesday if repairs can be completed in time, the Canadian Press was informed tonight in a message given out by the local office of the Marconi Wireless company.

The message came from the Marconi company's superintendent, W. S. Barrett, at the Point Amour wireless station opposite Greenly Island.

Barrett's information came direct from the fliers at Greenly Island. His message read: "Bremen shaft damaged but repairable. Expect leave Greenly Island Wednesday. Bremen had fog and snow during part of its flight. Took Greenly Island lighthouse for sealing steamer but ascertained that it was lighthouse shortly afterwards and made landing on small pond. Crew were rather exhausted but quite recovered after a short time."

PREPARING FOR RECEPTION OF CREW OF THE BREMEN

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Load after load of lumber was stacked in city hall plaza today with which to build grand stands for the reception to the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen.

The reception committee said the arrangements of the grand stands will be the same as for the welcome to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, after he flew to France.

RECEPTION WILL TAKE PLACE WHEN ALL FLIERS ARRIVE

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—New York's official reception to the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen will take place when the three fliers are here together, Mayor Walker said tonight.

In a telegram to Captain James Fitzmaurice, who was flying to Natashquan, Que., from Greenly Island, the mayor said:

"All the citizens of New York, irrespective of race, color or creed, are awaiting impatiently the arrival of all three of the Bremen crew. Official program has been arranged on this basis; simultaneous reception to Captain Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld and yourself. I wish to renew my sincere congratulations."

DECREASE IN NUMBER OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES

HARTFORD, April 16—(AP)—With the coming of warmer weather, many of the communicable diseases decreased in numbers of cases in Connecticut, it is shown by the weekly bulletin issued today by the state department of health. During the week ending Monday at 11 o'clock, the number of new cases in diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough was less than the number during the previous week. Typhoid fever alone, of the more serious diseases, increased.

New cases of diphtheria totalled 23 last week, as compared to 25 for the week ending April 9. Scarlet fever dropped from 95 new cases to 57 last week, while measles decreased from 371 to 369 new cases. Typhoid fever was reported from three Connecticut municipalities, with one in each municipality, Hartford, Bristol and Middletown. One case was reported the previous week.

STRIKE HAS CAUSED NEW BEDFORD MILLS TO CLOSE

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 16—(AP)—Andrew Raebern, secretary of the Manufacturers' association, late this afternoon announced that the mills had closed down this afternoon and will not open again until further notice. He said there was not sufficient interest shown when the mills were open in the morning as usual to encourage the manufacturers to attempt to operate, and the mills are therefore, he stated, closed and will not re-open until further notice.

The only other development during the afternoon was a big mass meeting of operatives held in the Elm rink where 3,000 strikers crowded into the structure to hear reports of the strike.

Lindbergh took off from Denver this morning. With him are Harry H. Knight and Harold Bixby, of St. Louis.

LOBBYISTS ATTACKED BY SENATOR CARAWAY

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Lobbyists drew fire from the senate today as Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, proposed an inquiry of the financing and activities of various associations and special organizations about Washington.

Senator King, democrat, of Utah, joined in the attack with an equally vigorous assault upon those who would influence congress in behalf of special legislation and both senators charged certain organization leaders with sending out "lies."

The Arkansas senator was particularly put out at what he termed a lobby from every state in the union which was seeking to mislead the senate in regard to his pending bill for regulation of cotton figures trading. His resolution would have a senate committee investigate all lobbying activities however, and he said there were 350 or 400 special associations in Washington.

NAMED DEPUTY PROHIBITION ADMINISTRATOR FOR R. I.

HARTFORD, April 16—(AP)—John Morrill, chief agent in charge of prohibition enforcement in Connecticut, has been appointed deputy prohibition administrator for Rhode Island and left Hartford today to start immediately in his new position. Announcement of the transfer was made by Frank T. Putney, deputy administrator for Connecticut.

Mr. Morrill has directed prohibition enforcement in Connecticut since November, 1927, when he succeeded former Chief Agent James E. Wheeler. He came to Hartford from the Boston office of the enforcement bureau, where he had been stationed as a general agent for New England. Previous to that service he had been engaged in enforcement work in the Springfield, Providence and Manchester, N. H., offices of the United States prohibition enforcement bureau.

STOCK TICKER MAY OMIT THE VOLUME OF TRADING

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—A wave of opposition arose in Wall street today when the committee on arrangements of the stock exchange suggested the omission of the volume of trading from the running quotations on the ticker. The suggestion was a direct result of the present enormous business in stocks, which has resulted in delays of 30 minutes to almost an hour in the transmission of security prices.

The mechanical speed of the present ticker has reached its peak, the committee pointed out, and inasmuch as the new apparatus cannot be placed in operation for a considerable time, some other means of speeding up quotations must be found if the delays are to be overcome. By eliminating the number of shares involved in individual transactions, it is estimated that a saving in time of 15 to 20 per cent could be accomplished.

Socialists Nominate Presidential Ticket

Norman M[illegible] For President [illegible] Maurer For V[illegible]ident.

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Norman M. Thomas, of New York, and James Hudson Maurer, of Reading, Pa., were nominated today by the socialist party as its candidates for president and vice-president, respectively, in the November election.

Prolonged cheering by delegates was heard after both men were nominated by acclamation at the party's five-day convention at Finnish hall in Harlem. Thomas' name was proposed by Louis Waldman, of New York, while William J. Van Essen, of Pittsburgh, placed Maurer in nomination.

Both men have been long identified with the socialist movement, Thomas as the party's candidate for state and city office in New York, and Maurer as a veteran member of its national committee.

Thomas has already been a socialist candidate three times for public office and has worked for socialism throughout his career as a Protestant clergyman, editor and lecturer.

He was defeated as the socialist candidate for governor of New York in 1924, and as socialist candidate for mayor of New York in 1925, and lost for alderman here last year.

Thomas' views on pacifism brought him into conflict with Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, retired, at a recent parley on war at Wesleyan university at Middletown, Conn., where Admiral Plunkett denounced some of the Thomas' address as "bolshevik highbrow stuff."

Thomas was born in Marion, Ohio, Nov. 20, 1884. The son of a clergyman, he was educated to follow in his father's footsteps; after being graduated from Marion high school he attended Princeton university, receiving a bachelor of arts degree there in 1904 and a bachelor of divinity degree from Union Theological seminary in 1911.

Maurer, a shoemaker's son, who started work at the age of nine after less than two years attendance at school, worked as a machinist apprentice at 16 and later became a plumber, meanwhile developing an interest in the labor movement which finally won for him his present position as president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor.

PROUD OF HIS CREW ON THE DIRIGIBLE ITALIA

STOLP, Germany, April 16—(AP)—General Umberto Nobile, who brought his dirigible Italia through heavy weather from Milan to the Seddin airdrome in a perilous 30-hour flight, sprang the first surprise of his brief stay at Stolp by quietly stealing away from the hotel to the airdrome this morning when everybody supposed he was sleeping. Meeting the Italian mechanics, who preceded him a fortnight ago, he instructed them to repair the damage to the left stabilizer, which was slight, and also to overhaul the engines.

Returning to his hotel, he rested for a few hours and emerged in buoyant mood, now that the first actual step on his Arctic expedition has been taken.

"Yesterday's perilous flight," he said, "showed that the Italia is equal to any occasion. At times a head wind blew at 90 kilometres an hour. As the Italia only makes 100 kilometres an hour we could negotiate only ten kilometres hourly for part of our journey. No wonder it took 30 1-2 hours instead of 20. It was then that my crew showed the stuff they are made of; they never flinched. I am proud of them."

COOLIDGE ADDRESSED CONGRESS OF THE D. A. R.

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—A warning to those ho are "willing to surrender local self-government" to federal agencies or private interests was coupled by President Coolidge tonight with an admonition against putting the government in the field of business.

Addressing the congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the president elaborated extensively on those two themes but gave no indication whether his views were prompted by recent incidents or legislative proposals before the federal congress.

Observing that there are always "those who are willing to surrender local self-government and turn over their affairs to some national authority in exchange for a payment of money out of the federal treasury," the president continued:

"Whenever they find that some abuse needs correction in their neighborhood, instead of applying a remedy themselves they seek to have a tribun sent on from Washington to discharge their duties for them, regardless of the fact that in accepting such supervision they are bartering away their freedom."

BUS ROUTE FROM CENTRAL VILLAGE TO THOMPSON

HARTFORD, April 16—(AP)—Following a public hearing at the state capitol today, the state public utilities commission granted a petition of the New England Transportation company asking permission to establish a bus route from Central Village to the Massachusetts state line at Thompson. Radio As a Means of Communication

General Manager Sarnoff Claims Radio Has Saved the World $60,000,000.

BOSTON, April 16—(AP)—Radio has already saved the world $60,000,000 in communication charges, David Sarnoff, general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, said today in an address to the Harvard Business school.

"The gigantic battle for supremacy in communication service now being waged throughout the world between radio and undersea cables has resulted in a saving to the American public conservatively estimated at $30,000,000," he said.

"An equal saving has been effected abroad so that $60,000,000 has been saved in communication rates thus far by the advent of radio. For the first three years of the development of our service, radio rates average 25 per cent below existing competitive cable rates. At the end of the period the cable systems found it necessary to reduce their rates to the level of radio."

Fears of "monopoly of the air are as baseless in fact as they are impossible in theory. It is the audience, not the station, which determines the position of the broadcaster in the air," he said.

"At the present time an entirely new era of radio communication—radio television—is opening before us. We do not yet know to how many uses a given radio device may be put. We know little of the laws which govern radio transmission. We have only an inkling of what the next day may bring forth from the laboratory. No future Alexander of the business world need cry, therefore, for the lack of worlds to conquer in this new and unfolding art of communication."

COURT RULINGS IN THE SINCLAIR DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Readjustment of the defense of Harry F. Sinclair in his trial on conspiracy charges was presaged today by the ruling of Justice Jennings Bailey excluding evidence relative to the threat of drainage of Teapot Dome by Wells in the Salt Creek Field prior to the lease of the reserve by Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary.

George P. Hoover, counsel for Sinclair, characterized such testimony as of essential continuity for the defense, but Owen J. Roberts, special government oil prosecutor, objected on the grounds it bore no relation to the charges against the oil operator and therefore was not admissable. He was sustained by the court.

As the defense began today the first presentation of Sinclair's case, the two sides won and lost points when Justice Bailey permitted testimony to show a payment of $25,000 in liberty bonds to Fall in 1923 and refused to permit testimony concerning the leasing of the Elk Hills Reserve by the former cabinet officer to E. L. Doheny.

The trial was interrupted at one point by the court, who announced that he had been informed a newspaper had or intended to publish the deposition of Fall, taken two weeks ago in El Paso at the instance of the defense. Justice Bailey announced that publication of the deposition before it was introduced in evidence, in his opinion would constitute contempt of court and would be punished accordingly.

ADVICE GIVEN PRESIDENT OF THE DECIMO CLUB, INC.

BOSTON, April 16—(AP)—Attorney General Arthur K. Reading told Hugo B. Monjar, president of the Decimo Club, Inc., of New York, of which Reading was counsel, to take a vacation if necessary to escape the possibility of receiving a summons to testify at the inquiry into the club's activities being conducted by the attorney general of New York state, Monjar testified today during the hearing before the special legislative committee investigating Reading's conduct in office.

Monjar, whose story of the payment of a $25,000 retainer to Reading by the club started the present investigation, took the stand late in the day. He was preceded by Joseph D. Webster, former vice president of the Decimo club, who told the committee that Monjar "tried to buy my soul with a mess of pottage but it didn't go over big."

Monjar told the history of the Decimo club and for the first time the association of the club with the Apasco Purchase and Sales corporation and the Drew Tailoring company was explained. He said the club was strictly a fraternal organization that its members could subscribe to the privileges of the Apasco corporation were the only ones with whom the tailoring company would do business. He said it was not compulsory for members of the club to subscribe to the corporation's privileges.

PLEA FOR A HIGHER TARIFF ON POTATOES

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—A plea for a higher tariff on potatoes was made today by Senator Gould, republican, Maine, who introduced a resolution calling on the U. S. tariff commission to investigate the cost of production of Irish potatoes in the United States and in the principal competing country, Canada.

The resolution sets forth that potato imports have increased from 44,000,000 pounds valued at $1,000,000 in 1922, to more than 300,000,000 pounds valued at more than $5,000,000 in 1927.

Senator Gould claims that this importation is too great and is detrimental to the potato growers of the New England states.

$15,000,000 ADDITIONAL FOR HOSPITALS FOR VETS

Authorized in Bill Passed by the House—To Increase Bureau Hospital Facilities Throughout the Country—Measure Includes an Additional $1,000,000 For a Hospital in the "Southern New England Area"—Bill Now Goes to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The Rogers bill to authorize an appropriation of $15,000,000 to provide additional veterans' bureau hospital facilities throughout the country was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

Veterans' bureau officials indicated to the house veterans committee that it was their intention to allocate $300,000 of the proposed appropriations to Bedford, Mass., and to recommend that $1,000,000 be spent for a new hospital in the "Kentucky area," and an additional $1,000,000 for a hospital in the "Southern New England area."

Along with it, the house also passed a second veterans' measure, the Johnson bill to liberalize the 1924 veterans' act. Both now go to the senate.

The hospital bill, handled by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, republican, Massachusetts, covers the building program for last year as well as this. Last year's authorizations were smothered in the senate filibuster at the last session.

The Johnson measure, while changing a number of other features of the 1924 act, dealt largely with the insurance provisions. It seeks to remedy the "total and permanent" disability requirements of the present law by permitting the classification as permanently disabled for insurance purposes of those who have been totally disabled for a year.

Other insurance changes would include the establishment of a uniform statute of limitations to govern the filing of suits on insurance contracts, six years being fixed as the limit with an additional year from the date of passage of the act.

It would wipe out the present restrictions governing the designation of a beneficiary for converted insurance and would continue to grant converted insurance to persons eligible if they are in good health. It also would permit the transfer of converted insurance to policies having a lower premium rate.

The hospital measure would authorize varying expenditures at 23 hospitals, including proposed new institutions in Connecticut and Kentucky.

Other appropriations covered by the measure included funds for existing hospitals at Bedford, Mass., and North Port, Long Island, N. Y.

SCHOONER NOVA QUEEN SAFE AT CRANBERRY ISLE, ME.

CRANBERRY ISLE, Me., April 16—(AP)—The water-logged British schooner Nova Queen was safely anchored in the harbor here tonight and its crew of seven men were given their first real meal in five days.

Sailing from Parrsboro, N. S., 11 days ago for New York, the vessel ran into a gale last Wednesday which unshipped the deck cargo of laths and opened her seams. Salvaging a little food and water the crew took to the after cabin house when their quarters became flooded.

Word of her plight was brought to Boston last Friday by the fishing schooner Elsie which reported the Nova Queen in need of assistance 65 miles east, southeast of Thatcher's Island. The Elsie's captain said the crew of the schooner refused to abandon her, confident that the cargo in the holds would keep her afloat.

Four coast guard vessels sent to aid the Nova Queen reported their efforts to find her unavailing. The Cranberry Isle coast guard station sighted her today and towed her to the harbor. The station is about nine miles from Bar bor. The men suffered no ill effects from the voyage.

The schooner will be beached, emptied of water and the damage repaired.

HELD IN $2,000 ON CHARGE OF RECKLESS DRIVING

STAFFORD SPRINGS, April 16—(AP)—While her sons, William, 5, and Vincent, 3, killed in an automobile crash on the Monson road yesterday, were being buried in Hartford this afternoon, Mrs. George Cunningham, with her infant son, Brandon, three months, lay in a critical conditon at Johnson hospital with injuries suffered in the same accident.

Mrs. Cunningham has deep lacerations in her scalp and is suffering from severe shock and probable internal injuries.

The infant, who, it was thought, had escaped serious injury, was found early today to have been badly hurt and was placed on the danger list with little hope held out for his recovery.

The father of the children, whose skull was fractured, was reported tonight as somewhat improved. The children's uncle, James Cunningham, driver of the car, who was held in $2,000 bail on a technical charge of reckless driving pending an investigation, was suffering from a fractured arm and lacerations of the head.

SUCCESSFUL STRIKE BY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, April 16—(AP)—St. Clairsvile high school students staged a short lived but successful strike today, obtaining from the school board promise of a hearing for their principal, J. H. Earps, who resigned as a result of allegations made against him.

Earps went to Pittsburgh after his resignation and the board wired him late today to return for a hearing. The telegram also stated, board members said, that if Earps did not return voluntarily formal charges would be filed against him.

According to officials of the board the principal resigned after admitting that he took candy from a confectionery "as a playful prank." A school boy who had been arrested for several robberies accused him of stealing from the confectionery a number of times.

Fifteen school teachers adopted a resolution endorsing Earps and the high school pupils, protesting his resignation refused to attend school today. Instead they paraded the town, carrying flags and banners. The board of education at first refused to permit Earps to return but compromised later and decided to give him a hearing.

FOUR EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

REDDING, Cal., April 16—(AP)—Four distinct earthquake shocks centering in the General Lassen Peak area were felt in northern California last night and this morning.

Yesterday's shocks were felt throughout the entire Lassen district. Two more, sharper but of shorter duration, were felt shortly after midnight this morning. Residents of Redding felt the shocks but not as distinctly as did residents of Chico and Red Bluff. At Chico dishes rattled and chandeliers swayed. This morning's shocks awakened residents of Mineral and other towns at the base of Lassen peak. The temblors were especialy strong east of the mountain.

R. H. Finch, volcanologist at the Lassen observatory, said that the quakes were the most severe recorded by him in the area.

COMBING TOLEDO FOR MACHINE GUN BANDITS

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 16—(AP)—Special details of police combed this city tonight for machine gun bandits who shot and killed Patrolman George Zientara after they had stolen an American Railway Express truck and abducted the four men who were guarding it.

The spectacular holdup and gun play availed the bandits nothing for they left behind, in a garage where Zientara and another policeman surprised them, two unopened strong boxes which they obtained from the truck. There was approximately $4,000 in the boxes but this was left intact.

Five men were in the gang that captured the truck after it left Union station this morning but only two of them were in the bandit car, mounted with a machine gun, which Patrolmen Zientara and Charles Biskupsi trailed to the gang's lair.

The garage, police later discovered, was in the rear of an apartment house where the five bandits and two women had been living. Police believed the gangsters came here from Chicago but were fairly certain that they had made no attempt to leave the city tonight.

A few hours after the holdup two women, alleged to be those who were living with the bandits, were arrested for investigation. With them were two small children.

The robbers seized the express truck after it left the station, and unarmed the guards. Three miles out they transferred the strong boxes to their own machine which had been following the truck. When a Toledo university student attempted to interfere they took him captive. The student and the guards later were released.

Zientara and Biskupsi, patrolling the streets in a police car, saw a big machine speed around a corner and pull into a garage. Their suspicions were aroused and they followed. When Zientara alighted from the car he fell before a fusilade of machine gun fire. Biskupsi saw that resistance would be fatal and he too dropped, as though he had been wounded.

Leaving their own machine the two bandits stole the police car and sped away. A short time later the police car was found abandoned on a side street.

ARRESTED IN AUTOMOBILE STOLEN FROM PROVIDENCE

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—One man was near death, two others were in jail and Brooklyn police were searching for a fourth who escaped tonight after all had been arrested in an automobile stolen yesterday from Providence, R. I.

John Billio, of Brooklyn, was shot three times and critically injured by a policeman when he made a break for freedom on the way to a police station.

The others arrested were Louis Cesserettie, of 5 Almy street, Providence, and Joseph Testa, of Brooklyn. A fourth whose name is Carmino, alias Bean, also of Providence, escaped while the policeman was pursuing Billio.

The automobile was reported stolen yesterday in Providence by Andrea Gaglinoe, of 36 Ralph street, in that city. It was observed tonight parked in front of a Brooklyn drug store. Two men were in the car and two in the store. A policeman, suspecting them of an attempt to hold up the store, arrested all four.

COLORADO REFUSES TO INSTRUCT FOR HOOVER

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 16—(AP)—Republicans of Colorado refused today at their state convention to instruct the seven delegates-at-large to the National convention at Kansas City to vote for Herbert Hoover for the presidential nomination. The delegation of 15 will go to the convention uninstructed.

The refusal came after a tumultuous session during which Hoover forces, in control of the convention, sought to put through a resolution instructing the state's delegates-at-large to vote for the commerce secretary.

The fireworks started as soon as the convention had reflected Clarence C. Hamlin, Colorado Springs publisher, national committeeman and rejected the candidacy for reelection of Mrs. Anna Wolcott Valle as national committeewoman. Mrs. John E. Hillman, of Delta, Colo., was elected to that post.

TWO FINED FOR THEIR BOISTEROUS ACTIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 16—Lewellyn E. Chappell, 36, of North Windham and Samuel Chappell, Jr., 31, of Chaplin, cousins, were arraigned in police court this morning on charges of breach of the peace and each fined $25 and costs, amounting to $25.47. Both gave notice of appeal to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court. The young men were arrested by Constable Alfred P. Abee who investigated the explosion of several "bombs" on the back road in Windham and in Chaplin last Thursday evening. The explosions threw a fright in the residents of this isolated section of Windham until one man reported that he had seen the car and recognized one of the occupants and that the explosives were apparently a "joke". In court today a confession signed by Lewellyn E. Chappell and admitting setting off the explosives was introduced as evidence. Chappell, however, denied that the confession was correct and said that he had written it while he was in a "rattled" frame of mind. His cousin Samuel denied the alleration that he was one of the "bombing" party. John Matuck of Windham testified that he recognized Lewellyn Chappell in the acting of setting off an explosive of some description. Charles E. Smith said that two explosives were set off south of his house. Joseph G. Lee and Sydney E. Hirbee also testified to hearing the explosions.

Bright Building Outlook

A rosy future for the building construction industry was pictured by Harry J. Strong, of the Trimpak corporation of America, at an entertainment and dinner given recently by that company at the Hotel Burritt, New Britain, and sponsored by the New Britain Lumber Co. Mr. Strong, addressing an audience of about 100 architects, contractors and builders, expressed his complete confidence in the contention that we shall see, before long, a yearly construction volume in this country in excess of seven and a half billion dollars. He pointed out that the population of the United States, its wealth, purchasing power and standards have grown to a point where present day construction only equals our normal requirements and that we have not been during the past three or four years, as some suppose, in the midst of a boom. Basing his conclusion on the probability of a further increase in the population of this country of about 30,000,000 during the next 15 years, Mr. Strong said that at the end of that period our yearly construction volume will be $6,850,000.

Calling attention to changing demands by home owners, Mr. Strong said: "People today want a certain amount of architectural merit, they want good looking houses inside and out. They want more and better interior equipment, more built-in conveniences, more built-in labor saving devices, better heating, plumbing and lighting and finer decorations throughout."

The meeting was also addressed by Donald C. Hyde, of Nicolo, Stone & Myers, of Boston, New England agents for Trimpak. George K. Macauley, vice president and general manager of the New Britain Lumber Co., presided.

Building Permits

Building activity in this state, according to the record of building permits issued in the building centers reported by the Commercial Record, is being maintained at the advanced levels reached during the opening months of the year. There has been a slight recession this month as compared with the corresponding period in 1927 in the total number of permits issued. This, however, is not looked upon as a permanent trend and is more than offset by the striking gains over last year made during the first quarter. During the past week there were 365 permits issued in these centers compared with 449 for the like week a year ago. The total estimated cost of construction work for which permits were issued was 1,789,971. The comparative figures for last year were $1,884,148.

New London

With permits issued for 87 new dwelling structures for the first quarter of the current year, an optimistic outlook is seen for the balance of the year. Compared with other years the number of permits issued for new dwellings compares most favorably and indicates a healthy condition in the building industry.

As has ben the case for the past few years, the most of the new houses to be built are of the single family type. There are 20 in this class while only five of the new houses are to be built for two-family occupancy and only two for apartments.

Work on the new house being built in Ledyard street by Contractor George W. Wassmer for Mrs. Annie M. Hislop is progressing favorably and rapidly drawing near to completion. The new house is a frame structure 26 by 30 feet, containing eight rooms and bath. In design and construction it compares most favorably with any of these new dwellings previously erected in that fast growing street.

All interior woodwork finish is of light oak and that work is now being completed. The doors have all been hung, all frames completed and only the baseboard and moulding remain to be completed, excepting for the floors, which will be of hardwood finish.

The exterior is finished with stained shingles with a double gable arrangement greatly enhancing the architectural appearance. The first floor contains four rooms, including a large sun parlor. A front entrance vestibule is finished off completely with substantial recesses of either side of the vestibule, one for the location of a settee and the other for a clothes press.

Work on the new nurses' dormitories being built for the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals in Ocean avenue is progressing well and already the first floor brick and hollow tile walls have been practically finished. The work is being done by the H. Wales Lines Co. from plans prepared by Architect E. L. Scholfield. The new building will be a three-story brick structure designed to provide dormitory quarters for the nurses of the hospital.

WM. SHERRY STRUCK BY HIT AND RUN DRIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 16—At Elmville about 5.30 this afternoon a hit and run driver knocked over William Sherry, a man well along in years, tossed him off the state road across the old trolley line and left him lying there unconscious. Eventually Mr. Sherry recovered and appearing to have no serious injuries was able to get to his home. Early reports on the case were that he had been killed. Up to early this morning state officers checking up the case had been unable definitely to establish the identity of the driver of the car that figured in the accident.

PIERETTI BROS. GIVEN BANK BUILDING CONTRACT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 16—Pieretti Brothers, specialists in bank construction work, are to have the general contract for constructing the new Brooklyn Savings bank it was announced this afternoon following a visit here of the architects, Norton and Townsend of New Haven, and the conference with the building committee of the bank. The plumbing and heating contract is to be given to E. H. Keach and Co., of Danielson, it was stated.

Work by the general contractors will begin in the immediate future, it was said, probably the first of the coming week. From six to seven months will be required to complete the work, and the building probably will be ready for occupancy in late November.

The building is to be two stories in height, of brick and in colonial style. It will be of a type entirely different than that of any other banking institution in eastern Connecticut. It will set back on a line with the front of the public library, which will adjoin to the south.

The base of the building will be of Westerly granite and the columns at the front, the window sills, trimmings and cornice of Vermont marble. The vault is to be built by the Mosler Safe company. The cost of the building is to be somewhat in excess of $100,000. A considerable amount of wrought iron grill and trimming will enter into the construction, carrying out the colonial idea.

The mezzanine idea is carried out in the interior, where the general finish will be in old ivory and mahogany. A novel detail of the interior arrangement is the provision made for a community room, which will be available, through the courtesy of the bank, for many public purposes.

Pieretti Brothers, the general contractors, specialize in bank construction. Their headquarters are at Centerbrook, this state.

BROOKLYN DANIELSON ROAD GANG INCREASED TO FIFTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 16 —It was said this morning that the working force on the Brooklyn-Danielson road building contract will be increased this week by 40 or 50 men, and the real swing of the big job gotten into. A road roller was taken over to Brooklyn from the local railroad yards this morning and a stone crusher is to be set up at Ledge hill within the next few days.

An estimate is that 33,000 yards of stone will be required for the construction to be done and that practically all of this will be obtained from the ledge at Ledge hill, about midway between Danielson and Brooklyn. Blasting away of this great amount of stone is going to materially alter the appearance of the Ledge hill section.

At various points along the four miles of road to be reconstructed the workmen have been engaged for some time past in excavating and installing conduits. The drainage feature of the construction work is being taken care of in efficient manner.

Traffic over the route is not interrupted by the construction operations that are underway, though it is advisable for drivers to proceed with caution.

PUTNAM

WORK ON FILTRATION BEDS TO START IMMEDIATELY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 16—(AP)—The first movement directed toward the removing of sewerage from the rivers in accordance with an act passed at the last session of general assembly will be taken shortly when the Putnam division of the Eastern Connecticut Power company will take steps to build along a small line, filtration beds to take care of the waste matter passed off from the local gas manufacturing plant. Superintendent Ralph E. Thurston of the Putnam plant stated yesterday that plans had been received and that action would be taken as soon as favorable weather will allow construction of the new mode of waste disposal.

At the last meeting of the city council a member of the state water commission appeared before the governing body of the city and explained the situation to them as it now stands in the face of the law. Mr. Thurston, who was present at the meeting, told the city council that he thought officials of his company were planning to install filtration beds, so that sewer disposal from the local light and power plant would not be thrown into the river. Mr. Thurston said that a large amount of money would have to be expended by the company to erect these beds, but to keep within the law it would be necessary.

When the light and power company install their beds the residents of the city will be afforded an opportunity to witness the new and sanitary means of disposing of sewerage waste, that now flows into the river.

The hook and ladder company of the Central fire station was called out Monday morning at 7 o'clock to extinguish a small fire of unknown origin at the home of James J. Charron, on Church street. The blaze started in a partition near a chimney and gave the firemen considerable trouble in subduing the flames. The use of chemicals succeeded in choking the fire. The damage was estimated by the fire authorities as ranging from $75 to $100. Monday morning's fire was the 49th alarm of the year.

Mrs. Mary Clark, of Woodstock avenue, died Sunday morning at the Day-Kimball hospital, after an illness of four days. Four children were born of their marriage, Janet, Paul and Anna, all who survive their mother. An infant daughter was born Thursday, April 12, and died Thursday evening. Besides three children, Mrs. Clark leaves her husband, Thomas C. Clark, who is owner and manager of the Meadow Brook farm of this city.

WEDDING

Carey-Rivard

A pretty wedding took place Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church, where Miss Corinne Rivard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Godiace Rivard, of Church street, and Leo Carey, of Pomfret street, son of Michael Carey, of Philadelphia, were united in marriage by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church, at a nuptial high mass. A mixed quartet composed of Miss Estelle Beaudreault, soprano; Miss Rose Metras, alto; Lionel LaRoque, tenor, and Henry Treaudeau, bass, sang the mass from Mettfeld. During the offertory of the mass, "Ave Maria" was sung by Joseph Rivard.

The bridesmaid was Miss Rachael Tetreault, a cousin of the bride, and the best man was John McCauley, of Pomfret street.

The bride was prettily gowned in a dress of white taffeta, and wore a wreath and veil and carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of rosewood georgette. She wore a black picture hat and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. After the ceremony a reception was held at St. John's hall on Providence street. After a wedding trip to Philadelphia the couple will reside in Putnam.

The couple are popular members of the younger set. Mr. Carey is well known to all local fans of the diamond for his baseball ability as a member of the Silk Sox nine.

Adverse weather conditions will hold members of the Putnam Country club off of the links for a period of about two weeks yet, it was reported Monday by the club officials, but anxious duffers were taking advantage of the excellent golfing weather and were satisfied with a few shots on the fairways, even though they were restricted from the use of the greens. The local links are to be in good shape this year when work now being done will place them in condition for the opening of the season on April 29.

City Engineer George W. Perry, a patient at the Day-Kimball hospital, was reported Sunday by the hospital officials as making a speedy recovery from an operation that he had undergone earlier in the week. Hospital authorities stated that it will be months before Putnam's engineer will be able to return to his work. Recent city questions that have caused Mr. Perry to devote strenuous efforts to their consideration are thought to have brought about his sudden illness.

The story relating to "Sabin Street's Wild Cat" in Monday's Bulletin brought much comment from local gossipers and once again brought out the much-discussed subject of "was it a wild cat or a puma? Did it have a long tail or was it bobbed?" In many circles where the tales of the Sabin street beast were discussed, the debaters not sure of the material that they were quoting, dug into volumes of natural history with hopes that they would be able to determine the nature of this animal that had so terrified residents of that district of the city. So far this spring the beast has not been reported as returning to its northern haunt on the outskirts of Putnam.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

FLOOD CONTROL IN HOUSE

Flood control legislation is one of those things about which there is recognized need, but when it comes to making provision for it there is a diversity of opinions.

It is of necessity a big undertaking which will not only involve much money but will require much time. Needless to say it ought to be started and continued on the soundest possible basis.

From the speed with which the bill was pushed through the senate there was little discussion of the measure. It soon became evident that the senate had dealt with the matter in such a manner that it could not be expected that it would get presidential approval in that form. The senate bill names a sum but it is maintained that it would require several times that amount before the work could be completed.

It is thus quite natural that the house should give heed to these points as it seems to be doing. It plainly becomes the duty of the house to bring forth a measure that will meet the situation and that will take into recognition the weak points of the senate bill which have been pointed out. The appropriation is likely to be placed between the amount named in the army engineers' plan and the Reid bill and in place of requiring the interested states to provide a certain percentage of the cost the idea of having the state provide the land that will be required for the construction of the levees is advanced. The difference would be considerable but it would mean something like $20,000,000 for the land and in such connection there would certainly be the needed state interest.

With the house recognizing the need of bringing out a modified measure there is evidence that it desires to avoid presidential opposition and present something that will meet the situation in a businesslike manner and stand some show of getting favorable consideration. If the suggested changes materialize it will be necessary to get the senate to accept them but the senate already understands that just because its action was unanimous its bill is not without its undesirable features.

CLEANING UP

To some the idea of cleaning up a city each spring doesn't make much of an appeal. They have the impression that there is little need for it and that there is small chance of starting a lively competition that would amount to anything.

On the other hand there are others who not only believe differently but set out to prove it. Out in Indianapolis it is an annual affair into which the people of the city enter with sufficient interest to warrant the offering of prizes for those who make the best showing.

In that city there is close cooperation among organizations such as the fire prevention bureau and junior chamber of commerce, and the public enters into it with the proper spirit to insure success.

This is a movement which is primarily for the purpose of giving a city as attractive an appearance as possible through the cleaning up of trash and rubbish and the beautifying of grounds by the setting out of flower gardens, shrubs and trees. The clean up movement can easily be extended into a city beautiful effort for there are always opportunities of improving the appearance of the front and side lots as well as the back lots.

But while there is an excellent goal in the removal of the rubbish which has been accumulating for months, it is by such undertakings that fire hazards are kept at a minimum. Cleaning up and carrying off the trash means just that much less chance for fire and this applies even more particularly to cellars and storerooms than to the outdoors. But it all can be done at this season of the year when cleaning up movements are underway.

Where the greater number is aroused to participate, where keen rivalry exists there the best results can be looked for. Indianapolis apparently thinks that prizes furnish a valuable stimulant, but whether there are prizes or not the citizens ought to be found displaying a willingness to do their part as a contribution to the community. Norwich will soon have its chance.

THE NEW BEDFORD STRIKE

In the city of New Bedford it is estimated that about 30,000 mill workers are out because of a refusal to accept the 10 per cent. wage cut. This means that industry in that city is practically at a standstill for the city is dependent upon its mills.

New Bedford has delayed action of this kind much longer than other cities. The explanation is that it now resorts to a wage cut because it is impossible to compete with those mills which have previously put similar wage reductions into effect. Other mills are operating on much better time than previously and because of lowered costs the difficulties of the New Bedford mills to operate and get a market for their goods are increased to the point where it is impossible to continue.

Regardless of the reasons given the employes have decided not to accept the reduction. This also in face of the fact that so many of the mills have been transferred to southern cities. Temporarily it means stagnation for New Bedford. How long it will continue and whether those who are already and willing to work will make it possible to operate the mills remain to be seen.

It seems probable, as the result of similar experiences, that sooner or later there will be a conference between the representatives of the mill owners and the representatives of the employes. After certain delays and certain losses for all concerned that is inevitably the outcome. In time it may be expected in New Bedford.

The deplorable part of such a situation is that such a conference could not have been held before there was a refusal to work on the part of them. If there is any merit in a conference a getting together for the purpose of better understanding the attitudes of the respective sides and the presentation of the facts, it ought to be held before rather than after a strike. All means of avoiding an industrial clash should be employed and pressure brought to bear upon the importance of prevention. It would be well if the cards could be placed on the table before strikes develop rather than afterward.

CANAL WORK NEEDED

From the time of the early advocacy of the purchase of the Cape Cod canal by the government it has been pointed out that along with the acquisition, it would be necessary sooner or later for the government to provide for the deepening and widening of the waterway.

It was not anticipated that such a demand would be prompted within a few weeks after the canal had changed hands but, as is often the case, unexpected developments set in motion what would otherwise be delayed until another time. That is the situation now for with the grounding of the steamer New York in the canal and the closing of the waterway for the time being there has been set in motion a call for provisions for starting the deepening and widening in order that it may be available at all times and throughout its entire length for all coastwise shipping and for the use of navala vessels.

The canal has not received the attention that would be accorded to a canal which had been handling a sufficient amount of business to make a profit. It has not been a paying proposition and the result is that its upkeep has suffered. Lack of dredging has permitted shoaling. Other vessels have encountered it but not as seriously as did the New York. This accident thus provides the good reason for asking that steps be taken at once to have the government give the canal the attention it needs in order to insure greater safety and accommodation.

If this is work that must be done inevitably, why not set it in motion now? It would be possible at least to make provision for the necessary tests and surveys which always precede work on any such project.

A FRIGHTFUL LESSON

"They didn't have a chance. The front of the building was blown out and the upper floor collapsed. The dancers were hurled into a blazing furnace from which there was no escape." Such was part of a description of the conditions surrounding the destruction of a second story dance hall at West Plains, Missouri, where 40 persons lost their lives.

From all indications this was one of those instances where unjustified conditions were tolerated because nothing had devloped in the past to point out the danger and demand such restrictions as would have prevented that tragic occurrence.

Thus far there has been no definite decision as to what caused the fire or explosion. The fact that there was a garage with a gasoline tank under the dance hall presented a menace which ought to have received attention. That constituted a hazard which placed the occupants of the hall above in a veritable trap. Whether the explosion was accidental or intentional, a public gathering place under the prevailing conditions ought not to have been permitted. It is realized that if someone actually caused the explosion out of spite it might have been done whatever the character of the business underneath the hall, but the danger that goes with a garage where there are quantities of inflammables and explosives cannot be safely disregarded when many lives are at stake as is apt to be the case at a public hall. Whatever the outcome of the inquiry at West Plains, there are good reason for beliving that such a combination will not be sanctioned in that vicinity in the future. There is a also a very valuable lesson therein for other communities.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—Politics have run riot in congress the past week. The democrats have shouted advice, derision, and vicious attacks across the middle aisle of the senate, which separates the sheep and the goats. The republicans have shouted back, and have at the same time conducted a factional strife of their own. Tom Heflin has outdone himself in telling the republicans just why they should not nominate Hoover, Dawes, Lowden, or any of the much talked of possible candidates. Cole Blease of South Carolina denounced Hoover on account of his friendly attitude towards the "Chocolate Drops" as he called the Negro women—Blease's language often sinking deep into inelegant mire. On the republican side, Brookhart, insurgent, denounced Hoover, Dawes, and all regular candidates. Vice President Dawes was in the chair when Brookhart began his tirade, but left before it was finished. As Dawes left the chair, Brookhart shouted angrily a suggestion that he remain and head the rest of what was to be said, but the vice president walked calmly on regardless of the shots fired at him by the irate insurgent. Democrats tried vainly to ruffle Senator Fess, just named for the high position of key-note speaker at the Kansas City convention. They twitted him as being a "Coolidge spokesman" but got no where, as Senator Fess steadfastly refused to be aroused by their shots. Taken all in all, it would be difficult for one who dropped into the senate, to know whether it was the senate sitting as a deliberative body, or a rough and tumble ward rally, where the chief object was to defame "the other fellow."

None of the New England delegation took part in the turmoil and after a while were successful in getting some legitimate work accomplished.

Senator Bingham did good work for Connecticut when he secured, this week, the passage of a bill to reimburse Connecticut for $559 373 40 on account of advances and expenditures made by that state in the war of 1812 with Great Britain.

Claims of a similar character have already been allowed Maryland, South Caro ina, New York and Delaware, and other states have such claims pending.

Floor Leader Tilson has a busy month ahead, planning the program for the closing weeks of congress in consultation with the speaker and the committee on rules. Col Tilson is hoping to get the big measures all out of the way in time for an adjournment by June 1st—perhaps earlier, though that is not regarded as probable.

The senate promises to speed up and get the slate clear before the national conventions are called. In fact, there won't be a baker's dozen senators available at that time, for almost a score, on one side or the other, are running for the presidency, either in earnest or as favorite sons.

Out here the prediction as to candidates runs like this in order named—Coolidge, if he would take it. Hoover stands first now, but is doubtful as to being able to hold the lead; then Dawes and Lowden. For a genuine dark horse we hear the name of Senator Fess of Ohio, a pronounced Coolidge man, and chosen as temporary chairman and key-note speaker for the Kansas City convention.

John Q. Tilson is the favorite presidential candidate, and if congress could cast the decisive vote, he would be nominated by acclamation.

Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham made much of the Easter holidays by having with them in Washington their sons who were near enough to make a vacation trip to the capitol. Jonathan and Mitchel Bingham had been to Florida with Mrs. Bingham and after Easter returned to their school in Groton; Charles, Brewster, and Alfred Bingham came on from New Haven for the holidays returning to Yale at the close of the vacation period. Senator and Mrs. Bingham gave several "young folks" parties during the time their sons were with them.

Connecticut organizations have been busy asking senators and members of the house to present resolutions in favor of certain measures. Among those put before congress by Senator Bingham, by request were a petition by citizens of West Haven asking increased pensions for Civil war veterans and their widows. The association of mechanics asked for adoption of the so-called Dallinger bill, providing for construction of eight cruisers at government navy yards; Meriden asked for the passage of the Sunday bill; New Britain Brotherhood of St. John's Lutheran church urged repeal of certain features of the immigration law; Hartford, Torrington, Waterbury and Washington pray for a further exchange of views relative to the world court; there were other resolutions of a similar nature from Hartford societies.

Congressman Merritt presented a petition from Bridgeport citizens in opposition to the proposed Sunday law.

The nomination of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, as representative at large from Illinois has created much interest here.

Those who have seen, and heard Mrs. McCormick at political meetings suspect she will occupy the center of the stage if she is elected. Mrs. McCormick is not the type of woman who is content to sit on the sidelines—like her most intimate friend and running mate, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, she has inherited many parental traits. I accept the glare of public life and a seat in the front row as a matter of course. Mrs. McCormick carries herself in a manner that suggests she is setting the pace as to how the world at large should regard her: Tall, entirely self-possessed. Mrs. McCormick displays in her public speaking, many traits that were conspicuous in her late husband, Senator Medill McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick, if a member of the house will be a marked contrast to the four women now holding membership. They are all well fitted for the office—they are good workers in committee and when they have anything to say on the floor, say it well and briefly. They never sit in the front row, and neither Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Kahn nor Mrs. Langley want to be in continual limelight. They expect and receive courtesy, but they never demand attention.

Now that Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana has entered his name in Massachusetts as a democratic candidate for the presidency, there is some danger that voters at the primary will put him pitxed up with their favorite son Senator David I. Walsh, and the Montana Walsh gain votes thereby. Both are staunch democrats—both Roman Catholics but Montana Walsh is dry and Massachusetts Walsh wet—and standing strong for Smith for president.

Washington motorists are experimenting with wire fly screens for their cars. So many accidents have been the result of a fly or wasp or some bug that aimed at the driver's eye, or stung him, that on the eve of summer screens are being brought into notice under a patent just applied for.

Twelve low-side gondola cars recently completed for the Carnegie Steel company are said to be the longest cars ever moved over any American railroad. Each car has an outside length of 63 feet 9 inches and an inside length of 65 feet. The extra long type of car makes it possible to ship long lengths of steel on a single car.

ANCIENT HISTORY

He was tall and gaunt, shy and retiring of manner. The consensus was that he—the new professor of ancient history—would never be a favorite in university circles. His name was B. Smith and nobody ever seemed in the least interested to know for what the "B" stood. Although Prof. Smith was one of the few faculty bachelors none of the women paid more than polite attention to him.

But suddenly it happened! At one of the important functions the professor fell in love—not with a staid, suitable post-graduate as he should have done — but with Connie Shaw, the sayest, the most delirious and without question the prettiest freshman on the campus. He appreciated fully the sublime irony of it, for Connie, being the queen bee at every gathering where the professor might hone to meet her socially, never even counted him as "among those present."

And then one day it rained! The professor, driving along the lake front, saw a familiar little figure without slicker or umbrella. It was an auspicious meeting for the professor, because no one hated being cold and damp more than Connie, and her gratitude to her rescuer was in proportion to her discomfort.

Things moved rapidly after that — or so it seemed to the campus spectators. Connie would climb into the professor's roadster about 4 o'clock every day and they'd drive north or south or out the western highways, where alluring chicken dinner signs tempt the carefree motorist. Upon her return some one would be sure to ask pointedly:

"Have a good time getting educated?"

"Oh, fairish," would be the nonchalant reply.

The professor improved noticeably during this period. He patronized an expert barber; a new English tweed suit gave him an air of smart distinction and he actually showed promise of becoming a dancer of merit. Connie adored dancing! And he knew it.

As the months passed the companionship grew closer and the friendship knit more firmly, and if it proved to be a joy to the professor it was that and something more to Connie, unconscious though she was of the degree to which her mind was being bent toward cultural things. College days pass swiftly and suddenly Connie returned for the senior year.

"It's not that I want to marry him," said Connie to the roommate who had stood the test of three years' confidences; "of course I'd never dream of marrying a man nearly old enough to be my father—he must be 35 at least—but why, I ask you, does he balk at the age-old question?"

"I should concentrate on the Sphinx!" said the roommate.

"He wants to, terribly," continued Connie, "his eyes are just two question marks. What secret sin can be tormenting him?"

The good times continued and Connie realized that she would rather be with the professor than with the most popular undergraduate on the campus. In fact, she found, somewhat to her dismay, that the "lines" of her classmates bored her after listening to the professor's inexhaustible fund of entertaining conversation.

It was on a gorgeous day in October that he finally burst forth with an incoherent declaration of love.

"It's most unfair to you, my dear," he kept insisting over and over.

"Wha—what do you mean — not fair, professor," asked Connie, resolved to know at last whether a criminal record or an insane ancestor had kept him silent so long.

"Professor! Professor! That's just it" he exclaimed so wildly that Connie felt sure the insane ancestor was the right guess, "how could any woman marry a man whom she knew only as 'professor'?"

"But—but—the B," suggested Connie eagerly.

"B" repeated the professor bitterly.

"Is it Benjamin?" asked Connie helpfully. "I always did love 'Ben' for a nickname." The professor shook his head dismally. To save her life Connie could not, at the moment, think of another masculine name beginning with B, so she said gayly:

"Oh, shucks! What's in a name, anway?"

"Would you," asked the professor desperately, "feel that way about it if you had to spend the remainder of your days as Mrs. Belshazzar Smith?"

"Bel—Belshazzar?" gasped Connie, faintly; then, seeing the utter misery in the kind eyes, she said quickly:

"Why, you poor, dear lamb I'd marry you if the 'B' stood for Beelzebub."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Outsider's View

Mr. Editor: I wish to tell you of a friend from New London, who gives an outsider's view of Norwich and some of its citizens. He had ben sojourning for quite a spell in our midst, and spoke slowingly of our beautiful city especially in the vicinity of the Academy and along Thames street. He went in to ecstacies over our police department, declaring they would compare favorably with any Metropolitan force. "Of course," he said, "that two or three members could be eliminated and make it still better." He had personally interviewed Captain Tom Murphy and Corporal Luke Riley and considered them of the finest. As to the firemen—words failed him. Those tall husky men, nobly caparisoned with their glowing badges, were a sight for sore eyes. He didn't seem impressed with the library to any great extent. Said he couldn't find an interesting or up-to-date book in the place.

In speaking of traffic control, he mentioned the intermittent lighthouse at the Shetucket street corner, then he began to look fierce. "That blame thing," he says, "ties up the traffic when there is no need of it. He spoke of how smoothly everything went in the morning until some one came along and wound the contraption up. He tried to borrow a gun from the cop to see how many of those lights he could put out, but the blue-coat didn't seem to take kindly to the idea, so he silently stole away. When I met him he was looking for Hollyhock Island. He seemed very anxious to see the place, so I gathered him to the bosom of my black Lizzie, and we hied away to that well known spot. When I stopped he seemed slightly peeved over something. "So this is Hollyhock Island that I have heard mentioned as an ideal place for a children's playground—the city dump," and he glared at me with a wicked look in his eye, so that I sprang back against the rear fender of my dust scratcher. "Of all the diabolical, idiotic, not to say criminal ideas of a playground site, this is the limit. They want little children to come down here and wallow in this filth, mixed with the inexpressable essence of putrid excrement from every source, contaminated with every known and unknown disease germ, and they call it Hollyhock Island to make it sound better."

In vain I called his attention to the lovely view we had of the poorhouse and the pest house, that stood out in all its pristine glory, and the warm sunshine, also at night we had a lovely moon that sailed across the sky without making any noise. Still he raved on, "What you need is a manager for Norwich and also a board of health to put a stop to this fiendish project. Great shades of Mayor Osgood and the Hon Thayer, I wonder what they would think if they could see the way things are going in the beautiful city they loved so well. Your present city officials are getting you coming and going. They tax you the limit and now they want to kill off your children by letting them play in a place like this Anything, to spend the people's money! And I suppose you will go meekly to the polls next election, and put the same ones back again so they can do it some more. You make me sick." And I was glad to see him stalk away and board a trolley for New London.

Stories That Recall Others

Business Picking Up

A junior partner in a law firm came boisterously into the office one morning. "Bill I think business is going to be better," he said.

"What makes you think so?" asked the none too optimistic Bill.

"The young married couple next door woke me up quarreling; they'll probably be seeking a divorce," replied the youthful lawyer.

Mother's Accomplishment

A family that recently bought a new radio had a guest from out of town. Father was anxious to be at his post tuning in the various favorites. Not fishing to be rude, it took all his will power to concentrate on the topic of conversation. Finally he found an opportunity.

"My wife is getting to be quite a player," he said.

"What instrument does she play?" asked the polite guest.

"She plays our new radio, but she's busy just now. I'll show you how it works," replied the eager host.

Little Talks on Thrift

DEVELOPMENT OF WILL POWER AN IMPORTANT BY-PRODUCT

The difference between success and failure is quite often a matter entirely of will power. This writer of these lines recently received a letter from a man who had gone through a series of very trying circumstances and wanted advice on what he should do to acquire a position of independence in life.

Owing to the fact that he had been through so many disheartening experiences, he was completely discouraged. Thus his point of view was distorted and his judgment impaired. He had lost sight of the fact that he possessed many valuable assets, among them being health, education and a background of splendid experience.

What he needed in the emergency above everything else, was will power.

Persistency of effort—unwillingness to surrender—dogged determination—these are the qualities that often decide human destiny.

And it is in the development of these qualities that thrift attains one of its greatest values. Those who are really thrifty must possess a great amount of stamina.

It is always easier to follow the line of least resistance and yield to the temptation of the luxury or that comfort than to adhere rigidly to some self-imposed system of getting ahead. Thrift of money, health or time means the use of one's will. And the development of this ability to make decisions and stick to them will inevitably result from thrift habits.

Many of those who have achieved great success in life have done so mainly because they developed great self discipline.

Those who are cultivating habits of thrift may be sure they are creating for themselves assets of character that will prove of incalculable value to them at every turn of life.—By S. W. Straus, president American Society for Thrift.

YOUR HEALTH

FACTS AND FICTION ABOUT GLANDS!

By Beverly R. Tucker, M. D., Richmond, Va.—Member Gorgas Memorial.

If a friend suggests to you to take one or a combination of ductless gland extracts, whether it be simply to reduce your weight or to cure you of some more or less serious malady, do not follow his advice.

If you go to see a doctor and he asks you a few simple questions, looks at your tongue and feels your pulse and writes a prescription for some gland or combination of glands, tear up the prescription and go to see another doctor who will give you a thorough, complete and competent examination.

Anyone who is looking for the spring of eternal youth through swallowing the extract of some gland or glands is doomed to disappointment. Glands transplanted in the human tissue may give stimulation for a while, but they soon atrophy and lose their potency. Glands taken by mouth or hypodermically have to be selected with the utmost care, according only to the requirements of the individual case. Extract of glands can be, and frequently are, extremely harmful. Too much thyroid gland or taking the gland when not needed puts the patient in a serious physical and nervous condition. Adrenalin, the extract of the suprarenal gland, is a tremendously potent drug that can constrict the blood vessels, greatly raise the blood pressure, and when improperly given is capable of causing death. Extract of the pituitary gland of the posterior lobe can expel a child from an inert womb out into the world, and at the same time, unless properly given, it can kill or malm the child during birth or lacerate and injure the mother.

Ovarian gland substance can be of great benefit to certain cases when the monthly periods are scant, but on the other hand if there is organic trouble with the generative apparatus it may do immense harm. The general idea that the glands are more or less simple substance that work magic cures is entirely erroneous and the truth of the matter is, upon the whole, that only a limited amount of knowledge has thus far been gained about their action and unless their use is kept strictly within bounds they may do damage.

Not Fair

The camera isn't fair! It has caught the lovely features of dainty Ethel Allis but missed her captivating vivacity, the rose-petal color of her skin and the rich beauty and gleam of her dark brown hair. "So many people tell me about my hair, nowadays," says Miss Allis, whose New York City home is the Embassy Hotel, "that I know what they're going to say when I see them looking at me. "What do you do to it?" so many ask. I really do very little. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That always gives new sparkle and life to my hair. It keeps it soft and easy to arrange and holds it in place. I was bothered with dandruff before I started using Danderine but it's all gone now. Every application makes my scalp feel just grand. And it keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often as I used to."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair than any shampoo or treatment. It removes all dust, grime and oily film from your hair—tones and refreshes your scalp—gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the 35c bottles. Lovely, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

Y. M. C. A. BUDGET CAMPAIGN GOES OVER THE TOP TO $10,328 TOTAL

The Young Men's Christian association annual budget campaign for $10,000 for current expenses went grandly over the top to a total of $10,328 in the one-day drive Monday.

Under the splendid leadership of Judge Allyn L. Brown, the campaign manager, the men making up the teams, about 50 in all, demonstrated a loyalty that is seldom seen, most of them giving the entire day to the work and presenting with enthusiasm and efficiency the needs of an institution whose object is the building of boyhood and manhood.

Reports were made three time during the day, first at the breakfast at 8:15 when 109 pledges for a total of $2,716 were reported. At luncheon the sum of $3,324 more was added, bringing the total to $6,040. Judge Brown and President Herbert B. Cary called upon the team captains and workers to make the afternoon hours productive and they responded by turning in a report at supper time that was only a few hundred dollars short of the $10,000 goal.

With the goal so near, it was decided to make a determined effort to clean up the work in one day and the workers hustled off to get busy over the telephone or by personal calls upon those on their lists, agreeing to report back by nine o'clock. When the final reports were made at that time which showed that the goal had been more than reached, cheers shook the room where the men were meeting at the association building, and the group of workers dispersed, tired but happy.

Two prizes which had been offered for the most successful team captains were awarded to L. M. Crandall of Team E for first prize and to E. Arnold Smith of Team F for second place.

The association management expressed its sincere thanks to every team captain and every worker and also to all the women who prepared the meals and who by their kindly service assisted the campaign more than they realize.

TEAMWORK FOR PROSPERITY
U. S. C. OF C. SLOGAN

Better teamwork among all classes of business as the most effective way of maintaining local and national prosperity will be the central theme of the 16th annual meeting of the chamber of commerce of the United States to be held in Washington, May 7 to 11, says a statement issued Monday by the secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce. The statement says:

All phases of business cooperation—by individuals, corporations, chambers of commerce and trade associations—will be discussed under the general heading, "Teamwork for Prosperity." Groups buying and selling, the new competition with whole industries struggling for new markets and many kindred subjects will be presented by business executives who have distinguished themselves in their particular lines. Lewis E. Pierson, president of the National chamber and chairman of the board, American Exchange-Irving Trust company, New York, and Judge Edwin B. Parker, chairman of the board of directors of the national chamber, will be among the speakers.

More than 1,500 business organizations, representing all lines of industry, finance and commerce as well as every section of the country have been invited to send delegates.

In announcing the preliminary program today, the national chamber says that teamwork can be promoted most effectively in the local community through chambers, while in particular lines of commerce and industry it can be achieved through trade associations. "By working together locally and within industries and nationally through the national chamber, the statement adds, "American business men are helping the country to achieve and to maintain prosperity."

Following the practice of previous years, the convention will be divided into general and group sessions. The general sessions will deal with questions of interest to all classes of business, while the group meetings will offer an opportunity for each general division of business to discuss its particular problems.

A wide range of topics will be considered at the general sessions. Some of these subjects will deal with the recent course of the federal trade commission; ways of keeping up with the new competition; ways of handling and forestalling trade disputes; the relation of teamwork to municipal prosperity; growing and changing activities of chamber of commerce and international business teamwork.

One of the outstanding features of the meeting will be a dinner given by the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce at which the chief speaker will be Dr. Alberto Pirelli, president of the international chamber. Dr. Pirelli is one of Europe's leading business men and economists. He will discuss international teamwork for prosperity.

FINED FOR DRIVING AUTO WITHOUT PERMISSION

It cost James Barrett, 29, of this city, over $100 for taking a machine belonging to Officer Bernard Keenan on a 150 mile ride without the owner's knowledge or permission. That was the amount of the fine taxed him in the city court Monday morning and costs were added on to the fine. Barrett, representing himself as a mechanic, approached Officer Keenan Saturday morning and offered to clean the carbon and grind the valves in his machine at a nominal charge. Mr. Keenan turned the car over to Barrett early Saturday afternoon and it was to have been delivered to Mr. Keenan Saturday night. The machine was taken back to the officer's home Sunday morning, in a damaged condition. Barrett admitted driving the car to Providence Saturday night but would not state the reason of his trip there. Barrett has been in trouble before, on bootlegging, breach of the peace charges, and other charges in the past two years.

ST. PATRICK'S SCOUTS IN SNAPPY MINSTREL SHOW

The St. Patrick's Boy Scouts entertained an audience of over 700 Monday evening in the basement of the church, when they staged the Snooky Ooky Revue, a delightful minstrel show, in two acts. The costumes were attractive and the boys well deserved the hearty applause showered on them. One of the big hits of the show was a vocal selection, Ice Cream, by the West Side Trio. They were forced to respond to nearly a half dozen encores. The show was staged under the direction of Andrew Caples and Miss Mary Weller.

Act one was fifteen minutes of Jazz and Near Jazz under the direction of Raymond Coyle. The opening scene of act two was a dock on the Mississippi. The feature number was Waiting for the Robert E. Lee by Billy Potter, Snooks Delacey and Virginia Delacey. After the arrival of The Robert E. Lee, the following programme was rendered, "on board the boat" with James Fitzgerald capably carrying the part of the interlocutor:

Opening chorus, When the Robert E. Lee Comes to Town; It's in the Bag, Hazam; Did You Mean It? Albert Matthews; Pastafazula, Patsy Buonano; The Song is Ended, Anthony Kirker; Henry Made a Lady, Timothy Twomey; Down South, Snooky Delacey; Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella, quartette; Among My Souvenirs, James Dutton; dance specialty, Virginia Delacey; Without You Sweetheart, John Caron; My Blue Ridge Mountain Home, William White; Miss Annabelle Lee, Anonymous; Ice Cream, West Side Trio; What a Wonderful Wedding, Wm. Potter; Who's That Knocking at My Door?; finale, Good Night, the entire company.

Local hits, and up to the minute jokes added to the attractiveness of the entertainment.

MARRIAGES DECREASE BUT DIVORCES ON INCREASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16—The department of commerce announces that, according to the returns received, there were 12,063 marriages performed in Connecticut during the year 1927, as compared with 12,285 in 1926, representing a decrease of 222 or 1.8 per cent.

During the year 1927 there were 1,424 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 1,232 in 1926, representing an increase of 192, or 15.6 per cent. There were 26 marriages annulled in 1927, as compared with 17 in 1926.

The estimated population of the state of Connecticut on July 1, 1927, was 1,636,000, and on July 1, 1926, 1,606,000. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 7.4 in 1927, as against 7.6 in 1926; the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 0.87 in 1927, as against 0.77 in 1926; and the number of marriages annulled per 1,000 of the population was 0.016 in 1927 as compared with 0.011 in 1926.

The number of marriages was furnished by the state department of health and the number of divorces by the clerk of the superior court of each county. The figures for 1927 are preliminary and subject to correction.

RUM RUNNERS DETOURING AROUND THIS COUNTY

Overland rum runners, operating between the centers of supply in Providence and points along the southern Massachusetts coast and the points of distribution in New York city and the larger cities of this state, who formerly ran nightly caravans through this section, are now giving the roads of New London county the "cold shoulder," according to admissions made by members of the fraternity. The alert and efficient patrol maintained by the state police from the Groton and Centerbrook barracks is the principal reason advanced for detouring the Johnny Cake trail around this county.

The nightly pilgrimage is now said to take the Rhode Island cars westward through that state to skirt along the Windham county border where an honest bootlegger may proceed with less fear of being stopped at the point of a trooper's gun. As yet the courts along this route are content with fines, and, while it is the longest way round, it is the safest way home, in the opinion of the bootleggers, who say "business goes on the bum while a man is in jail as all the other fellows get his customers away."

State policemen and southern Connecticut officials declare that it is a notable fact that the once notorious shore line routes between New York and Providence, via New Haven and New London, which formerly were marked frequently with clashes between the bootleggers and the hijackers, are now calm and peaceful at night.

The long stretch of high speeding cement roadway between New London and New Haven, on which a number of murders and near-murders have occurred with bootleggers and their guards "shooting it out" with hijackers and state troopers taking a hand later, is now said to be pretty arid.

GENO PECHEENI KNOCKS OUT LARRY IN THIRD ROUND; OTHER FIGHT NEWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 16—Geno Pecheeni, Norwich, Conn., featherweight, knocked out Jimmy Larry of this city here tonight in the third round of a scheduled six-round bout. Pecheeni had a wide margin up to the time of the finishing blow.

NAT KAWLER SUBS FOR KAUFMAN AND IS EASY VICTIM

NEW HAVEN, April 16—(AP)—Nat Kawler, New York, failed to furnish the expected competition as a last minute substitute against Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle lightweight here tonight and was saved from a knockout by the referee who stopped the fray in the fifth round. Flowers was to appear against Joey Kaufmann, of New York.

Flowers held the upper hand from the start and wore his chunky opponent down with hard right handers to the face. Up until the fourth round little damage was inflicted but here the Negro lightweight opened with a flurry of punches that sent Kawler back on his heels. The succeeding round he began in again where he left off and with Kawler hanging on the ropes offering no resistance the referee called a halt.

Flowers weighed 137, one pound less than Kawler.

In an eight rounder that went the distance Johnny Scalzi, Bridgeport, finished fast scoring a knockdown in the closing minute to gain the decision over Jimmy Rappaport, New York. Both boxers set a fast pace and the margin of victory was slight. They are featherweights.

The semi-final between Steve Smith of Bridgeport and Joe Curry of New York, was a slugging affair with Curry forcing the issue over the eight round distance to gain the decision. Smith weighed 129 and Curry 128 1-2.

Willie Cubic, New York, won a decision over Frisco Grande, Filipino in six rounds and Frankie Marino, New Haven, won in four rounds from Nick Grillo, Bridgeport.

Phillies 7, Giants 5

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—The New York Giants suffered their first defeat of the season here today when Cy Williams, pinch batsman for Bob McGraw, touched Fitzsimmons for a home run with two Phillies on base in the eighth. Philadelphia won, 7 to 5. This was the first circuit smash of the championship campaign for Williams, who tied with Hack Wilson of the Cubs for the National league home run leadership last season.

Williams' home run capped the Philadelphia onslaught which netted five runs in the eighth.

(Special to The Bulletin)

POMFRET, April 16—Pomfret Prep opened their baseball season here today with a victory over the Putnam high nine of Putnam by a score of 6 to 1. The Putnam boys proved an easy target for the heavy hitting Pomfret sluggers. Baker was the Pomfret moundsman, and showed splendid form, allowing the Putnam team, but seven hits and one run that was made by Cody in the seventh inning.

Tom Arnold started for Putnam, but he was hit freely and Pomfret ran up their five run lead in the six innings that he twirled. Arnold was replaced by Shann in the seventh and held Pomfret to two hits. Putnam was handicapped by the loss of Whcaton, their regular pitcher and captain, who has been suffering from injuries. GEHRIG'S HOMER STARTS YANKS TO WIN OVER RED SOX

BOSTON, April 16—(AP)—Lou Gehrig's second home run of the season, off Danny MacFayden with nobody on base in the second inning, was the first shot in a barrage which enabled the New York Yankees to win, 7 to 2 in their first game in Boston this season. The Yankees drove MacFayden from the box with a five-run rally which put the game on ice in the third.

George Pipgras, a Yankee hero in the last world series, started his first championship game of the year, and held the Red Sox safe at all times. Boston got only five hits off him.

ANDY COHEN AND BROWNS DOING SOME "UPSETTING" WITH BASEBALL DOPE

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—The business of experting seems to be getting tougher every day.

Within a week and to the utter confusion of the experts the St. Louis Browns have set a wild pace in the American league, Lou Gehrig has jumped off ahead of Babe Ruth in the race for home run honors while Andy Cohen has, for the time being at least, made New York fans forget Rogers Hornsby played second base at the Polo Grounds last season.

Any one of these three developments might be classed at sensational. Altogether, even if they may not mean anything by July, they have stunned the boys on the sidelines.

The performances of Sam Gray, who has accounted for two of the Browns' first four victories, probably gave the veteran Connie Mack a headache.

The Athletics traded Gray to St. Louis for Outfielder Bing Miller last winter at a time when it appeared Ty Cobb was definitely through and before Mack had done any dickering with Tris Speaker. Consequently, when the season opened, the tall tutor found himself embarrassed by outfielding riches but in need of another pitching arm of Gray's calibre.

Miller has been in the game only because Al Simmons, hard-hitting regular, is on the casualty list. He probably will spend most of his time later on the bench while Gray goes on winning ball games for Dear Old Dan Howley instead of Dear Old Connie Mack.

Gray hasn't had a good year since 1925, after getting off that year to a sensational start, winning eight games in a row for the Athletics. Sammy was injured and not able to do much the rest of the season.

Joie Ray Tries Longer Runs

It will be one of the most interesting tests of the year if Joie Ray starts in the Boston marathon Thursday.

Joie's greatest work over a long and brilliant career has been done at the mile although he once won the National Five-Mile championship, the little Kankakee Flier, however, is of ideal build for marathoning, short, stocky and smooth striding with speed that will come in handy if accompanied by stamina enough for the long road grinds.

Ray is just about the right age to take up the marathon, too. Most distance runners reach their best at 30 or beyond and Joie is around that mark now.

Over in Finland they consider distance runners in their prime at 40. Paavo Nurmi will compete in his third Olympiad this year but he is only 27 and still considered a youngster by the finns in spite of his long experience, it was decided Paavo was entirely too young for the marathon when this question was brought up among the finnish Olympis strategists.

N. Y. Supreme In Soccer and Hockey

If the Yanks and Giants do as well as the Metropolitan entries in soccer and hockey there may be another All-New York world's series next October.

The New York Rangers have just brought the world's professional hockey title to Gotham for the first time, a blow to Canadian prastige, while the New York Nationals, under the same ownership as the Giants, have just won the National soccer challenge cup competition.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

Bulkeley High (New London)

Bulkeley has many veterans on hand, in fact, more regulars than any school in the state and naturally she expects a highly successful season, probably a state champion.

The Orange and Black has lost but two regulars from her good 1927 team, "Joe" Allen, third baseman, and Lefty Callahan, southpaw pitcher. Moran, a substitute right fielder, is also gone. Third base will be a weak spot in the Bulkeley infield, according to the present outlook. Allen was a good man and it will be a long while before Coach Canty gets one to fill his shoes.

However, Bulkeley has Gorton at first, Capt. Bernstein at second and Seiman, all regulars last year. But, Gorton and Bernstein are weak with the willow while Seiman is a rather sloppy fielder. In the

SMYTH IS RELEASED BUT POLICE HOLD CAPT. WEBSTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, April 16—James Smyth, Floral Park, L. I., was released from custody here tonight but S. T. Webster of Narragansett, R. I., was held for further interrogation by the police in connection with the fire that destroyed the Rhode Island house here early this morning. Smyth was the occupant of room 69 in the Rhode Island house and it was in room 67 adjoining his that the fire is thought to have started. Webster was the occupant of room 71 which was next to Smyth's on the other side. Smyth, Clerk Gordon Cottrell and Webster were the first ones on the scene.

Smyth, a greenhouse builder, was rather hazy at first as to just what happened but finaly told a straight story which was substantiated for the most part by Webster. Clerk Cottrell, however, did not agree with the stories told by Smyth and Webster as to the happenings.

Smyth was presented in the court here tonight before Judge Oliver H. Williams on a charge of being an idle person and a suspicious character and the charges were nolle prossed and he was released.

Webster, who signed the register as Captain S. T. Webster, is a boatswain's mate on the freighter Lake Farber now at New London. He is alleged to be a drug addict and is being regarded suspiciously by the police. He will be held at the police station for further questioning.

NOANK

The Hammer Nine baseball team played the Prospect Hill Giants at Dunn field on Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 150 and it started to rain just as the game got under way. Coach Foxey Billie McDonald for the Hammer Nine sent to the hill to pitch, Fatty Wallace the 190 lb. boy from Old Mystic, the underhand pitcher with Snappy Phelps behind the plate. Coach Joe Burbine sent his star knuckle ball pitcher to shoot them over. Charles Cox and Dead Shot C. Smith catching his curves and the word was heard play ball for several blocks by Umpire Billie Fitzpatrick. The fans had to get out umbrellas as the rain was coming fast but the battle on just the same. In the second inning the Giants had the bases full and up came Smith the catcher, he caught the underhand ball and sent it over the left field wall across the street breaking a window in a house for a home run, scoring the men ahead of him, making the score 4 to 0 The Hammer Nine had the bases full in the 5th inning and Smoky Joe Walsh a sure hitter swinging two bats then picking out the best one and two men was out. Then Knuckle Ball Pitcher Cox went to work as the fans were calling for a hit but Cox had him guessing and sent him back to the bench with three strikes and the crowd cheered Cox and it was a bad hole to get out of. The next inning Underhander Wallace was sent to the showers as the Giants heavy stickers sent the ball to all corners of the field and all the Hammer Nine star pitcher had was a glove and a prayer. Lefty Bennett went into pitch at the end of the 7th inning and a heavy rain storm came and the game was called off, the final score Prospect Hill Giants 6, Hammer Nine 0.

Sunday noon when everybody was sitting at the dinner table the church bell rang for a fire at Groton Long Point and it was reported that three cottages were burning and the red fire engine with Earl Foster behind the wheel loaded with 25 Smoke Eaters going at a fast clip to the fire followed by 25 automobiles reaching the Point and where the fire was but they were not needed. It was on Shore road reaching from the street over to Middlefield street and right on the stems of one cottage and three more was in the way. The Point fire fighters and engine was out under Chief McGuigan with the help of several summer people down for the day with brooms and shovels helping the fire fighters of the Point. It took 30 minutes before it was put out and no one knows how it started unless some people were burning around their cottage and went in the cottage to get dinner ready and it got away from them, or a cigar stub was thrown in the grass by some careless smoker. The wind was blowing right on the cottages and it would have been a bad fire if it had got a good start and all the fire engines in the country could not have saved the Point for no water to fight it now as the water is not turned on until May and when the bell rang everybody wondered where the fire was and when it was at the Point the Smoke Eaters held their wind and said we have a job on our hands for the cottages are so close together with the tall grass all around but they was glad it was all out and signs are put around different places. Be careful of fire, the engine returned to the fire house at 1:45 o'clock and John Ellis called the roll with 25 answering to their names and Foreman Walter Palmer told them to go home and finish the chicken and stay around town for another call might come, always two fires the same day.

William Crowell is visiting friends in Blueville, Conn., over the week end.

The Aiki club held a meeting on Saturday evening at their rooms on Mixed avenue with President Carl Ashcraft in the chair and 20 members were present and Treasurer John Bracci read the report and showed $11 in the tin box. One new member was taken in, John Wilbur making 25 members on the books. Base ball committee, Keith Ebbetts chairman, said he found some good baseball stock among the members and it looks as if the club will have a first class team for the coming year. At the next meeting a captain and manager wil be elected. A mystery box went around the rooms and it cost 10 cents to see the mystery box, and a sum of $7 was made on the box and it went to Arthur DeBlasi. This money is to help the down and out fellows that come into the village, that is the spirit of the club. President Carl Ashcraft told about a young fellow that was hiking from Indiana to his home in Cape Cod and came over to his house on Saturday morning sent there by a member of the club, he gave his name as Don Mitchell and President Ashcraft said a beef stew sure looked good to him. Thin as a match, nothing on his ribs and ham and eggs with Noank coffee, Don told how he went two days with nothing to eat and got sore feet from walking. He caught a ride from New York to Noank and wanted to look the town over and was told about this club helping out a felowl that was down and out, so he was given $5 to get out of town, making for the next big city. Thank you for helping me out and when I reach home I will tell you how I made out by a letter so you can read at your next meeting and Treasurer Bracci gave Ashcraft back his money from the tin box where the money is kept for the down and outers. Refreshments of peanut butter sandwiches and cheese with pumpkin pie and coffee was served. Dancing was enjoyed by Ashby Rainbow orchestra until a late hour.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?

A Famous Authority's Rule

By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottle contain thirty-five doses.

GREATLY increased usage now makes it possible permanently to reduce the regular price of Kotex at all stores.

A million new users have adopted Kotex in the past few months. They came to it as a result of the 2 major improvements we recently announced.

Kotex was the first water-soluble pad—hence disposal is no problem. It is the most absorbent—absorbing 16 times its own weight in moisture, and distributing it in such a manner as to obviate harsh, "waterproofed" backing.

OIL STOCKS WERE FEATURES OF THE IRREGULAR MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Strength and activity of the oil shares, a dozen of which attained new peak prices, featured today's irregular stock market in which many of the recent speculative favorites lost ground. Final quotations disclosed a rather long list of net declines ranging from one to nine points interspersed with a small number of net gains of one to seven points. Total sales crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the sixth consecutive full session.

There was little in the week-end news to influence the price movement. Lowering of the call money rate from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent tended to allay fears of an immediate credit stringency but liquidation of many stocks nevertheless persisted on the theory that an early increase in federal reserve rediscount rates was likely. Selling of a few issues, such as Mack Trucks and General Railway Signal, both of which sank to new lows, was based on predictions of poor first quarter reports.

No special reason was advanced for the sudden buying of the oil shares, except that they have been lagging behind the general list. Union Oil of California soared six points to a new peak at 57 and was followed into new high ground by a number of others, including Standard Oils of California, New York and New Jersey, Richfield Oil of California, Texas corporation, the Pan-American issues, Skelly and California Petroleum, some of the gains running to nearly four points.

Special buying also took place in a sprinkling of other issues. Gimbel Bros., which has been under brisk accumulation for several days, mounted more than three points to a new high level at 49. Other issues to break into new high ground included Electric Auto Lite, American & Foreign Power, North American Co., Standard Gas & Electric, Otis Steel common and preferred, Tobacco Products, Consolidated Cigar, Coca Cola, Fairbanks Morse and Devoe & Reynolds.

Some uneasiness developed as a result of the rather persistent liquidation of U. S. Steel common and General Motors, each of which closed about three points lower at 147 and 193 1-8, respectively. Adams Express, American Smelting, American Zinc and Lead preferred, Brooklyn Edison, Case Threshing, duPont, Kroger Stores, Reynolds Tobacco B, and Western Dairy Products A also showed rather substantial losses.

On the other hand, General Electric was bid up more than seven points to a new high record at 174 1-2.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A sharp rise of more than two cents a bushel in wheat prices, on buying influenced by reports of excessively cold weather, featured the commodity markets. Cotton dropped about 50 cents a bale. Sugar prices held steady and coffee quotations sagged 12 to 17 points.

A break of ten points in Japanese yen to 47.60 cents was the only change of any consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables held firm around $4.88 5-8. Norwegian kroner failed to make much response to the announcement that Norway would restore the gold standard on May 1.

THE WIDE-AWAKE CIRCLE

Boys' and Girls' Department

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

1—Write plainly on one side of the paper.

2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

5—Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES.

All at Once.

All at once the leaves have opened,
All at once the flowers have bloomed,
All at once has Nature spoken,
And earth's breath is sweet perfumed.

All at once the birds are mating—
See them in each leafy tree
Eagerly the home nests building.
Singing roundelay and glee.

Flora and her flower fairies
Revel now in each parterre,
Elfins' sylvan haunts are laden
With wild blossoms rich and rare.

Grass grows in the sunshine mellow,
Children romp now, wild and free;
Spring shines in their laug ing faces
Spring is beautiful to see!

Courage, sad hearts! Winter's over,
Joys may with the Spring be born;
Let no dark, no doubting shadow
Mar God's bright Spring days with scorn.

All at once, like inspiration,
Let this thought give perfect rest;
He who wisely rules the seasons,
For our welfare knoweth best.

MARY E. LAMBERT.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Several members of the Wide Awake Circle didn't sign their names to letters they sent to Uncle Jed the past week or two and for that reason the letters have not appeared on this page. If any boy or girl who has written a letter to the Wide Awake Circle has not seen it published on the Wide Awake page the trouble can be laid to the lack of a signature. Several unusually good letters have had to be passed up just because the writers did not all Uncle Jed who they are or where they live.

Uncle Jed has also noticed that a number of the Wide Awakes write letters on both sides of the paper. If letters are written on both sides of the paper they do not conform with the rules printed at the top of this column. It will be noticed that one of the rules specifies that writers utilize only one side of the paper. Another rule states that letters should be original. That means that they should not be copied from books. Uncle Jed does not want boys and girls to copy stories from books and send them in to be published on the Wide Awake page. Original stories, or letters, composed by the writers, are the ones that are considered for prizes. Penmanship and neatness are of course given consideration in the awarding of the prize books but it is also true that the subject matter of the letters has a distinct bearing on the selection of prize winners. Wide Awakes should write on only one side of the paper; their letters should be original and neat and the names of the young writers, together with their complete address should appear at the end of the letters. New writers are always welcome in the Wide Awake Circle. Uncle Jed is always pleased to receive letters from boys and girls who have not previously written to the Circle. Each new writer means a new member of the Circle and the more members the Circle has the more interesting the page becomes.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES.

The Scarecrow.

Dear Uncle Jed—I have seen my story of my pets in the Norwich Bulletin, and my friends have been admiring it. I told them they could make up an original stor and send it to you.

I am trying to make another story for the Wide Awakes, the name of it is The Scare-crow.

One day my father told me to get the pails, and call my three brothers. I told my brothers that we would make a shorter cut, by going through the corn fields. We went through safely, and picked almost all the potatoes, but I told my brothers that the sun was setting and my back ached from bending down, and that we should go home.

We went part way, and when we got to the cornfields, I said I would go cross-lots, and my brother said he would go the way as usual.

About in the middle of the lot I was so frightened, because right in front of me stood a man in grey and black, with his hands flapping. I thought I would be brave and stepped up closer. To my surprise I saw it was a scarecrow.

When I got home I had to wait a few minutes for my brothers. I told them about the scarecrow and the three of them started to laugh. I thought I would tell them to stop laughing because I had something else to tell them which was, "Now every time I go to the potato fields I'll take the longer way."

R. F. D. No. 4, Norwich, Conn.

At the Farm.

Dear Uncle Jed—I am going to write you about my visit to the farm. Last summer in August, I went to the farm. I stayed there three days. The first day some boys and I went to the woods after mushrooms. When we were coming back, one of the boys stumbled on a stone and fell down. He spilled all the mushrooms, and we had to go again to fill it up. In an hour we filled it up to the top. When we got back to the farm we started to cook them.

On the second day, in the morning, we went in the fild where there was an apple tree. I climbed to the top, and shook about a bushel. All the boys grabbed the apples, and I did not have any apples. So I told the boys to give me three apples each. In the afternoon we went down to the brook and started to make a dam. The boys brought the material, and I fixed it up. After we went for supper.

A Scare.

Dear Uncle Jed and Wide Awakes—When I was a little girl about six or seven years of age, I can just remember how I was frightened one night.

My sister and I slept together in one room. I had two other sisters who slept in another room next to mine.

One night we all went to bed at the usual time. Soon after we went to sleep my sister heard a frightful noise. We were all up in a short time. I don't know if my hair stood up straight or not. It sounded as though it was just outside my window. It sounded like some one groaning. We explored and explored but couldn't make out what it was. My father went outside and looked around but all was in vain. The groaning continued. Finally we opened the window and to our great surprise it stopped. Can you ever guess what it was? Nothing but a piece of paper under the window. The wind blew it and that was what made the great groaning. It was hard work to get to sleep again that night.

MARION ALDRICH. Age 12.
Killingly, R. F. D. No. 1.

A Blind Man

Dear Uncle Jed—I will now tell you about my kindness to the blind man. There is an aged man that lives near our home. He has been blind for eight years and nearly 85 years old. Some people pass him and don't speak to him. Every time I see him and pass him I speak to him and tell him who I am. One day, as I was going to school with my chums, I saw him about to run against a tree and get bumped. I left my chums and ran to him. He said he had lost his way. I led him wehre he wanted to go. He thanked me for my kindness. I always help him when I see him.

RITA BERARD. Age 12.

My Most Wonderful Trip.

Dear Uncle Jed—I have gone on many interesting trips with my mother but the most wonderful to me was my trip to Washington, D. C., last summer. There, I saw some of the most magnificent buildings, monuments and fountains that I had ever seen. The place in which I spent many hours and enjoyed the most was George Washington's home at Mt. Vernon. In this beautiful mansion I saw so many things of interest. Each room seemed to have something more inviting than the other. In the hall I saw four of Washington's swords, a brass hunting horn, a family Bible with Washington's birth and baptism and his own handwriting. In his bedroom was a four post bed, his bureau, washstand, shaving stand, trunk and his mother's armchair, which was used in Washington's childhood. The new tomb, but a short distance from the old one was a simple, brick vault and as one looked through the plain iron gates, they could read St. John 11.25. "I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in Me though he were dead, yet shall he live."

EDWIN CARL COLE, Jr.,
Norwich.

A Picnic.

Dear Uncle Jed—One day as we were walking we saw a nice picnic place. We thought it would be a very nice place for a picnic and decided to start off the next day. The next day we had our lunch, ready to go. We had different kinds of sandwiches cake, cookies, fruit, eggs and potatoes. But the best of all was a quart of root beer.

When we were ready to go we got our lunch and a table cloth. We had not gone very far when the root beer jar began leaking but we still continued. On our way we saw many different flowers. Soon we reached our picnic place.

The first thing we did was to roast a few potatoes. Then we spread the table cloth over a flat rock and started eating. We weren't eating five minutes when a bumble bee kept buzzing around our ears. We had a terrible time getting it away. After we had finishing eating we took off our shoes and stockings and went in paddling. Another girl and I went quite aways down the brook and heard a snake. We ran through rocks and bushes not caring a bit about our feet. We dried our feet in the sun. Then we put on our shoes and stockings. To amuse ourselves until half past four we told stories about each other and things we did. We had a very pleasant day and hated to return. We gathered up our materials and went home. We reached home at 4.45.

ROSE FRITZ. Age 10.

Camel.

Dear Uncle Jed—The camel is found in tropical countries, particularly in Africa and Arabia. The people could not cross the vast desert without aid of camels. It is a gentle, intelligent, patient beast.

The camel is an ugly looking animal. It is taller than a horse and its back is humped. It is covered with long, coarse hair. Its head is small and flat. Its eyes are mild and gentle and fitted with long eye lashes which save them from the sun. It can close its nostrils at will. Its legs are long and thin and wide and are wide and do not sink into the sand. He can smell water at a great distance and drinks a great deal when it can get it. It kneels to be loaded and will go a whole day with the heavy load. The camel is a most useful animal. Camel's milk is a favorite drink. Its flesh is used for food. The fat is melted and used as butter. The hair is made into clothing and fine brushes for painters.

MARY YORSZ. Age 13.

At the Shore.

Dear Uncle Jed—I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about some fun I had last summer. I went to my aunt's summer cottage. We all wanted some crabs so my uncle went out and got some. The crabs were put into alarge kettle of hot water and put on the little stove on the shore. When they were done we spread papers upon the ground and boxes were set around for chairs and the fun began. When the feast was over everyone had had all that one could eat. After this I went home. That had been a happy day for me and I was tired and soon went to bed.

VIRGINIA GEER. Age 10.
Norwich.

A Helper.

Dear Uncle Jed—This is first letter to you.

An old lady who lives near us in the village has been ill and she had no one to care for her. I went over to her every day and carried coal, ashes and garbage for her. I now go on errands for her almost every day. She will wave a white cloth when she sees me coming from school if she needs me. I like to help old people.

EVELINE BERARD. Age 11.

The Book I Read.

Dear Uncle Jed: The author of the book named "Nan Sherwood's Winter Holidays" is Annie Roe Carr.

The chief characters of the story are Nan Sherwood and her chum.

To me the most stirring incidents, was when Nan Sherwood and her chum were going home for their Christmas holidays. But the train that they were on was completely stalled on account of the snow blizzard. The chum had some sandwiches in her box and passed them to all the hungry children in the train. A few days later a rescue train came and brought them all safely to the station.

The book showed me more plainly the kindness of Nan's chum who did not forget about the hungry children in the snow bound train.

Beautiful lawns and flowers assured this simple way

ONE of the show places of the Middle West is Sinnissippi Farm, country home of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, at Oregon, Ill.

William L. Austin, Head Gardener at Sinnissippi Farm, reveals a practical method that any home owner can use.

Its velvety green lawns, its generously foliaged shrubs and trees, its bright profusion of flowers, are the work of William L. Austin. Like all true experts he makes no mystery of his success.

"Believing that all plants must be fed a complete plant food to insure their success, we first tried Vigoro two years ago," says Mr. Austin. "It has given us such wonderful results that I would gladly recommend it to any home owner.

"Our lawns have been thickly matted and a rich green all season. Flowers were hardier, more heavily blossomed and beautifully colored. Vegetables grew quickly and were of excellent quality."

Clean, odorless, Vigoro can be sown by hand. Vigoro offers a practical, economical way to secure finest results—proved not only by scores of expert gardeners on famous estates, but by thousands of small home owners as well.

The cost is only 10c to 20c for every 100 square feet—for this scientific complete plant food developed by Swift & Company experts after years of experiment!

POETRY

My Scrapbook Poem

I know a little rock-bound nook
That nests upon the mountain-side,
And there I go to rest and look
Whenever by care and trouble tried;
There seated 'twixt the sky and earth
My heart partakes the joy of each,
And thoughts sometimes come to birth
That nowhere else my soul could reach.

In that pure air the problems that vex
And puzzle in the vale below
No longer there my brain perplex;
Like severed mists they shrink and go.
My soul—what matters whence it fared!
Unsought by me its journey here,
What choice in mine? Not I that dared
Why should I harbor any fear?

Brought here on earth without my will—
I could not even choose the day—
Come grief or joy, come good or ill,
Here must I stay—I cannot flee away.
Here must I watch earth's beauty blight
And what I love that's loveliest,
And with a brain bereft of light
Strive to surmise some high behest.

So in my mountain nook I muse
And learn to let earth's cares go by
For if I gain or if I lose,
Not mine the hand that cast the die;
Mine eye cannot, howe'er it strain,
Foreknow the end that soon must be
And I must, plantlike, sun or rain,
Endure the fate that hies to me.

So let my soul be care-forsook,
My heart beat on in even rhyme;
What am I in my mountain nook?
A mote upon the waves of time.
There's nothing that is mine in me:
If I be made of light or dust
What can I do? I cannot flee,
Naught's left but hope, and hope—I must.

—By Samuel Minturn Peck.

The Wistful Days

What is there wanting in the spring?
The air is soft as yesteryear
The happy nested green is here,
And half the world is on the wing.
The morning beckons, and like balm
Are westward waters blue and calm
Yet something's wanting in the spring

What is it wanting in the spring?
O April, lover to us all,
What is so poignant in thy thrall
When children's merry voices ring?
What haunts us in the cooing dove
More subtle than the speech of love,
Wha. nameless lack or loss of spring

Let youth go daily with the spring,
Call her the dear, the fair, the young!
And all her graces ever sung,
Let him, once more rehearsing, sing.
They know, who keep a broken tryst,
Till something from the spring be missed
We have not truly known the spring.

—Robert Underwood Johnson.

The Death of Franklin
(April 17, 1790)

Thus, some tall tree that long hath stood
The glory of its native wood,
By storms destroyed, or length of years,
Demands the tribute of our tears.

The pile, that took long time to raise
To dust returns by slow decays;
But, when its destined years are o'er
We must regret the loss the more.

So long accustomed to your aid,
The world laments your exit made;
So long befriended by your art,
Philosopher, 'tis hard to part!

When monarchs tumble to the ground
Successors easily are found;
But, matchless Franklin! what a few
Can hope to rival such as you,
Who seized from Kings their sceptered pride,
And turned the lightning's darts aside.

—Philip Morin Freneau, 1752-1832.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Teacher—Johnny, if you had six apples and I asked you for three, how many would you have left?

Johnny—Six.—Stanford Chaparral.

Bored Young Man—Why not try the bagpipes?—Answers, London.

Mrs. Newlywed—You loved me much more when we were engaged. Why have you changed so?

Mr. Newlywed—To tell you the truth, my dear, I never cared for married women.—Sydney Bulletin.

"Mother," said little Evelyn, "may I go out and play with the other little girls now?"

"You may play with the little girls, but not with the boys, for they are so rough."

"But, mother, if I find a nice smooth little boy can I play with him?"—Michigan Technic.

"I'm sorry to tell you, sir, that one of your shirts is lost," said the laundryman.

"How's that?" inquired the customer. "I've just paid you for laundering it."

"You're right," replied the other man, "but we laundered it before we lost it!"—Weekly Scotsman.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL VOTES SEVERAL PROJECTS AT HARMONIOUS SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 16—The city council met this evening with two members absent, Mayor May and Councilor Streeter. There were 32 applications for building permits, which were all granted. A contract was awarded to the American Steel & Wire company for fire alarm cables to the amount of $309.88. President Pierson, of the New Haven road, gave notice of a change in train schedules hours to conform to daylight saving time, the schedule to be operative from April 29 to Sept. 29. The Connecticut Power company made application for the extension of the water service from New London to its property in New London. The application was referred to the committee on public works. The federal lighthouse service proposed to sell its lighthouse property at New London. The proposal was not acted upon except for the reason that City Manager Holt said there was no money available to buy it. The city voted to lay a sewer on Plant street, 1,400 feet, at a cost of $4,980 to be assessed against property owners benefited. A resolution was adopted providing for the improvements on the continuation of Beckwith street to Squire street and on Gorton street to Squire street. The cost is to be borne by M. Mallove and Harry Sharan and the city of New London. A deed for land from the Lawrence Hospital corporation to the city of New London for improvement of Ocean avenue was returned to the grantors, the understanding being that the proper method was to deed the land to the state, not to the city. The city planning board gave notice of its intention to widen Glenwood avenue to Montauk avenue. The public utilities commissioners approved of the plan of the Connecticut company for the laying of two tracks in Bank street from State street to Tilley street. J. F. Fitzpatrick declined an offer of $10,800 for the Chappell Hill farm. The matter was referred to the finance committee. Councilor Twomey asked that the city manager be directed to take up with the New Haven railroad company or the public utilities commission to provide railroad signals at Maple avenue, where the fatality occurred Sunday night. At the suggestion of Councilor Whiton the suggestion was made to include gates.

CASE OF NORWICH MEN CONTINUED TO FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 16—The scheduled trial of Joseph Neville, Yantic, and Carl Moten, colored, of Norwich, did not take place in the Waterford town court this morning, but was continued until next Friday afternoon. Neville and Moten, who are charged with violation of the prohibition law, the specific charge being transporting, were each held in bail of $1,000, which they furnished. Neville and Moten were arrested on the New London-Norwich highway a week ago tonight by State Police Officers Donald Johnson and Frank Webber when the officers observed Neville's automobile headed towards New London. As Neville is known to be a rum-runner, the car was held up and when it was searched a quantity of liquor, which the police claim was destined for delivery in this city, was found and seized. Neville and Moten were brought to New London and locked up, but each provided bail. Neville is the rum-runner who was arrested in New London several weeks ago, together with John Leitkowicz, also of Norwich, charged with liquor transportation, and the booze found in their possession was in hot water bottles. They are being held for trial at the next term of the United States district court at New Haven. Mrs. Neville, wife of Joseph, was also arrested two weeks ago, charged with transporting, when she was taken into custody by the police at Providence, but not until she had given the arresting officer a chase of several miles. Liquor en route to Norwich was found in her car.

Funeral services for Mrs. Matilda Verna, widow of Ralph Verna, were held this morning at 8 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Vescovi, of 38 Willetta avenue. Antonio and Guido Rosbatti, Joseph and Louis Vescovi, Ernest Sattorini and Cesoare Civoli acted as bearers. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Esther Wilson, Poquonoc Bridge; Mrs. Patsy Savio and infant daughter, 5 High street, Groton; Mrs. Roland Stamford and infant son, Waterford; Oliver Woodworth, 24 Faire Harbour place; William Farmacy, Warren street, Groton; Charles Vogt, 94 Truman street; William Lonergan, steamer Fisher; Vincent Kinewsky, Uncasville, and Mrs. George Wargo and infant daughter, Niantic, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

It is vacation time for the New London police department, so Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Henry Hick today started on a two weeks' rest. During the absence of Sergeant Hick, Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray will be in charge at the 3 to 11 p. m. shift.

The condition of Mrs. George Gilmore, 7 Huntington street, who was the victim of a brutal attack last Thursday night, today suffered a relapse and was removed from her home to the Lawrence-Memorial hospital. It will be remembered that the patient received a severe beating around the body and head when she was grabbed on the street and dragged to the rear of a home. All effort of the police to ascertain the identity of the assailant have been in vain and little hope is entertained that he will be located as Mrs Gilmore is unable to furnish the slightest clue as to her attacker.

SULLIVAN HAS CASE CONTINUED TO THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 16—Charles Sullivan, who was arrested here Saturday night charged with fraud and who succeeded Sunday afternoon in obtaining a surety on his bond of $1,000, was presented in the police court today, but the case was not concluded, it being continued until next Thursday in order that the police can make a check-up of Sullivan's police record, for it is known that he has one, and probably a long one for a man of his years, for Sullivan is but 24 years of age. Sullivan, who claims to be a salesman, is known to have resided in Worcester, Mass., and the Hotel Commodore, Hartford, the latter city having been his latest residence. Since Sullivan's arrest Detective Sergeants Nelson and Smith and John Cavanaugh have been hard at work determining Sullivan's record prior to his arrest here. It was ascertained that he was arrested at Hudson, N. Y., in 1926 charged with petit larceny and was arrested at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1926 charged with theft, but on the latter charge he escaped a jail sentence on his promise to make restitution. In Worcester, Sullivan was arrested four years ago charged with grand larceny and was liberated upon furnishing a bond of $20,000 and placed on probation. He also admits having served a sentence in New York. It is believed that Sullivan has a record in Meriden and Providence, R. I., and the police of those cities will provide such record, if they exist, prior to Sullivan's presentation in court later in the week. Sullivan, when presented in court today was accompanied by three Hartford men and they appeared to be possessed of financial backing to assure of Sullivan's being provided with any amount of bail and they even obtained counsel for him. Sullivan was arrested Saturday night by Sergeant Cavanaugh after he had gone to the Economy store, 119 Bank street and had victimized a clerk. Joseph Menshi of 48 during a purchase transaction, in which Sullivan juggled the money several times in order to confuse the clerk. It became known that Sullivan attempted the same fraudulent scheme at the Red Front market, corner of Connecticut avenue and Broad streets and at the Nagle market, Broad street.

He was arrested Sunday by Patrolman George Perkins.

BODIES OF ACCIDENT VICTIMS SENT TO ROCKVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Russell, same address and the latter's nephew, Ernest Clark, 13, of Rockville, were riding in, was struck by an engine of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, resulting in the death of Mr. and Mrs. Billings and the Clark youth, were sent to their former home in Rockville today, relatives of the victims having come to New London last night and perfected arrangements for the transfer of the bodies. At Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, where Russell, who was driving the automobile is a patient, it was said that among his other injuries, Russell has sustained a fractured pelvic bone and his condition was considered dangerous. Mrs. Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billings, escaped injury except for minor bruises and contusions.

Tonight the Tilisky car was recovered through the aid of The Bulletin. When Tilisky read in the New London columns this morning of the theft of his auto he realized that he had furnished the police with his 1927 registration and not his 1928 registration. He determined the proper registration and tonight as the night detail was making on duty he reported his correct registration. Patrolman George Labbe recalled having looked over a Buick car parked on Jefferson avenue, corner of Garfield avenue, last night, but because of the registration not being that which had been furnished him, the officer allowed the auto to remain there. Tonight when he went to Jefferson avenue and found the auto it was ascertained that it was the stolen one. The officer drove the car to police headquarters where it awaits Tilisky claiming it.

Candyland, a confectionery store at 36 Bank street, was attached this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin when the proprietors could not meet claims against the firm. The store is under lock and key and the contents in storage.

He was arrested by Patrolman Clarence Wells. Fred Kingsbury, 71 Colman street, was arrested for parking overtime on Bank street. He was arrested by Patrolman Michael Dorsey. Both were ordered to present themselves in the police court tomorrow.

The police tonight received a report that two men in an intoxicated condition, were annoying women pedestrians on Jefferson avenue. Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Timothy Sullivan made a tour of that section of the city, but were not successful in finding the alleged annoyers of the women.

With Belle Bennett in the leading role supported by an unusual cast including Mary Carr, Henry Victor, June Marlowe, Robert Henry Victor Wendell Phillips Franklin, this film is without a doubt the supreme emotional treat of the season. A beautiful, tender and heart-throbbing drama of a woman corroded by jealousy who seeks relief in a good time. The story of a woman who sacrificed her husband's love for all that money can bring—and found that the price was too high. The story of a woman who learned that love conquers all, such a love cannot be a selfish love. A drama that will grip you and hold you spellbound. This is the first run that this picture has ever had in this city, and tonight is your last chance to see it. Don't miss it!

Palace Theatre.

Visitors to Coney Island have nothing on the cast of The Crowd, King Vidor's latest production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which has been showing to capacity audiences at the Palace theatre and which will be shown for the last times today.

One sequence contains a trip to the famous amusement park.

Elaborate tableaux such as are seen in some of the concessions of Coney Island were staged as a background. These included reproductions of The Spirit of '76, Washington Crossing the Delaware, and Chilkoot Pass.

Miss Boardman was permitted to accompany Washington and his staff across a fake Delaware and Bert Roach spent half an hour between scenes trying to walk on the wabbly blocks of imitation ice which surrounded Washington's boat.

The story is based on every day happenings in the lives of thousands of young men and women who struggle in an uphill battle for their very existence.

The cast includes Eleanor Boardman, James Murray, Bert Roach, and others of note.

Tomorrow's bill includes a double feature program. Belle Bennet, who won a wide reputation in Stella Dallas, The Fourth Commandment, The Way of All Flesh and other screen successes, will appear in her latest Columbia production, The Sporting Age. It's a tense drama of the problems of today and the sheer force of Miss Bennett's acting will hold you and the spectacular sequences of the sporting world will thrill you. The co-feature, Desert Dust, with Ted Wells, is a surging, thundering, wild and wooly western of the old school, crammed with the carefree spirit of the old west.

Wednesday night will be gift night and twenty-five dollars in gold and ten valuable presents, including a forty-two piece dinner set, will be given away free.

RHODE ISLAND HOUSE IS A SMOULDERING RUIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, April 16—The Rhode Island hotel, formerly the Dixon house, one of New England's finest hostelries a half century ago lies a blackened, crumbling and smoldering ruin today. Fitful gusts of wind causing outbreakings of flame from time to time, kept a squad of men with two streams of water busy pouring it on to the ruins. The four walls stand while in the center is the charred, twisted and smoking ruins of the once famous hotel. Today plans were set on foot to raze the walls as the east wall was found unsafe.

The building, owned by Mrs. Harry Milner and Mrs. W. S. Price, daughter of William Sewar, who purchased the hotel in 1858, is covered by $115,000 insurance which is less than a third of the cost of replacement.

Superintendent of Water McKenzie estimated that in all 1,125,000 of water from the city system was poured on to the building from the 30,000 feet of hose that was laid. The water in the stand pipes was lowered 30 feet. At the Clyde Mills Inc., the pump which has a capacity of 750 gallons a minute pumped steady from 1:15 a. m. to 6 a. m. and delivered to the blaze from the river. Two other pieces of apparatus pumped from the river.

This evening Frank Sullivan of the Sullivan Granite Works at Bradford said that his sister who is at present in Spain had four trunks stored in the hotel. These trunks contained lantern slides of views taken abroad.

The owners of the hotel building have no immediate plans for the future and it is doubtful if they will rebuild. The merchants that occupied the first and second floors of the building were seeking other quarters today and several opened business in new locations late today.

"Wash Dishes to Keep Hands Nice"
Beauty Expert Advises Girls

Girls, perhaps you hate doing the dishes. Listen to what Miss Susan Breslin, teacher in a famous New York beauty school, says—

"Washing dishes makes beautiful hands—provided it is done with pure Lux suds."

Miss Breslin explains that "the very thorough gentle cleansing that one gets from Lux suds is excellent for the skin." She adds:

"However, the good effect of this thorough cleansing is lost and much harm done, if ordinary household soap is used. Such soaps often contain harmful alkalis, which dry up the oils of the skin, leading to wrinkles and coarsening of texture.

"Lux is so mild that it protects the skin oils and soothes the skin.

"My students are trained to use Lux suds in manicuring the nails, and the home woman will find that after doing dishes with Lux, her nails and hands look lovely.

"There are few beauty secrets so easy and inexpensive to follow and few that give such wonderful results as the use of Lux for dishes."

NORWICH MERCHANTS ENGAGE SPACE FOR EXHIBITS AT PROGRESS EXPOSITION

At a meeting of the publicity committee held in the Wauregan hotel on Monday evening, Sheldon H. Fairbanks, of Boston, manager of the Norwich progress exposition, stated that he was very much pleased with the response on the part of Norwich business men to the coming progress exposition to be held under the auspices of the chamber of commerce May 10, 11 and 12 in the state armory. A total of 41 booths have been sold to date out of 75. A feeling was expressed at the meeting that undoubtedly a number of concerns will have cause to regret their delay in obtaining desirable space at a later date as without doubt the entire layout will be sold within the next few days.

DISCUSSING PLANS FOR EXPOSITION IN NORWICH

Sheldon H. Fairbanks, who has been selected as manager of the Norwich Products Exposition to be held here next month, arrived in Norwich Monday. He met with the chamber of commerce publicity committee Monday evening at which time plans for the exposition was discussed. Mr. Fairbanks who was manager of the Hartford home progress exposition held recently by the 169th Infantry, C. N. G., received Monday the following letter of appreciation from Colonel D. Gordon Hunter, commanding the 169th Infantry:

The home progress exposition staged in the state armory here by the 169th Infantry was an outstanding success in all respects. Reports are coming to us daily from many sources indicating that the exhibitors were more than delighted, and as you know, practically all of them have already requested space for the 1929 exposition. We feel that this is the best possible proof that they are satisfied with the investment.

The thousands of visitors are generous in their praise of the layout of the show, and the variety and character of the exhibits. In short, it was a real success.

We realize that a large part of the credit for this success is due to your able management, and on behalf of the officers and men of the regiment I want to express to you our very sincere appreciation. Throughout the affair it was a source of satisfaction to know that we were working with a man who was impelled by the best of motives, who shot straight on all occasions, and who worked for the best interests of the regiment.

JOSEPH PARADIS' WIDOW CONTESTING HIS WILL

Ducina, widow of Joseph Paradis of Taftville, appeared in the Norwich probate court Monday to contest the will of her husband, by which one-third of her husband's estate is bequeathed to her absolutely and the other two-thirds to his brother, John B. Paradis of Taftville, who is also made executor.

Joseph Paradis left an estate which is expected to appraise about $15,000. He died suddenly about a week ago while painting the roof on a garage at his home.

Mrs. Paradis, who is contesting the action, was represented by Attorney E. G. McKay of the firm of Perkins and McKay. He had associated with him Attorney Edwin W. Higgins. The latter also represented other interested parties. Attorney William H. Shields appeared for John Paradis.

Counsel for Mrs. Paradis, the widow, are attempting to break the will of her husband on the grounds that undue influence was exercised upon the late Joseph Paradis and that he was not mentally capable at the time the will was made in April, 1927. John B. Paradis was named executor of his brother's estate, according to the will.

The will also contained this paragraph, which counsel for Mrs. Paradis attacked,

"I am well aware that I have a father and mother living, and other brothers and sisters also living, but for satisfactory reasons of my own, I have deemed it best to give and bestow all my property upon my said wife, Lucinda Paradis and my said brother, John B. Paradis, as expressly provided for in this will."

The hearing was held Monday morning by Judge Nelson J. Ayling in probate court, exactly one year to a day since the will was signed, and witnessed by Attorney William H. Shields, Attorney Thomas M. Shields and John Wolfe. The three men testified as to signing the document, thus proving the will.

Following this, counsel for Mrs. Paradis announced that an appeal will be taken to the superior court, and that the will contest will be fought there.

Francis Beique, a member of the board of relief and Omer Tellier of Taftville were appointed by the court as appraisers of the estate of the late Joseph Paradis. There is considerable property involved located at 57 Merchants avenue, Taftville.

A new seven room house, about half finished, is to be completed, according to an agreement reached in court between the parties. There are 11 garages on the property bringing in a monthly rental of $3 each, besides several tenements bringing in a monthly revenue of approximately $50.

A question arose over a bank book, which was in the joint names of the late Mr. Paradis and his wife. There is about $400 in the bank, and question involved was whether or not this money should be considered a part of the estate. Mrs. Paradis collected $1,000 from an insurance policy, it was brought out.

Practically the whole Paradis family from Taftville was in court this morning, on the will contest matter, but they did not testify.

Judge Ayling stated that from the evidence presented before him he could see nothing else but to admit the will to probate.

FIRE ENGINE ESCAPADE THE MADNESS OF SPRING

Under the title "The Madness of Spring," in commenting upon the recent incident where a patient of the Norwich State hospital escaped with the fire engine from the institution, the New York Times says in its Topics of the Town column:

When an inmate of a Connecticut hospital escaped the other day and played a few pranks he was described in the papers as insane. Reports did not say why he had been committed to the asylum, but from the account of his exploits a disinterested reader would say that he was not crazy but merely full of the exuberance of spring.

He did no harm to any of the Connecticut citizens through whose villages he sped in the fire engine he had borrowed. Nor did he injure himself. Even to normal persons a nice shiny red fire engine is a tempting object on the first warm day of the year. Who wouldn't like to take it for a joy ride through hills just beginning to green and over streams beginning to burble?

And what ordinary man, once embarked on such a ride, would have resisted the temptation to taunt the friends who had packed him off? This one, as he whirled through his home town, waved to the horrified relatives standing in his old front yard, and yodeled gaily, "See my new fire engine!" That sounds sane. The authorities may find that their madman has recovered his wits, and was only temporarily intoxicated by the fine weather on the day of his escapade.

Fined in City Court

A half dozen men were before Judge Arthur F. Libby at the city court Monday morning on intoxication charges. They were given the usual fines with costs. A Jail Hill man was fined $15 and costs on a breach of the peace charge and in addition was given a 10 day jail sentence which was suspended.

BRINGS $15,000 SUIT ON ACCOUNT OF INJURIES

Suit for $15,000 damages against the Consolidated Rendering company of Lowell, Mass., doing business in this city as the Norwich Tallow company, has been brought in the superior court by Julius Wolfram of this city for injuries he received on Oct. 15, 1927. The suit is returnable in May.

Wolfram claims to have received six fractured ribs and other injuries, by reason of which he will be unable to work as a carpenter and contractor at $40 to $60 per week or to work in any other line for the rest of his life. Wolfram claims that he was struck and knocked down by a motor truck of the defendant company which one of its employes was backing up on Market street, in front of the store of James M. Young & Sons. Wolfram says he was hit as he stepped from the curb to cross the street and that the operator of the truck gave no warning that he was to start to back. The plaintiff was in the hospital for more than three months and was put to heavy expense for medical attendance.

BEGAN UNLOADING LUMBER FROM FREIGHTER ELLASTON

Pending further instruction, work was started Monday morning at the state pier in New London on discharging the cargo of the British freighter Ellaston. Officials of the Connecticut Terminal company at the pier were instructed by underwriters interested in the ship to start the work and that probably more definite instructions will be given as to how much of the cargo will be discharged there.

The steamer went aground off Watch Hill a week ago Sunday morning and suffered damage to her bow. Divers spent two days making a survey of the damage and this survey is still being considered by the underwriters to determine whether it will be safe to allow the freighter to proceed to Boston with 3,000,000 feet of lumber consigned to that place. About 3,000,000 feet of the cargo was consigned to New London and nearly that amount was jettisoned to lighten the vessel before she could be hauled off the rocks.

Gave Supper for Mothers

The Okiza Camp Fire Girls of the United Congregational church gave a supper to their mothers Friday evening at the Community house. The table decorations were green candles and the favors were candy filled canoes. The supper consisted of the following: Fruit cup, baked ham, mashed potatoes, creamed peas and carrots, rolls, cocoa, apple pie and whipped cream.

After the supper six of the girls gave a pantomime entitled "The Bashful Lovers." Those taking part were Madeline Spaulding, Natalie Service, Mary Llewellyn, Nancy Pitcher, Doris Peterson and Eleanor Howard. After the pantomime games were enjoyed by all.

SETTLEMENT MADE AFTER PART TRIAL OF SUIT

Settlement out of court was effected in New London Monday in the $500 suit of A. B. Neiman, a New London automobile agent, against the firm of Leverone and Musante and John Leverone, which was partly tried in the common pleas court before Judge C. B. Waller. The suit was brought because of an automobile accident and the plaintiff's testimony was presented before the court.

The plaintiff's complaint did not include damages for depreciation of the plaintiff's machine and Attorney Max Boyer, counsel for Neiman, asked that it be added. Judge Charles E. Waller said that if he allowed such an amendment it would have to be with consent of Attorney Mitchell, counsel for the defendant, who would need time to gather evidence to defend the charge of depreciation. A recess was ordered and the case was settled.

According to the complaint, the truck of the defendant company crashed into the rear of the plaintiff's new car near the submarine base on June 6, 1927, damaging it to the extent that $22.50 was needed to repair the top and $120.88 for other repairs.

A delightful evening was spent Monday at the home of Mrs. Walter Clabby of 22 Dunham street, when the employes of the Lincoln Store, Inc., attended a shower for Miss Florence Bushnell in honor of her approaching marriage to Gerald Burke. Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Clabby assisted by Mrs. Andrew Hill and Miss Ethel Lewis. Dancing and vocal selections were enjoyed. Miss Bushnell is an employe of the Lincoln store and Mr. Burke is employed at the Richmond Radiator company. The bride-to-be was the recipient of many useful gifts.

DETAILS OF THE FLIGHT OF THE BREMEN FROM IRELAND

Before It Landed on Greenly Island the Monoplane For Hours Flew Blindly, Without Lights or Any Means of Holding to the Course—The Situation Was So Serious That Von Huenefeld Had Decided to Shoot His Companions and Himself if Worst Came to Worst—Hope That the Bremen Could Be Repaired Sufficiently to Continue Its Flight to New York Has Been Abandoned.

(By The Associated Press)

The Junkers monoplane Bremen flew blindly through the skies without lights or any means of holding to the course for hours before it landed on Greenly Island, the first detailed reports of the flight received through the Canadian Press revealed.

The situation was so serious toward the end, a Grenfell mission nurse who went to the island by dog sled told the Times Globe and Telegraph Journal of St. John, N. B., that Baron von Huenefeld, sponsor of the flight, decided to shoot his companions and himself if the worst came to the worst. Cable despatches the day the Bremen left Ireland told of the baron arranging himself for emergency before he took off.

But when hope was almost gone the lighthouse on Greenly Island was sighted and a landing made. As the fliers stepped from their damaged plane, the Grenfell nurse said, they all exclaimed "Thank God," the baron and Captain Koehl in German and Major Fitzmaurice in English.

While these first authentic reports were coming in preparations went forward for the Bremen's crew to continue to New York, leaving their trans-Atlantic plane behind them to be shipped later to Halifax for repairs.

The news that the Bremen's lighting system failed toward the end of its journey was wirelessed to the Canadian Press from Point Amour, the station which sent out the first word of the Bremen's arrival. The baron was quoted as estimating that the plane flew 400 miles without any lights by which to read the instruments, and to this he attributed the fact that the Bremen flew so far to the north of its intended course.

At dawn of the second day, he said, a blizzard forced the plane dangerously low as it approached the Newfoundland coast and when the light on Greenly Island was seen it was at once decided to try a landing.

The Grenfell nurse was Miss Greta Ferris, who with other mission workers, traveled 15 miles across the ice from the mainland to secure the first interview with the fliers.

She said that although the aviators had been through a terrible ordeal in the air and the baron had been near exhaustion and still felt the cold keenly, she and her companions were cordially received. The fliers signed their autographs and posed for pictures and when the women left the baron kissed their hands with punctilious old-world courtesy.

Miss Ferris said she learned that fog was encountered during almost all the 36 hours the Bremen was in the air and that when the Greenly Island light was first seen the fliers thought it was on a fishing steamer caught in the ice.

Her account indicated that after the landing, in which the ice of the little pond on which the Bremen was brought down was broken, the airmen had to flounder through the water to safety. She said that the first thing done for them at the island lighthouse was to give them dry footwear, and then they were given a meal of fresh milk and biscuits.

It had been hoped that the Bremen could be repaired sufficiently to continue its flight to New York, but this plan was at last abandoned, according to reports from communication stations in touch with the island and plans were made for the crew to complete the journey to New York in the Bremen's sister ship, F-13. Major Fitzmaurice flew to the mainland in a ski-equipped Canadian Airways plane Monday and it was reported that his German companions would join him there and all would go on together.

Miss Ferris spoke in her report of a relief plane landing at the island Sunday, but she spoke of it as the Ocaip, presumably the official designation of the Airways plane, which was piloted by C. A. (Duke) Schiller and Dr. Louis Cusinier.

WENT UP 2,000 FEET IN EFFORT TO FLY ABOVE FOG

HALIFAX, N. S., April 17—(Canadian Press)—Further details of the perilous ending of the epic hop of the German monoplane Bremen from Ireland to Greenly Bay, Que., were disclosed in a message received at the government wireless office today from Point Amour, nearest wireless station to Greenly Island.

The crew of the Bremen went up 2,000 feet in an unsuccessful attempt to fly above the heavy fog they encountered off the Newfoundland coast. Trying the other alternative, they descended to within 50 feet of the water, which was being whipped into high waves by a storm.

Again ascending, the fliers soon found themselves over a strange wooded country, then over a river. Soon a high mountain loomed ahead and the Bremen "went over the top."

A lighthouse, mistaken by the fliers for a ship, was sighted shortly before the plane was landed on the ice at Greenly Island.

CANADIAN STEAMER MONTCALM RECALLED

SYDNEY, N. S., April 17—(Canadian Press)—The Canadian government steamer Montcalm has been recalled from its attempted voyage to Greenly Island to take off the marooned crew of the Junkers plane Bremen. The Montcalm was last reported within a few miles of the island but making slow progress owing to dense ice fields.

TESTIMONY BY FORMER PRESIDENT DECIMO CLUB

BOSTON, April 17—(AP)—Fear of arrest and extradition to Massachusetts of himself and four friends led Hugo B. Monjar, former president of the Decimo club, Inc., of New York, to turn over to Attorney General Arthur K. Reading, who was counsel for the club, and the board of governors of the organization stocks and certificates he owned, Monjar told the special commission investigating Reading's conduct in office today.

Monjar said he understood at the time of the national convention of the club in New York last year that warrants were out in Massachusetts for the arrest of himself and his friends. He said that since that time he has feared arrest.

He also testified that when he refused to sign a final settlement with the governors of the club Reading said "If you want to fight we'll fight but you'll wish you never started anything. I'll make it so hot for you you'll wish you went out into the middle of the Atlantic ocean and jumped off." Monjar said Reading's attitude toward him was that of a prosecuting attorney to a criminal.

The testimony of Monjar, whose story of the payment of a retainer of $25,000 to Reading by the club started the present investigation, took the entire day. The state announced that it will complete its progress of testimony tomorrow and the defense will open Monday.

GANG LEADER CHARLES BIRGER FOUND SANE

BENTON, Ills., April 17—(AP)—Charles Birger, Southern Illinois gang leader was found sane here today by a jury which deliberated only ten minutes. He had pleaded insanity in an attempt to escape the gallows.

Birger's attorneys called only one witness to the stand in the hearing in circuit court here. State's Attorney Roy C. Martin called a number of deputy sheriffs and one doctor in his efforts to prove the gang leader sane.

Judge Charles Miller announced Birger would be hanged Thursday. Sheriff James Pritchard set the hour for ten a. m.

"This is the end of the road," said Robert E. Smith, Birger's chief attorney. "Nothing further will be done."

BILL TO CHANGE POSTAGE RATE OF NEWSPAPERS

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—A move to change the postage rate on newspapers was made today in a bill by Representative Simmons, republican, Nebraska.

His measure would fix a uniform one-cent rate for newspapers, except weekly and semi-weekly publications and periodicals, not exceeding two ounces in weight, when deposited in a letter carrier office for delivery by the carriers.

Periodicals weighing more than two ounces, handled similarly would be subject to a two-cent rate.

PEACEFUL SESSION OF THE D. A. R. CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—With staunch support of the president-general's pre-convention statement on national defense as the keynote of all public pronouncements by state officials, the 37th continental congress of the Daughters of the American revolution successfully completed its second day without any visible break in the delegates' loyalty to the national officers.

Although a number of state delegations held informal group conferences today, they took no action on the much-discussed "black list" question, and Mrs. J. C. Peabody, the state regent of Massachusetts, where the question first arose, categorically denied any knowledge of such a document. The black list was said to contain the names of many well known speakers.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, April 17—(AP)—Rear Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard, whose fits of temper on the battleship Royal Oak led him to substitute a jazz band for the ship's musicians and thus brought about a naval court of inquiry and two courts martial, has been relegated to the retired list of his majesty's navy.

OSAKA, Japan, April 17—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Rt. Rev. Sakunoshin Motoda, 66 years old, first native Episcopal bishop of Tokyo, died here suddenly of heart disease. He was well known in the United States where he was educated and where he had attended several religious conferences.

LONDON, April 17—(AP)—The path of the revised prayer book of the Church of England, which is to come before the house of commons again for adoption or rejection, is not becoming smoother. The Church Times, the principal Anglo-Catholic organ, has demanded that the measure dealing with the prayer book be dropped, and now comes an appeal from the committee for the maintenance of truth and faith for at least a long postponement.

CAMPAIGN OPENED FOR SMITH FOR PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—The second bid of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the presidency of the United States was formally advanced today by the democratic state committee.

Formal launching of the governor's campaign for the democratic nomination took place at a meeting of the state committee in the National Democratic club where a resolution calling on the state delegates to the national convention at Houston to present his name and support his candidacy was unanimously adopted.

Applause that punctuated the address of George R. Lunn of Schenectady, former lieutenant governor, who introduced the resolution became a prolonged outbreak of enthusiasm as the resolution was adopted on the seconding of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the man who presented Governor Smith's name before the democratic convention in Madison Square Garden four years ago.

The resolution referred to the governor's "unsurpassed record as an executive, his unimpeachable integrity and honor and his broadminded adherence to progressive principles."

No message was received by the meeting from Governor Smith who is now vacationing at Asheville, N. C., but his supporters look for a statement setting forth his attitude on public questions now that his candidacy has been formally launched. The governor conferred with George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, shortly after his arrival in the south when it was understood the governor gave his approval to the resolution adopted today.

Smith campaign headquarters will be opened here tomorrow and the actual pre-convention machinery will be set in motion. Governor Smith has declared he will not attend or take any part in the Houston convention.

HENRY FORD PRONOUNCES LLOYD GEORGE INQUISITIVE

LONDON, April 17—(AP)—Henry Ford saw Lloyd George at his best today. The war-time minister, just back from the Easter holidays, was as keen as a whistle, and so inquisitive about the United States that he almost forgot to eat his chop.

Mr. Ford accepted Mr. Lloyd George's luncheon invitation with pleasure, and anticipated hearing much about British politics. He had already met the king and the Prince of Wales, but, of course, no foreigner ever thinks of talking politics with royalty. So the American automobile manufacturer thought an opportunity to learn all about the ins and outs of English political events had arrived at alst.

Mr. Ford had many questions in mind to ask the liberal leader. But Mr. Lloyd George started asking about the presidential campaign: what were Hoover's chances, and Dawes, and Al Smith's. Then he got Mr. Ford's views on prohibition, on industry, on exports, on imports, the member being particularly interested in parliament. He asked about tractors, and inquired about rubber, about Wall street, about Dearborn, about Detroit, about America's views on the league of nations—in fact just about everything under the American sun. And the first thing Mr. Ford knew the luncheon was concluded, and Mr. Lloyd George rushed off to attend the opening of the house of commons.

"My goodness!" exclaimed Mr. Ford afterward, "but that man can ask questions."

NAT'L REP. CLUB DODGES PROHIBITION QUESTION

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—The National Republican club tonight tabled two opposing resolutions designed to commit the club on the prohibition question.

The action was taken at a closed meeting after three hours of hot debate. The vote on the tabling resolution was 124 to 88.

One resolution favored endorsement of the report of the committee on national affairs, which urged repeal of the eighteenth amendment and favored a wet plank in the republican national platform. The other, a minority report of the committee on national affairs, called for a "law enforcement" plank in the republican platform and recommended a neutral stand on the prohibition question.

GOV. TRUMBULL FISHED IN SOUTH CANAAN SUNDAY

CANAAN, Conn., April 17—(AP)—Governor John H. Trumbull is a regular fellow, local residents were agreeing today when it became known that his excellency was in town Sunday fishing at a club in South Canaan road.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 17—(AP)—Work to make the famous Leaning Tower of Pisa, in Italy, safe for another century or two will shortly get under way. A Swedish engineering, drilling and prospecting company has just received a contract for the reinforcement of the foundation of the historical building.

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Charles R. Ray, 31, a tobacco jobber, of Brandon, Vt., today married his widowed stepmother, Mrs. Marion T. Ray, school teacher and 12 years his senior. The ceremony took place in the chapel of the Municipal building. Ray's father died two years ago.

Radical Planks in Socialists' Platform

Calls For Recognition of Soviet Russia and Withdrawal of Troops From Nicaragua.

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Recognition of soviet Russia by the United States, withdrawal of troops from Nicaragua, relief for the farmer and the unemployed, were outstanding planks adopted by the socialist party before its national convention today.

Norman Thomas of New York and James H. Maurer of Pennsylvania are the party's nominees for president and vice-president of the United States.

Other planks adopted by the convention call for cancellation of war debts, public ownership of railroads and power, treaties outlawing war, revision of the taxation laws and adoption of an anti-lynching law.

Mr. Thomas denounced the attitude of the League of Nations in rejecting the Russian disarmament proposal as utter hypocrisy," but added "the league is the only thing now in existence working toward internationalism and we should join it."

Relief for the farmer, the platform holds, can be attained by:

"1. Acquisition of bona fide co-operative societies and by the federal, state and municipal governments of grain elevators, stockyards, storage warehouses and other distributing agencies and the conduct of those services on a non-profit basis.

"2. Encouragement of farmers' co-operative purchasing and market societies and of credit agencies.

"3. Social insurance against losses due to adverse weather conditions such as hail, drought, cyclone and flood."

Stating that the normal unemployed million has now swollen to an estimated four million, the party proposes relief "by the extension of all public works and a program of long range planning of public works following the present depression, all persons thus employed to be engaged at bona fide union hours and wages; federal loans to states and municipalities without interest for the purpose of carrying on public works; a system of unemployment insurance; the nation-wide extension of public employment agencies."

The platform plank, devoted to "labor legislation," urges a shorter working day and a five-day week, health and accident insurance, old age pension and unemployment insurance, federal anti-child labor amendment and abolition of "brutal exploitation of convicts under the contract system."

BASIS FOR DEFENSE IN THE SINCLAIR TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—Forcefully pressing their contention that the leasing of Teapot Dome originated in the navy and not in the interior department, counsel for Harry F. Sinclair secured testimony in his conspiracy trial today to show that the unit leasing plan was decided upon by Former Secretary Denby, of the navy department.

Captain J. K. Robison, retired, testified that he had communicated this decision to Albert B. Fall, after a recommendation to that effect by him had been approved by Denby. At that time a rear admiral, Robison said he had considered such a policy essential to a maximum realization of the naval oil reserve as a valuable factor in national defense.

The basis of Sinclair's defense, as outlined by Daniel Threw Wright in the opening statement to the jury, was that Denby rather than Fall instituted the policy upon which the Sinclair lease was founded. The government on the other hand, charged that Fall was primarily responsible and that he dealt corruptly with Sinclair in the Teapot Dome negotiations.

The only other witness of the day, H. Foster Bain, testified concerning his role in the Teapot Dome dealings when he was director of the bureau of mines. This dealt primarily with recommendations for leasing made by him to Fall, because of the danger of drainage from the naval oil reserve into the adjacent Salt Creek Field. Such evidence from defense geologists had been excluded previously, but Justice Jennings Bailey today allowed so much to go in as was discussed between Bain and Fall.

BULL MONTANA WAS ASSAULTED BY HIS WIFE

GLENDALE, Calif., April 17—(AP)—"Bull" Montana, wrestler, movie actor, who sought redress in police court after his wife had scored a theoretical fall in an alleged finger nail and slipper heel tussle, decided today he had had enough publicity.

The big matman asked Deputy City Attorney A. N. Irwin to throw out the battery and intoxication charges he filed against Jackie Laverne, known also as Jacqueline Montana. She told the police she was Montana's wife; the wrestler told them she was his housekeeper only.

Police arrested the woman at Montana's home after the wrestler had telephoned for their help. His face bore marks of an assault, officers said. Montana charged she belabored him with a slipper. Mrs. Montana had a black eye.

How Coolidge Views Flood Control Bill

Regards It as the Most Extortionate Measure Passed During His Administration.

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—As the house began today its consideration of the controverted senate Jones $325,000,000 flood control bill, it was disclosed that President Coolidge regards the measure as the most extortionate passed by any branch of congress during his administration.

After adopting a plan giving the bill legislative right of way, the house launched into its twelve hour program of debate on the measure which was passed by the senate by unanimous vote a month ago. At the outset of the discussion fires of controversy blazed forth on the floor. Chairman Snell of the rules committee assailing certain features of the bill and urging its revision. Chairman Reid of the flood committee in charge of the measure attacked Snell for criticising it during discussion of the rule to give the bill the right of way instead of waiting until later.

Snell characterized the legislation as the most important before congress since the World war.

The president's criticism of the proposed legislation is centered on its provision to have the federal government purchase land needed for floodways in Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana. The chief executive feels that this purchase by the federal government would benefit large corporations and lumber interests in the valley and would raise the cost of flood project from $200,000,000 to $1,250,000,000.

In the house, Representative Frear of Wisconsin, a republican on the flood committee and a leader of the measure's opponents described the federal payments for the floodways as creating large benefits to corporations whose lands would be in the path of the flood works. He cited a number of corporations likely to seek large damage claims and said that former Senator William Lorimer, of Illinois, who has been at the capitol following the bill's legislative journey, was interested in the adoption of the provision.

Proponents of the bill, including Chairman Reid and democratic representatives from valley states, emphasized in opening discussion today that because the Mississippi river drained the waters of thirty-one states the flood control project was a national responsibility and that therefore the federal treasury should shoulder the entire cost.

Calling attention to the anniversary today of the beginning of the 1927 catastrophic inundation, Reid warned congress that it would be a "target of merited condemnation" if it failed to enact flood control legislation at this session. Three valley representatives, Wilson of Louisiana, Whittington of Mississippi and Driver, of Arkansas, recalled for the house conditions in their states during the 1927 flood.

MAYOR THOMPSON LUNCHED WITH THE BRITISH CONSUL

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)—Mayor William Hale Thompson, who has waged a fight against King George, and British propaganda, since his election last spring, today lunched with H. A. Richards, British consul.

Both were guests at a luncheon given plans were laid for entertainment of the German-Irish trans-Atlantic fliers, and found themselves seated side by side at the table.

There was just the slightest pause after the introduction, when Mr. Richards said: "I have been here five years, Mr. Thompson."

Whereupon "Big Bill" recalled he had a fine time while in England, yachting with Sir Thomas Lipton, and by the time the cigars were glowing, they were exchanging views on gasoline motors, speeding and boating.

Meanwhile, the entertainment committee announced plans had been made to entertain Major Fitzmaurice, Baron Von Huenefeld and Captain Koehl "in a manner surpassing anything ever seen in this country" when they arrive here.

MASKED TRAIN ROBBER DISAPPEARED WITH $5,000

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)—A masked robber who held up the Overland Limited, the Chicago Northwestern's 60-hour train to San Francisco, as it pulled out of the local station last night, vanished into the darkness of the yards, taking with him approximately $5,000 and virtually all clues.

Thrilling descriptions of the holdup telegraphed back today were so skimpy as to details of description the police and railroad detectives had but little to work upon.

It was made known that the robber appeared just as the train left the station, hurried into two of the observation car compartments with his face covered with handkerchief and pistol in hand, committed the robberies and leaped from the train.

One report was that the robber probably was a former railroad worker as he pulled the emergency brake cord. Another was he first pulled the whistle cord and then the emergency brake cord. As the brakes hurriedly were applied and the train slowed, the robber left the train within four miles of the station and disappeared into the railroad yards.

NEW BEDFORD TEXTILE STRIKE MAY RESULT IN AN ENDURANCE CONTEST

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 17—(AP)—Warning against an alleged attempt to "steal" the membership of textile unions in this city, was issued today by officials of the American Federation of Textile Operatives on the second day of a strike involving 27 mills and 30,000 workers.

As mill owners and operatives settled down quietly to a possible endurance test in the strike called in protest against a ten per cent wage reduction, William E. G. Batty and Abraham Binns, officers of the federation with which mill workers in this city are affiliated, called upon the union membership to remain firm in their allegiance.

The warning was issued after W. L. Murdoch, of Providence, claiming to be secretary-organizer of the "textile mills committee," opened offices in New Bedford with the announced intention of organizing the strikers into new unions by mill units. A special meeting of the executive committee of the textile council was called for tonight to discuss these activities.

Indicating the belief of the mill owners that the strike would be of long duration, work was begun today in several plants dismantling equipment and storing it, while plans were under way to reduce clerical staffs to the minimum. Andrew Raeburn, secretary of the New Bedford Textile Manufacturers' association, said his organization had no statement to make at this time.

"It is useless to say anything now," he said. "People would not listen or pay any attention to it. Later we may have something to say."

In view of the business depression expected to follow the shutdown of the mills various city departments announced policies of curtailment. Health department employes were ordered to take two weeks vacation without pay, and the park board announced that summer playgrounds would not be operated.

STATE REP. CONVENTION IN SESSION IN HARTFORD

Senator Bingham, Temporary Chairman, Delivered the Keynote Speech—The Senator Defended American Intervention in Nicaragua and Praised the Administration's Achievements in Aviation and Finance—The Convention Today Will Choose a Delegation of 17 to the Kansas City Convention—It is Expected That J. Henry Roraback Will Head the Delegation—Senator Bingham is Slated as a Delegate.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 17—(AP)—An endorsement of President Calvin Coolidge and the republican national and state administrations, was in the keynote address of United States Senator Hiram Bingham to the republican state convention, of which he was temporary chairman, tonight. He dealt largely with national affairs, especially pertaining to the American policy toward neighbors to the south, more particularly Nicaragua, the administration's achievements in aviation and finance, and "the present state of representative government."

The convention tomorrow will choose a delegation of 17 to the Kansas City convention, and in accord with tradition those who are members will be uninstructed as to presidential preferences, individually or collectively.

The state delegation is expected to be headed by J. Henry Roraback, national committeeman and state chairman, and will include Senator Bingham. Mr. Roraback several times has expressed his personal preference for renomination of President Coolidge and among prospective members of the delegation are several who, also, have expressed with emphasis their own desire to vote for Mr. Coolidge.

Senator Bingham, who arrived from Washington only a short time before the delegates gathered, was given a hearty welcome. He acknowledged this and his pleasure in having the opportunity to discuss matters of national concern.

The senator took up the Nicaraguan situation at the outset saying that from study of it he was convinced that President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg had acted "in good faith and with skill."

The armory interior wore an air of cheerfulness as there were liberal decorative effects in flags and bunting. The stage was set with a Venetian scene flanked by potted palms. The front rows of seats in the gallery were occupied but the number of spectators was not up to the number usually expected at a republican convention. Some women members of the state committee sat on the platform where also had been escorted former Governor Marcus H. Holcomb. Close by sat Governor Trumbull.

When Senator Bingham appeared there was applause and the delegates stood. In a few words Mr. Roraback introduced him and the senator began a speech which lasted seventy minutes.

Frequently, the senator paused while the applause lasted, and at the conclusion he was given a round of hand clapping.

The roll of committees was called and convention secretaries read the lists of vice presidents, honorary secretaries and committees. The place of meeting of the latter were assigned and the convention adjourned overnight.

The committee on permanent organization will ask that Senator Bingham be made the permanent chairman. There seemed little for committees to do. The rules committee had one proposed change and the committee on credential had to settle the Madison contest. It seems to be the opinion in the resolution committee not to bring in any resolution although some favored a paragraph or two praising Governor Trumbull's administration.

The chief over-night business to be done seemed to be the settling the choice of alternates in some districts.

PROBABLE SELECTION OF DELEGATES-AT-LARGE

HARTFORD, April 17—(AP)—The first activity among delegates was at the state central committee meeting when the temporary vote of the convention was prepared, and at which two sets of credentials appeared from Madison without opposition the anti-Marsden delegates, Representative Burton Hall and George Dowd were put on the roll. The motion to act on these names was made by E. L. Averill, of Branford, proxy for Lieut. Gov. Brainard in the 12th district, and seconded by James F. Walsh, of Greenwich.

The probable selections for the national delegation are: Delegates-at-large—J. Henry Roraback, Hartford; Miss Katherine Byrne, Putnam; Mrs. Alice Russ, Shelton; James J. Walsh, Greenwich; John H. Trumbull, Plainville; Hiram Bingham, New Haven, and Ernest E. Rogers, New London.

First district—Samuel R. Spencer, Suffield; Walter E. Batterson, Hartford.

Second district—Charles A. Gates, Windham; R. Leland Keeney, Somers.

Third district—J. Edwin Brainard, Branford; Roy C. Wilcox, Meriden.

Fourth district — Arthur Connor, Bridgeport; Mrs. Julia Emery, Stamford.

Fifth district—Frederic C. Walcott, Norfolk; Edward W. Goss, Waterbury.

A number of district and county delegations had dinner parties before the convention opened and at these the matter of alternates was discussed and this list will be ready by tomorrow.

State Controller F. M. Salmon will be alternate for Connor, and Mrs. Nehemiah Candee for Mrs. Emery, in the fourth.

KRESGE'S WIFE SET $10,000,000 AS PRICE FOR BEARING CHILD

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—The World tomorrow will say that Mrs. Doris M. Kresge set $10,000,000 as the price for giving Sebastian S. Kresge a child and he declined to pay it, according to his Detroit divorce complaint, which emerged today after having been hidden for months under supreme court seal. The Kresges never had a child.

The wealthy chain store operator, who gave Miss Doris Mercer securities now worth almost $3,000,000 before he married her in April, 1924, related that in April, 1925, she told him "that if he would give her $10,000,000 she would bear the child for him, but if not," then there would be no child.

This material came into the open when Supreme Court Justice Mahoney signed an order at Mr. Kresge's behest discontinuing an order for the latter's examination in connection with his divorce suit. The justice held that in view of the fact that Mrs. Kresge won an interlocutory divorce decree in New York Feb. 18, there was little occasion for Mr. Kresge's being examined in his Detroit divorce action.

SEARCHING FOR RELATIVES OF MRS. FLORENCE KNAPP

ALBANY, N. Y., April 17—(AP)—Several representatives of the New York state department of law today continued their search in eastern Massachusetts of relatives of former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp, whose testimony is desired by the special grand jury investigating Mrs. Knapp's conduct of the 1925 state census. All but one of the relatives are said to have received census salaries without having done any work, while in several cases they are to be questioned regarding the charge that Mrs. Knapp endorsed their checks without authorization.

Up to an early hour tonight, Special Prosecutor George Z. Medalie had received no word from the investigators regarding the results of their efforts to serve subpoenas on at least four of the relatives, or to start prosecution of two others who failed to heed subpoenas served last Saturday. The investigators, it was understood here, are dividing their time between Bedford and Cambridge, where the relatives are supposed to live.

HAMPTON VOTERS FAIL TO REACH ROAD AGREEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 17—In its fourth attempt to decide where state-aid roads shall be built this season, the town of Hampton failed again at a special town meeting held in the town hall this afternoon. The question, now nearing an acute stage, has aroused wide interest throughout the town and over 130 voters attended the meeting. Chester B. Jewett was moderator and the warning was read by Town Clerk Mrs. Gertie Thompson. The first vote was to rescind resolutions on the project that were adopted at the special meeting of March 31. A vote was then taken on the project of constructing about seven-eighths of a mile of water-bound macadam road from Hampton village towards Scotland. The estimated cost of this road was $24,000, the town to bear one-eighth of the expense, and the remainder to be secured through future state-aid funds. This proposition was lost by a fairly close vote. It was then proposed to go into road-building on a large scale and construct some six miles of new highway from the Scotland town line, through Hampton to Pomfret. This discussion is expected to lead to a fifth special town meeting to vote on the proposition. Justice of the Peace Clinton A. Oliver stated that the cost of this work would be about $195,000. Taking advantage of all available remittances from future state-aid funds, the town would have to be bonded for about $131,000, this amount representing about 25 per cent of the total grand list, which is approximately $540,000, and not covering any property damage that might be incurred in the course of construction. A considerable increase to the present 22 1-2 mill tax would have to be made to meet the interest and payments on the principal of this indebtedness. The town last year appropriated $3,700 for state-aid road construction but this appropriation was never used inasmuch as there is only enough money in the treasury at the present time to meet current expenses. Hampton citizens appear bound to do some road-building, however, and it is likely that another special meeting will be called in the near future.

The next day the boy submitted to an x-ray and it was found that he had a crushed right foot. The boy said that he was standing on the curbing when the machine approached to park. When the center of the car was in front of him he lost his balance and his left foot went down into the gutter where the rear wheel of the machine passed over it. He felt no pain at the time. DANIELSON

NEW FRANCHISE GRANTED TO N. E. BUS LINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 17—The curiosity of people in Danielson and vicinity was stirred today by a press despatch from Hartford stating that the public utilities commission at Hartford had granted a permit to the New England Transportation company to operate a bus line between Central Village and the Massachusetts state line at the northern border of the town of Thompson. This permit covers territory formerly served by the trolley line and at present time is being served, between Central Village and North Grosvenordale by motor coaches of the Connecticut company.

In quarters here where, the presumption is, something might be known about what the New England Transportation company intends to do under the permit it was stated today that no information is yet available on the subject.

If the New England is to operate a service between Central Village and the Massachusetts state line, it will parallel the route from the greater part of the distance being operated by the Connecticut company. Merely as an observation, it may be stated that the passenger traffic is not particularly heavy as a general rule over this route.

There is one assumption that may account for the issuing of the permit and the fact that its granting was unopposed, and that is that the New England company plans a Norwich-Worcester service through Danielson. Under one of its permits it operates from Norwich to Central Village on its Norwich-Providence route. That arrangement gets the company into Central Village and the newly granted permit would take them northward into Massachusetts.

If the assumption that the New England company is to operate between Norwich and Worcester is correct Danielson will get the same fine through service that is now available on the New England lines between Danielson and Hartford and Danielson and Providence. Local transportation needs are well served by the Connecticut company. It is only getting through service to Worcester and points beyond that Danielson needs to be enjoying about the best all around service for traveling it has ever known.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home in Attawaugan funeral services for Joseph K. Heselton were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, pastor of the Danielson Baptist church. Delegations from Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, and from Quinebaug lodge, I. O. O. F., of Danielson were in attendance. Burial was in Grove street cemetery at Putnam, where the Odd Fellows' burial service was conducted by Noble Grand Wardell Shippee and Chaplain Kenneth Michie of Quinebaug lodge. The bearers were DeForest Wells, E. C. Babson, and J. Elmer Keene, representing Colonel Edward Anderson camp, and Kenneth Michie, Arnold Battey and Ray W. Pellett, representing Quinebaug lodge. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

Incident to the nearness of Clean-up week, there again arises discussion favorable to creating the office of fire marshal in Danielson and making an appointment to fill the place. Having a fire marshal also could materially reduce the fire hazard by seeing to it, as would be part of his duties, that no dangerous accumulations of rubbish remain unremoved. Reduction of fire hazards presumes the possibility of lower fire insurance rates, a matter of general interest to all who carry fire insurance, and that means the great majority of property owners and tenants. The fire marshal proposal seems due to receive even more consideration than it yet has had here.

It so happens that there is a special drive on in connection with the cleanliness and orderliness campaign now getting underway to induce all of those who circularize the community, for any purpose, to see to it that distributors get the handbills or other things they are putting out inside houses and not leave them on verandas and doorsteps to be blown about by the wind, to become an eyesore and a nuisance. It is believed the desired co-operation can be obtained.

Wellington E. Bitgood has recovered from a recent illness and is now engaged with his usual duties.

There will be no further extension this year of the new mains of the Crystal Water company from a point east of Elmville, where the work ended last year, toward the reservoir near East Killingly.

With the temperature consistently below the freezing point in the early morning hours since the trout fishing season opened last Sunday, the number of fishermen on the brooks has not been great.

Commissioner Robert T. Hurley of the state police department was here and at other points in the county today helping in the investigation relative to the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson.

Edward S. Carpenter, who observed his 90th birthday recently, has been confined to his home by illness.

St. Alban's church of Danielson and Trinity church of Brooklyn both have invited Rev. J. R. Jones of Norwich to become rector here and at Brooklyn to succeed Rev. Leonard L. Richards, now rector of Christ church at Pomfret.

Mrs. James Burlingame continues to improve, though slowly, from a serious illness dating back many weeks.

Wakitatina Camp Fire girls report holding a party for the members. Refreshments were served.

Walter A. Crisp of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

There will be a choice of two good routes into Danielson off the Providence road when the new extension planned for this year is built, for Reynolds street will still be available and undoubtedly used by a goodly portion of the heavy traffic.

Mrs. W. A. Burrows, who has been very dangerously ill, was reported today as continuing to improve and is now regarded as on her way to recovery.

Oiling of borough streets, a work done by the town, will be undertaken within a short time, it was said today.

The council for the Older Girls' conference met at the home of Miss Helen Keech Saturday, April 14. A luncheon was served after which final plans were made for the Older Girls' conference to be held May 12 and 13 at Putnam. PUTNAM

BENOIT FINED FOR HITTING BOYS WITH A STRAP

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 17—Aldor Benoit of Putnam was arrested Monday evening by Sergeant George Liard of the Putnam police upon a complaint charging him with an assault upon two boys. He was arraigned in the city court Tuesday morning before Judge M. H. Geissler and pleaded not guilty to the charge. After a cross examination by Prosecuting Attorney Eric H. Johnson, Benoit changed his plea to guilty, stating that he did lash the two youngsters while they were playing in his yard. Both boys testified that they were playing marbles and he came out with a strap and bruised both of them. Judge Geissler fined Benoit $5 and costs of the court, and later suspended the fine and placed him in charge of the probation officer for a period of six months.

The case of Benoit was the first one of this nature to be brought into court in many years.

The Cosmos club meets April 24th at the home of Mrs. Eugene Brodeur of Woodstock avenue. Mrs. Brodeur was active in planning and organizing the club and is deeply interested in its welfare. At the first meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harry Torrey on Grove street on March 14 officers were elected and rules and policies of the club were outlined. Those elected were Mrs. Harry Torrey, secretary, Mrs. Edward Fisher, treasurer, and Mrs. Zeon Robillard treasurer of the milk fund. Membership has ben limited to twenty members, with meetings being held monthly at the homes of the different members of the club.

A noteworthy feature of the organization is a rule pertaining to the collection of dues. One half of the amount collected will be turned over to a milk fund, to provide milk for the many needy families in Putnam and vicinity. This is the first venture of any group to attempt to provide milk on any such scale. Mrs. Harry Torrey who is secretary of the club was formerly the district nurse for the local chapter of the American Red Cross and she has been in a position to know the conditions of the needy in Putnam. Outside contributions are now being accepted to aid the club to provide fresh milk for Putnam's children in need of the food.

The members of the Cosmos club are all married and have all been active in business and professional circles, and are a truly representative group of young women keenly interested in Community welfare work. The work planned must necessarily begin on a small scale, but it is hoped that in time an adequate amount will be acquired, so that requests for aid of this nature may be readily granted.

The members of the club are Mrs Eugene Brodeur, Mrs. Zeon Robillard, Mrs. Byron Howard, Mrs. Edward Mullan, Mrs. Lionel Charron, Mrs. Edward Fisher, Mrs. Arthur Renshaw, Mrs. Harvey Grinsell, Mrs. Leo McKenna, Mrs. Archibald Macdonald Jr., Mrs. John Gagan, Mrs. Wilfred Maynard, Mrs. Morgan Delaney, Mrs. Carl Nelson, Mrs. Clyde Phaneuf, Mrs. George Brownell, Mrs. Waldo Chase, Mrs. Thaddeus Pitkin, Mrs. Stanley Shaw, Mrs. Harry Torrey.

Mt. Carmel, Pa.—"After my second baby was born I had to work too hard and be on my feet too soon because my husband was ill. After his death I was in such a weakened and run-down condition that nothing seemed to help me. I am starting the fourth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel a great deal better. I am much stronger and don't get so tired out when I wash or work hard. I do housekeeping and dressmaking and I highly recommend the Vegetable Compound. I am willing to answer letters."—Mrs. Gertrude Butts, 414 S. Market St., Mt. Carmel, Pa.

The automatic "FLAVOR ZONE" oven knows when your roast is browned

A roast must first be properly browned, and then cooked in a lowering temperature to draw the flavor from this delicate outer crust into the meat. The Westinghouse Electric Range does this automatically.

Before you leave home, say at 10 o'clock in the morning, you put your dinner—roast and vegetables—in the oven. You make two simple adjustments as predetermined for you by Westinghouse cooking experts, close the oven door and forget about the cooking until dinner time.

At the proper time the FLAVOR ZONE oven will automatically turn the heat on and brown your roast to perfection. Then it will automatically turn itself off and continues cooking in a lower temperature until the whole of the meat is uniformly and deliciously done.

No other range, either fuel or electric, performs first the browning operation and then the cooking operation under full automatic control.

Let us demonstrate FLAVOR ZONE Cooking—the new domestic science—to you, or if more convenient, phone or write for special booklet.

SENATOR BINGHAM'S ADDRESS

Dealing with the record of the republican administration in his address at the opening of the state republican convention, Senator Bingham touched upon certain of the high spots and found ample reasons for justifying the manner in which the administration's policy has been established and followed, for pointing out the accomplishments and for placing emphasis upon the part which the state, party and individual should play in the maintenance of sound government.

Senator Bingham pictured the developments as they transpired in a straightforward and clear manner. He took up the Nicaragua situation because it has been under almost constant fire and he showed that there was the same altruistic purpose on the part of the United States in going into Nicaragua that there was in dealing with the situation in San Domingo, where even more drastic steps were taken. For the good of the republic concerned and the peace and protection of all involved we have displayed anything but an imperialistic policy and properly did he deplore the fact that too many of those who know better have been engaged in misleading public opinion. As he declared, our history in dealings with smaller republics completely refutes the claim that the republican administration has been engaged in imperialism. Hearty endorsement must be given to his statement that President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg have handled the Nicaraguan situation in good faith and with skill, and well does he say, "It ill becomes American citizens to throw mud at their own government without that full knowledge of the facts which few can have without access to the confidential files of the state department."

In regard to a subject that is close to his heart, aviation, Senator Bingham regards the policy of the government as far sighted in "stimulating the development of safe and reliable commercial flying and of encouraging the American aircraft industry to stand on its own feet and find markets which will make it self supporting." His review of the changes that have been authorized, the extensions that have been made and the encouragement to the aircraft industry in general was interestingly set forth.

Furthermore he dwelt with deserving emphasis upon the record in economy and tax reduction which the administration has made. Well does he maintain that it "has been extraordinary for its financial wisdom," and there is a widespread sentiment which backs up his assertion that the president's profound wisdom and common sense shaped his policy which "has been appreciated by the great mass of hard working Americans, even though received with bitter attacks from those who hold unsound economic views. Politics has invariably been at the bottom of the opposition to the administration policies.

Upon the question of the tariff the senator answered the democratic demands for a lowering of duties but declaring that "every time the tariff has been lowered it has brought suffering to Connecticut. It has meant the closing down of factories, the increase of unemployment, disaster and poverty to thousands. Yet no actions of President Coolidge have received more bitter denunciation than in connection with the tariff. Consequently it is fair to say that no action of his has been of greater benefit to the people of Connecticut. As Connecticut republicans we believe in a pay-as-you-go policy. We believe in an economic administration. We believe in keeping our taxes as low as possible, but no lower than is necessary to meet expenses and reduce the public debt. We believe that a protective tariff is wise and beneficial for all parts of the United States. It is the duty of the federal government to protect the people of the United States against aggression of all kinds. For this purpose we maintain an army and a navy. For this purpose we maintain a protective tariff."

Corruption in high places was not ignored. The senator maintained that the guilty should be punished and he insisted that the president had done his duty in this respect, and he made a plea for the aid of the legal fraternity in getting speedy, swift and impartial administration of justice instead of using their talents to prolong the laws' delays.

Pointing with justified pride to the record of the republicans of Connecticut Senator Bingham paid deserved tribute to the services rendered by Senator McLean and expressed the hope that he would continue to be willing to "sacrifice his comfort and his desires for a peaceful life of rural retirement for the sake of Connecticut and of the United States." Thoroughfitting were his words in behalf of Governor Trumbull.

What the senator had to say in regard to the present state of representative government deserves careful study. There is meat in his words and his entire address, appearing elsewhere in The Bulletin, is commended to all.

THE "DONT CARE" SPIRIT

There are times when the spirit of "don't care" is not far removed from that of the criminally disposed. Such finds a good illustration in the case of the cigarette smoker who started a grass fire near Quonochontaug this week which burned over 300 acres of good timber before it was checked, destroyed a dwelling and hundreds of cords of split wood. There was in addition the work of the fire fighters for a period of six hours. All was of course, needless.

The smoker was seen to throw his lighted match into a clump of dry grass. His act was the cause for a remonstrance on the part of three women. When they called his attention to the fire and urged him to put it out his response was that he "didn't gave a d—— about fires" and got into his automobile and drove away. It could have been no worse had he gone to that particular spot with that very result in view. It may not have been his purpose to cause the destruction but certainly he made no effort to overcome what he had done. His reaction in hurrying away was that of a coward. His sneer was like that of the criminal who got pleasure out of seeing how much trouble he could cause for others.

It is to be hoped that those women who saw the fire started, and were unable to get the man responsible for it to put it out, did not fail to note the number of the automobile for the owner of that property as well as the authorities should have something to say to him that might change his views in regard to fires.

It cannot be said that such a spirit of defiance is to be found where woodland fires are started. The spirit of "don't care," if it exists at all, is for the most part confined to the heedlessness that goes with the casting aside of firebrands. In-variably such individuals would be quick to use their best efforts to stop the fires they kindle but few of them ever realize in time what they have done. It is that failure to anticipate in advance what is almost certain to happen that characterizes most of the kindlers. They are not without blame but those who know they have started a fire and care not deserve something more than an ugly look. They should be held responsible for the damage they cause.

THE FRENCH FLIERS

Among the fliers eyes cannot fail to be turned to those two French aviators who have just returned to Paris after a flight of 35,000 miles. They have been gone from home a long time, their journey first taking down to Africa and across the Atlantic to South America, up through Central America to the United States and across the continent to the Pacific. Their good judgment was used in deciding not to attempt to cross that body of water in the air, but after reaching Japan they set out on a home stretch of more than 10,000 miles and successfully completed it by strenuous flying within a week.

Costes and LeBrix have been making flying history. They have demonstrated their skill in facing all kinds of conditions and if as intimated that they are picked to attempt a westward flight across the Atlantic, in the hopes of being the first to make a Paris to New York crossing, it is certain that their effort will be watched with that keen interest which has accompanied them throughout the long journey which has just ended. The reception which they have gotten at Paris is only an indication of that which all the countries they have visited would like to participate in. They will get no greater recognition of their accomplishments than is deserved and without question greater honors are before them.

A KNOTTY PROBLEM

Trying to get an international understanding in regard to immigration is no easy task. The records of such conferences as have been held make that clear. Considering the results at the first international congress on aviation it is not so surprising that the second, held at Havana, has been unable to make any greater headway.

In regard to immigration it is next to impossible for those countries which are desirous of getting rid of their surplus population and those countries which insist upon regulating the number of new aliens to reconcile their views. For the first group it would be fine if their emigrants could go where they pleased. In the other group there is a feeling that they have a right to look out for their own welfare and when it comes to getting these two views to blend it is a good deal like trying to mix oil and water.

The outcome of the first congress was not such as to discourage the holding of a second. The conclusion of the second, though it cannot be seen that any great progress has been made, will not stand in the way of the holding of a third. By keeping everlastingly at it an understanding may be reached sometime, but from the present perspective the outlook doesn't appear rosy. The knottiness of the problem handicaps the solution.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Senator Bingham got the republican convention away to a flying start.

The man on the corner says: It won't be long now before you are getting up with the birds.

If we get their meaning, the beautification of the back lots by public spirited women in Florida isn't done with tin cans.

If there are 40,000 landing fields in this country there would be 40,001 if Norwich would get busy and establish one.

If there was a time when Harry Sinclair put a value of $100,000,000 on the Teapot Dome lease, what does he think of it now?

Before many days there should be a corrected casualty list as the result of that political battle in Illinois. The major fatalities do not represent the whole loss.

WHY THE LEAVES CHANGE

Deep in the perusal of the evening paper, Mr. Tittleworth so far forgot himself as to place one foot upon the reading table.

"Down!" commanded Mrs. Tittleworth, pausing to examine the patch she had just completed on a shirt. "No pinochle club, this." Mr. Tittleworth took down his foot with a sigh.

"I like autumn best of all," observed his wife. "Don't you?"

"Coal," was the objection.

"But think of the autumn skies, and the colors of the trees. I wonder what makes them change?"

"Why shouldn't they change?"

"Why should they? Do you know?"

Mr Tittleworth put aside the newspaper.

"I know," said he, "but it's technical." He paused. "And scientific."

"Proceed," said Mrs. Tittleworth.

"The question," he began, "is why do the trees change their color. Now let us consider a tree——"

"What kind of tree?"

"Any kind. Name one."

"Pine tree." Mr. Tittleworth coughed with embarrassment.

"That wasn't such a good choice, he remarked. "Name another."

"No, I said pine tree and I stick to pine tree. What's the matter with my choice?"

"Pine trees don't change their color."

"Why don't they?"

"Listen," said Mr. Tittlesworth earnestly. "Are we talking why trees don't or why trees do?"

"Maybe you had better name a tree," suggested Mrs. Tittleworth.

"Maple," he replied promptly.

"Hard or soft?"

"Take your pick."

"Norway maple."

"All right. There stands a Norway maple——"

"Where?"

"Anywhere. There it stands on a summer day. What color are the leaves?"

"Green. Like the ribbon on my new hat."

"Correct as to color. Immaterial as to ribbon. Along comes a frost. What happens?"

"Winter underclothes?"

"Trees don't," said Tittleworth in disgust. "I'll say it again. Along comes a frost. What happens?"

"We start the furnace?"

"You mean I start the furnace? Once more—along comes a frost. What happens? Never mind. I'll answer. The leaves change their color."

"It's time!"

"I believe in logic."

"What kind of logic?"

"The kind that starts at A and goes to B."

"What's at B?"

"Why do the leaves change their color? That's B."

"No, that's A. Just where we started."

"Let's start all over again. Now, in the first place——"

"Leave out the first place and the second place," interjected Mrs. Tittleworth. "What I am interested in is the third place."

"We haven't got there yet. This is technical and scientific."

"Not the third place," positively.

"And what is that?" asked Mr. Tittleworth.

"Have you got back that rake you let Abel Snorf next door borrow last summer?"

"Rake?" asked Mr. Tittleworth in surprise. "What has a rake to do with it?"

"In the fourth place," replied Mrs Tittleworth, "after the leaves change their color for causes unknown, they drop off and have to be raked up. That may not be technical, and it may not be scientific, but it's practical and you have always prided yourself upon being a practical man. That's A-B-C."

"No," returned Mr. Tittleworth, sadly. "That's D."—Chicago News.

Pointers For Parents

Eating, sleeping and elimination—establish these three habits and you have built a firm foundation for your child's mental and physical health.

The child who is freely and frankly praised for the things that parents can honestly commend is saved from the perils that beset the child who is never given the encouragement of appreciative comment.

The child who is tricked into going to the doctor's office, or who is reassured by a fussy, solicitous mother who is herself worried, is likely to make a scene and disgrace himself. On the other hand, it is quite possible to prepare a child to meet the pain and discomfort of the doctor's procedure with courage and dignity.

If all children are given a voice in the famil, councils and a share in the family responsibilities and treated with the same courtesy and consideration as adults, they will respond by surprisingly effective co-operation and develop a more worthy and intelligent type of citizenship. Homes conducted on the autocratic "because I told you to" lines are just as poor soil for the growth of democratic ideals as the homes where spoiled children are the family tyrants.

Is the child's appetite good? If not, is it because:
He eats between meals?
He is finicky in his choice of foods?
He is physically or mentally overtired?
He takes too much liquid and "feels full" quickly?
He is indoors most of the time and inactive? —Children.

Tuberculosis—Is It Preventable?

By Elmer Hess, M. D., F. A. C. S., Erie, Pa., Member Gorgas Memorial

Is tuberculosis preventable?

Is tuberculosis curable?

The first question is easily answered in the affirmative. Tuberculosis is preventable. Like all infectious diseases it is caught from another. It is likewise a disease of youth and carelessness. Children are careless in their association with each other. They lick their pencils; they put all sorts, kinds and manners of things into their mouths; playing with a tuberculous child means nothing to them; sucking a tuberculous child's "all day sucker" means nothing to them; dirty hands and dirty faces are all a part of the day's play. This is the period in life when the disease is usually contracted. The only reason we aren't all tuberculous is that children usually play in sunshine and, if they contract the disease, it is arrested early. Parents should guard as much as possible against the association of their kiddies with those from known tuberculous families.

Some states require tuberculosis to be reported the same as smallpox and scarlet fever. This is the only attitude to take towards the disease. It is highly infectious.

The ideal method of treatment is of course in a segregated sanitarium for the purpose, and yet thousands who have the disease cannot be accommodated in such places, and they must be cared for at their homes. Now the problem is twofold. First, to arrest the disease; second, to prevent others from acquiring it.

The most important thing in the care of their own condition is the employment of a competent medical adviser. If the family has no physician then a call to the nearest good hospital or sanitarium will be productive of the name of several competent physicians, any one of whom can be trusted. This man will then give ample instructions, both as to personal care and the care of others. His instructions should be followed to the letter. Rest, sunshine, good food are the big three of treatment; for prevention, cleanliness and care are the important things. All sputum should be burned. Kissing and the use of the personal articles by others should be carefully guarded against. Most important of all, accept to the letter all instructions, no matter how trying, laid down by the attending physician.

Tuberculosis can affect any part of the body and the treatment of each part is a little different. For instance, lung tuberculosis is treated differently from tuberculosis of the kidney or of the bowel. The diagnosis is very important and only a competent physician can absolutely make such a diagnosis. Sometimes it is necessary to use the X-ray. No necessary test should be left undone in an endeavor to prove the presence of the disease when once suspected.

How Shelly Reached His Hole

Temper causes grief and pain
And loses more than it can gain.
—Old Mother Nature.

"What finally happened to Shelly the Armadillo when Beauty the Ocelot had him?" demanded Peter Rabbit, his eyes popping out with excitement.

Boomer the Nighthawk chuckled. "You never did see a fellow so upset as was Beauty the Ocelot," said he. "That cat was so beside himself with anger, because Shelly remained rolled up in that coat of shell of his, that he snarled and spit and made a regular spectacle of himself. He certainly was the maddest cat I have ever seen."

"All the time Shelly remained curled up so tight that in spite of his strength Beauty couldn't pull him over. It wasn't for lack of trying, but somehow Beauty couldn't get hold anywhere. Then he tried walking off and lying down within jumping distance and keeping perfectly still. I guess he hoped that Shelly would think he had gone away. But Shelly didn't unroll. I guess he knew when he was well off. Then Beauty began to poke him with his paws. Then he began knocking him around. He got rougher and rougher. You see, his temper got shorter and shorter. Yes, sir, he was letting his temper get the best of him.

"All the time Beauty was growling and snarling and spitting. He certainly was a disappointed cat. Finally he got his paw under Shelly and gave him a quick hard throw. It sent Shelly flying. Like a flash, Beauty was after him. But, though Shelly thumped the ground hard when he landed, he didn't unroll a bit. He was too smart for that. This made Beauty angrier than ever. He knocked Shelly this way and that way. Once more he got a paw under him and once more he threw him. This time Shelly landed almost on his own doorstep, and this time he unrolled. Yes, sir, he unrolled like a flash and disappeared in his hole. My, my, my, my, how that cat did act! You see, he reached there just in time to put one paw on the end of Shelly's tail. Of course, he couldn't hold it. It slipped right out. Beauty acted as if he were wholly crazy. He began to tear and dig at the entrance to Shelly's hole. And then he suddenly backed away, yowling and snarling and spitting. His eyes and his mouth and his nose were full of dirt. Shelly must have kicked some dirt back right into Beauty's face. So that is the way that Shelly the Armadillo makes use of his coat.

Peter Rabbit sighed. "It must be nice to have a coat like that," said he. "Yes, sir, it certainly must be nice to have a coat like that."

"Huh!" grunted Prickly Porky. "What is the matter with a coat like mine? I'd rather have a coat full of spears than a coat of shell."

He knocked Shelly this way and that way

"And I, for my part," spoke up Bobby Coon, "am wholly satisfied with the coat Old Mother Nature has given me."

"Well spoken," replied Scrapper the Kingbird. "No one knows equal to Old Mother Nature what each one needs. We can trust her every time."

? WHAT IS IT?

"Who else lives down there?" demanded Peter.

"Oh, ever so many people," replied Scrapper.

"Tell us about them," demanded Peter. "Tell us about them, Scrapper."

"Well," replied Scrapper, good naturedly, "I'll tell you about one more. I'll tell you about Black Howler the Monkey."

"I've heard about Howler the Wolf," spoke up Bobby Coon. "Are Black Howler the Monkey and Howler the Wolf related?"

"Oh, my goodness, no!" replied Scrapper. "They are not related at all. But they both howl and so each is called Howler."

EXPECT STATE'S VOTE TO BE FOR COOLIDGE

Connecticut republicans will name 17 delegates to the Kansas City convention, all of whom, it is expected, will be in favor of the renomination of President Coolidge, although they will be sent uninstructed.

Due to Connecticut's position on the roll call of states, sixth, and the present lineup in the states which are called prior to Connecticut, it is within the realm of possibility that the casting of this state's solid vote for the president may start a stampede. In the event that the president is renominated, even if not on the first ballot a considerable share of the credit will go to Connecticut.

Alabama, first on the roll call, is expected to give 11 for Hoover and four for Lowden. Arizona will give nine for Lowden, followed by Arkansas with 11 for the same candidate. California will give its entire vote of 29 to Hoover, a native son, and Colorado will give Hoover 10 and Lowden five, according to estimates. On the basis of this survey, the first Coolidge votes will come from Connecticut, which will be unanimous for the president.

OBITUARY
Mrs. William Neibert

The life of Ellen Meehan, beloved wife of William Neibert, came to a peaceful close Tuesday morning at their home, No. 32 Prospect street. Although for some time past her health had not been of the best it had been greatly improved of late and her death came suddenly through an attack of heart trouble.

Mrs. Neibert was born in this city and was one of the older residents of the Greeneville section, where the news of her death came as a deep sorrow to the friends who had known her for so many years. She was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church, and was married by Rev. Father Coleman in old St. Mary's church on June 28, 1878, to William Neibert, and they had resided for practically all their married life in this city.

Mrs. Neibert's life was a quiet one in which the interests of her home and loved ones were her first consideration and she gave to them the full devotion of a loving and faithful wife and mother, whose loss leaves a family circle deeply bereaved. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, George B. Neibert, a daughter, Mrs. Louis A. Bessette, both of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Maurice Kane, of Worcester.

Charles W. Ahearn

Charles Walter Ahearn, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Joseph Ahearn of 199 Summit street, died at 11:15 o'clock Tuesday evening in this city, following nine weeks illness. He was born in Norwich, March 16, 1919, and was a pupil at Mt. Pleasant Street school. The young lad was in the third grade and was considered a bright and promising pupil by his teacher. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Lawrence and Charles, and two sisters, Gertrude and Catherine.

Mrs. Ethalinda P. Kinnan
(contributed)

The passing of Mrs. Kinnan of No. 43 Church street, whose maiden name was Ethalinda Pearce, is the severing of one link binding the old South and pioneer West to the present. Her grandmother, a wealthy slave owner of Kentucky belonging to a group of families who intermarried to keep their slaves and plantations in the family, after being converted under the personal preaching of John Wesley and George Whitfield, freed her slaves and crossed over with her children into the state of Ohio settling with other pioneers in a new section of that state. Here Ethalinda Pearce was born and was among the first group of women to be graduated from a university in that state. At that time there was no railroad connection between the East and the West. She acted as bridesmaid at a wedding of a newly elected congressman who in the absence of the means of travel drove through with his bride by private coach to Washington.

Mrs. Kinnan was a personal friend of Francis Willard during the time that Miss Willard was planning her temperance movement.

There were five great reforms being agitated by the leading women of her early womanhood, all of which Mrs. Kinnan has lived to see brought about. These were abolition of slavery, dress reform for women, prohibition, the financial freedom of women permitting them to enter all lines of business and the professions, and equal suffrage.

She saw Abraham Lincoln as he lay in state and Grant returning with part of his victorious troops.

After coming to Norwich, where she has resided for a number of years with her daughter, Miss Grace Kinnan, she voted for President Harding, thus witnessing the carrying out of the last of the five great reforms.

Mrs. Kinnan was an intellectual woman, reading and studying all phases of literature, philosophy, and religion. At the end of a long life of study, reflection and experience, she came to sum up her sense of the future in the words of Victor Hugo which she repeated often:

"I feel within myself the future life. I am like a forest which has been more than once cut down—the new shoots are stronger than ever. I am rising, I know toward the sky. Sunshine is on my head; the earth gives me its generous sap but heaven lights me with the reflection of unknown worlds. You say the soul is nothing but the resultant of bodily powers. Why then is my soul more luminous when bodily powers begin to fail? Winter is on my head and eternal Spring is in my heart. Then I breathe in this hour the fragrance of the lilacs, the violets and roses at twenty years. The nearer I approach the end the plainer I hear around me the immortal symphonies of the world which invites me. The tomb is not a blind alley, it is a thoroughfare. It closes in the twilight to open at the dawn."

TOWN OF NORWICH TO RECEIVE LESS FROM INSURANCE STOCK TAX SHARE

Norwich is one of the 75 towns of the state which will receive less this year than last from distribution of the state insurance stock tax receipts. The amount to come to Norwich as its share will be $10,070.64, a decrease from $10,354.87.

The receipts to the state treasury from all taxes on insurance companies and banks in Connecticut amounted in 1926 to $4,317,809, and for 1928 amount to $2,906,411. This decrease is due to the decrease in the tax rate on insurance stocks. In 1926 the rate was 8 mills and now is only 4 mills.

Although the insurance stock tax rate has been cut in half, the returns from this particular source are rapidly approaching what they were in 1926 with the higher rate. This is due to the increasing value of the insurance shares, the main argument for cutting the rate to 4 mills. Of the total tax receipts figures given above, the receipts from taxes on banks constitute about 20 per cent.

Ninety towns will receive from the 1928 receipts more money than they did last year, while seventy-five will get less. The money is distributed among the towns having residents who own insurance stocks according to the amount of stock held by such residents.

The following list gives the towns in New London and Windham counties receiving portions of the state insurance stock tax receipts this year and shows for each the amount received this year and the amount received last year, increase or decrease being indicated.

FALSE REPRESENTATIONS ON MORTGAGES SOLD GORDON
(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., April 17—Louis E. Feingold, a former Worcester attorney, now said to be living in Boston, made false representations regarding mortgages on certain Worcester real estate, which mortgages were sold by Isadore Katz of Worcester to Aaron Gordon of Norwich, Conn., according to a report filed in superior court here today by Attorney Edward M. Dangle, as master. The report was on equity proceedings brought by Gordon against Feingold, and against Isadore Katz and Eli Leavitt, doing a real estate business as Katz & Leavitt. Gordon is described in the report as a big money lender, and was engaged too in the cotton waste business.

Gordon claimed that the three defendants entered a conspiracy to defraud by the sale of mortgages of no value to Feingold's clients, through representations that were false. The report states that Katz and Leavitt borrowed large sums of money through Feingold's efforts.

The master found that Feingold himself made loans for himself and his sister to the other defendants, who now owe him $12,000, and that Katz personally owes him $7,000.

The master reports, however, that there was no general conspiracy, as alleged. The report recites in detail the value of two parcels of Worcester real estate, on which Gordon purchased mortgages of Katz. One of these was taken in the name of Gordon's wife, Rose, as his agent. The report tells of representations made by Feingold regarding the income from the property, and the amount and value of the mortgages.

WAUREGAN VIOLINIST PLAYED IN CAMDEN RECITAL

Of a recital given in Camden, N. J., in which Miss Florence Leach of Wauregan, violinist, appeared, the Camden Herald said:

The recital given by Miss Florence Leach, violinist and Miss Sylvia Langman pianist, was well attended, and the response at each number must have been very gratifying and pleasing to those young artists, both seniors at the New England Conservatory of Music who will graduate in June. The difficult selections for both violin and piano were delivered masterfully, and to a delighted audience that was generous in its response. The writer prophesies a brilliant future for both these young ladies, and we hope they will favor Camden music lovers often by their appearance in recital or concert in the future.

MIAMI EASTER SUNDAY FINE DAY SAYS LUCAS

Easter Sunday at Miami was a beautiful day, according to a letter to The Bulletin from Herbert W. Lucas of this city, who annually spend the winter and early spring season in Florida. The letter from Mr. Lucas continues as follows:

"Somewhere over 40,000 people went over to Miami beach and held a sunrise service. The sun rose at 6:02 and a prettier sunrise Miami never saw. It must have been made for the occasion. The thermometer was 82 at 2 p. m. with cool breezes blowing. I want The Bulletin to tell the Norwich Shriners to be sure and come down to Miami for the convention in May as Miami is certainly spending a lot of money fixing up the park for them. I think it will be a wonderful reception and whoever comes will certainly go back well repaid for his trip. Tamiana trail opens up the 26th. That's the trail that leads over to Tampa. They expect 20,000 cars here that day. They will motor from Tampa and Fort Myers over the trail to Miami. Gov. Martin, Mr. Collier, who has spent millions over in Collier county, and other prominent men will speak. It's been nearly ten years getting it finished and April 26 when they reach Miami about 4 p. m. the city will roar with cannon and bands a great time is expected.

"The chief of police who has been in jail with four or five other policemen for murder will be tried in May some time. Miami is certainly getting a stir-up as they are now trying to clear up the deadwood. I guess, and put in better officials. I think it will come out all right. Miami is bound to go ahead. It won't go back. I can see better times for Miami. Don't forget that, but it will take time. People who bought at high prices must take their losses, but things will be stabilized and when they do get out of this system, this profiteering habit, then Miami will be a god city.

"There has been a big crowd of people here this winter, a very large crowd, and I look forward to next winter as being larger. You can't keep people from coming to such a climate as this is. The hotels have done better than last year and you can see by observation that they have been crowded."

BANK ASKS FORECLOSURE ON MYSTIC MILL PROPERTY

Suit for foreclosure of a mortgage given to secure an issue of $200,000 in bonds has been brought in the superior court by the American Bank and Trust company of Bridgeport, trustee, against Mystic Worsted Mills, Inc., of Stonington, the Mystic Manufacturing company, now in receivership, and William Z. White, receiver for the latter company. The bonds were an issue made by the Mystic Manufacturing company March 1, 1923, known as first mortgage seven per cent serial gold bonds, of which $190,000 has been issued and is outstanding.

It is claimed there has been a default in the mortgage for five different reasons, viz: because payment of interest on all bonds has been in default for more than 30 days after becoming due; because the company has failed to deposit with the trustee on the first day of each month an amount equal to one-twelfth of the annual interest charges on the bonds outstanding on the first day of the preceding month; because for more than 30 days the company has ceased to carry on a substantial part of its business; because for more than 30 days the company has been in default of payments of interest and principal stipulated in the mortgage deed and bonds to be paid; because taxes on the lists of 1924-1925-1926 have not been paid which is a violation of the terms of the mortgage.

The bank asks for a foreclosure of the mortgage, possession of the premises and the appointment of a receiver to collect the rents and profits from the mortgaged premises and property.

The suit is returnable on the first Tuesday in May.

TESTIMONY OPEN IN THE GUILFOYLE MURDER CASE

HARTFORD, April 17—(AP)—Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, veterinarian of this city, charged with murder, sat passively at the counsel table in superior court today while half a dozen state witnesses offered evidence to show an intimacy between him and Mrs. Maximin Gaudet, of New Haven, who was wounded in the hallway of the Guilfoyle apartment on January 13 and died soon after.

Algernon S. Way, who was in the Guilfoyle home on the night of the shooting and who knew all the participants was a state witness and proved equally interesting for the defense. It was Way who answered the state's theory that "infatuation possibly heightened by liquor" caused Guilfoyle to shoot Mrs. Gaudet and then attempt to commit suicide, by declaring that Guilfoyle had taken one glass of beer and nothing else, to his knowledge, on the night of the murder.

Way was still on the stand when court adjourned. He was preceded during the afternoon by postal clerks who identified a photograph of Mrs. Gaudet as the woman who had called for mail in Dr. Guilfoyle's lock box in the New Haven post office, a jeweler who identified Mrs. Gaudet's wrist watch as one purchased by Dr. Guilfoyle, and by a clerk from a store in Philadelphia who produced records showing that Guilfoyle had made two separate purchases of revolvers and cartridges.

BROWN AND HIS BANJO HEARD FROM IN CALIFORNIA

Howard Brown, the funny man of Elm street, left the village a few months ago, starting for the west coast. A letter came to Mail Carrier John Ashby, godfather of the Corn Cob club this week. Brown writes: "I reached the Golden State, California, after a long trip from the fishing village; me and my banjo gave the people in big cities a good laugh for 30 minutes. As the workers were coming from a silk mill in Kansas around the noon hour, many of them lost out for their lunch as the roamer was playing and singing, giving a fine show and $10 in silver coins was thrown at his feet. I went over to Hollywood for a job as an actor in the movies, but found a long line waiting for a chance to enter the studio. I had no chance to tell them how good I was, trying to be a star like Chester Conklin; I failed for awhile and jobs were hard to get, men like flies on an army mule's back trying to find one. But me and banjo are still going strong and gather in pennies by giving the people a good laugh which will come in handy to a fellow far away from home. The weather here is warm, straw hats, men in shirt sleeves. But you can tell the young fellows at Mrs. Jane Carson's news store that I will make the movies before I return to the village. It is my hobby to become a star, making people laugh. When I left home they gave me the horse laugh and said New York was where I would stop. So I fooled them, getting away out on the west coast and it will be two years before me and my banjo come back to Noank. P. S. Give my regards to Charles Ellis, the smallest fireman in the state. The black bag given to me by the Corn Cob club is holding out great."

The house of Carrie Roarke is being renovated and painted.

The engine on the boat Alice N. is being repaired at Olson's dock. The parts came from Bridgeport. Capt. Billie Chappell and his crew have lost about two weeks' fishing. Expert Earl Foster is trying to get the engine ready so the boat can go to Block Island and get flat fish while prices are high at Fulton market.

The corn borer scouts came to the village Monday morning with about 20 men and machines to burn over lots and back yards to get rid of the borers which ruin trees or anything in sight. Working along Front street and Riverside avenue, although the wind was blowing hard that did not stop the men from burning the dead grass and branches. The work is a great thing for it cleans up the village, as well as cleans out borers. It will take about ten days to do the work.

Champion Trout Catcher John Allen, Jr., left early Monday morning in his automobile for a brook up on Sterling Hill and was having good luck and something got on the hook and it took the champion 15 minutes to pull it out of the water. He thought he had the largest spotted trout of the season but found it was a shoe which had been in that brook a long time. His pal, Chick Champer had to laugh to see Johnnie working hard on the shoe and he said "If I get the other shoe I will race the champion walker, Daniel Roberston." They brought back to the village a good catch of trout; Allen had 7 and Chick 5.

Paul Sullivan has gone to Lawrence, Mass., for a week to see his uncle, Mike Daring.

Sam Brown who owns a large chicken farm is bothered with rats. At night, going into the coop to see if the little chicks are all right, he finds the rats running all around trying to get the chickens, also eggs have been put in the stone wall by the thieves. A rat terrier came from Kansas City to its owner, Mr. Brown. The little dog was four days on the road. After a little rest he will give Jack a chance to see how he can kill the rats. The man he got the dog from claims he was the champ among eight dogs at rat killing.

Elihu Rathbun has returned to Suffield school after a week's vacation.

A small pond in Collins' woods was covered with thin ice and the temperature was 26 degrees Tuesday. But Weatherman Eddie Morgan says it won't last long and for the next few days the weather will be warmer.

H. Bracci has returned from a short visit with Occum relatives.

HUNTER WINS OVER STOCKTON IN MASON-DIXON OPENER

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 16—(AP)—Francis T. Hunter defeated J. P. Stockton, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 in a first round match of the eighth annual Mason and Dixon Tennessee championship which opened here today. A rally staged in the second set by Stockton forced the match to three sets.

Somerville Leads

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17—(AP)—C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., who won the Canadian amateur championship in 1926, led the field of 52 golfers in the qualifying round of the mid-April tournament here today with a score of 75.

INTERNATIONAL AND EASTERN LEAGUES OPEN SEASONS TODAY

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Tomorrow the eight most evenly matched clubs in modern International league history will start off on a 168-game baseball race that should break all records for attendance.

Half a dozen managers honestly believe they have a chance at the pennant, which is most unusual in this or any other league. No one of the eight clubs is so weak that it does not entertain hope of getting up around the top.

On the eve of the opening several of the clubs are still trying to obtain players. Jersey City needed a shortstop and has signed Johnny Mitchell, a fast man, brilliant fielder but light slicker.

The neighboring Newark club is after a catcher and a trade is pending now in which Newark will part with one of its good outfielders for a capable backstop.

The Buffalo Bisons, champions of 1927, open at Baltimore, while the much heralded Newark club will start with Toronto as its guest.

Over in Jersey City the Skeeter will open the season with Rochester. Read will entertain the Montreal club, a new entry in the John Conway Toole circuit.

NEW HAVEN, April 17—(AP)—The Eastern league will open its 13th season tomorrow with games at Albany, Springfield, Waterbury and Bridgeport, under the most auspicious circumstances since its formation, according to the prediction of Attorney Herman J. Welsman, president.

The concentrated efforts of all club owners to strengthen their teams has already shown results in the spring training and has created an optimism among the fans such as which the league has never before brought forth.

This optimism has caused the erection of new parks in three cities and other members have decided to expend large sums in the improvement of parks and projects to improve playing conditions.

President Weisman predicts a record breaking attendance at the games during the current season and declares that every club will be a contender for the pennant which will supply "good baseball" for the patrons of the league.

President Weisman announces assignments of umpires for the opening games as follows: Kuhn and Moran at Springfield; McDonald and Rorty at Waterbury; McLaughlin and Treck at Albany, and Somers and Sullivan at Bridgeport.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

Norwich Free Academy

The Wilcats are facing this baseball season as a state champion for the first time in nearly 25 years. They are doing it with but four of the men who played as regulars on the team that gained that coveted yet mythical honor.

Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene, pitchers-outfielders, Mace Goldblatt, captain and catcher and Billy Tirrell, who played first base last year are the boys ready for Coach Brigham's word to start them on another campaign. Of course, there is Eddie Hamil, who has been a letterman for three years but never a regular, Chubby Gibbs, who was a letterman last year, Jackie Marks, letterman in 1926 and Les Pingree, another who earned his letter in 1927, to build on but of the honest-to-goodness regulars only the four named above are available.

Gone are Ray Yerrington, third baseman for two years, Steffy Cimikoski, infielder for four years, Hymie Sadinsky, outfielder for three years, Al Mish, catcher-outfielder for three years, George "Ducky" Jackson, second baseman for one year and Pete Labenski, second string pitcher last year. This seems like a great loss and it would be in any other year than this for the locals.

But the fine material that has come onto the campus for practice this spring has made local fans forget the capable deeds of the abovementioned boys. Never has such a batch of promising candidates made their appearance for an Academy squad in a single season.

For every position but the pitching there have come enough candidates to fill in pretty good shape. The infield is probably the best off for promising newcomers with such players as Arico, Berghinzo, Buckley, Witkins and Breen. Cummings has seemingly filled a big hole in right field while all three young catchers, Pepin, Fontaine and Monty, look good. Weisgraber and Boots Greene, however, are the only above-the-average performers on the mound.

A brief survey of the team places Goldblatt, Fontaine, Pepin and Monty in order as the catchers with Arico and Berghinzo fairly even for first base although Arico, being a lefthander has a natural edge. Buck LaCroix or Mickey Breen probably will take second with Gibbs and Hamil fairly certain of short and third, respectively. In the outfield, Billy Tirrell, last year's first baseman, looks to have left field with Jarvis or Greene, as usual, in center and Cummings in right. Les Pingree and Jack Marks have been hitting the ball hard and they are pretty certain to see plenty of service during the season.

The Academy has the stiffest schedule of any school in the state but should the two mound aces, Jarvis and Greene, get going right and with any kind of decent hitting and fielding, the locals ought to hold onto their state title.

Ed McMason Dies

COFFEYVILLE, Kans., April 17—(AP)—Ed McMason, 55, who caught for Brooklyn back in the days when Billy Sunday, the evangelist, played right field for the Chicago White Sox, died today.

ACADEMY'S SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

The weatherman Tuesday again hit the Academy's notion of getting started on its baseball season when it was announced that the game today with the Alumni was definitely off and that the season would now have to open with the Deep River contest Friday afternoon. Cold weather is given as the reason for this cancellation. Last Saturday the game with the graduates was cancelled because of rain.

The practice Tuesday afternoon didn't last long, the work being confined chiefly to hitting practice, lasting a little over an hour. Monday's workout was of much the same variety, the chilly blasts greatly hampering Coach Brigham in his attempt to get the team at the top of condition for the game with Deep River, which is being taken quite seriously by the local lads.

A shift in the infield has been made, sending Shorty Hamil, from second to third and placing Buck LaCroix at second. Cummings, rightfielder, has also been tried at second. Hamil has had three years of experience with the varsity but these were in the outfield. Outside of this change the starting lineup for the Wildcats Friday will probably be the same as that which was to go on last Saturday, namely Mace Goldblatt catching with "Alec" [illegible] at first, Chubby Gibbs at short, Billy Tirrell, Lloyd Jarvos or Johnny Greene in center and Hal Cummings in right. It has not been announced as yet who will start on the mound either Friday against Deep River or Saturday against Plainfield.

Deep River plays Bulkeley at New London today.

Montie, who pitched for Weaver here last year against the Academy, is hurling good ball for Rensselaer Poly at Troy, N. Y.

Lester Green has been elected captain of the Chapman Tech squad.

With any kind of warm weather, the Academy expects to go through a long drill today with a nine-inning practice game between the first and second teams listed.

Whether the postponed Alumni game will be played off is not known.

PERCY JONES BESTS ALEX AND CUBS WIN, 3 TO 2

ST. LOUIS, April 17—(AP)—Making his second start in his eighteenth National league season, Grover Cleveland Alexander met more than his match in the Chicago southpaw, Percy Lee Jones, and the Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2, in ten innings in the final game of the series here today. Jones himself scored the winning run in the tenth when, after singling to start the inning, he came home on English's sacrifice and Cuyler's single.

E. Webb touched Alex for a home run in the second, but the Cardinals bunched hits on Jones in the third for two runs. The Cubs tied it in the fifth on Kelly's double and Butler's single, and the pitchers battled on even terms from that point to the tenth. Neither hurler gave a base on balls.

Charlie Grimm, Cub first baseman, again was out of the game with a lame back, and his place was taken by Kelly. Score:

BROWNS DROP SECOND STRAIGHT TO CHISOX

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)—The White Sox made it two out of three from the St. Louis Browns today by hitting behind Ted Lyon's pitching for a 4 to 2 victory. St. Louis found Lyons frequently, but not in the pinches and left nine men on the bags. McNeely, Barrett and Kamm starred at the bat, each getting three hits. McNeely's double was the only extra base hit of the contest. Score:

Indians 6, Tigers 4.

DETROIT, April 17—(AP)—Cleveland grouped hits with Tiger misplays today to win the closing game of the series, 6 to 4. It was Detroit's sixth defeat in seven starts this season.

Bob Fothergill, veteran Tiger outfielder was benched by Manager Geo. Moriarty before the game because of a batting slump. Paul Eastrling, recruit from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league took Fothergill's place and drove out three clean hits in four times at bat.

Jack Tavener drove a home run into the right fields stands in the second with Easterling on base. This hit gave the Tigers a lead which they could not hold because of faulty defense. Score:

HACK WILSON TO RETURN TO CUBS LINEUP TODAY

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)—Hack Wilson, slugging Cub outfielder, will be back at his old post when the Cubs open their home season against the Cincinnati Reds tomorrow, it was announced today.

Wilson injured his ankle in the opening game at Cincinnati and at first it was believed he was lost to the team for about three weeks.

Newsboy Brown Signs

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Newsboy Brown, American flyweight contender, has been matched to fight Johnny Hill, of Scotland, at London, May 15.

TAFTVILLE A. A. PLANS STRONG TEAM; OTHER LOCAL BASEBALL NEWS

Taftville A. A. will hold a meeting tonight at Ponemah hall when it is expected that definie steps will be taken on plans for the coming baseball season.

Jimmy Troland, who was appointed manager last week, has already gone to work and lined up the opening attraction which will will be the Elm City Colored Giants of New Haven. The date has not yet been set but it is expected that it will be around Decoration Day.

Manager Troland has a strong team in mind. Lloyd Jarvis, Lefty Dugas and Harry Mills are slated for the outfield with Eccleston catching but the rest of the club has not been announced.

Sunday Ball Looms

There is a strong possibility of Sunday baseball at the Providence street grounds this year according to reports and several fast clubs are now being lined up by Manager Troland for these dates, although the arrangements are not final.

Jimmy Murphy, who has been living here all winter, has returned to New London and will play with the Socony team there this summer. Jimmy has been employed by this company in the Norwich branch lately, playing basketball here with the Taftville Crescents.

There will be a practice game between the Riverview regular team and the Hospital All Stars this afternoon at the state hispital diamond. This is the first of a series of mid-week games staged for the benefit of the patients.

Saturday Riverview meets the Thermos Bottle company in the game postponed from last Saturday. The following week, the 28th the Kaceys of New London will furnish the opposition.

The Bottlemakers have high hopes of winning Saturday, having lately acquired a few reinforcements to their already good team. A first baseman is one of the newcomers.

Willimantic's new semi-pro team will open its season in a few weeks. Practice games with Windham High and Conn. Aggies are on their lists so far while the opponent for the first real game has not been named.

INSILCOS FORM FOR 1928 BALL SEASON

The Insilcos ,who finished in third place in the dutsy league last year, are getting into harness for the 1928 campaign.

Trainer "Bert Armstrong" is busy polishing up the dusty bats, and has the new uniforms out from their moth proof confinement for a breath of 1928 spring air, which of course they need badly.

Otis Hudson, who has had wide experience in piloting polo, basketball, football, and baseball teams, with great success throughout southern New England, has been assigned to pilot the "1928" squad, who with the able assistance of "Johnny" Greene intend to give stiff opposition to opposing teams in the Dusty league this year.

The team this year when not playing Dusty league games on Saturdays, will travel to Meriden, Wallingford, Bridgeport, Derby and Northampton and other cities where the International Silver Co., has factories and ball clubs. The squad this year is practically the same as in 1927.

With Al Mish and Jake Isbicki doing the backston work, the two stars of last year's pitching staff will be in an Insilco uniform. "Johnny" Greene and "Eddie" Koslowski will do the twirling and will be supported by Boots Greene, a newcomer to the squad.

"Gas House" Zaremba will be on the initial sack, which he so proudly covered last year while George Bogner will cover second. Red Lessemann will be seen at short this year and Pierce will appear at the dizy corner. Stanley, Blow, Bush, Woodmansee, Scripps and Fields will cover the outer garden.

With this combination, stiff opposition should be shown to opposing teams this year.

'BOUT SPORTS

Now that the baseball seasons have been, or will be in a day or so, started on their ways, we can expect some more and plenty of the ballyhoo on the summer's heavyweight title bout. So far there has been little excitement over the July joust but Tex Rickard will start weaving his magic charms soon and the public will fall for the publicity and make a respectable "gate".

Meanwhile, much of the fight interest centers on the Delaney-Sharkey bout a week from next Monday, the 30th. These two colorful performers no doubt will draw quite a few for their non-title, non-elimination tussle.

PAYNE ASSUMES LEAD AS HOME TOWN IS REACHED

CHELSEA, Okla, April 17—(AP)—Back in his native country where he used to race a horse to school daily, Andrew Payne, 20, of Claremore, Okla., today turned on a burst of speed in the cross country marathon, swept through his home town first amid the plaudits of thousands and recaptured the derby elapsed time lead from Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England.

Payne was first into the night control point here, the halfway mark on the run to New York from Los Angeles. He negotiated today's stretch of 49.7 miles from Tulsa in 7:23:23 for an elapsed time of 279:10:52 for the 1,669.6 miles.

As Payne paused momentarily on Claremore's main street a $100 bill was pressed into his hand by a chamber of commerce representative. Payne also will receive $250 from the city's more illustrious son, Will Rogers, who had announced prize money of $500 for the first four runners to reach Claremore. Rogers declared he wanted Payne to take the first prize of $250 for two reasons—civic pride, and because he wanted to "keep the money in Claremore"

C. C. Pyle, race promoter and manager, however, said Rogers' offer had been rejected because it had not been received in time to notify all runners.

Gavuzzi was forced behind by Payne's torrid pace but the long lap had a sizzling finish when John Cronick of Saskatoon, Sask. and Harry Rea of Long Beach, Calif., finished less than 20 seconds behind Payne in 7:23:41. Cronick's elapsed time is 425:01:25 and Rea's 322:58:53.

TITLE BOUT IN NEW YORK PROBABLY AT STADIUM JULY 28

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Tex Rickard returned from Miami, Fla., today and named New York as the site for the heavyweight title battle between Gene Tunney and Tom Heney this summer. Although no definite date was set, the bout probably will take place in the Yankee stadium on Thursday night, July 26.

Excessive Taxation Abroad

The promoter gave up all idea of taking the bout to England, Heeney's homeland, because of excessive taxation abroad. Rickard believes the match will draw $1,500,000 in New York. Although the gate receipts probably would be as large in London with the mammouth Wembley stadium available, Rickard classed the foreign project as "too much of a gamble."

Tunney will fight but once this year, the promoter said and if he retains his championship will battle but once for Rickard in 1929. The New Zealand challenger, if victorious over Tunney, has agreed to fight only once next year and then under his auspices, Mr. Rickard said.

Heeney, won the challenging position partly on his good record but primarily through fear that a bout between "Honest Tom" and Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, the other outstanding contender might result in an unsatisfactory draw.

Now Has Two Challengers

"In that case I wouldn't have any challenger," Tex said. "Now I have two and Risko will grow even more formidable with another year of experience."

Tunney, who held out strenuously for two matches this year, now is reconciled to the fact that circumstances will allow a heavyweight champion but one fight in each twelve months. that Tunney's motive in demanding two battles was to prevent a repetition of last summer, when Jack Dempsey stepped into two lucrative engagements, the first a $1,000,000 "shot" with Jack Sharkey and the second a $3,000,00 title struggle with the big marine. With Dempsey definitely retired Gene is content to fight but once a year as long as he is champion, provided that he is a party to all million dollar gates, Rickard said.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM ARRIVES IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, April 17—(AP)—William T. Tilden and the other members of the American Davis cup tennis team arrived here today for a series of exhibition matches in southern California. The players in addition to Tilden are Wilmer Allison, inter-collegiate champion from Texas university; Arnold Jones, ex-Yale university tennis captain, and John Hennessey, Indianapolis star.

The cub players will meet a picked team of California stars on Saturday and Sunday on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis club.

Gerald Stratford, Ben Gorchakoff, Cliff Herd and Sidney Wood, will form the California team to meet the Yankee cub stars. May Sutton Bundy, veteran southern California player and Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, fourth ranking women player will appear in the mixed doubles.

HELEN WILLS AGAIN IN NICE FORM FOR PRACTICE

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—In her last practice match before she and Miss Penelope Anderson leave tomorrow for an invasion of European courts, Miss Helen Wills, national women's champion, today won her third successive victory, defeating Elmer Griffin in straight sets, 8-6, 6-4. Although somewhat hampered by the cold, Miss Wills displayed even better form than she did in taking the first match from Griffin on Monday. The champion was stroking beautifully and covering the court so as to handle Griffin's elusive placements with ease.

JIM KELLY REPORTS FOR ACADEMY TRACK SQUAD

Jim Kelly, basketball captain and a member of the football squad last fall has reported for the Academy track squad and is expected to be a big help to Coach Sheridan in the dashes. Kelly was one of the leading sprinters of the city a few years back but since transferred his athletic affections to football and basketball. Kelly and Clint Robinson comprise a strong dash pair.

MONTREAL, Que., April 17—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis has accepted an invitation to be the guest of the Montreal baseball club of the International league upon the occasion of the opening game in the new stadium on Wednesday, May 2.

MANDELL HAS EASY TIME WITH WAGNER

DETROIT, April 17—(AP)—Sammy Mandel, lightweight champion won the decision over Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia in a one sided and uninteresting ten round boxing contest here tonight.

Maintaining a wide lead throughout the champion landed his popping left jab to the fact with a regularity that became monotonous due to lack of returns from the Philadelphian. Wagner was booed by the crowd for absence of aggressiveness on his part.

Wagner was covering up and backing away from the Rockford flash over most of the route but had little success in evading the champion's stinging left hand. Only in the sixth round did the Philadelphian come out of his shell. A sweeping right hook caught Mandell on the chin, causing him to fall into a clinch, and Wagner cut loose with a body attack. Mandell recovered quickly, however, and had his opponent back pedalling before the round ended.

Kid Francis, New York bantamweight was too fast for Ward Sparks of Terre Haute, Ind., and carried off the decision in their eight round bout.

Dick Evans, Youngstown, Ohio, middleweight won the decision in a six round bout with Johnny Krieger of New York.

FLAMES BREAK OUT AGAIN IN HOTEL STORE PARTITION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 17—Flames breaking out in the rear partition of the store of H. A. Dunning, in the ruins of the Rhode Island Hotel block on Broad street, caused Fire Chief George E. Egger to sound alarm No. 33 from the Dixon square fire box, about 11 a. m. today. Both pumpers responded and two streams of water were directed upon the blaze, which rising winds had started, to fill both the Dunning and I. B. Crandall store with smoke. Some chopping by the firemen was required on the second floor before the water could be directed upon the blaze.

Capt. E. T. Webster, who had been detained at police headquarters after he had been questioned as to his knowledge of the fire's origin, was released from custody Tuesday morning. He left to visit his mother in Narragansett, R. I.

OILS AND PUBLIC UTILITIES STRONG; OTHER ISSUES DOWN 1 TO 5 POINTS

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Stock prices buckled again today under the weight of heavy selling for both accounts.

Speculators for the advance endeavored to maintain bullish enthusiasm by bidding up a selected assortment of oils, public utilities and specialties to new high ground, but they were forced to contend with persistent liquidation in other sections of the list which carried a long line of issues down 1 to 5 points.

Total sales crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the seventh consecutive full session, with the ticker 50 minutes behind the market in the early afternoon.

Tightening of margin requirements by several of the leading commission houses, following the marking down of the loaning value of stocks by banks, undoubtedly was an important factor in the day's selling movement. One of the largest houses in the street raised the margin on some of the highly speculative issues from 25 to between 33 1-3 and 50 per cent. of the market price.

The credit situation was again an important topic of discussion in brokerage and banking circles with talk of higher federal reserve rediscount rates causing further uneasiness in speculative quarters.

Apart from higher margins and the possibility of higher money however there was a rather general belief that the market was entitled to a least a technical reaction after the recent violent advance in many issues. Unconfirmed rumors that several pools also were getting out from under, also tended to create bearish sentiment.

Twenty or more oil issues were pushed up to new high levels in a series of bullish demonstrations during the morning, blocks of 5,000 to 30,000 shares being quite common. In some quarters this was regarded as an effort to bring the petroleum shares into line with the rest of the market in anticipation of steadily increasing consumption, and in others as a "smoke screen" to cover liquidation in other stocks which have been widely exploited.

New high prices for the year, or longer, were registered by Standard Oils of California, New York and New Jersey, Texas Corporation, the Pan American issues, Lago, California Petroleum, Marland, and Richfield Oil of California, but many of the gains were reduced or wiped out.

Public utilities also presented several points of strength, Commonwealth Power ran up 6 points to 84 1-2 and was followed into new high ground by American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Electric Power & Light and about a dozen others. Congoleum, after moving within a narrow range for weeks, climbed nearly 4 points to a new high at 31 1-2.

Radio broke 5 1-2 points, recovered all its loss and closed a point higher. General Motors dipped to 189 1-8 and rallied 7 points yesterday, fell back nearly 6 points today. Net declines of 2 points or more were recorded by Allied Chemical, American Encaustic Tiling, Brooklyn Edison, Case Threshing, Houston Oil, National Tea, Rossia Insurance, Savage Arms, Victor Talking Machine convertible preferred and Warner Brothers. A.

Rails yielded with the industrials although the losses generally were not as large. New York Central and Delaware & Hudson dipped nearly 3 points and Atchison, Wabash A, Lehigh Valley, Chicago Northwestern and several others yielded a point or more.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent. and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges moved irregularly higher although the leading European rates showed little change. Sterling Cables held fairly steady around $4.83 3-8.

A break of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat, on selling inspired by the reported breaking of the drought in the southwest, featured the commodity markets. Coffee and sugar quotations showed no changes of importance. Rubber futures sold down to 16 1-2 cents a pound, the lowest price since 1924, and coffee futures advanced slightly.

SENATOR BINGHAM'S KEYNOTE SPEECH AT REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

HARTFORD, April 17—In his keynote speech at the republican state convention here tonight Senator Bingham endorsed President Coolidge and the republican national and state administrations. The text follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention. We are gathered to elect delegates to attend the Republican National Convention which is to adopt a national platform and select candidates for president and vice president of the United States.

It is appropriate that we should consider at this time the record which has been made by the republican administration during the past four years. That record includes the conduct of our foreign relations and the administration of domestic affairs. It is also appropriate that we should consider certain tendencies in American public life and take thought as to how our treasured American institutions may best be preserved.

It is hardly necessary for me to point out that it is impossible to treat these subjects adequately in the course of one evening even though I tried to keep you listening long after you wished to rest. Accordingly, I have selected only a few topics drawn from the large field of those which might properly claim our attention at this time. I shall ask you to consider first the American policy toward our neighbors immediately to the south of us, particularly Nicaragua; second, the achievements of the administration as regards aviation and finance, and third, the present state of representative government.

Explains Nicaraguan Policy.

During the past few months the administration has been under almost constant fire for its activities in Nicaragua. You are all of you familiar with what has happened. You know that from the time of President Taft's administration down to the early part of President Coolidge's administration, we had a few marines in Nicaragua in order to preserve order. Their presence was so efficacious that it was thought best to remove them entirely. Almost immediately upon their removal bitter and violent civil war broke out afresh. A very considerable number of American citizens and American business houses appealed to us to protect them. Two or three foreign nations indicated to us their fears for the safety of their own nationals and insisted they would be obliged to protect them unless we afforded them adequate safety. Accordingly some marines were dispatched to Nicaragua, but the trouble continued. President Coolidge then sent as his personal representative Colonel Henry L. Stimson, formerly secretary of war and now governor-general of the Philippine Islands, to promote peace between the two warring factions. The agreement secured by Colonel Stimson is a matter of common knowledge. It resulted in the laying down of arms by the liberal leader and all of his generals except General Sandino, who alone chose to continue the fighting in the mountains of northern Nicaragua.

We have agreed with both the conservative and liberal parties in Nicaragua to see to it that a fair election is held this fall and that the voters on each side get the opportunity to deposit their ballots without fear or favor. The administration proposes to carry out its agreement with the two parties in Nicaragua. It is said that some of the conservatives in the Nicaraguan congress have tried to block the passage of legislation which might facilitate a fair election because they fear they will be outvoted by the liberals.

In the meantime, General Sandino, discredited by the liberal party, has been carrying on guerilla warfare and acting more like a bandit than like a patriotic member of the liberal party. He has, however, quite a number of sympathizers in this country and they have accused the republican administration of attacking Nicaragua because it is small and weak, of engaging in hideous imperialism and of waging war with a country with which we are at peace.

Denies Imperialism.

Speeches have been made on the floor of both houses of congress intended to convey the impression that we are engaged in an imperialistic conspiracy to deprive our neighbors to the south of us of their sovereignty for the benefit of American finance and American big business. The republican administration has been accused in a way to give great pleasure to our enemies abroad. These speeches have been reported and applauded in the press of some of the largest South American countries. Also some patriotic Americans have been misled by them

Consequently, it seems fitting that we should look squarely at the Caribbean problem and see whether the history of our recent dealings with the smaller republics justifies the charge that the republican administration has been engaged in imperialism and in oppressing the little countries of the Caribbean.

In 1916 we found that due to civil war and revolutions an intolerable situation existed in Santo Domingo. We proceeded to correct it. There was no desire to infringe on the sovereignty or the independence of the Dominican republic permanently any more than there is any wish at present to infringe permanently on the sovereignty and independence of Nicaragua. In both cases the people of the country involved had been intermittently engaged for a long time in bitter civil warfare. In both cases the rights of our citizens as well as those of foreign countries had been seriously threatened. In both cases we felt that we could neither neglect the rights of our citizens and their just claims for protection nor the rights of foreign citizens, unless we were willing to let foreign countries take forcible means of enforcing their rights. In neither case has the government of the United States any intention whatever of annexing territory, or of obtaining by force, concessions or other financial advantages for the particular benefit of our own citizens. In both cases it has been part of our purpose to give no European power any excuse for intervention in this hemisphere. We intend to prevent any nation from securing a new foothold on American soil.

Right to Intervene.

It must be remembered that under well-established international law, governments are entirely within their rights when they choose always to intervene in support of the contractual claims of their subjects. It has not been our custom to do that, but foreign nations have often exercised this power and there was at one time a growing tendency on the part of European governments more and more to aid diplomatically in the enforcement of the claims of their subjects, as was shown by President Roosevelt's message to the senate in February, 1905.

When the United States is placed in the dilemma of either adhering to its usual attitude of non-intervention in such cases, an attitude which frequently results to the great disadvantage of its citizens in comparison with those of other countries or on the other hand, of actively intervening in order to protect the contracts and concessions of its citizens who are engaged in agriculture, commerce or transportation in competition with the subjects and citizens of other states, it is necessary to follow a course which will in the first place prevent foreign intervention; in the second place bring peace and prosperity to the small republics in which we are interested and in the third place protect the right of citizens to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness without ourselves becoming the insurer of speculative risks which our citizens may have taken with full knowledge of the danger involved in these risks.

After a careful study of the situation I believe that President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg in handling the Nicaraguan situation have acted in good faith and with skill.

No Matter for Partisan Politics.

This is not a matter for partisan politics. This is a matter where the good name and the reputation of the United States are concerned. It all becomes American citizens to throw mud at their own government without first full knowledge of the facts which few can have without access to the confidential files of the state department.

To form opinions and utter bitter criticisms of our government's foreign policy on the basis of headlines in the daily papers and interviews with discredited or disgruntled individuals, either of American or foreign birth, does no good to America, lowers our prestige abroad and makes us ridiculous or worse in the eyes of the world. It accomplishes little else.

In a message from the Department of State on May 28, 1914 to our minister in Santo Domingo, the then secretary of state said "The United States will use all means in its power to aid in the holding of free and fair elections."

A little later the administration sent commissioners to Santo Domingo with a plan for a new government with a demand that hostilities cease at once, that a president be chosen according to a plan proposed by the United States or else the United States itself would name a president, that "the United States would send representatives of its own choosing to observe the proposed election throughout the republic" and to see that they "be accorded a courteous welcome" and "the freest opportunities to observe the circumstances and processes of the election." That if we were not satisfied that a proper election had been held we would insist upon another election, "at which the mistakes observed would be corrected," and that we would then "feel at liberty to insist that revolutionary movements cease." Furthermore this was to take place without argument on the part of the Dominican republic.

Mr. Bryan wrote to the commission which went to Santo Domingo, "You are instructed to observe and follow out with utmost care the plan which has been presented to you by the secretary of state. No opportunity for argument should be given to any person or faction. It is desired that you present the plan and see that it is complied with." The facts in this case make the present actions of President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg in Nicaragua seem mild in comparison.

There is no justification for the claim that this administration is infected with imperialism or obsessed with an idea of disregarding the sovereignty or independence of Nicaragua. Our marine and naval forces have protected our citizens and their property as well as the citizens and property of other nationals and prevented a heavy sacrifice of life and the destruction of that country by revolution and civil war. A singularly felicitous settlement was made by Colonel Stimson acting as a personal representative of the president. "This was done on the assurance" as the president says in his message of December 6th, "that we would cooperate in restoring a state of peace where our rights would be protected by giving our assistance in the conduct of the next presidential election, which occurs in a few months."

We are acting patiently, but firmly, courageously and fearlessly in carrying out our tacitly conceded obligations "as the nearest friend of Nicaragua in her relations with the rest of the world." Furthermore, it is safe to conclude that what happened in the Dominican republic will happen in Nicaragua. The maintaining of order will be entrusted to a Nicaraguan national police force and when the right time comes we shall withdraw entirely and probably without the necessity of establishing an American military government such as that which held sway over the Dominican republic from 1916 to 1924.

Intervention in Santo Domingo

Our intervention in Santo Domingo was on a grand scale. The military government which we set up in 1916 lasted for more than six years. In July, 1924, the American occupation ceased and under the orders of President Coolidge the last American armed forces left the country before September, 1924. Since that time the United States has exercised no control over the Dominican government except the supervision over financial and customs matters provided for in the convention of 1924. The United States exercises no supervision over the ends to which the money is applied or the way it is expended. As a matter of fact the public works are progressing in a very satisfactory manner and the money is being expended wisely and efficiently with a minimum of waste and leakage. Under a capable and honest administration the Dominican government has had full value of its expenditures. Furthermore it is no longer unusual in Santo Domingo to hear quiet acknowledgement from intelligent and patriotic Dominicans of the good accomplished by the Americans. The entire country is peaceful and tranquil and the present government appears to have the support of the majority of the people.

There was no compulsion for us to depart from Santo Domingo. No one could have thrown us out physically. As has been said recently by a distinguished writer it would be "a windfall for the European journalistic heralds of American imperialism" if they could put on record in their columns one similar act of retreat and abdication by a single great European power.

Meanwhile Santo Domingo had arrived at a moral and political condition which seemed to prophecy its capacity to establish and maintain a government based on the principles of nonsectarian constitutionalism. When that moment came President Coolidge's administration consummated American evacuation of Santo Domingo. It is safe to say that the same policy will be followed toward Nicaragua to our mutual benefit and to the satisfaction of all the rest of the world, except those who would like to secure an excuse for setting foot in Nicaragua and those who like to find some excuse for condemning their country in the conduct of its foreign relations. Nothing which has been done really justifies this criticism. The only justification for the fears expressed by some of our neighbors to the south is that they are able to quote the words of American citizens, particularly a few members of congress and some journalists who presumably know more about the whole situation than can those at a distance and who accuse the United States government of imperialism and of making war on a small, weak country, because it is small and weak.

As for the charge that President Coolidge has exceeded his constitutional rights and declared war on a friendly country, it does not seem to me that this merits very serious consideration. At the same time the author of a recent government document engages in a laborious discussion to show that since 1903 Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Coolidge by employing the armed forces of the United States without authorization of congress have undertaken to take away from congress its war-making power. The author of the document claims that President Wilson acted unwittingly in his ventures in Santo Domingo, Haiti and Mexico.

Use of Armed Forces.

The important question has been raised as to whether the use of armed forces in the manner in which we have been used without express legislative authority constitutes war. I shall not worry you with a legal discussion of the difference between war and the use of armed forces short of war, except to point out, as a matter of common historical knowledge which you will all remember, that it has been an American practice from the earliest days of our country's independence for the chief executive to employ the armed forces of the nation in the protection of American interests abroad. President Jefferson instructed our officers to protect our citizens from violations. President Monroe authorized General Jackson to enter Spanish territory in pursuit of the Seminole Indians. General Jackson actually penetrated the territory of Spain and took possession of the Spanish forts. In 1823 men from our naval vessels landed in Cuba in pursuit of pirates and bandits. In 1832 marines and blue-jackets landed on the islands of Sumatra in the purpose of punishing the natives for the pillaging of American vessels and the murdering of some members of the crew. In 1840 marines and blue-jackets from two of our naval vessels landed on one of the Fiji islands for the purpose of punishing the natives who had attacked an American surveying party. In 1854 American marines and sailors landed in China and cooperated with a force of British marines against the imperial Chinese forces who had seized American property. Several Americans were killed and wounded. In 1859 another force of American marines was landed in China and stormed the Canton forts. In 1863 an American man-of-war attacked several Japanese vessels that had fired upon an American merchant steamer. In 1864 the Japanese government closed the straits between Japan and the main land. Our naval forces joined with those of Great Britain, France and the Netherlands forcing open the straits. In 1868 our armed forces landed in various places in Japan to protect the interests of American citizens. In 1894 marines and blue-jackets landed in Korea to protect American lives and property. In 1900 our marines and troops participated in operations against Tientsin and Peking at the time of the Boxer rebellion. In 1914 our naval forces took Vera Cruz as the result of direct affronts to this government by General Huerta. These are only a few of the cases in which military forces of the United States have been employed by various presidents representing various political parties without any express authority from the congress. In fact it has been our uniform practice to protect American interests abroad by force if necessary. It would be folly to suppose that the executive while charged with the responsibility of protecting Americans abroad is without the means of meeting his obligations in this regard.

There is no question that one of the most important duties resting upon the president of the United States is the affording of protection of American interests in foreign countries. He would be grossly derelict in his duty if he failed to use the armed forces at his command in appropriate cases within reasonable bounds.

I believe that the president has not only powers conferred on him by the constitution, but such powers as may be necessary to enable him to carry into execution such duties as are specifically conferred upon him. He is the commander-in-chief of the army and navy. He is charged with the duty of conducting the foreign relations of the United States and of affording protection to American interests and to American citizens. It seems to me foolish to say that the president who is charged with these grave responsibilities while given the exalted position of commander-in-chief of the army and navy cannot properly use the forces at his command in the performance of his duty. Of course he must exercise sound judgment and discretion. I believe, however, that you will agree with me that, like his predecessors, in his conduct of our foreign relations President Coolidge has displayed that degree of sound judgment which persons who have held that exalted position are presumed to possess and exercise.

Conduct of Foreign Affairs

The conduct of foreign affairs must always be a matter of difficulty and hardship, involving, as it does, the honor, integrity and pride of two sovereign nations. Where two nations are as much alike in speech, manners and customs, as are the United States and Canada there need not be great armies, powerful forts and magnificent fleets to keep them from bitter animosity, bloodshed and war, but where two nations are separated by language, customs and inheritance as are the United States and Nicaragua, or any other one of the score of republics to the south of us, it requires a skillful hand, a cool head, patience and wisdom to conduct negotiations without arousing lasting national hatred.

We must recognize that there exists a wide gulf between them and us. Our manners and customs are frequently irritating and unaccountable to them. Our hale and hearty informality, our tendency toward shirtsleeve diplomacy, finds no quick and ready understanding on their part. Their habits of mind, their mental inheritance, even their fundamental principles of law and justice are different from ours. All this makes it particularly difficult to manage the successful conduct of international relations with them. Many of their citizens are all too ready to believe that the bitter criticisms leveled at the conduct of our foreign relations by anti-administration senators have such an unquestioned basis of fact as to cause them to have just fears for the future freedom and liberty of their native lands. As a matter of fact there is not the slightest scintilla of evidence to show that the government of the United States is engaged in an imperialistic conspiracy to deprive the little countries around the Caribbean of their sovereignty, or to do more than help them out of their difficulties and into a period of peace, prosperity and progress.

On the contrary the record of the recent Pan-American conference at Havana, the attitude of nearly all the Latin-American governments, and the astonishing change which has just taken place in our relations with Mexico all give us abundant reason to be proud of the way in which our foreign relations have been handled by President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg.

History of Our Country

We must not fail to study the history of our country and indeed of mankind. Premiers like Lord Aberdeen, presidents like Woodrow Wilson have been driven into war as a result of their own fear and dread of war. On the other hand neither Cleveland nor Roosevelt was afraid of war. And neither was forced into war. A firm hand, a well-trained body, invite respect not quarrels. A bully may be led to fight because he has strength and ability. A gentleman never picks a quarrel merely because he is prepared. America never has been a bully and never will be. America never has been a coward and never will be. Cowards and cravens have to fight or surrender. The God-fearing, courageous gentleman commands respect. He offends no one and no one cares to bother him. So much for our foreign relations.

Dealing With Aviation

Now as to aviation. The republican administration has folowed a far-sighted policy of stimulating the development of safe and reliable commercial flying and of encouraging the American aircraft industry to stand on its own feet and find markets which will make it self-supporting. This has resulted in unparalleled expansion of aerial transport and of the construction and use of aircraft during the last four years. Especially since the president's aircraft board was appointed and held its sessions and prepared its report there has been a steady and encouraging progress. In the military services a status of doubt and drift has been replaced by a steady development in accordance with a fixed program. A definite scheme of expansion has been laid down which permits both the officers and men of the army and navy and the aeronautical industry to look forward for several years in their planning. Programs have been enacted with the object of making adequate provision for the national defense in the air and of taking the fullest advantage of the possibilities of aviation, without running into extravagant expenditure or unreasonable expansion of our military forces.

The recent history of naval aviation furnishes an example. A bill providing for a definite program lasting over a period of five years was introduced in congress with the backing of the administration very shortly after the president's air craft board completed its deliberations. It was enacted into law on June 24, 1926. At the time of the passage of that bill there were in the possession of the naval service a little less than 900 airplanes, of which the majority were war-time planes and had to be classified as obsolete in varying degrees. The number which could be considered as truly useful in modern military operations was only about 350. During the last two years approximately 600 new airplanes have been delivered to the naval service. Obsolete equipment has been eliminated, as have machines about the safety of which in flight there could be serious question. The total number of airplanes nominally available has not appreciably changed but the number of useful machines capable of military operations or well fitted for the training of naval aviators has just about doubled in the period of less than two years since the passage of the naval aviation bill, and is now about 700. The Army Air corps has a similar record. Amazing progress has been made in the naval and military services in two years, and the current appropriation bills provide for its continuance. It can be traced directly to the work done under President Coolidge's direction and to the legislation passed by a republican congress.

Commercial Flying

The remarkable development of commercial flying in the United States without the subsidies which are a general characteristic of air transport elsewhere in the world, had its inception in the bold initiative of the post office department under General New some four years ago in undertaking night flying and regularly scheduled transport operations at night. Subsequent growth during the past two years has been due to the passage of the air commerce act in May, 1926, and of the bill providing for contract air mail services, both of them receiving administration approval, and the former, like the five-year program measures for the army and navy, resulting directly from the recommendations of the president's aircraft board. Furthermore, there has recently been passed, as the outcome of recommendations made in the president's last annual message to congress at the beginning of the present session, an act providing for long-term contracts for the transportation of mail by air to foreign countries on terms sufficiently liberal to insure the entry of American business enterprise into the field of international air transport, especially in the area between the continental United States and the Panama Canal.

Development of Air Mail

Through the efforts of the post office department and with the backing of the republican administration, both in giving air mail contracts and in providing navigation facilities in accordance with the terms of the air commerce act, the mileage of the air routes regularly flown on schedule has increased from about 3,000 three years ago to nearly 10,000 now. More than 5,000,000 miles were flown on regularly scheduled services during 1927, and 1,449,364 pounds of mail were carried, together with many tons of express and many passengers. Three years ago there was not a single passenger air line in regular operation. In the United States. Now there are a number doing a flourishing business. Starting from one government-operated route in 1925 and with no direct subsidy of any kind, the total mileage flown on American air routes already exceeds that of any European country, and the rate of increase has been so rapid as to justify confidence that we shall gain a growing lead over the rest of the world in air transportation activity.

Progress in the aircraft industry has been no less remarkable than in air transport and in the upbuilding of the aeronautical arms of the military services. Three years ago the industry catered almost exclusively to a military market. So far as numbers of airplanes sold are concerned, the army and navy purchases have now become a minor part of the whole, and the number of planes annually built for commercial and private use is being measured in thousands. The largest American builder of standardized aircraft engines now sells more power plants for non-military purposes than to the army and navy combined. The total output of planes in 1927 was double what it was in 1926, and that year, in turn, had shown a great increase over any previous period. American factories actually built and sold more than 2,000 airplanes in 1927, and only about one-third of them were for governmental use. The department of commerce has received powers which enable it to control design and construction in the interests of safety, but they have been wisely and moderately exercised, not to put a check upon progress or to impose upon the manufacturer burdens which would force the price of his product unduly high. The airplane remains within the reach of the private owner. That there are more private owners and small commercial operators of aircraft in the United States than in all the rest of the world combined is due in large part to governmental policy. With the stimulus and with the guidance thus furnished the quality of American aircraft and engines is making itself known throughout the world, especially since the great triumphs of Colonel Lindbergh and other users of American aeronautical equipment during the past year. American machines are being sought in foreign markets, and the export sales of airplanes, engines and parts during 1927 totaled $1,850,000, an increase of 143 per cent over the figure of two years previous. The point of view of the aircraft industry itself and the new confidence which the policy of this administration has brought to American workers in the aeronautical field is summarized in a few excerpts from the Year Book of the aeronautical chamber of commerce, a recognized spokesman for the aircraft industry as a whole. In the volume for 1927 it is declared:

Growth of Aviation

"The progress in aviation during 1926 in the United States was characterized by notable evidences of permanent growth. There was no spectacular increase in its physical and material aspects; the number of aircraft manufactured was not greatly increased; and the development in the field of air transportation while considerable was but a normal expansion in line with projects that had been developing over a period of several years

"Looking at the year's progress from another angle, however, that of the imponderable thing called political recognition through legal enactment, we find the expansion has been phenomenal. The year 1926 will go down in history as the year when aviation became permanently established in the United States, upon a sound program of constructive legislation, giving civil aviation a legal status, and the air services of the army and navy legal authority for greatly improved conditions upon a basis of permanent progressive growth."

This is a most noteworthy achievement in the realm of one of the newest and most important fields of governmental activity in which the members of the republican party may well take pride and satisfaction

Proud of Administration

As regards other characteristics of the republican administration of our domestic affairs, we are all proud of the record in economy and tax reduction. The administration has followed sound business policies, endeavoring to avoid all unnecessary expenditure striving hard to pay off the burden of debt inherited from the World war and at the same time reducing the burdens of the taxpayers. As one listens to the debates in congress even the most casual observer cannot help being impressed with the unsound nature of the appeal made by so many members of the democratic party who are ever ready to add items of lavish expenditure and at the same time attempt to reduce the revenue of the government below the actual cost of providing for its expenses and for the reduction of its debt.

Every business man since the days of Joseph in Egypt knows that there are fat years and lean years When fat years come it is the part of wisdom to look ahead and provide for the possible lean years. When our income is larger than we expect it is the part of wisdom to pay off our debts and so reduce the annual burden of interest charges which must be met by taxation.

The administration of President Coolidge has been extraordinary for its financial wisdom. The president himself has repeatedly braved popular disapproval and the condemnation of large sections of the country because of his unwillingness to open wide the doors of the treasury to satisfy the demands of all who find that their income is not as large as they think it ought to be and who are sure that the government is rich enough to furnish them with more money

Coolidge Policy Sound

President Coolidge's policy has been marked by profound wisdom and sound common sense. This has been appreciated by the great mass of hard-working Americans, even though received with bitter attacks from those who hold unsound economic views.

In their efforts to secure additional votes, members of congress opposed to the Coolidge policies have been ready to vote hundreds of millions of dollars for popular schemes and at the same time they have been ready to vote to reduce taxation below the safety point. They have been actually ready to plunge us farther and deeper into debt at a time when we are still struggling with the enormous burden laid upon us by the great war. It is the courage and sound business sense of President Coolidge and his friends in congress which alone have prevented the success of many such schemes.

The Tariff Problem

Furthermore many members of the democratic party have repeatedly stressed the necessity for lowering the tariff. They have been joined in this by the enemies of President Coolidge It is unnecessary to state to this audience that every time the tariff has been lowered it has brought suffering to Connecticut. It has meant the closing down of factories, the increase of unemployment, disaster and poverty to thousands. Our standards of life are such that we cannot compete on an equal basis with the workmen of foreign countries unless the tariff wall is sufficiently high to protect us. Yet no actions of President Coolidge have received more bitter denunciation than his connection with the tariff. Consequently it is fair to say that no action of his has been of greater benefit to the people of Connecticut. As Connecticut republicans we believe in a pay-as-you-go policy We believe in an economic administration. We believe in keeping the taxes as low as possible but not lower than is necessary to meet expenses and reduce the public debt. We believe that a protective tariff is wise and beneficial for all parts of the United States. It is the duty of the federal government to protect the people of the United States against aggression of all kinds. For this purpose we maintain an army and a navy For this purpose we maintain a protective tariff.

Now let us consider for a few moments a dark side to the picture. It was evident four years ago that there was corruption in high places Four years ago we had to get rid of several cabinet officers. I said at that time:

No Desire to Shield the Guilty

"We have no desire to shield the guilty. We know that the president of the United States is not the kind of man who will take advantage of technicalities to defeat the ends of justice We know that he is proceeding by proper constitutional methods to seek out the guilty, to recover for the United States whatever property has been improperly acquired and to punish the wrongdoers. He has appointed able counsel to represent the cause of the people. He wishes to see justice done.

"There is no wish or thought on our part to protect the guilty or keep them from punishment or to condone any crimes which have been performed by the servants of our government. Fortunately, we know that we have a man at the head of the government who has kept the law in spirit and in truth. He has observed the proprieties. Not only has he not done wrong but he has avoided the appearance of evil. He has shown himself willing to sacrifice his future for the sake of what he believed to be right.

"The guilty must be punished. That body, be it church, lodge or political party, which contains in its membership a malefactor is unfortunate The members of such organizations feel ashamed when they learn that they are harboring traitors.

"If the republican party has put into office any men who have not done right it must assume responsibility for having done so and must make every effort to see that they are removed and the harm that they have done be undone. The president has shown that he appreciates this. He said: 'At the revelation of greed making its subtle approaches to public officers, of the prostitution of high place to private profit, we are filled with scorn and with indignation We have a deep sense of humiliation at such gross betrayal of trust, and we lament the undermining of public confidence in official integrity. We propose to follow the clear, open path of justice. There will be immediate, adequate, unshrinking prosecution, criminal and civil, to punish the guilty and to protect every national interest. In this effort, there will be no politics and no partisanship.'"

Coolidge Has Done His Duty

As was to be expected President Coolidge has done his duty. Distinguished counsel has been appointed; a number of cases have been tried. Procedure in the courts has, it has been true, been irritatingly slow, but the fact remains that the guilty parties are now being punished by loss of good name, by loss of public esteem, and by the necessity of residing abroad We are told that a good name is rather to be desired than great riches. Certainly quite a number of American citizens of great wealth and of prominent position, politically and socially, have been deprived of their good name. Furthermore before very long some of them will be deprived of their liberty The wheels of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small. It is very easy to be impatient with the slow actions of the court and I wish with all my heart that our brethren who are devoting their lives to the law as a profession would insist upon the speedy, swift and impartial administration of justice. Instead of using their talents as they so often do to prolong the laws' delays, withhold the hand of justice and to bring into discredit that very institution which they of all men should be most anxious to see preserved.

Republicans of Connecticut

So far as the republicans of Connecticut are concerned we have reason to be proud of our record. For nearly a quarter of a century we have chosen to place in positions of great power and authority a distinguished citizen of the town of Simsbury By his keen sagacity, his native wit and his sound political wisdom he has rendered yeoman's service, not only to his state, but to his country. We are all of us proud of his record and we hope for many years to come he will continue to be willing to sacrifice his comfort and his desires for a peaceful life of rural retirement for the sake of Connecticut and of the United States. No one questions that we need the services of George P. McLean.

The record of republican administration in the state during the past four years has been one which has caused us to be greatly envied by the citizens of many other states in the union, particularly by some of our closest neighbors. This is neither the time nor the place to enlarge upon that record. Suffice it to say that we are all proud of that self-reliant, energetic, devoted citizen who began at the very bottom of the ladder and is now our able, fearless, hardworking, Governor John H. Trumbull.

The truth is that the republican party strives to secure clean and honest officials and sound efficient government.

Deprecates "Summary Justice"

I hold no brief for those who have committed crimes against the government and the people of the United States. I desire to see them punished according to the law of the land and in an orderly manner. On the other hand I do not favor lynch law, or "summary justice" as it is called, just because the crimes are great. Because a man has committed murder there is no reason why we should throw overboard the judicial procedure which we have erected to protect the innocent. Because a man has committed a great crime against the people of the United States is no reason why he should not be tried properly by the appropriate courts instead of being given a popular lynching by the great national grand jury or a sub-committee thereof.

The wisdom and experience of our fathers has taught us that more harm can be done by throwing open the doors of the grand jury room and permitting every breath of scandal to have the widest possible publicity than by having the grand jury proceedings heard in secret. And yet the great national grand jury, applauded by millions of Americans, carried on its inquisitorial proceedings in public and self-righteously justifies itself by pointing with pride to the corruption and scandal which it has unearthed.

Dangerous Editorials

I have read editorials in certain newspapers which regret the present tendency of the senate but justify it wholly by the immediate results that have been achieved. They overlook the harm done to American institutions. This is a dangerous state of affairs.

It has been caused in part by the failure of our courts and bar associations to insist upon the swift and impartial administration of justice. We have permitted pleas of insanity to interfere with the prompt punishment of murderers. We have permitted forms of law designed to guard against the hasty conviction of innocent people to facilitate the escape of the guilty. We have disgusted the people of the United States by the easy way in which we have made it possible for criminals to escape punishment by continuous appeals on technical grounds.

Consequently the senate has become a great national grand jury because the action of our judicial system appears to be neither impartial nor prompt. Such conditions cause the approval of lynch law. The first results of lynch law are usually good. The ultimate effect is bad. It leads to tyranny, cruelty and loss of rights.

The congress is encroaching on the liberty of the people with their consent because the people are not satisfied with what the states do. We must strive for efficient state government so that the arbitrary power of congress shall not be urged to grow. To mention only one specific case the republican party should urge upon state legislatures to pass adequate laws for the regulation of aviation so as to avoid the necessity for having more rules made in Washington.

The inefficiency of the states is not a sufficient reason for the growth of federal power, and the spread of bureaucracy, but it seems so to the average voter and hence to his representative in congress.

The Connecticut representative, republican system of government is based on the belief so well expressed by that hard-headed countryman who said "I make no claims to great knowledge, but I'm a good judge of horses and men." This is sometimes called horse sense or common sense. It is the logical foundation on which successful popular government may be built.

Glory in Tolerance

The glory of America today is her tolerance. There is still room for improvement. But the record of the republican party shows its faith in the people, its belief in liberty, its tolerance in matters of creed, and color, race and religion. Some of our modern orators appear to be afraid of liberty and tolerance. Let them have no fear.

Toleration means charity. Toleration suffereth long and is kind, is not puffed up. Toleration is the very essence of American spirit. Without toleration we cannot have liberty. Without toleration we cannot have freedom. Intolerance and bigotry stifle liberty and freedom, crush initiative and invention, destroy opportunity and character.

Nevertheless we cannot tolerate crime. We cannot tolerate corruption. We cannot tolerate theft of private or national resources. Neither can we tolerate unjust curtailment of individual liberty. The state must protect us against covetousness, theft and murder. But the state must not interfere with my home, my church or my school. I must fit myself to be a good citizen. That is my duty. But how I do it is my affair. If I fail to be a good citizen let me be punished. But I demand the opportunity to succeed.

Crimes Against Civilization

Furthermore we must not be tolerant of bigotry and intolerance. They are crimes against civilization. They would set brother against brother, clan against clan, race against race, religion against religion. The result would be anarchy and civil war. We must not be tolerant of crime or treason. But thank God we have separated church and state. A man no longer is held to commit a crime against cause he does not worship as I do, nor is he a traitor because his church is not my church.

So must we be on our guard against bigotry, intolerance and standardization in human affairs. We demand for each man and woman the right to worship God in his own way—the right to educate his children in the kind of school he prefers, the right to mind his own business in his own way so long as he does not interfere with his neighbor doing the same. In the old days a man who longed for freedom to worship God, freedom to raise his family according to his own ideas, freedom from bureaucratic rulers and regulations could go west, into the wilderness. Today the wilderness is gone. But we can find that freedom in the towns of Connecticut. The city voter is frequently too busy with other things to think much about politics. That is the tendency against which we must struggle. Furthermore now that the radio and the rural free delivery and the telephone are bringing city life so vividly into country homes our country-bred citizens must guard against any tendency to permit their lives to become so full of personal business and personal pleasure that they cannot give that time and attention to political affairs which has been their practice in the past and which has been perhaps the greatest safeguard of American liberty.

We must beware of seeking for immediate benefits which are so obvious as to be desired by large numbers of citizens, but which when carefully studied are shown to be likely ultimately to produce serious ills in the body politic.

Enforcement of Laws

It has been said that there is no subject more widely discussed in these days than that of the observance and enforcement of laws. Thoughtful students of the art of government have been reminding us for years that laws are properly the crystalized result of public opinion and that we attempt to mold public opinion by making laws we are so reversing a natural process as to cause laws to fall into disrespect. As "Uncle Joe" Cannon once said, "we are a people who like novelty and a short cut to perfection. We are always able to make ourselves believe that the social millenium is just one lap ahead and we can catch up with it if only congress will enact some new-fangled law." Some people constantly forget that you cannot make a man honest by legislation. It is not law nor the Constitution which molds and controls the development of our civilization so much as it is an intelligent and righteous public opinion. When law goes beyond the spirit of the people it lacks that support which alone makes it certain of obedience. When law follows public opinion it can and will be observed. But when a well-organized minority using powerful propaganda appeals to emotional congressmen we secure legislation by hysteria and we indulge in rash experiments. On the other hand when a responsible political party through its legally chosen representatives deliberately adopts a political platform and commits itself to a definite course of political action we avoid hysteria and fall back on common sense. If in the adoption of our platform we proceed with deliberation and are governed by the combined wisdom of all our members, listening to the counsels of the most conservative as well as those of the most liberal, we shall be on safe ground. As President Coolidge once said, "Do not hesitate to be as re-actionary as the multiplication table; do not hesitate to be as revolutionary as science."

Popular Government

Our greatest problem as American citizens is how to make popular government successful. Our ancestors were convinced that heredity rule is not in the long run successful. We agree with them. To be sure one man may make a great ruler. He may be the ideal, benevolent monarch His son may inherit his qualities and may grant speedy justice and promote the general welfare of all his subjects. Nevertheless, they are subjects and not citizens. Sooner or later a monarch arises whose tendencies are more evil than good, whose love of power is greater than his love of justice, whose wishes for self enjoyment are more compelling than his wishes for the public welfare. And as a result we get tyranny and despotism, oppression and suffering. These are due to the inherent tendencies of human nature. Then the only relief is revolution and civil war.

The world has tried many different kinds of government. We believe that the safest and best kind is government by the people through their representatives.

Consequently we are constantly seeking to strengthen and maintain those forms of government which will assure to us and our children the inherent rights of man; his right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Our great problem is to make government by the people operate successfully for the people.

In a very small community the people may govern directly. In a large community they must govern through their representatives. These representatives must be chosen and elected. They must win the support of the majority of the people, we pray that support the representatives must please the people. Consequently the representatives will usually be those from those who are anxious to win the next election, or in other words, those who may be justly accused of taking a constant interest in public opinion. Some folks call them "politicians."

Sound Citizenry

On the other hand if we are going to provide for the steady development of a sound citizenry and are going to insure the training of good citizens for the future, if those representatives are going to guide the "Ship of State" so that it may safely weather all possible storms, they must be chosen from citizens who have the inclination and the ability and will take the time to look beyond the next election. If they look too far beyond it they are not likely to be elected. Their services may be lost to the state. If they do not look beyond it they may be elected, but their services may be lost to the next generation.

The trouble with many earnest students of government and some popular statesmen is their failure to be interested in making government-by-the-people work. Actually they are not particularly interested in winning the next election. Their trouble is that they are not interested in the opinions of the man on the street. They are not interested in winning the approval of the great mass of people who in fact constitute the sovereign power—"We, the people of the United States." In other words they are not interested in winning the next election. Actually they do not believe in government by the people. They believe in government by themselves; government by a small group of wiseacres; government by an organized minority.

Many of our fellow citizens do not look very far ahead. If their immediate wants are supplied they are satisfied. Their idea of the proper duties and functions of government is limited to their personal wishes for safety, comfort, ease and amusement. They know all about the heroes of the sporting world, the notorious wrongdoers of the criminal world and the world as represented in four-column headlines. They know little and care less about history or even current politics unless the dish is served with the sauce of scandal and the spice of shattered reputations. They work hard at their chosen jobs. They mind their own business. But they do not consider their duties as a citizen to be part of their life work. And this is one of the greatest handicaps in the way of making popular government permanently successful in a vast continent inhabited by more than one hundred and ten million people.

Basis for Popular Representation

As I see it the fundamental basis for popular representative government, sometimes called a republican form of government, assured to the states by the Constitution, is that while the average citizen may not know much about law, public finance or the larger problems of public administration, he has a God-given capacity to size up the men he knows. The long process of evolution through the ages eliminated those who were not able to judge of the character of their neighbors. Most people are good judges of human nature. This enables them to select good representatives from the people they know personally instead of having to depend on what they hear about successful advertisers who are particularly keen in pleasing the whims of large numbers of those people who have little time or inclination to give to the deeper aspects of legislation and of legislative policy. It is through the choice of representatives from among those actually known personally to the voter that popular government has been successful. We must preserve the representative system. The larger the country the more impossible it becomes for pure democracy to function. The more necessary is the careful preservation of representative government.

Faith in Government

Have faith in representative government, first put into the form of a written constitution in Hartford. Have faith in connecticut. But remember that "faith without works is dead." Have faith in her institutions. Show your faith by good works. Choose representatives who are worthy of your confidence. Then give them a free hand. Trust their judgment until they give you some evidence of failure. We believe in Connecticut. Let us show our faith by working for Connecticut. We believe in America. Let us show our faith by working for America.

A variety of games were played and refreshments were served during the latter part of the afternoon.

"PRIVATE CROSSING", SAYS OFFICIALS, IN NEW LONDON AUTO FATALITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 17—Officials of the New Haven railroad company place the blame for the fatal auto accident of Sunday night on the driver of the death car. They state that even though the crossing on Maple avenue where the accident occurred is a private one, due precautions have always been taken by the company. A special investigating committee which was here yesterday, stated that according to the only witness of the tragedy, Charles Mills, 24 Maple avenue, Russell, who drove the car, attempted to beat the engine across the tracks after he saw that it was going to be close work. An argument between the city of New London and the railroad company over this crossing has been in force for a period of years. However the railroad company has successfully succeeded in proving in court that the crossing is a private one and as such they are not responsible for accidents that occur there.

BUSKEY UNDER $1,000 BONDS FOR WATERFORD HEARING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 17—John Buskey of Waterford was arrested last night by State Policeman John H. Smith of the Groton barracks when he speeded away after striking Mrs. George Sherman, of Broad street extension, this city. Mrs. Sherman was walking along the street in front of her home when struck. She sustained painful lacerations about the knee and legs and several serious body bruises. As she fell, the river of the car dashed away. Neighbors of the injured woman noticed her lying by the road and hurried to her assistance. The Groton state police were notified and Patrolman Smith gave chase and found the car partially wrecked at the junction of the Hartford road and the Oil Mill road from crashing into a huge boulder which the driver was unable to escape, owing to the high speed at which he was traveling. After identifying the owner of the car as Buskey, Smith proceeded to his home where he found the man partially intoxicated. It was afterwards ascertained that he is a constant drinker and that he was drunk at the time he ran into Mrs. Sherman. He was arrested and brought to the local police station where bonds of $1,000 were placed upon him. These were furnished by Louis Elfenbein, of this city, for his appearance in the Waterford court Friday. It was also learned that Mrs. Sarah Grixxa, of Waterford was with Buskey at the time of the accident. However she was not arrested, as there was no charge against her. Mrs. Sherman, after being treated by Dr. C. John Satti was taken home. Her condition late this afternoon was reported as being greatly improved.

NEW YORK-BOSTON DRIVER DOES SOME DETOURING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 17—With Bank street being torn up between Tilley and Pearl streets where the work of repaving the streets has started traffic is being carried on in that block at much inconvenience and this will be the case for several weeks. Tonight a five ton truck hauling a trailer, en route from New York to Boston, was unable to pass through the street, which compelled the driver to route through Bank street to Tilley street, through Huntington to Williams street, then to Main street to Crystal avenue, in order to reach the Thames river highway bridge. The route taken by the truck was necessary in order to make a turn from one street to another because of the combined length of the truck and trailer, which was 50 feet.

A snow squall here this afternoon, between 3 and 3:30 is believed to be the first snow to fall on the 17th of April in twenty years in the western part of Waterford between 12 and 1 o'clock, a heavy snow fell and for nearly 15 minutes it gave the appearance of a real fall of snow.

The proprietors of the store, Candyland, 36 Bank street, whose place of business was closed by attachment yesterday, intend to file a petition in bankruptcy. Papers in the case are being prepared.

Lucia A. Parsons has sold a parcel of land, in the rear of his residence Manwaring street, to Lucius E. Whitton.

Cecil W. Brown, chief engineer of the Connecticut Power company, today applied to the city for water service to the company's new plant at Waterford. The application was presented last night by City Manager Holt to the council, which body postponed a decision to the meeting next week. According to data furnished by the company it will require the use of 150,000 cubic feet of water annually. In all probability the application will be accepted as this volume will warrant the expenditure of the money necessary to transmit the water to the plant.

Judge Cornelius C. Costello, of this city, will act as ringmaster for the Boy Scout circus which is to be held at the state armory Friday night. The affair promises to be filled with surprise according to a statement issued today by Scout Master Ralph Edson, who has been working on the arrangements of the show for the past month. Only 800 persons will be admitted to the performance and these will receive complimentary tickets from the scouts. There will be two shows, one for children in the afternoon and that for grown-ups in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Starr are spending several days in Washington.

Mrs. Fred Middleton, of Groton; Martin Totten, Essex; Miss Nina Birkham, Worcester and William Drew, tugboat Baldrock, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Because of a disturbing element at the branch of the Corticelli Silk company, Trumbull street, whose actions have caused discontent bordering on serious trouble among the workers, the police guarded the employes this morning as they went to work. Officials of the company had requested police protection for the men. The anticipated trouble did not result, probably because of the presence of the police. For several days, it is understood some of the employes of the company have endeavored to obtain a change in working conditions and wage payment starting agitation among the employes. One of the troublemakers was discharged and it was believed that some of the sympathizers of the agitators would cause trouble among the other workers. Police Captain Charles A. Pinney was requested to provide police protection and he ordered Patrolman Ernest Opperman and Patrick Sheehan to go to the plant. As the workers appeared at the mill there was no indication of disorder.

An automobile driven by Daniel J. McInnis, 232 Colman street, struck Richard Cole, a boy, residing at 174 Jefferson avenue, this evening at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Wall street. The boy escaped serious injury, although he received several lacerations, but serious cuts. He was struck when he started to run across the street and before McInnis could bring the car to a stop.

The police signal box, corner State and Bank streets, is out of order, but it will be put in repair tomorrow for the box is the most important on the entire police system.

The cold weather of tonight caused the tramp room at police headquarters to house more unfortunates than has been the case in many weeks. The low temperature brought early arrivals for lodgings, some of them being well-dressed, but either without funds, or with small capital in the latter case the men desired to save for food what little money they had.

Only two cases required attention in the police court this morning. Fred Kingsbury, 71 Colman street, was arraigned for parking his car on Bank street for a longer period than the regulations allow. Upon his failure to appear in court his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Alfred W. Harris of New Haven, charged with parking too far from the curb on State street and parking overtime, also failed to appear, so his bond also was forfeited.

An improvement in the condition of Henry C. Russell was reported today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Russell, was one of the two survivors of the auto-train tragedy Sunday night when three persons lost their lives as a locomotive of the New Haven railroad crashed into the auto driven by the injured man at the crossing on Maple avenue. Russell has a fractured pelvic bone, although the physicians at the hospital are confident of his recovery.

Work on the new nurses' dormitories at the Lawrence-Memorial hospital is progressing with rapidity. The first story and the walls are almost completed. The building is designed for dormitory quarters for the nurses only.

Mrs. Daisy Green, 45, of Groton, left her home yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and has not been seen or heard of since. She is slightly demented and her relatives are worried over the thought that she may have met with some accident. The state police have been notified of her disappearance.

Preparations are being made for the annual banquet of the Nameaug Engine company which is to be held tomorrow night at the company house. A special entertainment is being prepared.

Three persons were arrested yesterday afternoon on violations of the outdoor advertising law, Mrs. Emily Dunn, owner of a filling station on Niantic Hill, Harry Koons of the same place and John W. Flynn of East Lyme.

A capacity house last night witnessed "Spanish Moon," given at the Lyceum theatre under the auspices of the Crowley club. The cast was an admirable aggregation of young players of New London. Barley-Malt Syrup

Barley-Malt Syrup, or Malt Extract as it is sometimes called, is not a new product. It has been used in various ways for more than 60 years. As new uses have been found from time to time, the consumption has been increased and large factories have been built for the manufacture of malt syrup exclusively.

As a food, Barley-Malt Syrup was not appreciated for a long time. Its valuable properties, however, were taken advantage of by certain now famous breakfast food manufacturers. Its addition to their products enabled them to make an improved food, both as to flavor and palatability. The success of these Malt Syrup products was so phenomenal that today the majority of the popular breakfast foods have Barley-Malt Syrup as one of their main constituents.

Experiments were made with other food commodities in order to utilize its valuable qualities. The baking industry, for instance, found it especially suitable for this business. Its uses in the bread formula resulted in a quicker fermentation, larger loaves with velvety texture, rich brown crust and improved appearance of the finished loaf.

The candy industry too found Malt Syrup useful in improving the food value and digestibility of its products.

Malted milk preparations served at the soda fountains owe their popularity to Barley-Malt Syrup, because of the pleasant reaction of taste and flavor and also the additional food value.

Ice cream manufacturers use Barley-Malt Syrup in great quantities because experiments proved that its use greatly added to the food value, taste and flavor of their product.

Physicians have long recognized the beneficial results of Barley-Malt Syrup when prescribed for their patients. The nutritious properties contained in Barley-Malt Syrup combined with the ease of assimilation are factors which determine its usefulness as a body builder.

For some food uses plain Barley-Malt Syrup or extract, is preferred while for others the addition of some flavor is desirable. Chocolate, for instance, as shown by the large consumption of chocolate malted drinks. Vanilla also serves to produce an agreeable combination. Another blend which has found considerable favor with the public is a combination of hops with Barley-Malt Syrup. The latter gives Barley-Malt Syrup a piquant bitter flavor if properly blended.

The great demand for this ideal product by bakers and housewives for bakery and food products would indicate that Hop Flavored Barley-Malt Syrup has met with great favor where palatability and wholesome foods are desired.

Palace Theatre

Columbia has brought to the screen another masterpiece in "The Sporting Age," which stars Belle Bennett. This picture is the attraction at the Palace theatre today only and bids fair to become one of the most popular of the season. It is an intensely human drama played against a background of modern society. The picture handles a vital problem of domestic relations in capable manner, furnishing ample opportunity for strong scenes and emotional acting.

The narrative is woven around the infatuation of a middle aged woman for a clean-cut youth and her awakening to the fact that such love cannot be lasting. Her husband, realizing that his wife's happiness depends upon the manner in which he handles the situation, cleverly arranges the stage to suit the occasion and plays hearts to win.

Holmes Herbert is cast as the husband and Carroll Nye as the youth. The picture is an adaptation by Elmer Harris of an original story by Armand Kaliz. It was directed by Erle C. Kenton.

The hard-riding, hard-fighting Fred Humes has scored another hit in his latest Universal Western production, The Border Cavalier, which is the co-feature at the Palace this afternoon and evening.

Tonight as usual is gift night at the Palace theatre. Twenty-five dollars in gold and ten useful and valuable presents, including a 43 piece dinner set will be given away free.

Strand Theatre

The Tired Business Man, now showing at the Strand is one of the funniest pictures untolded on the screen. One of the principal fun makers is Raymond Hitchcock, the inimitable comedian of the stage who has brought his funny gestures to the screen. The story tells in screamingly funny episodes how the tired business men of today enjoy their leisure hours sans the knowledge of their loving wives. In this instance a firm of contractors is anxious to secure a city paving contract firm from the alderman who has the power to affix his signature. To get this coveted job they entertain the city official lavishly, taking him to parties and letting him pet their beautiful stenographer. How the fun starts when the alderman's irate wife discovers his escapades and the romance of the stenographer, played by Blanche Mehaffey, ends with her man, played by Charles Delaney, will be known by seeing this enjoyable picture either tonight or Thursday night at the Strand.

"Back to Mother," boasting a cast of all star players, is a laugh provoking picture that you will like.

The other picture on this already interesting program is A Beartheart, a Pathe production.

Breed Theatre

The smile that won't come off!

That used to be a popular saying. Jack Mulhall, handsome young leading artist in First National Pictures, has a smile that means what it says.

And it is friendly, humorous, sincere.

Those who witness See You in Jail, the big attraction of the double feature bill at the Breed theatre today and Thursday will have to admit that Jack's smile is as refreshing as a day in spring. It won him his first job in pictures and he's never lost it.

It isn't stereotyped. It is genuine.

Alice Day, "pretty as a picture," plays opposite Jack in this Ray Rockett production which Joseph Henaberry directed. She is charmingly cast and has the true comedy instinct.

See You in Jail tells the story of high finance in the least expected place—the jail tank. Also, there is romance and a million laughs.

Olive Borden the charming youthful Fox films star will be seen as the featured player in Pajamas, the added feature on this program for today and Thursday.

OUT on the great proving grounds of the nation's highways—where driver vies with driver and car meets car in all kinds of friendly contests—today's high-powered Chandler is the victor of victors!

It is absolutely spectacular the way today's Chandler outsprints its contenders in traffic—and outclimbs them on steep hills—and outruns them in straight going.

And the reason is anything but a secret: Chandler has further increased the power of its Pikes Peak engine principle—in its new Sixes as well as its new Royal Eights.

You'll find, too, that any new Chandler you drive is much the easiest car to control you ever knew. And the reason for this is Westinghouse Vacuum Brakes—three times safer than any kind of mechanical or hydraulic brakes that depend entirely upon muscular pressure.

Easy, too, to lubricate the chassis. Just push a plunger and Chandler's "One Shot" System automatically lubricates the car from end to end. No fuss. No time out. Money saved.

And just look around and compare other cars with Chandler for beauty. See how sumptuously Chandler endows its new Sixes and Royal Eights with all the trappings and trimmings of elegance. No skimping, no cutting corners anywhere.

Chandler is Chandler-built—through and through—in Chandler's great $10,000,000 plant. Built step by step with zealous care in strictest conformity to the hard and fast rules of quality and accuracy.

Don't buy a new car without seeing and driving today's Chandler. Thirty magnificent models—$995 to $2195, f. o. b. factory—and the finest cars $995 to $2195 can command.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin; and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. It's mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

HISTORY OF TEXTILES SHOWN BY EXHIBIT UNDER WOMEN'S CITY CLUB

Members of the Women's City club were at Converse art gallery Tuesday afternoon and evening for the private view of the exhibition of textiles arranged for by the club in co-operation with Slater museum. For the rest of this week and on Sunday, the exhibition is open to the public without charge the hours being from 10:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on school days and from 2 to 5 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The exhibit is interestingly arranged to show the history and progress of textiles from the earliest times from about 3,000 B. C. This period is shown by a piece of Egyptian mummy cloth, loaned by the Newark museum, and also a fragment from the Swiss Lake dwellers, the property of Slater museum. Tapa cloth from the Polynesian islands also represents the primitives and for a background there is a collection of choice Javanese batiks loaned by the Skylight shop of New York. Color plates from a collection given the museum by George S. Palmer represent the Assyrian and Persian textiles and on another screen are the beautiful silks of China, shown by mandarin coats and temple hangings.

Reproductions in velvet and silk of Italian medieval and renaissance designs have been loaned by Schumacher & Co. of New York and making an interesting contrast with these are the Mariano Fortuny reproductions in cotton by a process that closely imitates silk and velvet. One of the rarest prizes of the exhibit is shown in the French section in a collection of the original Toile de Jouy prints and there are also French reproductions of these prints.

India shawls, India prints and India silk lead up to the Paisley shawls of England and there are examples of block printing and copper plate work in England.

The American early colonial hand-weaving is illustrated by a large collection of coverlets and spreads, with a spinning wheel and an old loom, while modern hand-weaving is represented by colorful work from the Walden looms.

Local industries whose display of modern products bring the exhibit down to the present day are the J. B. Martin company with a rich display of a great variety of velvets, the American Woolen company with an extensive line of fancy and plain suitings, the Aspinook company featuring "Permatex" with samples of articles at "The Clever Craftsman," the permatex shop, the Ponemah mills showing beautiful soisette the exclusive product of this concern, and Uncas Finishing company showing material made for the Woolworth company, illustrating fine design in cheap material.

A unique feature of the modern exhibit are the large mural hangings by Elizabeth Kempton, of Yantic. These hangings formed a center at the exhibition of the Architectural league of New York last fall. They are chemically dyed on unbleached muslin by a process not in general use.

Many of the old and valuable textiles are loaned by Norwich people. Those assisting in this way in the success of the exhibition include Miss Delia Leavens, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, Mrs. Ozias Dodge, Mrs. Dickson H. Leavens, Charles J. Dyer, Miss Annie Ruggles, Miss Faith Leavens, Mrs. Vernon, W. F. Habekotte, Henry LaFontaine, Miss Elizabeth Huntington and Louis H. Walden.

NORWICH TOWN

In recognition of the re-building of the organ at the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey conducted an impressive dedicatory service at the Sunday morning worship. The Scripture lesson was from II Chronicles 5th chapter. "It came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the Lord. And when they lifted up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals and instruments of music and praised the Lord, saying For He is good, for His mercy endureth forever, that then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the Lord; so that the priests could not stand to minister by reason of the cloud, for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of God." 13th and 14th verses. "The Element of Music in Worship" was the sermon theme, durwhich Rev. Mr. Bailey portrayed the many interesting features of music in connection with other things.

The anthem which was so well rendered by the quartette, was "Come and Worship the Lord," by Schoebel. The alto and tenor duet, by Mrs. Charles Schwenk and Dr. Charles H. Lamb, was most pleasing. In the course of his remarks, Rev. Mr. Bailey expressed the thought that it would be most fitting at thi stime, to show some appreciation of the generous offer through a daughter of this church, Mrs. Ruth Potter Wallen, who made the rebuilding of the organ possible by a gift of $2,000.

It was a unanimous expression of the congregation to extend a letter of appreciation to this generous doner, who for several years took an active part in the services at this church prior to her removal to Hartford; also that a copy of the letter be forwarded to the clerk of the church, to be spread upon its records. In making this gift, Mrs. Wallen has created an everlasting memorial to her ancestors in the Lathrop family, who for several generations were worshippers at this church. The letter of recognition to Mrs. Wallen, also included warm expressions of her loyal spirit each Easter season, in contributing such elaborate floral decorations in loving memory of her sainted mother, Mrs. Walter Potter, who was a faithful worker and beloved member of this parish and whose memory still lingers, with those who knew her and labored with her in the works of the Master. In concluding that part of the service, Rev Mr. Bailey offered an eloquent dedicatorial prayer followed by the Lord's prayer, with the congregation uniting.

Rev. George Warren Potter, formerly of Portland Connecticut, assumed his new pastorate at the Norwich Town Methodist church at Sunda morning worship. Prior to his coming to Norwich Town, Rev. Mr. Potter has held pastorates in Niantic, Lyme and Portland, and for five years was boys secretary of the Chelsea branch of the Boston Y. M. C. A.

At his first service in the Norwich Town parish, Rev. Mr. Potter took for his theme, "The Romance of Today". The text was Matthew 16:25. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life, for My sake shall find it. In presenting himself to his congregation, Rev. Mr. Potter mentioned how former ministers had spoken nicely of this parish at conference; and while he could have been assigned to another parish, he thought he would like to come to Norwich Town. No matter what has already been accomplished, there are always new adventures.

Reference was made of the big mountain, where the Hoosac tunnel was constructed. A group of men when sighting this mountain, thought it would be necessary to build around it, while Crocker, the great engineer solved the problem as to how to go through it. Rev. Mr. Potter said: Let this be the day, and we the people, to accomplish some adventure in this community.

At the Methodist children's service Sunday afternoon the new minister presided, and told a Bible story of the "Miracle of the Five Barley Loaves and Two Fishes."

Rev. Mr. Potter also had charge of the Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening, when the topic assigned was "The Dangers of Slang and Cheap Talk." Matthew 12:33-37, was the scripture reference.

In the absence of Acting Superintendent Lewis Aldrich, his assistant, Miss Florence M. Bennett, presided over the Sunday school at the Methodist church, Sunday noon.

Supervisor of Schools, James F. Connolly and Mrs. Connolly of Sentry Hill, are entertaining the latters aunt, Mrs. Charles Price of Custer, South Dakota, who has been passing the winter in the east.

Mrs. Mary Freeman of Rocky Hill, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly on Wednesday.

Following a visit of about ten days at her home on Scotland road, Miss Susan Wilcox, a member of the staff at New Haven high school, was expected to return to that city Sunday to resume teaching, following the Easter recess.

Scotland Road whist club held a whist at the hall Friday evening. The prize winners included Mrs. Nathan Bushnell, Mrs. Herbert Bushnell and Earl Geer. Miss Emily Wilcox was chairman of the committee in charge.

With their daughter, Miss Margaret Connolly, Supervisor of Schools J. F. Connolly and wife motored to Middletown a day recently, to visit some friends.

Lawrence Lillibridge, younger son of Mrs. Susan Lillibridge of Norwich Town, who is a patient at a New London hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis, Tuesday last, was reported Sunday to be resting comfortably.

Mrs. Lillibridge, when visiting her son at the hospital Saturday evening, found to her surprise that her eldest brother, Stephen Austin, of Mystic, had just been removed from the operating room at the same hospital, following a major operation. Visits to the hospital are made daily by Mrs. Lillibridge and another son, Thurston.

Among other feathered species to arrive in the spring a handsome pair of bluebirds were observed by Norwich Town residents early Sunday morning.

PROVIDING MORE BOOTHS FOR PROGRESS EXPOSITION

Instead of 60 booths at the Norwich Progress Exposition to be held next month there are to be 75 and of these 75 booths all but 20 have already been contracted for.

The original plans for the exposition included a lay out of 60 booths However, after the programme got under way, it appeared that this would be entirely inadequate and Sheldon H. Fairbanks, the manager of the show, developed a drawing which provided for 75 booths. That this change in the plans was well justified, is indicated by the increasing demand for space. At the close of business Tuesday, all but twenty booths had been contracted for out of the total of 75.

Many attractive displays will be featured, ranging all the way from products of the manufacturers to the modern labor-saving devices for use in the home, and mercantile exhibits by the merchants.

The chamber of commerce were enthusiastic in promoting the exposition plan as a means of showing the people of Norwich what they have. They believed it was a most effective way in which to sell the community on itself so that out of this exposition might come a new conviction.

In the Pittsburgh convention of the national association last year, the following statement was made: The first and really most important subject of any chamber of commerce is this:—Unless the city is, to use common parlance, "sold" on it self, it cannot hope to compete with the neighboring city, which is thoroughly imbued with its own values. In selling a city to itself, its chamber of commerce must be sold to its membership and to the city. Many cities have found a practicable way—a Progress Exposition.

Testing Brakes on Automobiles

State policemen from the Groton barracks were inspecting brakes on automobiles on the Montville-Norwich highway Tuesday and were ordering those who were found with defective equipment to have it fixed. Drivers were ordered to speed up their cars and then bring them to a sudden stop as a test.

If the brakes did not take hold quickly or sharply enough to meet the test, the driver was given orders to get the brakes fixed.

Grace Circle at Almshouse

Grace Circle of the King's Daughters, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins leader, conducted services at Norwich Almshouse Sunday afternoon assisted by Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler at the piano and Deacon Frank Robinson, of the FFirst Baptist church. Deacon Robinson offered prayer, read the Scripture and sang tw osolos which were very pleasing to the members of the household. In conclusion the circle members sang several songs.

REP. STATE CONVENTION SHORT AND HARMONIOUS

Business Session Required Just 29 Minutes—Conviction Prevails That Individually the Delegates Favor Calvin Coolidge—Resolution Was Adopted Expressing the Sentiment That Senator George McLean Should Stand For Another Election—Delegation Will Be Called Together by Chairman Roraback to Make Arrangeents.

HARTFORD, April 18—(AP)—The shortest business session of a republican state convention in Connecticut in many a year today named the delegation of 24, delegates and alternates, to the Kansas City convention in June, adopted a resolution expressive of a "conviction" that United States Senator George P. McLean should stand for another election because "the country needs him," and elected a state central committee.

The work which drew more than six hundred men and women to the party's "spring" convention required just twenty-nine minutes. United States Senator Hiram Bingham, the chairman, but each name for delegate or alternate as it was offered from the floor and bang would go his gavel, there hardly being time for applause between each.

"Uncle" Marcus Holcomb, war governor, got a substantial round of applause when he offered Governor Trumbull's name for delegate-at-large.

When the convention was over its members by expressed comment appeared to be convinced that individually the delegation members favored Calvin Coolidge. Several had said he was their first and only choice at this time.

Governor Trumbull talked with President Coolidge at the white house yesterday before he flew back to attend the convention.

Senator Bingham left for the national capital shortly after adjournment. He expects to go to Kansas City direct from the capitol.

The delegation will be called together by Chairman Roraback to make transportation, hotel and other arrangements and to informally talk over matters, possibly the matter of unanimity of action in the delegation when the state's turn comes in the roll of states to cast its vote for presidential and vice presidential candidates.

The delegation chosen follows:

Delegates-at-large—J. Henry Roraback, Hartford; U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, New Haven; Gov. J. H. Trumbull, Plainville; Miss Katherine Byrne, Putnam; James F. Walsh, Greenwich; State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, New London; Mrs. Alice Russ, Shelton.

Alternates-at-large—Mrs. Herman M. Hubbard, Lyme; Mrs. Russel Lee Jones, Hartford; Col. Charles H. Allen, Vernon; William G. Park, Hanover; Speaker John H. Hill, Shelton; Raymond F. Gates, Windham; Harry E. Mackenzie, Bethel.

The district delegates are:

First, Walter E. Batterson, Hartford, and Samuel R. Spencer, Suffield; second, Charles A. Gates, Willimantic and R. Leland Keeny, Somers; third, Lieut. Gov. J. Edwin Brainard, Branford, and Roy C. Wilcox, Meriden; fourth, Arthur F. Connor, Bridgeport, and Mrs. Julia Emery, Stamford; fifth, Edward W. Goss, Waterbury and Frederic C. Walcott, Norfolk.

The district alternates are:

First, E. N. Allen, Hartford and H. H. Hunt, Glastonbury; second, W. S. Reynolds, Middletown, and G. H. Bradford, Montville; third, J. F. Baker, New Haven, and John F. Lynch, West Haven; fourth, Frederic M. Salmon, Westport, and Mrs. Mehemian Candee, Norwalk; fifth, Henry J. Ellis, Torrington and Mrs. G. C. Mathis, Seymour.

POKER GAME FIGURES IN THE SINCLAIR TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—Denied the testimony of one of its important witnesses, Edwin Denby, former secretary of the navy, the defense in the conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair drove ahead today in its effort to show there was nothing corrupt in the leasing of Teapot Dome.

Denby, called to the witness stand after Capt. J. K. Robison, retired, had been put through a cruelling cross-examination by Owen J. Roberts, special government prosecutor, was not permitted to tell anything of his actions in the Teapot Dome lease negotiations. Roberts objected to his testimony, because Robison had testified that Denby had not talked with Fall or seen him about the lease in any way.

The barrage of questions directed at Robison led him to a poker game in which he sat with Sinclair in December, 1922, on the day on which important contracts in connection with the Teapot lease were signed and at a time when the supplementary agreement to the lease was under consideration. The witness said that Admirals Latimer, Gregory and Bimsell from the navy department and some of the men who were handling the lease in the interior department were present at a dinner given by Sinclair in a Washington hotel.

After the dinner some of the party played poker and the next day in a letter to Sinclair, Robison said that he had learned how to lose at poker. He said that comment was prompted by his having seen Sinclair lay down a winning hand to his brother, Earl. The former rear admiral said that he won $8 in the game.

COALITION VOTE LIKELY ON TARIFF BILL "RIDER"

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—The possibility of a coalition of democrats and republican independents for the attachment of a tariff revision "rider" to the tax reduction bill was rendered more remote today by an unchallenged announcement from Senator Harrison, Dem., of Mississippi, that his party was against the Rider.

Speaking from the senate floor Harrison called attention to the statement issued yesterday by Senator Simmons, Dem., of North Carolina, against such a move and gave notice that it was the feeling of the party that the tax reduction bill should be speeded through without any riders which might hinder its final enactment.

He advanced again the plea of the democrats for a $300,000,000 tax slash as opposed to the $200,000,000 limitation set by the administration, and said that "we are going to send that bill to the president so that he must approve it or veto it on its rate merits alone," he recalled the statement of the chamber of commerce of the United States for a $400,000,000 tax cut and said he indorsed its experts as against the treasury expetts.

However, the Mississippi senator did say he believed the democrats would favor a revision of tariff rates on farm products if proposed for some other bill than the tax measure, but he thought that legislation too important to endanger its passage.

SURPLUS AND RESERVE OF FORD MOTOR CO. DECLINES

BOSTON, April 18—(AP)—The surplus and reserve accounts of the Ford Motor company declined nearly $50,000,000 during the year 1927, the annual report of the company for that calendar year filed today with the Massachusetts department of corporations and taxation showed.

These two accounts combined at the close of last year amounted to $668,593,092, compared with $716,593,846 on December 31, 1926.

The company closed its plant during the year while experimenting with models of cars now being prepared. The report filed today with Henry W. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation, was interpreted at the state house as indicating that the expense of developing of the new models and of keeping the various plants in condition during their idle period cost approximately $50,000,000.

This conclusion was based on the assumption that the old model T cars were manufactured at a profit during the first half of 1927.

CONTEST PROBABLE OVER D. A. R. ELECTION OF OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—Evidences of opposition to the national officers and policies of the Daughters of the American Revolution accumulated rapidly at the 37th Continental congress today in spite of the repeated emphatic protestations of allegiance made in public statements by leaders of many state delegations.

The regular business, however, continued as scheduled, with addresses on foreign relations and reports from state regents.

A warning against either diplomatic or trade relations with soviet Russia, made in an address by Silas Blake Axtell, New York lawyer, was greeted by the congress with repeated applause.

The persistent silence of Mrs. Helen Tufts Baillie, of Boston, as to the intention of her sympathizers among the official delegates, has stirred increasing conjecture throughout the congress. Mrs. Baillie, an outspoken critic of the present regime, is not a delegate and has not attended the sessions although she has been in Washington since the opening meeting. It is known that a number of women among the official delegates are, as individuals, in sympathy with Mrs. Baillie's committee of protest.

THREE MEN KILLED IN CONSTRUCTION ACCIDENTS

BOSTON, April 18—(AP)—Three men were killed today in two construction accidents at the new Sears-Roebuck building in the Back Bay district. A fourth suffered injury.

Robert Ashe, of Revere, a carpenter, was killed when a cement column fell three floors, striking him on the head. Some hours later a temporary flooring on the third floor, supporting two cement hoppers, gave way. Six men who were on the floor at the time were buried down. Luciano Friesco, of East Boston and James Ciaccio, of Boston were killed. Paul Lepare, of Cambridge, was badly hurt, but three others escaped with minor bruises.

Medical Examiner George B. McGrath of Suffolk county, who had been called to view the body of Ashe, had a narrow escape in the second accident when two of the men fell into the courtyard beside him.

ATTEMPTS BY BIRGER TO COMMIT SUICIDE

BENTON, Ills., April 18—(AP)—Charley Birger, gang leader who jeered at prospects of death on the gallows, made two attempts to end his life in the county jail here in the past few days, John W. Smith, deputy United States marshal told the Associated Press here tonight. Birger is scheduled to be hanged here tomorrow.

Birger tried to hang himself in his cell in the Franklin county jail early this morning. The other was an effort to end his life by poison and failed because he swallowed too much of the poison.

GEORGETOWN REGISTERS PROLONGED EARTHQUAKES

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—The Georgetown university seismograph began registering earthquake shocks at 2:34 p. m., today and at 4:45 p. m. the instrument was still recording.

Father Tondorf said that the tremors reached their greatest intensity between 3:04 and 3:10 p. m. He estimated the distance to be about 4200 miles in a southerly or southwesterly direction.

BEQUESTS IN THE WILL OF CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)—Chauncey M. Depew, railroad executive, orator and humorist, who died April 5 left $1,000,000—the largest single bequest of a total exceeding $2,200,000—to Yale university, his Alma Mater. The bequest carried no restrictions.

Filing of the will today of the former United States senator and chairman of the board of the New York Central railroad, directed distribution of an estate, the value of which is not yet known, between his school, relatives, servants and the village of Peekskill, where he was born nearly 94 years ago.

His native village received $100,000 in trust for educational and other purposes, and a sum is provided for maintenance of the Depew mausoleum at Peekskill where he is buried.

Mr. Depew's second wife, May Palmer, in lieu of dower rights receives $200,000 in accordance with ante-nuptial agreement made December 27, 1901, a further bequest of $150,000, one half the residuary estate during life, and some personal effects.

The Brownstone family home in West 54th street, where he died, is left to his son, Chauncey M. Depew, Jr., who also receives $200,000 in cash, one fourth the residuary estate outright and the income of one fourth the residuary estate during life. Mrs. Depew's half of the residuary estate on her death will go to him and his children, if there are any.

The will, dated January 26, 1928, stipulates that Yale university shall share in several trusts in the event of death of direct legatees or those whom Mr. Depew has specified as their beneficiaries.

TWO HARTFORD PLANES LANDED IN MURRAY BAY

HARTFORD, April 17—(AP)—Lieut. Carl A. Dixon and Sergeant Charles Arnold, of Hartford, and Lieut. Crocker Snow, of Boston, landed in Murray Bay, 90 miles from Quebec, in the two Fairchild cabin monoplanes of the L. and H. Aircraft company today, according to word received by Lieut. Osmond M. Mather tonight. With Lieuts. Dixon and Snow as pilots and Sergeant Arnold as mechanic, the two ships each carried a reporter and photographer of a New York newspaper. Commandant James Fitzmaurice was also at Murray Bay tonight.

The Hartford planes hopped off at Boston, Mass., about 5 a. m., Wednesday for the plains of Abraham at Quebec, and after refueling, continued on their trip north. The flyers, who left Brainard field Tuesday afternoon for Boston, had provisioned their planes and provided themselves with skis in that city Tuesday night.

Lieut. Mather too kone of the planes to Boston today, as Lieut. Snow had returned to his home Tuesday after plans for the northern flight had been temporarily abandoned. Although Lieut. Mather was prepared to continue to Murray Bay, Lieut. Snow was willing to act as pilot as originally planned, even though the dates of the trip had been changed.

No further word has been received in Hartford of the plans of the local flyers. When they left Hartford, however, they had orders from New York to establish a base at Murray Bay and fly from there to Greenly Island where the trans-Atlantic plane, the "Bremen" is stranded, taking pictures of the plane and the island.

RENEWED ACTIVITIES OF BANDITS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, April 18—(AP)—El Universal Grafico today reported renewed bandit activities and train attacks in the Patzcuaro region of the state of Michoacan, center of numerous rebel and bandit movements during the past year.

Federal soldier guards on trains have been increased, the paper said, following dynamiting of two bridges near that town.

At Chalco, a village near Mexico City, police today arrested two leaders and four members of a gang said to have been responsible for recent highway depredations between Mexico City, Puebla, and Cuernavaca.

NINE NUNS AND PRIEST HELD IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, April 18—(AP)—Despite the representations of the Spanish legation nine Spanish nuns and a Catholic priest named Larenata were being held at police headquarters tonight. They were brought to the capitol today from Vera Cruz. Presumably they are to be charged with violating the religious laws.

The Spanish legation here has begun efforts to obtain their freedom.

STRUCK WITH HEART ATTACK WHILE IRONING

PITTSFIELD, Mass., April 18—(AP)—Stricken with a heart attack while ironing today, Miss Carrie Greattrex, was asphyxiated when the gas iron became disconnected as she fell into a chair.

Miss Greattrax had lived in Pittsfield 40 years. Her only known living relative is a sister, Mrs. Mary G. Hurd, of New York.

Bogigian's Criticism of New Haven Road

Questions the Ability of the Road to Pay the 1 Per Cent Dividend Recently Declared.

NEW HAVEN, April 18—(AP)—The ability of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to pay the one per cent dividend recently declared upon its common stock, after many non-dividend years, was questioned by Magop Bogigian, of Washington, D. C., a stockholder, at the annual meeting today. Mr. Bogigian in recent years has been a critic of the New Haven road's financial and operating management, often occupying the floor for long periods in his remarks directed at President E. J. Pearson and other officers. Today he expressed an opinion that the dividend had not been earned.

A reply to Mr. Bogigian's question as to whether or not the dividend was out of earnings came from Vice President E. G. Buckland, who said the road had ability to pay that dividend and that the profit and loss surplus account of the road was $2,500,000.

Mr. Bogigian debated with energy the statement of Mr. Buckland, and then turned his attention to President Pearson remarking that he doubted if the latter really earned the $50,000 salary he was paid.

Arthur Twining Hadley, a director, president-emeritus of Yale university, next received Mr. Bogigian's attention, and in a brief passage of words the latter shouted: "You may be a great college professor but as a railroad man you are a joke."

Two others momentarily made comment on the road's annual report and the amplifying statement which President Pearson read. James MacMasters, of Elizabeth, N. J., gave an opinion that the New Haven road had had many losses through its bookkeeping methods.

Calm was restored and the stockholders elected a directorate, authorized issuance and sale of $31,000,000 principal of first and refunding mortgage 4 1-2 per cent forty year gold bonds, and other items of business by a vote of 1,359,297 shares of stock.

President Pearson in his statement said that if one-half only of the benefits resulting from efficiency and economy in recent years could have been retained for stockholders satisfactory dividends could have been paid. The fact has been that expenses increased more rapidly than revenues and those benefits were lost.

Two developments requiring serious consideration of stockholders were, elimination of grade crossings, and the continued pressure for reductions in rate, the president said. Neither is in fairness warranted and each threatens to prevent or decrease dividends, he added.

BODY OF SERVICE MAN FOUND IN HARBOR AT GLOUCESTER

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., April 18—(AP)—The body of a man dressed in clothing typical of the United States submarine service, was found floating in the harbor here today off Railroad wharf. Two Gloucester fishermen rowing ashore from their schooner which put in here this afternoon, saw the body and landed it on the wharf.

The body was that of a man about 5 feet, 8 inches tall, and weighing 155 pounds. It was clad in a blue jacket, heavy sweater and navy trousers with gloves on the hands, and had been in the water a long time. Medical Examiner Clarence P. Curley said. The only possible indication mark appeared to be a tattooed kewpie doll on the left forearm.

The medical examiner ordered the body sent to a local undertaker's and forwarded all available information to the navy yard at Boston. He was advised that the only three men officially listed as missing from the navy lists in this section were the three who disappeared from the navy tug Mohave when she went ashore on Harding's Ledge off Boston last February, while returning from S-4 salvage operations off this port. Every member of the S-4 crew was accounted for.

TOLD FALL'S SON-IN-LAW HE WAS NOT TELLING WHOLE STORY

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—After facing a fire of questioning from four members of the senate Teapot Dome committee, for nearly three hours, Clarence C. Chase, of El Paso, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, was bluntly told by Chairman Nye today that the committee did not believe he was telling the whole story of his knowledge of Fall's financial transactions with Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair.

The North Dakota senator referred especially to Chase's failure to give details of the conversation he had with his father-in-law late in 1923, when Chase was sent to Washington to appear before the committee in the oil inquiry in place of the former interior secretary, who then was ill at his home at Three Rivers, N. M.

REQUISITIONS ISSUED BY GOVERNOR TRUMBULL

HARTFORD, April 18—(AP)—Governor Trumbull issued two requisitions on Governor Smith, of New York today for the return of men wanted by the Stamford police for the theft of an automobile. The men are Frank Di Justo and Frank Maddaluna. Daniel Hanrahan was appointed to bring both men to this state.

Discrepancies Found in Murder Confession

Discrepancies in Statement of the Slaying of Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills at Brunswick, N. J.

EN RENO, Okla., April 18—(AP)—A confession to the killing of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, near Brunswick, N. J., September 14, 1922, was signed in the county jail here today by Elwin F. Allen, 28 years old, who recently was converted by a religious meeting in the jail.

The confession, supplemented by a written statement to W. F. Morrison, county attorney of Canadian county, says that he was paid $7,000 for the killing by an Elizabeth, N. J., dentist, who, it says, was a relative of Mrs. Mills. It says that Allen's common law wife held Mrs. Mills while Allen shot her. The woman's name is not revealed, but Allen late today gave Morrison the name of his other alleged accomplice, which Morrison is withholding until he has communicated with Frances L. Bergen, prosecutor of pleas of Somerville, N. J.

County authorities were checking Allen's story tonight with records of the case. They had found some discrepancies, notably that Allen had placed the killing in 1921 when it occurred in 1922, and that he mentioned a make of motor car used in the slayings that had not been placed on the market at that time. They said however they were impressed by correlation of details in the confession with facts of the case.

Allen, who has a long criminal record in the east and southwest, is held in jail here on a charge of burglary. The story, following a restless night in his cell, was poured out to the county attorney, after Allen had called W. W. Hutchen, night jailer, to his cell to tell him "I am tired of this kind of living and I'm going to cough up the whole works."

Allen said he would waive extradition to New Jersey.

LIQUOR EXHIBITS BARRED FROM GUILFOYLE TRIAL

HARTFORD, April 18—(AP)—The attempt of the state to introduce as exhibits more than 100 bottles of wine, beer and other liquors, and the dramatic story of Mrs. Algernon S. Way, a state witness, were the high lights in an otherwise dull day in the trial of Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle for the murder of Mrs. Maximin Gaudet, on January 18, outside the Guilfoyle apartment.

Presiding Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, who with Judges Allyn L. Brown and Christopher Avery, is trying the case in superior court, proved to be the obstacle which the state could not surmount in its attempts to introduce the liquor found in the Guilfoyle flat. When State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn attempted to remove the sheet which covered the bottles, while John T. Robinson, chief defense counsel was registering an objection to their admission as evidence, he was reminded by Judge Marvin that the case was being tried by three judges and not by a jury. Alcorn finally gained permission to have the bottles marked for identification and court recessed while the task was performed.

Mrs. Way with her story of Guilfoyle registering alarm when informed that the police were on their way to the apartment after the murder, was easily the most important witness of the day.

Attempts to definitely place Mrs. Gaudet, Mr. and Mrs. Guilfoyle, Mr. and Mrs. Way and Mary Patience Gaudet, immediately after the shooting, brought out several conflicting stories.

THREE RELATIVES OF MRS. KNAPP TO TESTIFY TODAY

ALBANY, N. Y., April 18—(AP)—Three of seven relatives of former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp, who are accused of having done little or no work on the 1925 state census, although they received a total of more than $25,000 in salaries, arrived in Albany early tonight to testify tomorrow before the grand jury investigating Mrs. Knapp's conduct of the enumeration.

The three who reached here tonight were Mrs. Helen B. Smith, her husband Charles Hubbell Smith, a brother of Mrs. Knapp, and Miss Julia A. Smith, a sister. The latter two left Bedford, Mass., where they are now living, early today, and came by automobile. Mr. Smith, who during the period of the census was principal of the high school in Hornell, N. Y., was shown by census records to have received $4,711.92, while his sister, who was at the time a nurse in Syracuse N. Y., received $3,560.

SOLD BOOTLEG CHEESE AT A DOLLAR A POUND

DANBURY, April 18—(AP)—Putting over bootleg cheese at a dollar a pound is the newest swindle brought to the attention of the police here.

Two men driving an automobile with a New York license, visited Italian residents and storekeepers with samples of a high-grade imported cheese. The usual price was $2 a pound, they said, but they would sell their stock for half of this price.

They did a big business, but when the purchasers sampled the product tonight they found it was a concoction of potatoes made to resemble cheese.

One man who purchased $20 worth complained to the police but no trace of the men was found in town.

LONG, DESTRUCTIVE EARTHQUAKES CAUSES PANIC IN BULGARIAN CITIES

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 18—(AP)—Earthquake shocks occurred first shortly after 9 o'clock tonight and continuing throughout the early part of the night has wrought great destruction in at least two Bulgarian cities.

Philippopolis (Plovdiv), less than 100 miles southeast of here, was perhaps hardest hit, but Sofia, too, was known to have suffered considerably.

At Philippopolis a number of large buildings are known to have fallen and some big fires started in various parts of the city. Dispatches state that inhabitants are panic stricken and remaining out-of-doors, fearing the shocks, which are reported as still continuing, will bring their homes about their heads. The city was described as in complete darkness due to damage to the electric works and it was feared there had been a large loss of life, but as a consequence of the darkness nothing could be ascertained.

At Sofia three distinct shocks were felt, the first at 9:25 p. m., and two of lesser intensity immediately afterwards. Inhabitants of the city immediately rushed into the streets in great terror. Most of the city's population was spending the night in the streets, fearing to reenter their homes. A check on damage was being made.

From Haskovo reports were received of considerable damage, but details were lacking. It appeared that the shocks were centered about the Philippopolis district with the entire area between Sofia, Philippopolis and Tchirpan badly shaken.

FITZMAURICE TO WAIT FOR HIS GERMAN COMPANIONS

The Major is to Remain at Murray Bay For Repair Parts For the Bremen, Take Then to Greenly Island and Fly Out With His Companions For New York—Propeller of the Sister Ship 13 Has Been Removed and Will Be Shipped to Greenly Island and Be Fitted on the Bremen.

By the Associated Press

The Irish member of the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen was back in civilization today awaiting repair parts with which to return to the crippled ship and his ice-locked German companions at Greenly Island.

When the repairs are completed, the reconditioned ship with its three-man crew reunited, will resume its flight from the tiny Quebec island, to Mitchel Field, N. Y.

These developments, announced yesterday by Major James Fitzmaurice, cleared up the uncertainty and conjecture which have attended the projected completion of the hop ever since the Bremen made a forced landing at Greenly Island last Friday.

T. A. Smiddy, minister of the Irish Free State, received a telephone call in New York from Fitzmaurice stating the major would wait at Murray Bay, Que., for repair parts for the Bremen, take them back to Greenly Island and fly out, with Baron Von Huenefeld and Captain Koehl.

Grover Whalen, chairman of Mayor James J. Walker's committee for the reception of distinguished visitors to New York, also received a telegram sent from Clark City, Que., by Fitzmaurice, in which the Irish flier asked that the impression that he was enroute to New York alone be corrected. He said he was on his way to Murray Bay, Que., to arrange for spares to repair the Bremen and conduct business on behalf of Von Huenefeld and Koehl. He added that he would return to Greenly Island today.

Fitzmaurice landed on Lake Ste. Agnes, Que., yesterday after a two day flight from Greenly Island. The lake is 12 miles from Murray Bay, a popular watering place on the Gulf of St. Lawrence only 90 miles from Quebec.

Meanwhile the Junkers plane F-13, sister ship of the Bremen, returned to Curtiss Field, N. Y., last night and orders immediately were given for the removal of its propeller, which Pilot Fred Melchior said would be shipped by train to Murray Bay. He said a new propeller, now being made, would be fitted to the F-13 and the ship flown back to Montreal.

JAP 15 MINUTES AHEAD OF HIS ROUND-WORLD SCHEDULE

HADLEY FIELD, South Plainfield, N. J., April 18—(AP)—Tsichiro Araki, racing eastward around the world from Tokyo, arrived here at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, 15 minutes ahead of schedule as a passenger in a trans-continental air mail plane. He stepped into a waiting automobile and started for New York, the first major objective on his way.

Soon after Araki sailed from Japan on April 6, Ryukichi Matsui, the other contestant for prizes offered by the Jiji Shimpo, Tokyo newspaper, began his westward journey by way of Siberia. He was believed to be nearing Moscow tonight.

Landing in Vancouver from the steamer Empress of Asia, Araki flew to Seattle and from there went by train to San Francisco, where his trans-continental flight began. The contestants are limited to existing regular transportation services.

The acting consul of Japan at New York met Araki as he stepped from the plane and gave him the first signature to certify his passing.

Araki was also required to obtain signatures of Mayor James J. Walker and an official of the Associated Press. The Jiji Shimbo is a member of Nippon Simbun Rengo (Associated Press of Japan).

The race is for the double purpose of showing the advanced methods of public transportation today and to carry goodwill to the countries thus linked more closely together.

TEXTILE STRIKERS AT MASS MEETING IN NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 18—(AP)—Some 500 persons, mostly strikers attended the mass meeting of the textile mill committees held in Elm rink this afternoon. Addresses were made by Secretary-Organizer W. L. Murdoch, Gus Deak, of Passaic, Fred Biedenkapp of Passaic, Juliette S. Poyntz, formerly of the International Garment Workers of New York, now allied with the textile mill committees, and James P. Reid, of Providence who acted as chairman of the meeting.

All made appeals to the workers to join an organization to strike for a 20 per cent increase in wages, for a five day work week, and one big union. Cards were distributed at the close of the meeting, signatures of those who wished to join in the textile mill committees to be left at the new office of the organization here. About 100 took cards. There was no disturbance.

A special meeting of the textile council has been called for Friday night to discuss Senator A. M. Bassett's proposition relative to the advisability of filing a revolve authorizing the governor to appoint a special commission of five persons to investigate the New Bedford textile strike.

GRAFT HEARING OF GROTON, MASS., OFFICIALS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 18—(AP)—Testimony as to the payment of graft money was given today in superior court here in connection with the trial of several Groton town officials and residents on indictments for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and to corrupt town officials.

Edward Leavitt, former chief of police, one of three men who have pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence, said he received money amounting to $400 in a year and a half for "fixing up" the cases of students at the Groton school, an exclusive school for boys. He said Selectman Frank A. Torrey, one of those on trial, had been counsel for the school and obtained an abatement of taxes for the institution.

Questioned regarding his bank deposits, the largest of which was $300, Leavitt said the money came from bootleggers.

PHYSICAL EXAMS. FOR CHILDREN WHO WORK

HARTFORD, April 18—(AP)—The state of Connecticut, as Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill reads a succession of laws beginning in 1909, is convinced that the interests of society require a physical examination of children between 14 and 16 years old before the state permits them to labor in mechanical, mercantile or manufacturing establishments. On this assumption he has advised George R. Sturges, director of attendance and employment of the state board of education, that the town of Stafford must pay bills for physical examination of children applying for working certificates.

Stafford refused to pay on advice of the late Joel Reed when he was town counsel, and a subsequent opinion by Town Counsel Willis Reed on the ground that a 1925 law which amended a 1921 law to require the child to appear physically fit instead of not appearing physically unfit, neglected to specify that a physical examination was necessary in all cases and to make provision for the expense of such examination being borne by the town as provided by a 1919 law.

TWO WORKMEN KILLED IN CAVE-IN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)—Two men known were to have been killed tonight when thirteen workmen were buried in the cave-in of an excavation for a new subway at Broadway and 171st street.

An hour after the accident occurred rescue workers had removed the bodies of two unidentified men. Two others removed from the excavation were taken to Columbus hospital suffering from compound fractures of the legs.

Police said they feared the death toll might reach ten.

The excavation is part of the Washington Heights extension of the new Eighth avenue subway, now under construction. The cave-in was believed to have been caused by the dislocation of a large boulder.

Rescue workers, who entered the excavation at Broadway and 174th street, reported the cave-in occurred about 40 feet under ground near 171st street. They said that water in the cut hampered rescue work.

HOUSE MAY VOTE TODAY ON FLOOD CONTROL BILL

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—Debate of the senate's Mississippi flood control bill went on today on and off the house floor with President Coolidge's objections to the measure remaining the paramount issue.

On the house floor the question of community contribution to the cost of project desired by the president, occupied nearly a dozen speakers during a second five-hour session, while behind the doors of Chairman Madden's appropriations committee room he and other republican leaders met with representatives from Mississippi states in an effort to gain their consent to a revision of the bill's financial phases.

When the day had closed and all conferences were over, there were no indications that the contending factions had reached an agreement. It did seem fairly certain, however, that the question would reach the voting stage tomorrow with the expiration of the 12-hour debate program.

In 1921 Mr. Armour was reputed worth $120,000,000. When he died in London last year he was worth very little, and there was a debt of $18,000,000 to Armour & Co., of whose board he was chairman, and liability for the payment of $7,000,000 worth of bonds of the Sutter Basin corporation.

"There's one born every minute" mused James Lynch, 74, of Lynn, Mass., referring to the proverbial sucker as he proceeded to cash in per earnings from a scheme of purchasing rings from a five and ten cent store and selling them for 50 cents or a dollar on the street. This profiteering racket was proving a good one for Lynch until he clinched a sucker in the shadow of the police station. This customer was a good one too, for Lynch disposed of his ten cent flasher for a dollar. Meanwhile Officer Arthur Hurley had been watching the bargaining and when the sale was completed he came out and was approaching Lynch when the latter bolted and raced up High street. After a lively run the man was arrested and in police court this morning he pleaded guilty to violation of a city ordinance by peddling without a license. He was fined ten dollars and costs, amounting to $17.66.

KID SHERMAN APPEARS—HAS BEEN IN TRAINING

The boxing fans have been worrying about Kid Sherman, featherweight star of the village. Nothing has been heard from him in two months and many thought his gloves were put away for good. But at his training room at the Sea Bird plant, along with his manager, Tom Duncan McDonald, the featherweight is still at work, skipping rope and shadow boxing, getting up at 5:30 in the morning for a four-mile run with Deer Suison, who is training for his meet with Norwich F. A. Deer Suison shows how it is done. Then down to Rogers' dock into the row boat for a short row of two miles; next in his green bathing suit for a swim across the channel in the cold April water. Manager McDonald is afraid the star boxer will get a cold, but a good old-fashioned rub-down by Walter Welles, his trainer, for 20 minutes, warms him up. Then over to the breakfast table to interview the cook, Miss Mollie Deane, and a wagon-load of Riverside avenue Johnnycakes with Karo; also a small dish of Pep, which makes him light on his feet. Only water to drink—for the cook claims black coffee makes his wind short. So Kid Sherman gets all set for his sparring mates. The first one to go on with the hard hitter was Left Jab Denton Holliday from High street, a fellow who fights from the ropes and a hard man to hit, for five rounds. With a rush came Kid Sherman from his corner to end it quickly, but Left Jab Holliday was on to his tricks and kept away from Sherman. In the fourth round, a hard right to the body and a cross to the jaw, sent the pride of High street to the land of many dreams for several minutes, adding a K. O. to his list. Next came Left Hook Billie Fitzgerald, of Old Mystic, a boy who can hit with both hands, for a six-round bout. Smiling Kid Sherman knew it would be a battle. In the third round, a hay-maker from Fighting Sherman sent Left Hook Billie to the floor. It looked like a knockout but when Referee Bennett counted nine up got the game boy from Old Mystic, keeping away from Noank's star boxer until the round was over. In the final round, Left Hook Fitzgerald put over an Old Mystic uppercut, followed by a hard right on the chin, that sent him down for the count of ten. Manager McDonald got the smelling salts that put the fighter on his feet again and he said, "Gee! that was some punch! I saw a million stars! Never hit so hard in my life." The last match was for four rounds with Spike Panciera, a black-haired boy with a mean left, from the east side of New York. Kid Sherman was mad and the one two punch landed on Spike's chin. Down he went for the count, no match for the star fighter. "Now bring on that big boy, Buck Shaw, from the city of Bridgeport! For nothing I will fight, to show him that Kid Sherman knows the boxing game! And if I cannot win in two rounds, I will put the gloves away for good. Mr. Matchmaker, try me and see. I know a thing or two with the mitts!"

WILL RECEIVE BIDS TUESDAY FOR HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 18—Next Tuesday the state highway department is to receive bids for the construction of considerably over a mile of concrete highway to be built in this town from where the present concrete road ends a mile north of Attawaugan to a point south of that village. The specifications call for the construction of 7534 feet of highway.

This contract is one of many, some of which have been completed and more to be let, that eventually will give an all-concrete highway southward from Putnam through Danielson and Plainfield into Norwich, onto New London and New Haven. Many miles of this highway already have been built. The road starts at South Main and Grove streets in Putnam and has been constructed for a distance of about four miles southward. Another stretch of it begins at the south end of Davis park in Danielson and runs northward something over two miles to the bridge over the Whitestone brook at Elmville. Still another section of it has been built through the central part of Central Village and four miles more of it in Plainfield from near the top of Hopkins hill to a point just above Bishop's crossing.

When the new contract in Killingly is completed sometime late next summer the only break in the straight run of concrete between Danielson and Putnam will be northward from the bridge at Elmville to a point south of Attawaugan, a distance of less than two miles.

Another contract for which bids will be received Tuesday is for the cut-off from Main, at Hutchins streets in Danielson, eastward to the Masserelle place on the Providence road, 7051 feet of bituminous macadam.

This road construction work promises opportunity for employment for many laborers in town for the next few months, and that is an encouraging feature of the activities of the state highway department.

FRENCH REPUBLICAN CLUBS TO HOLD MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 18—The membership campaign for the French Republican clubs of Windham county will get into full swing in the near future, now that the state convention of the party has been held at Hartford. The county organization has been perfected with Attorney Harry Gaucher of Willimantic as president, Michael Daigle of Putnam vice president, Attorney Louis A. Woisard of Danielson secretary, Edmond Mercier of Plainfield assistant secretary, Alma Forcier of Goodyear treasurer, A. J. Dery of North Grosvenordale and Arthur Plessis of Putnam auditors.

The present members of the county organization are representative of about all the communities in Windham county. These members are now provided with application blanks and it is anticipated that the membership will run into the hundreds when the county organization meets again on May 20, at a place yet to be selected.

It is established that there is a great deal of enthusiasm for the republican party and its policies among the French speaking voters of this part of eastern Connecticut, and the promise is that they will be very active in the national campaign that will get underway early in the summer. No such organization as this one is recalled in this part of the state, and it seems certain of having a great deal of influence among the special group of voters to which it will directly appeal.

DATE FOR TRIAL OF LALONE AND RAYMOND NOT SETTLED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 20—There continued to be uncertainty today as to just when Roland G. Lalone and Albert G. Raymond will be brought back into Connecticut to face a murder charge in connection with the killing of State Officer Irving H. Nelson, nearly a fortnight ago. It is possible that as long as another week may elapse—possibly longer—before the state of Connecticut receives its opportunity to deal with them.

One thing that appears definitely settled is that the Springfield police will readily turn the prisoners over to Connecticut officers regardless of the fact that they are wanted in Massachusetts to face charges arising out of their activities as members of the ice-box gang of bandits. Extradition will be necessary, but, again, no difficulty is anticipated in these proceedings.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart of the Danielson barracks is heading the check-up being conducted by Connecticut state officers, and this is said to be practically complete.

It is forecasted that Lalone and Raymond are going to be well fortified with legal talent when they go to trial in this state for murder. The prisoners appear to be in a position to easily finance the heavy cost they must face in battling for their lives in Connecticut.

The two prisoners are said to remain as sullen and silent as they have been at all times since their arrest in Worcester a week ago. It is taken for granted that they are not going to do much talking—not for the present, at least.

Beginning next Sunday the congregation of the Moosup Baptist church is to hold services in Masonic hall in that place, pending a decision as to what is to be done relative to building a church to replace the one that was destroyed by fire last Friday. At a meeting of the members of the church and the society early this week a resolution was adopted expressing the desire to build a new church. With this attitude definitely ascertained, a committee will engage in investigating as to costs and resources and report at a later date.

This forenoon fire swept through a woodlot owned by Harris E. Arnold near Goodyear and for a time reached such proportions as to create apprehension as to its getting away out of control and burning buildings in the vicinity. However, no buildings were damaged. Men came from the mill at Goodyear to assist those already battling the fire. A report became current here that the fire was in the vicinity of ice stacked on the shores of Alexander's lake for use in Danielson and other communities, but this was wholly unfounded.

Recently elected officers of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church are: President, Mrs. Sidney S. Stone; first vice-president, Miss Emma F. Pilling; second vice-president, Mrs. Florence Potter; secretary, Mrs. Harriet L. Paine; treasurer, Mrs. William J. Young; directresses, Mrs. A. P. Burns, Mrs. A. F. Wood, Mrs. Jennie Martin, Mrs. Joseph Dyson and Mrs. Annie Stockton.

Early catches indicate that this is to be one of the best years in a decade for creels of large trout. Strings taken also are unusually large, notwithstanding the cold weather. Numbers of men resident here and in this vicinity already have caught trout weighing between a pound and a pound and a half, some men getting several large ones. This is regarded as somewhat strange in view of the fact that the latter part of last year's open season yielded practically no large trout, though skilled anglers fished diligently for them.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department was in Boston yetserday attending the dedication of the new headquarters building of the fire department in that city.

Invitations came to local people today, through the state board of education and the faculty of the school to visit and inspect the State Trade school at Putnam on Tuesday evening of next week.

This afternoon the spring musicale of the Killingly Woman's club in the parish house of the Westfield Congregational church proved a delightful affair.

More grass fires were reported from surrounding territory this afternoon. Because of the lack of rain the present condition in woods and fields is considered especially dangerous.

Already a few stragglers from the ranks of the striking workers in New Bedford have come into this territory seeking work in cotton mills.

Some advance pickings of cowslips—the first seen in Danielson this season—were brought in today by men who had been out trout fishing.

PUTNAM

DAYLIGHT TIME FOR PUTNAM—CHAMBER DIRECTORS' CHOICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 18—Putnam people are to observe daylight saving time during the summer months, the clocks to be moved ahead one hour on April 28, the official opening date for the change from standard to daylight time. This move was taken at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce Monday evening, when it was voted to push the clocks ahead at midnight, April 28. Mayor Charles A. Richard stated that no action had been taken by the city council on the matter, but he thought that the time for the summer months should be as it has been in past years unless any wave of disapproval rises against daylight time.

The public schools of the city, as in former years, will operate on the new time schedule, but the high school will remain on standard time, as was the custom last year. This was done so as to accommodate the pupils of Pomfret and Eastford, as these towns always remain on standard time.

STORE OWNER MISSES TRAIN—GOODS FOUND ON SIDEWALK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 18—Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police and officers of the local police were called last night to investigate why retail goods were left in front of a certain grocery store on Main street after the owner had shut up shop. The excited voice of a woman on the telephone brought Captain Jarvis and the members of his posse in a hurry. After an investigation of the exterior nature of the case, the captain and his men forced an entrance by breaking a lock. Leaving no box unturned, Captain Bill decided that the owner had left his goods on the street by mistake and had gone home.

On the way out of the building the officers were met by the owner, who was no less a personage than Sam Renick, Putnam's pioneer grocery man. Sam was more or less worried and he inquired why the police had damaged his door. Captain Bill answered, "We were told, Sam, that you had done away with yourself and we came to see if we could save you." Mr. Renick was quoted as saying, "No, captain, I have been out of town today, but I missed a train and was late in returning, so I could not take my wares from the street." The captain and his men chuckled as Sam went on, "I'll fool you fellows the next time." The police officers returned to their headquarters satisfied that Mr. Renick's disappearance was caused only by missing a train.

ROTARY MEMBERS GIVEN TWO INTERESTING ADDRESSES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 18—The regular noon-day luncheon of the Putnam Rotary club was held at the Putnam Inn Wednesday noon. The after-dinner speakers this week were C. D. Sharpe and Judge M. H. Geissler of the Putna Building and Loan association. Mr. Sharpe spoke interestingly on the development of the Putnam Water company since the plant was purchased by the city. He clearly outlined the procedure of the city water from the time it leaves the reservoir until it reaches the faucet in the homes. Mr. Sharpe also mentioned the needs of the water company at the present time. Mr. Geissler spoke along the lines of the firm that he represented, explaining the advantages of an investor in the Putnam Building and Loan association. Both speakers proved interesting to the Rotarians and both were well versed on their subjects.

GENERAL ALARM FROM BOX 36 FOR CHURCH ST. FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 18—The first alarm in 48 hours was received by the fire department Wednesday, that of a general alarm from box 36 on Providence street. The blaze was at the home of Pierre Bonsconi, at 238 Church street. Flames were shooting out from the attic of a two-story building and for a few minutes it looked as if the building and surrounding houses were doomed to burn. The firemen fought their way through the smoke into the upper story of the dwelling and with the use of chemicals were able to overcome the blaze. An investigation by Chief Ralph E. Thurston showed that the fire started in a bureau where some paper-covered books were stored. The fire chief indicated in his report that children and matches were also connected with the fire. The damage to the house was estimated to be about $100. Many gathered at the scene a few moments after the alarm was sounded.

Raymond L. Brown and Miss Harriet M. Farring, both of Burrillville, R. I., were united in marriage Wednesday at the Baptist church parsonage by Rev. H. H. Hodges, pastor of the church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, of Burrillville, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Farring, also of Burrillville.

Miss Katherine Byrne, of Putnam, was named as delegate-at-large to the national republican convention in Kansas City in June. Miss Byrne is vice-chairman of the republican state committee and was also a delegate to the 1924 convention.

Armand Lizotte, of Lizotte's Smart Shop, was a Boston visitor yesterday.

Pierre Benreau, 77, of North Grosvenordale, died at his home there Tuesday after an illness of a few days. He was born in Canada on Jan. 1, 1851. He lived the earlier part of his life in Canada and came to the United States as a young man, working at the textile trade. He settled in North Grosvenordale, where he has lived for many years. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Armand Beaudoiet, who lives in North Grosvenordale.

The local fishermen who have been spending the greater part of their days at the favorite trout brooks were all glad to receive the return of the warm wave on Wednesday, as the thermometer steadily climbed upward to 70 degrees during the afternoon. Although the mercury has remained at a low point for the past week it has not stopped the anglers from tossing their lines out into the stream. Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit stated Wednesday that he has issued over 100 licenses since the first of the week. The game and brook patrol, composed of the deputy game wardens, have been patrolling all brooks in this vicinity and have failed to find any law breakers. No arrests have been made and no licenses have been revoked.

Typewriting speed contests are now being conducted by Miss Elizabeth Smith of the commercial department of Putnam high school, preparing the students for the annual contest with the students of Killingly high school. The meet will be held at Putnam this year on May 11 and the following Putnam high students will compete for the honors: Seniors—Milton Nelson, Simonne LaRose, Blanche Bonin, Evelyn Kaminsky, Emma Hall and Dorothy Morse. Juniors—Aline Tourville, Majorie Steere, Mildred Orwatt, Sadie Simon, Irene DuFresne and Katherine Banhan. The contest was won last year by the students of Killingly high and the Putnam contestants are looking forward to returning the honors to Putnam again.

In accordance with the Massachusetts state daylight saving laws which go into effect on April 28, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad will run all its trains on the daylight saving schedule after that date. The railroad will not push its clocks ahead but will run all trains one hour earlier, as has been the custom in former years.

Banks and schools of the city will not close Thursday, April 19, Patriots' day. The day is not observed in Connecticut as it is in Massachusetts and al of the banking houses will run on their regular schedule today.

JEWETT CITY

WALTER POLOMSKI MISSING—ASHLAND MILL EMPLOYE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 18—Walter Polomski, sixteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Polomski of the River road, Lisbon who disappeared Tuesday night, was still missing Wednesday evening. He attended the movies at Finn theatre, Jewett City Tuesday evening and has not returned to his home since.

He had been employed in Ashland mill, and was laid off Tuesday. He was quite despondent about losing his job, which led the family to believe that, as they found tracks leading to the river, that he had drowned himself. Deputy Sheriff Dolan was notified early Wednesday morning, also the state police at Danielson. State Policeman Scranton informed Officer Dolan that he had talked with a boy of his description in Central Village at midnight, at Thompson's store. The officer and the boy's father went to Central Village Wednesday morning and found a man named Walker who said that he saw the boy walking toward the bridge between six and seven Wednesday morning. There the clue ended. They went to Danielson, Wauregan, Moosup and Plainfield but could find no trace of him. In the afternoon the parents kept up the search in that vicinity. The theory is that the boy may be looking for work. He is a quiet lad, always well behaved and very helpful at home and has helped in several business places in town. He has been in the hospital several times for operations on the nose, and his natural growth has been somewhat under size. The family say he has felt keenly the nick names and unkind slurs which he has to hear from those who give no thought to the effect it has upon the lad, and they give that as one reason why he may have disappeared. He wore a sheepskin coat, dong dark trousers and a gray cap. Mr. Polomski's telephone number is 163-4, if anyone happens to be able to furnish news of the missing boy.

BOY RETURNS ON MOOSUP BUS—TAKEN HOME BY PARENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 18—Polomski returned unexpectedly by bus to Jewett City tonight about 8 o'clock, was noticed by The Bulletin correspondent and was detained here long enough so that when he got the bus members of his family were waiting for him and took him home. He said he had been as far as Moosup; the bus driver stated that the youth got on at Central Village. Officer Veglard had spent a large part of the night and early morning in endeavoring to find some trace of the missing youth. Polomski was nearly exhausted when he reached here and said he had been walking for miles through the night and daytime, looking for work. Sheriff Dolan learned that a man north from here had given him work for the day.

CAMPERS SEEKING WATER GET A BUZZING SURPRISE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 18—At Beach pond, two Jewett City men own a camp on a point of land that extends peninsula-like, out a ways into the water. One morning not long ago, as breakfast was about to be prepared, it was suggested that well-water for the coffee, would be more suitable than the sort of brownish looking liquid from the pond. The water is generally very clear, but an easterly wind blowing all night had rolled it considerably in the small bay near the camp.

Only a short distance away are the Briggs cottages, and near them will be found a pump, with a pipe extending down into what is supposed to be a well. It was agreed to try for water from this source. Strenuous work at the handle failed to produce a drop, the pump wouldn't "suck." A visitor at the camp, secured a pail of water from the pond, and when he poured it down through the top as a "primer," George laid to the handle fifty strokes to the minute. Presently, pouring from out the spout, came not cool water, but an exceedingly hot string of bees all ready for action. It is enough to report that the exodus from those parts was accomplished without delay.

To the Citizens of The Borough of Danielson

The week of April 30 to May 5, both inclusive, is designated as Clean Up Week in the Borough of Danielson. This action is taken in conjunction with the work of the Danielson Chamber of Commerce, to improve conditions within the Towns of Brooklyn and Killingly and within the Borough. Residents are urged to clean up the lawns, back yards, and indeed all premises to them belonging, and the streets, highways and sidewalks adjoining their properties. Such universal action will result in lessening fire hazards, improve health conditions, and further beautify our already attractive municipality. It will also have a tendency to improve conditions here throughout the year. It will, by example and practice, cultivate habits of cleanliness and orderliness among the youth.

The hearty cooperation of all is asked for, and will be appreciated.

Dated at Danielson, Conn., this 14th day of April, A. D. 1928.

TESTING BRAKES AND LIGHTS

In Massachusetts the registrar of motor vehicles has given notice that a statewide spring safety drive this week will involve a testing of brakes and lights of the motor vehicles of the state. That this is of much importance as a move in behalf of greater safety will be generally recognized. Only a few days ago notice was given in Rhode Island that autos must be equipped with good brakes in order to use the highways of that state.

Connecticut feels much the same way about the danger which is created by bad brakes and faulty lights. At certain times the state police make tests in various parts of the state for the purpose of determining how general the compliance with requirements. At other times the state police make free tests of headlights, but it is obligatory for auto owners in many instances to drive many miles in order to take advantage of such examination and at times in the dead of winter, which is not so comfortable when long waits are involved.

There is something about the Massachusetts plan which makes a strong appeal. The state police are required to make these free tests and they go into the various cities of the state to do it. Instead of thousands of cars being driven to one corner of the state the state police are sent to these thousands in the municipal centers. This means a bit of real service to the auto owners aside from the inspection of the brakes and lights. Certainly auto owners of any city would be much more eager to find out about their cars if they had to drive to a point in their own city than they would if obliged to drive to another city where those from many directions would be assembled.

As an aid to greater safety and a means of getting many more interested therein, is there any good reason why state police should not be sent to every city of the state for fixed hours on certain nights to make these tests? Such is done when it comes to enforcement and it would seem to be quite as reasonable that it should be done as a means of prevention, to say nothing of the accommodation.

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK

While no opportunity is lost throughout the year by the advocates of forestry work to press home the arguments in its behalf, special attention is concentrated during American Forest week upon a broader educational effort. The aim is to get thought developed throughout the nation upon the great need of conserving what we have in the way of forests and making provision right now against the future requirements. We have gone along basking in the shade of the belief that we have unlimited resources in this direction only to be rudely awakened by the facts and figures which show that we have been making such inroads into that supply and been so wasteful in our methods that unless we get busy and give more attention to forestry in the utilization of waste land and reforestry in the use of cutover land we face a threatened exhaustion of supply.

Next week will mark the ninth anniversary of the inauguration of American Forest week. There were the days when the northwest was chiefly interested in such an educational movement for protective purposes. That need still exists but it is only a part of the object of the special week, for as President Coolidge says in his proclamation for the week "We already have made a beginning in forest renewal, but the task is stupendous and we should permit no satisfaction over what has been done to blind us to the magnitude of what remains to be done."

The more that is learned of the need and opportunity for planting trees and growing lumber crops the greater will be the response to the situation. We have been going headlong in the other direction for so long that it is hard to realize that there is a limit to our supply. Sending home that realization is taking time but it is making headway. Gradually the problem will be met for it is impossible that we will be forever blind to the outstanding requirements in regard to forestry. It is not the only way in which we find that a steadily growing nation is forced to stop, take inventory and make new provisions in order to meet new conditions into which we have gradually moved. There should be an inspiration in American Forest week for many.

AN ADEQUATE SUPPLY

Just as long as dependence was placed upon hydrogen gas for balloons and airships there was no difficulty in getting an adequate supply. It was to be had also at a low price. But just as long as it was used there was a danger from explosions and fire. The need was for something that would not take fire.

When it was learned that helium was a wonderful substitute for hydrogen, and in addition was non inflammable, difficulties were immediately faced in securing an adequate supply. The demand for it was greater than the supply. Consequently the gas is costly but necessary, and the supply restricted.

As a means of protection, helium has generally replaced hydrogen in the airships of the army and navy. The plant which has supplied it has, however, not been able to keep up with the requirements. The result has been that several airships could not be used because a sufficient amount of helium was not to be had.

Recognizing the fact that all should be properly protected the bureau of mines which has charge of the task of furnishing the helium for the army and navy has awarded the contract for a new plant in Texas to be erected at a cost of $700,000. This means added expense in connection with this important work of supplying the required amount of non-explosive gas but such a plant will be able to meet the needs of the airships so that any and all can be used when wanted. In addition it will be able to store up for future use such quantities of the gas as are not required in connection with immediate operations.

As long as the government stands in need of helium it is a wise step that is being taken in providing a plant which can be relied upon to produce it in sufficient quantities. Unless this can be done the full use of non inflammable gas is not being made although its protective features should mean the toleration of nothing else in those air machines which rely upon gas for their buoyancy.

ANTICIPATING ADJOURNMENT

Fixing the date for the adjournment of congress is about as uncertain as predicting the weather. All would be fine if everything went as it is believed it should. Experience all runs to the contrary.

Thus when it was hoped that business could be wound up by the middle of May it was with the belief that everything would move along smoothly. It was a most optimistic prediction. There probably is no more chance of closing by the middle of May than there is of adjourning by the first of May. The fact is that Chairman Snell of the house rules committee doesn't think that congress will be ready to adjourn until June and he has tentatively set the date at June 8. That will provide time for those who desire to attend the national republican convention opening the 12th while it is quite evident that there would be great difficulty in getting a corporal's guard during the convention periods if congress should not adjourn.

There are certain measures in congress which ought to get attention, but it will depend largely upon the treatment they receive as to whether their adoption by congress will mean presidential approval. If heed is not given to some of the warnings which have been issued it looks very much as if congress would have its work to do over again. It is not only a question of speeding up action but of so governing the legislation that it will be sound and advisable.

With less than two months in which to complete the business congress has so much to do that it should recognize the importance of not wasting time either in wrangling or in putting out legislation which is of a questionable character.

GREENLY ISLAND

A better idea of the conditions under which the occupants of the Junkers plane landed at Greenly Island off the Labrador coast in the strait of Belle Isle is gained from the difficulties which have been encountered by those who have attempted to go to their relief and those who have sought to fly there for the purpose of getting news stories and pictures.

While Greenly island might be a fairly comfortable place in the summer time it would hardly be picked as a landing place for transoceanic fliers if they had any choice in the matter. The more that is learned of their experience and their landing the greater becomes the surprise that they escaped without injury and that their plane is in a condition to be repaired.

When fliers who know the region and are accustomed to flying thereabouts find conditions which force them to turn back it must be realized that the Bremen's crew had no such alternative. They were virtually lost flying about in a dense fog, far off their course and it was a case where it was necessary to make a landing at the most favorable opportunity. Greenly island presented that opportunity but since landing there they have found that it was easier to do that than it was to get away.

There is no possibility that it will become an emergency station for others who undertake a similar flight. The good fortune that was experienced in finding a landing place on the ice was not all that the fliers encountered on their trip but it came at a most opportune time. There are other places which offer more tempting attractions, particularly at this season of the year than Greenly island.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Another month and there will be less timidity about wearing a straw hat.

The man on the corner says: Even if a barking dog doesn't bite he has an unpleasant greeting.

But just as soon as the warm weather gets here it will be impossible to supply the demand for cooler weather.

Putting the tentative date for the adjournment of congress at June 8, it will leave just about enough time to get to the republican convention.

Now the mayor of Chicago declares he will not resign. Did anyone take that threat seriously? It didn't even serve to bring out votes for his candidates.

Greenly island is getting some free advertising which was never contemplated by the island's chamber of commerce, publicity bureau or other civic organizations.

The prediction is made that within a decade airplanes will be making 500 miles an hour. Soon after someone will hitch his plane to a star and overcome future engine trouble.

The United States chamber of commerce is still urging a federal tax cut of $400,000,000, twice as much as the treasury believes possible. Perhaps that discloses why so many business men fail.

Maine, Vermont, Connecticut Virginia and North Carolina are all hopeful the president may be desirous of spending his vacation within their borders, but the decision within their borders, but the decision rests with the president and he hasn't decided where it will be.

BUGS ELEVENTH HOUR

Babs Baker had said "yes" to Jerry James just two minutes before the limited pulled out of the station with Jerry James on it. "Be back in a month," Jerry had called from the observation platform. And Babs had understood that wedding bells would be ringing not later than a week after Jerry's return.

Now, most girls in Babs' place would have started right in filling the cedar chest, shopping for the trousseau and looking at kitchenette apartments. But Babs was not "most girls." After casually mentioning to her family that Jerry would be home within a month, she proceeded to make the most of each day's social possibilities. Endless rounds of golf, swimming, dancing and motoring carried her from one dizzy week to another. It wasn't that she forgot Jerry and what his return would mean to them both; but a month gave one so much time for everything!

Then, quite unexpectedly, came a telegram from Jerry. "Month up Friday," it read. "Meet me at station 12 noon. Love, Jerry." Babs blinked surprised eyes, read again the significant scrap of yellow paper and then, in a sudden panic, sought her mother.

"Mother, mother, what day is it?" Mrs. Baker looked up in mild surprise and answered:

"As far as I know, it is Tuesday, Aug. 9. Why?"

"Why, Jerry will be home Friday, and—and—in a week he wants to be married—I haven't started—I thought there'd be lots of time—and—"

"Barbara!" The tone of Mrs. Baker's voice halted Babs' incoherent explanations. "Sit down here and calm yourself, and then tell me precisely what is expected of us at this eleventh hour!"

During the hectic days that followed even Babs began to find drawbacks to her heretofore happy habit of putting things off until the eleven hour. It could make one so breathless, so sort of scared, so—well—so strangely uncomfortable. Fortunately, however, efficient Mrs. Baker took command of the situation.

The day of the wedding dawned cool and bright. Babs, motionless between cool sheets recalled the high tension of the last week. Unbelievable though it seemed, everything was in readiness for the 4 o'clock ceremony. Everything that is, but a shampoo, wave and final fitting on her suit! But—Babs rolled over in bed—there was plenty of time for that.

At 1.35 that afternoon Babs emerged from the beauty parlor and jumped into her roadster. A red tag flapping at the wheel attracted her attention.

"Oh!" gasped Babs in dismay. It was a summons from the traffic policeman to appear at police headquarters at 4 o'clock.

Recklessly Babs sped over to police headquarters and pulled up at the curb in a cloud of dust. Rushing past uniformed and protesting guards, she made her way to the black-gowned figure on the judge's bench.

"I'm early I know" she began "but I have a previous engagement for 4 o'clock which I cannot break—"

"One moment, young lady," rumbled the judge. "Are you aware that your entrance into this courtroom is contrary to court etiquette?"

"Well—I—no—you see, this is my first visit to a place like this. So, you see—" Babs' voice trailed off into silence.

"Show me your ticket," commanded the judge. "Hum,"—after glancing at the incriminating evidence—"parked forty-five minutes over the sixty-minute limit."

"Yes, but—" spluttered Babs, "you see, I was having my hair shampooed and waved." "I see," observed the judge. "But rules are rules and usually they're made for a very good reason."

"But today is an exception," insisted Babs. "The wave had to be especially nice, and—and really, I must go," she ended nervously.

"Must?" the judge raised his eyebrows.

"Yes, I must meet Jerry at 4 o'clock. I promised not to be a minute late."

"But suppose you are detained in court until that time?"

"Oh—please," wailed Babs. "You see, Jerry and everybody else will be waiting for me at St. Martin's church at 4 o'clock. We're getting married!"

"Married!" echoed the judge.

"Yes, now wont you let me go?"

"Young lady, the usual procedure is a $5 fine and costs. But—if you promise that this will be the last offense, I'll make it just $1."

"Oh!" gasped Babs in relief. "You're a dear. Now—will you excuse me if I run along. I've just got time to get my fitting."

The judge grinned after Babs' fleeing figure, then cast a speculative eye upon the courtroom clock. It was exactly 3 o'clock.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

What We Should Eat and Why.

By Emery R. Hayhurst, M. D., Columbus, Ohio, Professor of Hygiene, Ohio State University.

Civilized man's food of today has the following shortcomings—

1. It is apt to lack freshness or recentness of collection; so we must be careful that fresh foods, milk, etc., are carefully inspected and free from parasites and disease germs.

2. It is deficient in vitamines and certain essential salts such as iodine, calcium, potassium, phosphorus, and iron.

3. It is excessive in concentrates, i.e., things made thicker or "stronger" than nature furnishes them.

4. It tends to produce acid in the body rather than basic or alkaline qualities to correspond with our body tissues.

5. It is short on cellulose, or vegetable pulp, and other forms of roughage.

6. It tends to change the kinds of germs which normally live in the intestines and to permit dangerous germs to grow there.

The hill people of India, who live along the slopes of Mt. Everest and the Himalaya Mountains, are reported by McCarrison to have almost none of the diseases of the digestive apparatus which we have, such as acid stomach or heartburn, dyspepsia, ulcer of the stomach, appendicitis, or even cancer of the stomach and bowels. A sense of well-being in their stomach and bowels is their only sensation. We read also that the native island dwellers of the tropical seas, the negro tribes of Africa (Schweitzer), and savage life in general, are very free from these afflictions. Those who have studied these things report that these people, with their native instincts, live on simple foods eaten much as they get them with only a small amount of cooking, baking or roasting, and very little trimming or "refining." It appears that we must get back to a diet much more as nature puts it up, if we would be healthy.

Fruit is nature's substitute for sugar and for our sweet tooth. Nuts also take the place of sweet things very well. Native people do not get sugar. In the entire Coonor district of India, say McCarrison, the natives do not get as much sugar in a year's time as an average-sized American hotel will serve at its restaurant in one day; they also never see such things as chocolate candy, and very little candy of any kind. By religion they do not use alcohol. They are teetotalers.

Nature produces foods of one kind and we have fallen into the habit of eating foods of another kind. For our purpose here, we see that nature's foods are eight in number —1, milk; 2, eggs; 3, grains; 4, vegetables; 5, fruits, including nuts; 6, meat and fish; 7, salts and flavorings; and 8, water. As nature supplies these foods, they are rich in minerals or salts, roughage, juices, and the protective substances called vitamins.

Select your diet widely from all of the natural food products mentioned in the preceding paragraph; get a certain part fresh every day, i. e. not canned, boxed, or bottled; eat the whole slowly and with cheerfulness, leaving your appetite to be your guide, provided you eat slowly. Curtail your appetite on man's changed foods. Drop fads and foolish notions. Chew well, and most dyspepsia will disappear. Don't "diet" except upon medical advice.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Banshee

Mr. Editor: Reverence being made in the April 7th Bulletin, a few lines in regard to this interesting Irish myth may not be out of place.

A little insight into the Irish language will show us that the word Banshee, or as it appears in the Gaelic, Ban sidh, is a compound word of two parts, "ban," meaning white and "siuh," meaning, what may be properly expressed as an apparition. The word ban and its cognates are frequently met in the old Irish names of people and places and always means white or fair or bright. We find the river Bann, rising in Lough Neagh, running north, dividing the County Derry from Antrim and emptying itself in the ocean nearby to Portstewart, County Derry, is well interpreted as the white or fair river.

In the family name of Sullivan, we trace the origin of it in the words "Sull," meaning the eye, and "van" (another form of ban), expressing white or bright. Sullivan, the combined name, meaning the "bright-eyed family." The familiar name, "Colleen Bawn," is another illustration, meaning the fair little lass, or light-haired. The Banshee, however, is not regarded as a sprite nor one of the fairy class, but a peculiar appearance that came only because of some impending disaster or death, of which it gives warning in advance by a peculiar cry or wailing—many stories of her appearances being recorded with such sincerity as to be almost convincing.

The myth of the Banshee—strange to tell—is not confined to Ireland. The aborigines of France have an almost identical myth in their "La Dame Blanche," and the Germans in "Die Weise Frau"—all of which can be properly translated "The White Lady," and all supposed to be charged with the same commission of reporting sorrow. Myths may sometimes be traced back to some actual event. The poets have told us that "coming events cast their shadows before"—and Shakespeare has said, "there are more things in earth and heaven than have been dreamt of in our philosophies." Certainly more than have been yet solved by our philosophies. Mrs. Heemans speaks of "The sudden images of vanished things

That o'er the spirit flash—we know not how!"

We now know only in part, says the Apostle, but when that which is in part is done away, then shall we know even as we are known.

JOHN TROLAND.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

Caused Disfigurement. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out on both of my wrists. It began with an itching sensation, and the skin became dry and scales formed. The itching and burning caused me to scratch and kept me awake much of the night. It caused disfigurement and lasted for about six months.

"I used other remedies without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It relieved the itching and burning so I purchased more, and in four months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Dorothy Bailey, Edgemere Ave., Shawomet, R. I., July 8, 1927.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Howler of the Jungle

Bad reputations oft are found
To rest on nothing more than sound.
—Old Mother Nature

Peter Rabbit and Bobby Coon and Prickly Porky the Porcupine dined that Scrapper the Kingbird tell them about the Howler of the Jungle, way down in the Tropics. It was never to see Prickly Porky taking an interest in anything except the next mouthful of food. You know Prickly Porky seldom pays any attention to anything except his stomach. But some of the visitors who had come down from the far North during the severe winters had told him of Howler the Wolf, so he was interested right away when Scrapper mentioned the Black Howler who lived in the Jungle.

"You say that Howler the Wolf and this Black Howler you have mentioned are not related at all," said Peter Rabbit. "If that is the case, I suppose they don't look at all alike."

Scrapper chuckled. "I don't know whether or not to tell you about Black Howler," said he. "I know absolutely that you are not going to believe me, and I don't like to talk to people who won't believe what I say."

"Of course, we'll believe you!" declared Bobby Coon stoutly. "Haven't I believed you so far, even when you have told me of relatives I didn't know lived and that don't look the least bit like me?"

Scrapper nodded. "Yes, Bobby," said he, "you have surprised me. Really, you have surprised me. And everything I have told you is true. But I am really afraid to tell you about Black Howler, the howler of the Jungle, because I know how very hard it is going to be for you to believe. You never have seen anybody who looks the least bit like that fellow."

"He has four legs, hasn't he?" demanded Bobby.

"Yes," replied Scrapper, "he has four legs."

"And I suppose he has a tail," spoke up Peter Rabbit.

"Certainly!" replied Scrapper. "He has a wonderful tail. My goodness, now he can use that tail!"

Peter was all interested at once. He always is interested in tails. He had opened his mouth to ask another question regarding that tail when Bobby Coon spoke.

"Well," said Bobby testily, "if he's got four legs and a tail, what is there about him that is going to make it so hard for us to believe what you tell us? Hasn't he a fur coat?"

"Certainly," replied Scrapper, "he has a fur coat. You didn't think he had a feather one, did you?"

"I thought, perhaps he didn't have any at all," replied Bobby. "Now what is all this mystery about? What is it that is going to be so hard for us to believe?"

"Well, I'll tell you," replied Scrapper.

"Black Howler looks a whole lot like one of these two ragged-creature friends of men. Of course, he isn't as big as a man by a great deal. Just the same he looks a whole lot like one."

Peter looked at Bobby Coon. Bobby Coon looked at Prickly Porky. Prickly Porky looked at Scrapper, and all three slowly shook their heads. This was a little more than they could believe. Scrapper certainly was trying to "stuff them," as the saying is. That any one wearing fur could possibly look like a man was more than they could swallow.

"I knew it," declared Scrapper. "I knew it. I told you at the start that you wouldn't believe me. But I can tell you one thing, and that is, if you could hear him howl you would be ready to believe almost anything. It certainly would give you the creeps. Yes, sir, it would give you the creeps."

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

COUNSEL FOR READING FAILED TO SHAKE TESTIMONY

BOSTON, April 18 —(AP)— Minute cross-examination today by Elbridge Anderson, counsel for Attorney General Arthur K. Reading who conduct in office is being investigated by a special legislative committee, failed to weaken the previous testimony of Hugo B. Monjar, former president of the Decimo Club Inc. of New York. It was the payment of a retainer of $25,000 by the club to Reading to act as counsel that started the investigation.

Monjar repeated his declarations of yesterday regarding Reading's alleged threats that unless he did as a new board of governors of the club wanted he was in danger of criminal action. He said Reading mentioned "indictment" several times and said but for the fear of arrest he would not have acceded to the demands.

NORWICH ART STUDENTS IN BIG HARTFORD EXHIBIT

The Eastern Arts association is holding its 19th annual convention in Hartford, April 18-21. The meetings of the convention will be held in the high school building and its exhibition will be assembled in the state armory. The Eastern Arts association covers all territory east of the Mississippi river. 50,000 square feet of unobstructed floor space in the armory make possible a large and unusual display of exhibits. Besides special exhibits depicting art in trade and art in industry, it is planned to exhibit work from all parts of the United States, from Mexico, and from Europe.

The outstanding feature of the exhibition will be the first showing of the work which has been chosen for the 6th International Art congress at Prague in July. This work was gathered from important institutions throughout the country and had been selected to represent the most progressive lines of art education in America. In addition to this work for the Prague conference there will be a professional exhibit of members work: and educational exhibits from schools ranging in grade from the elementary through the trade school to the college art department and the art schools. All types of work covering a wide scope will be exhibited, and students will be at work demonstrating the various processes. In addition to these educational groups of exhibits, there will be exhibits from more than fifty commercial houses.

The Norwich Art school will display work from the Norwich Free Academy classes in the History of Art, in Bookbinding and in Drawing, as well as work from the different departments of the art school. The announcements of the school have been prepared by the Academy press and are fine examples of good printing.

Norwich students will be in charge of the booth, also will work in clay and will decorate pottery with the Norwich glazes which have been made in the school.

A loan collection of beautifully wrought jewelry by Miss Nellie A. Loring will be on display.

Nearly 3,000 delegates are to arrive in Hartford for the general meetings and it is anticipated that 50,000 people will visit the show in the armory.

OBITUARY

G. Andrew Gardner

His friends and neighbors in the community where he resided were shocked to learn of the sudden death Wednesday morning about 9 o'clock of G. Andrew Gardner, 73, of 21 West Town street, Norwich Town.

Although not in the best of health for some little time, Mr. Gardner's condition was not thought to be critical. He was in Norwich Tuesday morning, also called at a neighbor's house, in apparently as good health as usual. Shortly after retiring Tuesday night, he became suddenly ill. A doctor was called and after a restless night, during which he received the most devoted attention of his faithful wife, Mr. Gardner expired almost without any warning. He was stricken with angina pectoris and fell to the floor dead.

Mr. Gardner was born in Preston, October 6, 1849, the son of George and Mary Gardner Maples. When a small boy he went to live with his uncle, Jackson Gardner, who later legally adopted him. He followed the occupation of farmer for many years, in the Gardner Lake section where he was well known as a sportsman in hunting.

In Salem, December 27, 1871 he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Ida Ladd, who survives him with two children, a daughter, Mrs. Frank Phelps, whose family resides in the same house with her parents, one son, Ely Gardner of Salem, six grand children and four great grand children. Mrs. Belle Worthington of Norwich is a sister to Mr. Gardner and for a time has made her home with her brother's family.

From Gardner Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner moved to Leffingwell for a few years, locating eventually in Norwich Town about five years ago. He was a member of Gardner Lake Methodist church, but since coming to Norwich, had been a loyal and interested attendant at the Holiness mission. A kind husband, father and brother, Mr. Gardner was also very much devoted to his friends. Firm in his belief, he was an earnest worker in his church and answered the calling of a good Christian man; in fact was looked up to as such, by his friends and neighbors.

FUNERALS

Joseph Henry Moore

With many relatives and friends attending, the funeral of Joseph Henry Moore was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Moore, No. 104 Mt. Pleasant street, at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. There was a requiem mass at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. John Reilly was celebrant of the mass and Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ. The choir sang De Profundis at the offertory and for the waiting hymn Horace Corning sang Beautiful Land on High. At the recessional Mr. LaFontaine played Chopin's Funeral March. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where Mgr. Michael H. May conducted the committal service. The bearers were Arthur Breen, Frank Sullivan, Clifford LaRochelle, William Haggerty, Eugene O'Brien and Joseph Sullivan. Hourigan Bros., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Unique Club Met

The Unique club met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. C. K. Walker. Delicious refreshments were served, the club colors pink and green being carried out.

The motto "The Prayer of Allah" was presented the hostess by the club.

Given Surprise Shower

A surprise shower for Miss Florence Bushnell was given Wednesday evening by members of the Four Fold Comrades of the Central Baptist church at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. Chester J. Bushnell of Sunnyside avenue. The occasion was in honor of Miss Bushnell's approaching marriage to Gerald Burke. The bride-elect received a number of pretty and useful gifts. Dainty refreshments were served.

CALL FOR SPECIAL CITY MEETING THURSDAY THROWS DOORS WIDE OPEN

The call issued for the special city meeting next Thursday night contains a concluding paragraph which apparently throws the doors wide open at the meeting for the presentation and discussion of any subject which can be considered to be at all related to the city.

After citing specific matters to be taken up at the city meeting the call concludes with this paragraph:

"For the discussion and action by said city meeting of any subject matter or thing touching its government, the health of its citizens, the administration of its affairs, the preparation of its annual budget, and its general welfare."

The specific matters named in the call include the appropriation of $96,000, of which $30,000 is to come back by the sale of certain city real estate, action towards enacting a new city charter, securing a building and plumbing code, and the consolidation of city and town.

The proposition is to be advanced that the municipality build a new city barn to cost about $30,000 on a site at Brook and Baltic streets. This will be financed by selling to the city gas and electric department for $30,000 the present site occupied by the city barn at the corner of Bath and Chestnut streets, where headquarters building for the gas and electric department is to be erected.

The depleted city treasury is to be bolstered up by granting permission for the borrowing of an amount up to $60,000 for current expenses from May 16 until after the annual city meeting in June.

Another item calling for an appropriation is the study of the disposal of the city's sewerage in relation to the pollution of waterways. The amount asked for this is $6,000.

BISHOP SHAHAN LAUDED BY C. U. CLERICAL ALUMNI

The Washington, D. C. Post said at the week end:

On the eve of his relinquishing the rectorship of the Catholic university of America, the Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan was tendered a testimonial banquet by the clerical alumni last night in Graduate hall. Bishops, monsignori, priests and laymen from all parts of the United States journeyed to Brookland to honor the retiring rector.

The toastmaster of the evening, the Rev. Dr. Patrick J. McCormick, who is a native of Norwich, called upon Monsignor Edward A. Pace to read the tribute, received from Rome yesterday, of Cardinal Bisleti, prefect of the Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities. The cardinal said during his tribute:

"Surely your labors have borne fruit in abundance and perfection. For the university has sent forth, in great number, both laymen and priests, whose lives are shining examples to the faithful and whose learning in its force and brilliance, has served as a powerful defense of Catholic doctrine, in particular of those truths which have been most sharply attacked."

Right Rev. John M. McNamara, newly consecrated auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, was the first to respond to the toast of the evening, "Bishop Shahan."

William H. DeLacy, national president of the Lay Alumni association speaking in behalf of his associates, said: "Here for these years, more by far than the average span of human life have you lived and labored for God and for America, on land hallowed by the tread of Washington and of Lincoln, and of the men and women who, as Christ died to make men holy died to make men free, free in a republic founded on faith in Christ and on the God-given rights of men."

Very Rev. Joseph McSorley, superior general of the Paulist fathers, the first religious congregation to erect a house of studies at the university, paid glowing tribute to Bishop Shahan in behalf of the clerical alumni, numbering more than 1,500 priests and prelates throughout the country. He said in conclusion: "In future ages, I do not doubt, the name of Shahan will be linked with this university as that of Arnold, Rugby, Jowett, Oxford; Mercier, with Louvain and Gerson with Paris."

After the presentation of the testimonial, Bishop Shahan, in responding, paid a tribute to the service of Mgr. Pace and Mgr. Daugherty, his vice rectors; also to the academic senate, the board of deans, the professors and personnel of the university identified with him in the work of administration.

Bishop Shahan, whose tenure of office is about to expire, has been associated with the university since its very beginning, in 1888, 40 years ago.

WOMAN'S CLUB ROUND TABLE MET AT SCHOOL

On Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the April round table of the Woman's City club, at the invitation of its chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Davis, met at the Bishop school. Mrs. Teresa K. McMahon, teacher of the group of maladjusted children, who are sent to the Bishop school for the sake of the opportunities for mental and manual training, talked on "Special Work with Special Pupils."

The school room is attractive and sunny, with pictures, flowers and books. There is a large room for weaving rugs, a carpenters bench and a table full of the finished work was shown. This included baskets and doll's cradles of reed, embroidered pieces, dish towels, aprons, baby bibs, large cotton rug, book shelves, stools and small chairs. Orders for re-caning chairs are taken and all the articles made are for sale. Both workmanship and the material used are excellent.

The children entered heartily and happily into their reading, singing and reciting, and the wish was expressed among the club members that more similar classes may soon be started in other schools in Norwich.

Fitch, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Raven and Miss Evelyn Eastland. Covers were laid for eighteen. A card announcing the engagement of Miss Fitch to William Duncan of South Manchester was placed in May baskets at each cover Piano selections and singing were enjoyed.

Comfort Circle Meets

Mrs. William H. Geer opened her home, 324 Washington street, Wednesday afternoon to thirteen members of Comfort Circle of the King's Daughters, who completed tying a quilt on Mrs. Geer's frames. Later, at a brief business meeting, when the leader Mrs. Albert T. Utley presided, it was decided to raise funds by holding a cafeteria lunch next month. After the work Mrs. Geer served cake and coffee.

ROTARY PRESIDENT NAMED ON CLUB'S LADIES' NIGHT

The three D's, Dining, Diversion and Dancing, reigned supreme Wednesday evening at the Ladies' Night of the Norwich Rotary club at the Wauregan hotel with covers laid for 150 Rotarians and guests. As it has been for the past eight years, it was the banner social event of the current season and like its predecessors was thoroughly enjoyed. Rotary, symbolic of good fellowship, was the keynote of the evening and it was "Hello, Bill," "Hello, Mary," which made it just one big family dinner party.

Amid the most artistic of decorations, the 150 Rotarians, Rotaryanus and guests made merry. The decorations by Ernst followed a very attractive color scheme of blue and gold,

EDWARD W. JEWETT
Elected President of Club

the blue being in blue ribbons and blue sweet peas while the gold was provided by countless yellow tulips and daffodils in baskets and pots. These were attractively arranged against a background of southern smilax. The alcove of the spacious ball room was very pretty with a bank of ferns and palms which served as a pleasing setting for the American flag.

With D'Atri's Wauregan Hotel orchestra rendering an exceptionally well chosen program the evening's entertainment opened with the singing of America and the invocation by former Rotarian Rev. Alexander H. Abbott. A delightful dinner program was rendered by the orchestra.

The following was the menu:

Oysters on the Half Shell
Hearts of Celery Queen Olives
Salted Nuts
Tomato Bisque
Filet Mignon with Mushroom Sauce
French Fried Potatoes
Creamed Cauliflower
French Bread
Fruit Salad
Bia Tortoni Assorted Cakes
Coffee

With President Clarence A. Spear presiding as toastmaster the first number of the very pleasant dinner program was the selection by the Rotary double quartette, "My Blue Heaven," sung with exceptional feeling and harmony. The members of this quartette were William G. Park, Frank R. Murdy, Harold D. Hannigan, James E. Roantree, Joseph C. Worth, F. Russell Smith, Eben Learned and Walter LaFontaine. In place of an encore the members of the quartette gave each woman present a very dainty bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Introducing New President

Following the singing of the quartette and the distribution of favors, Toastmaster Spear introduced the new president of the Norwich Rotary club, Edward W. Jewett, and Mrs. Jewett. President Ed upon insistent demands for a speech responded by thanking the club for the honor bestowed upon him and expressed the hope that he would prove worthy of the trust. Mrs. Ed was introduced and President Ed saluted her in true marital style.

The other new officers introduced by retiring President Spear were: Joseph W. Curtis, vice-president; Emory H. Davis, secretary; Henry S. Lyon, treasurer; Myles E. Standish, sergeant-at-arms. The officers do not take office until July 1.

It is always with extreme pleasure that the Norwich Rotary club hears Frank R. Murdy in song and his two numbers last evening were among the most enjoyable features of the program. Mr. Murdy rendered The Desert Song (Sigmund Romberg) and as the encore, Calm as the Night (Bohm).

While the conclusion of Mr. Murdy's numbers, Arthur M. Brown, the club's best orator, asked for recognition and in very apt phrasing presented to Past President Spear a beautiful ebony desk set, saying that he hoped that Clarence would use the pens to write indelibly the appreciation of the club. To Mrs. Spear, to whom Mr. Brown said Rotary owed much, he presented a beautiful bouquet of roses, saying that the beauty of the roses was only exceeded by the sweetness and beauty of Mrs. Spear. Mrs. Spear blushingly thanked the club.

A selection, Among My Souvenirs (Leslie and Nichols), was rendered by the quartette and was repeated as an encore.

No Rotary ladies' night program is considered complete without a solo or two from "Our Henry" LaFontaine. Henry's clear and vibrant baritone was heard first in My Little Grey Home in the West (Lohr) and again in Friends of Yesterday (Simpson). Both were delightfully rendered and those who heard him were enraptured with his rendition. Mrs. Charles A. Saxton was the accompanist.

Table games were enjoyed with very pretty prizes being awarded to the fortunate ladies recovering the winning numbers in the balloon race. The table games concluded the dinner program. Although the program was delightful in the fullest sense of the word there was a distinct feeling of regret when it became known that Bert Gagnr positively would not sing "Hortense."

During the intermission a treasure hunt through the hotel for tickets that entitled one to a pretty luncheon set provided amusement while the stage was being set for the feature of the evening.

"Fashion Revue With Living Models"

This fashion show unless really seen cannot be appreciated. It was unique in every sense of the word and was a real clever travesty on a recent style show held in Norwich. With Lucius Briggs as the Paul Poiret of Norwich there paraded before admiring eyes seven dainty and delectable morsels of pulchritude gowned in the latest creations from the needles of local seamstresses.

First came sports, Nile green and cream flannel making a chic sport attire that draped the lithe and athletic figure of James E. Roantree. Following the sportive James, tripped a dainty miss charming in an afternoon frock that clung snugly to the slender form of Harold Hannegan. A smart gown for evening wear, a black velvet form-fitting semi-princess model that displayed to perfection the Herculean form of Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, nearly stopped the further showing of the styles. A gown for late evening and early morning wear, a brilliant pajama suit, bordering on the Japanese era, was most becomingly shown to advantage by the graceful form of F. Russell Smith.

What the bathing beauty will wear this summer was attractively displayed on the plump and chubby figure of Joseph C. Worth. A gown suitable for the stout models, either for afternoon, evening or morning wear, shrouded the well-upholstered form of William G. Park, who, in his promenade, broke the platform. Last of all came that gown that old maids long to wear, young maids eye with skepticism, and those that have worn one either lay it away in lavender or tear it up for dusting cloths—the bridal gown. This was worn with solemn mein by Flint Brayton and true maidenly demeanor. This concluded one of the most enjoyable of entertainments.

Dancing to the delightful music of D'Atri's Wauregan Hotel orchestra was enjoyed until late.

To Flint Brayton as chairman of the program committee goes a great deal of credit and to William G. Park who was the song leader. The programs for the evening followed the general color scheme of blue and gold.

EVENING HOURS SET FOR TEXTILE EXHIBIT

The exhibit of textiles at Converse art gallery had among its visitors Wednesday a number of the executives and department heads of the five local mills whose products contribute the modern note to the exhibition. So enthusiastic did they become over the value and interest of the exhibit that they expressed the conviction that many of the operatives in the mills who were busy in the daytime would appreciate the opportunity of visiting the Converse gallery if it were open in the evening for this exhibition.

Accordingly the announcement is made that the exhibition is to be open this (Thursday) evening from 7 to 9:30 for the benefit of those who can come better at night than in the daytime.

Also by request of many members of the Woman's City club the talk on Antique Rugs has been postponed so that Mrs. Richard Snow may repeat for the benefit of the club her recent paper on "Historic Textiles." In order that this may be heard in close connection with the textile exhibition, it will be the programme for the regular April meeting of the Woman's City club next Tuesday, and the talk on rugs will be given later.

LINKING AIR SURVEY WITH PROGRESS EXPOSITION

When Sheldon H. Fairbanks, who is to be managing director of the Norwich Progress exposition, learned on Wednesday that the L and H Aircraft corporation is soon to make airplane maps of Norwich in the revaluation plan, he drove at once to Hartford to interview Charles B. Beach, president of the corporation, in order to link up the aviation work with the Progress exposition if possible. President Beach happens to be a personal friend of Mr. Fairbanks and when the latter asked the Hartford man if his company would be willing to cooperate with the progress exposition in giving the matter wide publicity, President Beach stated they would be only too glad to do this and in addition would land their planes in Norwich provided the company's pilots find there is a suitable landing field.

Sunday following the exposition passengers will be carried in whatever plane is sent down from Hartford. The L and H. Aircraft Corp. handles the Fairchild cabin monoplane, and the Swallow and Challenger biplanes. The Challenger model will probably be used in Norwich. In connection with the progress exposition it is planned to distribute from the air a number of leaflets, each of which will be good for admission to the exposition. These circulars will be distributed over Norwich and the surrounding territory.

BLOW TORCH STARTS FIRE WITH BIRD'S NEST

A plumber, a blow torch and a bird's nest were responsible for a telephone call to the fire department shortly before 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The plumber was at work repairing gutters, etc., on the house at No. 119 McKinley avenue, owned by Hans Rasmussen. He was using a blow torch and in some manner a bird's nest beneath a cornice caught fire and blazed up. The smoke from the burning nest backed into the attic. While the plumber was extinguishing the blaze a telephone call was sent into the fire department and Squad A, Engine No. 3 and Engine No. 1 responded. The firemen used a small can of chemical in extinguishing the fire. There was no damage.

Indian Missionary to Speak

Rev. Wheeler Boggess, a young missionary on furlough from India, is to be the speaker at the Thursday evening meeting of the Central Baptist church this week. It is expected he will tell the inside story of the conversion to Hinduism of Nancy Ann Miller, the American woman whose recent marriage to the ex-maharajah, has made an international sensation.

NORWICH TOWN

The Norwich Town club, of New London county Home and Farm bureau, is to hold its April meeting as an all-day session, today, (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Freemont Vergason, Vergason avenue. Mrs. Belle H. J. Robynson of Gales Ferry, is to give a demonstration in dressmaking.

When the postponed meeting of the Woman's department of the League of Service, is held in the Norwich Town Congregational chapel, this (Thursday) afternoon at three o'clock, Dr. Herbert P. Woodin of Saybrook is to give the address. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Woodin. A period of fellowship will follow the meeting.

Says F. H. Marble. This is Nature's Signal of "Danger Ahead."

Fred H. Marble, Danielson, Conn., says in his own home paper, the Danielson Transcript: "My bladder bothered me 4 or 5 times every night. After taking Keller's Lithiated Buchu a few days I saw I was improving. Now I am not troubled at all. They have also relieved my friend Elmer Martin. I will tell or write my experience to anyone."

Lithiated Buchu acts on the bladder as epsom salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes "Getting up nights." The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Geo. Engler's, druggist.

OWEN CARROLL ALLOWS BUT SIX HITS AND TIGERS WIN FROM BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, April 18—(AP)—Carroll's masterful pitching enabled the Detroit Tigers to defeat the reconstructed St. Louis Browns today in their opening game here this season, 4 to 1.

Carroll allowed six scattered hits. The only Brown run came in the eighth when McNeely singled, Kress doubled and Brannon walked, filling the bases, and Manush walked forcing McNeely over the plate.

Easterling in the ninth hit a home run which was the longest ever seen at Sportsman's park. The ball hit the roof of the pavilion near the bleachers and bounced into Grand avenue.

Threatening weather held paid attendance to 6,232. Score:

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 18—The Cleveland Indians defeated Chicago 7 to 1 in the opening game of the American league season at Dunn field today.

The triple put the game on ice in the fifth inning when they drove Adkins from the box with an onslaught of six hits. Wilson relieved him and held the Redskins in check for the remainder of the game.

Philadelphia, April 18—(AP)—Washington continued to play winning ball today and the Philadelphia Athletics dropped their fourth straight game to the invaders, 11 to 6. Quinn, who started for the home team, was driven from the box in the second inning when Washington hammered in seven runs, the latter part of the inning with Jing Johnson in the box. The Athletics hit Zachary hard but did not bunch their blows effectively until the eighth when they made five runs. A home run by Fox in this round drove in two tallies ahead of him. PAYNE AND GAVUZZI BATTLE FOR "BUNION DERBY" LEAD

MIAMI, Okla., April 18—(AP)—Having satisfied the home town folks at Claremore yesterday by spurting along to recapture the lead in the cross country marathon run, Andrew Payne resumed his steady jogging today and allowed Peter Gavuzzi of Southampton, Eng., to almost recapture the leadership.

The Britisher finished first in the 52 mile grind from Chelsea, Okla., bringing his elapsed time for the 1,721.1 miles to 287:55:38.

Although Payne did not come until fifth, when he finished with Ed Gardner, Seattle, Negro, in a dead heat in 8:31:30. His elapsed time of 287:42:22, gave him a thirteen minute advantage over his most persistent rival. The lead has see-sawed back and forth between the two for ten days, while the runners traversed Oklahoma.

John Salo, Passaic, N. J., forced out temporarylly yesterday with stomach trouble, made up his time today and finished second with an elapsed time of 308:14:47, that keeps him in third place. He said he virtually had recovered from the illness.

Olli Wantinnen of New York finished third in 7:56:30, his elapsed time being 335:00:05.

Louis Perella, Albany, N. Y., finished fourth in 8:16:37, elapsed time being 334:38 flat. Gardners elapsed time was 325:25:17.

'BOUT SPORTS

The traveling swat circus," the New York Yankees return to their old stamping ground tomorrow seemingly on another good start toward the American league pennant. The Hugmen now seem to have only been fooling down south when they won but five games for, once things meant business they easily pitched and started piling up victories.

So far, they have four, two over the Athletics and two over the Red Sox, being the only team in the majors to bat 1.000. Where the victories are staged doesn't seem to matter with the world's champions once the barrier goes up on the pennant chase.

Meanwhile, Ruth and Gehrig are being replaced by lesser known figures in the baseball world on their circuit clouting. Earj Webb of the Cubs, with his third in three days and Easterling, the Detroit recruit stole the thunder yesterday. Gehrig, of course, has two but they have not been as spectacular as other four-ply blows.

Eddie Adonis, one of the leading welterweights around Boston and former New England and International amateur champion worked out at the Duwell A. C. gym yesterday on the East Side. He is in town for a few days and would like to get on at one of the shows in this part of the state.

Adonis is well known locally, as he has compiled quite a neat record, including knockout victories over Tracey Ferguson and Laddie Lee. Johnny Curcio is in his stable. In his last 26 fights he has won 19 by knockouts, lost two and won five by decisions.

He boxed with Geno Pecheeni and Jimmy Quinn, local pro and amateur fighters, respectively, and declared that although both have something to learn they look very promising.

There will be no Duwell show this week as was previously planned.

Al Koziol, local amateur lightweight is to fight again at Providence tomorrow night. Al lost for the first time there last week.

Al Beauregard Taftville bantam, fights at Boston tomorrow night on a strong professional card.

TY COBB TAKES LEAD IN BASEBALL "BIG SIX"

(By the Associated Press)

Tyrus Raymond Cobb rode into the lead of the "Big Six" yesterday on three solid singles which boosted his average to .412 for the four games he has played this season. Cobb's outburst was vain, however, as the Washington Senators ponded the Athletics for a 11 to 6 victory.

Paul Waner, idle because no game was scheduled for the Pirates, fell no further from the lead than second place. Rogers Hornsby got two singles in Brooklyn and joined .300 company as the Braves fell before the Robins. Ruth dropped to fourth, but Kiki Cuyler climbed out of the cellar at the expense of Harry Heilmann.

HARVARD WALLOPS TRINITY WHILE CUTTS GIVES ONE HIT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 18—(AP)—Harvard defeated Trinity 20 to 0 in a batting and base running orgy that lasted seven innings here today before Umpire Harold Janvrin halted the proceedings with darkness approaching. The Crimson batters gathered 17 hits off two Trinity pitchers, while the best the visitors could produce was one safety off Frank Cutts. The score:

285 START IN BOSTON MARATHON TODAY

BOSTON, April 18—(AP)—The largest field of marathon runners ever assembled in this country, 285 of them, is slated to be on the starting line at Hopkinton tomorrow noon to attempt the Boston Athletic association's 32nd annual race which this year serves as the final American Olympic tryout.

Out of this vast throng tonight an even dozen favorites stood out, with Clarence H. DeMar, five times winner of the classic, on top. DeMar holds the record for the 26 mile 385 yard course, 2 hours 40 minutes 22 1-5 seconds, which he set a year ago. This year he has set two hours 30 minutes as his goal.

To Try Early Lead

With four other previous winners in the race, it appeared that DeMar would have plenty of experienced pace setters. Officials said that Bill Kennedy, who won in 1917, Edouard Fabre, of Montville, the 1916 winner, Carl Linder, who won in 1919, and Frank Zuna, the 1921 victor, would all strive to gain a long lead during the early stage of the race and thus force DeMar to keep up with them.

Others who appeared to have a chance for victory were Whitey Michelson, of the Millrose A. A., New York, his teammate Harvey Frick; Jimmy Hennigan, the Boston veteran; Joie Ray, once America's greatest miler, and the rugged Canadians, Billy Reynolds, Billy Taylor and Major Ramsdale.

The marathon course is fairly easy for the first 18 miles to Wellesley. Then come the Newton hills, the graveyard of the hopes of a thousand ambitious runners. Tomorrow will be the tenth trip over the hills for DeMar and Bill Kennedy, and most of the other favorites have negotiated them several times in competition.

Four of the first six men in last year's race are entered this year. Billy Kennedy was third, Linder fifth and Fabre sixth.

N. Y. U. BEATS YALE, STOPPING RALLIES

NEW HAVEN, April 18—(AP)—The New York university baseball team defeated Yale here this afternoon, 6 to 5. After N. Y. U. had taken a lead of six to nothing, Yale rallied to score three runs in the sixth and two in the eighth which closed the gap between the two teams, but the Elis failed to take advantage of their opportunities in the eighth and ninth innings when it had the tying and winning runs on the bases. Yale's bad work afield paved the way for the New York team's victory, three Yale errors figuring prominently in the scoring of four runs by the Violet in the first inning.

The pitching of George Manfredi for the winners was one of the features of the contest. Although hit harder by Yale than in most of his starts this season, he pitched fine ball in the first few innings, giving Yale but two hits in the first five innings. Later on, when Yale rallies threatened to overcome his team's lead, his expert twirling checked the Eli batters effectively. The score by innings:

New York U. ..	401 001 000—6	10	1
Yale	000 003 020—5	10	4

SOMERVILLE ENTERS SEMI FINALS AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 18—(AP)—Shooting the same consistent brand of golf that gave him the low medal in the qualifying round, C. Ross Somerville of London, Ont., went into the semi-final round of the Mid-April tournament here today by defeating George Manship, of Deland, Fla., 6 and 4.

Somerville was out in 35, one under par, to gain a lead of four holes. He finished with 71.

G. B. Heintsman, of Toronto, won his way into the semi-final bracket opposite Somerville in a 19 hole match over Eric Thompson of St. John's, N. B.

Norfleet Ray, Pinehurst, meets Robert L. Wintringer, of Steubenville, Ohio, in the other semi-final match tomorrow. Ray won today from A. Lefevre, of Norwalk, Conn., 2 up. Wintringer eliminated R. H. Swope, of Merion, Pa., 4 and 2 by holding eagle threes at the fourteenth and sixteenth holes.

Silver Snakes Win

The Silver Snake team won from the Thames street Sluggers Wednesday afternoon rather handily by the score of 12 to 1. Lobacz struck out 12 men for the winners while Dieslak starred in the field. NEW OPENING DAY ATTENDANCE MARK SET AS REDS BEAT CUBS IN SLUG FEST

CHICAGO, April 18—(AP)—A new National league opening attendance record was established this afternoon, when 46,000 fans packed Wrigley field and saw the Cincinnati Reds come from behind and take the Cubs 9 to 6.

They were trailing one run when George Kelley doubled Pipp and Purdy home for the victory. Two other Reds later scored in the rally.

It was a tough game for the Cubs to drop, for, after trailing for seven innings, they broke loose in the 8th and scored five counters to go ahead 6 to 5. Pinch Hitter Webb's home run scoring Stephenson and Hartnett ahead of him gave the Cubs their temporray lead.

The game was a free hitting affair, a total of 28 hits being made. Cuyler made the first homer of the year here to lead off in the eighth.

BROOKLYN, April 18—(AP)—Although out-hit, 9 to 8, by the Boston Braves here today, the Brooklyn Robins won the rubber game of the series 10 to 5. Dazzy Vance pitched steady ball in registering his second victory of the season while the Robins took advantage of the uncertainty of the Boston pitchers and their sieve-like defense. Vance weakened in the eighth when Boston scored three runs, but a double play took him out of the hole.

Jack Slattery, manager of the Braves was called back to Boston by the death of his mother, and left the team in charge of Rogers Hornsby.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

General Review

The 1928 baseball season for high schools is about to break out in earnest and as a climax to the daily stories on the outlook for teams of eastern Connecticut and ones outside that the Academy will play today there is resented a general survey of the situation.

As it looks now, "The Big Three," Harding, Hillhouse and the Academy, will again battle it out for the state title. Although everyone of these have lost rather heavily, others have either done likewise or not picked up sufficient new material to become very dangerous.

Last year Harding was supreme in the western part of the state, Hillhouse in the central section and the Academy in the eastern end. Hillhouse beat the Academy, therefore providing a win for central over east but the Academy beat Harding, making it one for east over west and then Hillhouse went and lost to Naugatuck from the west while the Academy's only state defeat was to Hillhouse. Harding lost two other games besides that to the Academy.

Harding still has Dizenzo and the Academy Jarvis and Greene, who with Locke of New London Bulkeley should be about the leading pitchers in the state. Bulkeley of the Whaling City has a good team but it seems likely to crack under any tough strain and does not look like state championship calibre.

Weaver in Hartford will be a strong club this year while Bulkeley of the same city will be improved over 1927. Central of Bridgeport can be expected to make things interesting while Naugatuck, always fairly good, should again turn out a team that will make a respectable record.

Many of the schedules either opened last Saturday or the early part of the week. The Academy is late in getting started owing to two postponements. Its first game being Friday.

Baseball is attracting as much, if not more interest than basketball and football lately in the state. It has long been the thought that the sports of the court and gridiron are better suited to high school and colleges than the national pastime but some mighty fine teams in late years have burst a hole in that idea.

Let's go!

HAGEN DEPARTS FOR COMPSTON MATCH

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)—Off his game as he sailed for England to play Archie Compston a special 72 hole match to tune up for the British open, Walter Hagen said he would ask his British opponent to consent to a postponement of a few days of the match, booked for April 27-28.

"I expect to ask a postponement," Hagen said as he went on the boat, "if we play April 27. I will have only one day to practice and as I have played practically no golf this winter, I will need a few days to get in shape to play good golf.

"I have been engaged in making a motion picture in California and left there Friday, got here this afternoon and have been busy since my arrival in New York getting another passport. The passport I got in California was packed in a bag that was left behind.

"I feel fine physically and will work in the ship's gymnasium all the way across and hit a lot of golf balls from the ship but I will need some shots on the golf course to get an idea of distance."

It was suggested that Sandwich, where the 1928 British open is to be played, is also a good course. "I should say it is," Hagen replied. "That's where I won my first British open in 1922."

This is Hagen's sixth invasion of England on a golfing mission. "My first shot was at St. Andrews," he said, "I qualified fourth and finished 53rd." As a matter of fact he was 12th at the close.

He won in 1922, was runner-up in 1923 and won again in 1924.

With petit jurors present Wednesday Henry N. Girary was charged with an attempt to aid and abet arson, Napoleon Thibeault, a former employe of the defendant declared that Girard offered him money to burn an unoccupied dwelling owned by Girard, and located on the West Allenton road in North Kingston. The witness further asserted that on Jan. 9 last Girard brought cans of kerosene and gasoline to the house, scattered part of their contents about the interior and left instructions for the remainder to be used by Thibeault and William Macomber in setting fire to the building. Early that evening Thibeault conferred with Mr. Kingsley, who keeps a store in North Kingstown, and on the advice of Kingsley went to the state police barracks at Wakefield, where he reported to Trooper Perry that Girard was preparing to burn the house. MAN BEFRIENDED ROBS HIS HOST OF $55 AND SKIPS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 18—Harry Sarsfield, 47, of New Haven, auto mechanic, got into the toils of the New Haven railroad police at Westerly Tuesday night he was taken into his home by Edward J. Fenelon, Jr., proprietor of a gas filling station, who, with the departure of his guest discovered that $55 of his money had probably departed with him. Sarsfield wanted to go to Kansas City where he had previously lived and be there in time for the republican national convention when business would be booming. A lack of capital had prevented him from proceeding. Knowing Sarsfield's plan Mr. Fenelon sought the police of the Westerly railroad station to find out if he had left. He learned that his man had started at 10:20 a. m. for New London by a taxi driven by Benjamin L. Peabody, who was accompanied by John Donohue. A description was sent from the Westerly railroad station to the station at New London. It was not long before Lieut. David Marks of the railrail police found the taxi and securing Sansfield, detailed Peabody and Donohue as witnesses until noon.

Their first attention was given to the east wall along the drive leading to the Rhode Island garage where brick and timbers would endanger the First Baptist church if allowed to crash down. Windows were boarded up in the church and thew reckers began at the top of the five-story wall.

To Everyone Interested in Getting a 1929 Automobile in 1928

The New Reo Flying Clouds are announced as 1929 automobiles for the very simple reasons that they give you today—

The riding ease
The handling ease
The safety braking
The simple, vigorous lines
The carefully appointed interiors
The ability to get-up-and-go—that many other cars will still be trying to equal—in 1929.

A few of many Flying Cloud 1929 technical advancements are listed to the left. With Reo's moderate production such design improvements change from blue prints into motor cars months sooner than they could in the huge plants which build most of America's automobiles.

So Reo can give you 1929 Flying Clouds in the very heart of the 1928 season.

Try out a New Flying Cloud for yourself. The complete story of true 1929 motoring will be told you in a new, sweet-running way.

TRADING IN STOCK MARKET FELL OFF; PRICES MOVED IRREGULARLY HIGHER

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)—Selling pressure was lifted from today's stock market and prices moved irregularly higher.

Execution of a large accumulation of overnight selling orders carried prices downward 1 to 4 points at the opening, but buying support was quickly supplied and a rally developed which carried through until the close. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume, sales totaling only 2,896,400 shares, after a string of seven consecutive 4,000,000 shares full sessions.

Lowering of the call money rate from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent, in the face of a recumbation of gold shipments to Great Britain, apparently allayed fears of an immediate increase in Federal Reserve rediscount rates which insisted heavy liquidation earlier in the week. Directors of the St. Louis Reserve have met today and announced no change in the rediscount rate. The New York Federal Reserve directors are now expected to take similar action tomorrow, although the bank statement available will show further liquidation of U. S. government securities.

The day's trade news was mixed in character. Weekly steel trade reviews reported that output was being maintained at high levels, particularly in the Chicago district, and that prices were holding steady. Weight car loadings in the first week of April compared unfavorably with the corresponding weeks of 1927 and 1928. Crude oil production also showed a falling off but, in view of the recent over-production in that industry, this was regarded as better.

American Telephone, which ordinarily moves within narrow limits, was one of the day's features, soaring nearly 8 1-2 points to a new high record at 196 1-4 and then slipping back to 193 1-2. Trading was based on expectations of the issuance of valuable "rights" in connection with new stock financing. Other telephone issues advanced in sympathy. International Telephone climbing more than 4 points to 162 1-2 and then easing slightly.

Commission houses reported that short covering by traders who sold stocks heavily earlier in the week on expectations of a wide open break in prices was an important factor in the day's advance. Pool operations were resumed with confidence in a select assortment of amusement, food, motor accessory and public utility issues, a score of which were marked up to new high levels.

A quick rally in radio from a low of 162 1-4 to 172 1-2 proved to be the turning point of the market, although the stock later sold down to 169, on 8 1-2 net. Paramount Famous Lasky was another strong feature, climbing more than 7 points to a new high at the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday by President Zukor, who stated that first quarter earnings ran well above those of the corresponding period last year and predicted a further gain in the months to come.

New peak prices also were registered by Armour B, Art Metals, American Power and Light, Curtis Aero preferred, Foundation Co., General American Tank, Lorillard Tobacco, Manhattan Modified Guaranteed, Marlin Rockwell, Owens Bottle, Peerless Motor, Standard Gas and Electric and several others.

Express shares were again reactionary. Pronounced heaviness also developed in Brooklyn Edison, Consoleum, Detroit Edison, Devoe and Raynolds, Electric Auto Lite, Johns Manville, and Midland Steel Products, preferred.

Renewed accumulation of the St. Paul issues, the common touching a new high at 38 7-1, was one of the few features in the railroad group.

Time money and commerical paper rates were unchanged. Foreign exchanges were slightly easier, Sterling Cables being quoted around 4.88 11-32.

A sharp rally of 2 to 5 cents a bushel in wheat and corn prices, based on unfavorable weather reports, was the only development of consequence in the commodity markets. Cotton prices advanced slightly and coffee and sugar prices showed little change.

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)—Officials of Continental Can company declined to discuss reports of a merger with the Southern Can Co. The opinion prevails in the financial district, however, that negotiations are in a preliminary stage.

First quarter net profit of Gulf States Steel rose to $337,849 from $237,095 in the first quarter last year. This is equivalent to $2.42 a share on the common, after preferred dividends, against $1.61 a year ago.

D. A. Crawford has succeeded M. O. West as a director of Pullman, Inc. Other directors were re-elected. The regular quarterly dividend of $1 was declared.

The Lambert company and subsidiaries earned $2.45 a share on the common in the first quarter, net profit amounting to $1,182,293 after deducting earnings applicable to minority interests. On the present basis of ownership of stock of subsidiaries, net profit for the first quarter last year was $850,703, or $1.77 a share on the common. The increase was 38.9 per cent.

Iron Trade Review says there is such keen competition among low-priced motor cars, the quality of which has been improved to such an extent as to bring them into competition with the medium-priced cars, that makers of the latter have been forced to make plans for the new season earlier than usual. The between-series period usually means that car builders will take only such raw materials as they have on order to avoid building too many old cars to compete with the new ones.

Madison Square Garden corporation earned $1.47 a share in the first quarter, against $1.32 a share in the same period last year. Net income was $479,672 against $429,843.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 15—(AP)—Wheat, rye, corn and oats all took a surprising upward shoot today to new high-price records for the season. Big speculative buying developed in every kind of grain, with particular notice being taken of an official report that the last week has been one of the most unfavorable in years for farm crops in Iowa.

The entire grain list finished buoyant at virtually the day's topmost level, with wheat 3 1-2c to 3 3-4c net higher, corn 2 1-8c to 2 7-8c up, oats showing 1-4c to 2 3-4c gain, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 2c.

Among the late developments which put wheat up more swiftly than other cereals were indications that serious damage had been done to spring wheat already seeded in the northwest and that much re-seeding would be required, because of prolonged alternate freezing and thawing.

Authoritative advices were at hand that European winter crops are showing more damage as they develop and that winter kill in trans-Atlantic countries appears to have been heavier than usual.

Corn and oats were especially affected by the radical bullish character of the Iowa official crop report, Iowa being the banner corn state, and the fact being pointed out that oats are Iowa's second largest crop. The report said the oats situation in Iowa is probably the worst since 1921, and that preparations for Iowa corn planting are at a standstill owing to abnormal weather. Under such circumstances, No. 2 white oats available for immediate use brought 70c a bushel in Chicago today, the highest figure since 1920.

Provisions were easier as a result of selling on the part of packers and by houses with foreign connections.

The trial of Charles Sullivan, of Hartford and Worcester, charged with fraud, will be held tomorrow in the police court. Sullivan is at liberty on bail of $1,000. Sullivan, a salesman, was arrested Saturday afternoon he had defrauded one of the National Economy store clerks of $5. From Sullivan's record it would appear that he is a confirmed crook for he is known to have court records in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., New York city and Worcester. Sullivan was in this city last Saturday afternoon and he went to the Economy store, 199 Bank street, and made a purchase of a pack of cigarettes for 15 cents, tendering a $10 bill in payment. After he received his change from the clerk, Joseph Menghi, Sullivan produced $15 from his pocket, which he offered the clerk and requested that the $10 bill be returned to him. During the abstraction of exchanging the money, Sullivan palmed off a bill of $5 and left. When Menghi discovered the bill missing, he informed the store manager and the police were notified. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case and, after obtaining a description of Sullivan, the latter was found near the Union station. He was compelled to return to the store where he was identified as the crook by Menghi. Sullivan was then arrested and locked up. Monday his case was continued until tomorrow that the police could make a check-up of Sullivan's record and this they have done by ascertaining his record as a crook in other cities.

The only arrests made by the police this afternoon and tonight were men charged with intoxication. One was arrested on Truman street by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin. Another was arrested by Special Agent John Anderson, New Haven railroad, at the Union station, and the third was arrested on Water street by Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray and Patrolman Frank Linehan. All three will be presented in the police court tomorrow.

Owing to the cold last night, the tramp room of the local police station was filled with homeless persons who applied for shelter. They were mostly well dressed and several stated that they were just passing through on their way to sections where work is plenty.

He spoke of the work that is being done by the club in the state capital and of the auxiliary convention that is to be held in that city at the Hotel Bond May 25 and 26. JEWELRY AUCTION RESULTS IN SQUABBLE AND ARREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 15—J. L. Gorton, 134 Clinton road, Brookline, Mass., now a guest of the Hotel Mohican, was arrested this afternoon by State Policeman Peter Bush upon the complaint of George H. Dyson, a member of the state Jewelers' association. Gorton, with a partner, has been conducting an auction sale at the store of William M. Jones, jeweler of this city, for the past week, getting rid of the stock of the store, as Mr. Jones is to retire from business.

This afternoon, as Gorton was auctioning off merchandise, he came to several boxes of silver mesh bags, used as women's purses. Taking one, he began to cry his wares, stating that the bag was silver and studded with sapphires. Dyson was one of the persons who placed a bid upon the article and he questioned Gorton's statement that the bag had sapphire settings. Gorton and he soon became embroiled in an argument with the result that Dyson was ordered out of the store. The affair created considerable excitement as the store was crowded. Dyson, as soon as he was ejected, turned in a complaint with the result that State Policeman Bush arrested the auctioneer. He was placed under a $300 bond for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. The bond was furnished by the firm of auctioneers. The charge brought was fraud and disturbance of the peace.

Dyson, being a member of the State Jewelers' association and being present at the time and being the one that questioned the authenticity of Gorton's statement, makes it appear as if complaint had been forwarded to this organization regarding the tactics employed by the men.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

For Sharpening Saws

Announcement is made that an automatic saw filing machine has been put in at the shop just back of St. Joseph's church and carpenters and users of saws are invited to give it their patronage. It will sharpen all kinds of hand or circular saws. The proceeds from the work will be used for the benefit of the manual training department of St. Joseph's school.

Service Appliance

The directors of the Service Appliance company have authorized payment of dividends on its 8 per cent and 7 per cent preferred stock for the first quarter of this year. Checks have been mailed to all preferred stockholders. Officials of the company are optimistic over business conditions in their particular line which is the retail sale of electrical home appliances.

The company operates 220 stores in 6 states. Those stores are manned by men who have been trained in the business of direct selling of appliances for the home.

The market for home appliances is growing at an enormous rate. Last year nearly 600,000 residence electric motors were installed in the 6 states where this company operates stores. About 2,000 salesmen are employed by the company and assets of the concern are considerably over $6,000,000. General offices of the company are at Schenectady, N. Y.

Strand Theatre

The Tiffany production "The Tired Business Man" featuring such well known screen players as Raymond Hitchcock, Blanche Mehaffey, Mack Swain and Charles Delaney will be seen for the last time tonight at the Strand where this highly mirthful and laugh provoking picture is completing a two day's engagement. It is one of the funniest farce comedies seen here for some time and has created a more than favorable impression during its showing. The episodes of this farce comedy tell of the ways and means employed by the so called overworked business man to shed from his mind the worries of the day and see some of the bright lights of the Great White Way to clear his brain of cobwebs. The plot hinges around two contractors who want to get the signature of an alderman to some juicy contracts. The situations arising from these efforts are complicating and amusing.

"Back to Mother" is a clever Fox comedy, with an all star cast of Fox players.

"A Bearheart" is amusing and interesting and is a Pathe production.

Breed Theatre

Two of the chief attractions of "See You in Jail," which will be shown today for the last time at the Breed theatre, are Jack Mulhall and Alice Day. Mulhall is featured and Miss Day plays opposite him.

Both are young; both are good looking. They are mighty easy to look at—and they can act. Mulhall has been featured in many First National pictures and Miss Day is a Sennett star.

Ray Rockett produced "See You in Jail" for First National and Joseph Henabery directed. The cast is one of the finest ever employed in a comedy drama.

But Jack and Alice are outstanding because of their charming personalities and their ability to interpret character with grace and skill. The story is highly amusing and a lot of the action is in the jail tank. Los Angeles is the locale.

Oliver Borden, co-starring with Lawrence Gray in "Pajamas," and the first chapter of the "Beauty Parlor" series, taken from the H. C. Witmer Cosmopolitan magazine stories will close out tonight's programme.

Sensational revelations of a new principle in the science of thermodynamics have just been made in Paris by Prof. Raoul Pictet, the veteran scientist. In the course of a lecture he showed that it is possible to construct a motor which will utilize the entire quantity of heat available from any given source, whereas the most efficient steam engine at present cannot utilize more than 20 per cent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Begins Law Practice Here

Maurice W. Meyer, who has passed the state bar examinations, has opened a law office at 5-5 Broadway. He has previously been practicing law for three years in New York city, but preferred to return to his home town.

Mr. Meyer is the son of Isaac Meyer of 89 Fairmount street, graduated at Norwich Free Academy, 1917, Columbia university, 1922, and St. Lawrence university law school, 1925. He was a Phi Beta Kappa man at Columbia and graduated with honors in each school.

Palace Theatre

Many people have regarded the adventures of Jiggs and Maggie in the comic pages of the land—and have remarked:

"They ought to make a great movie."

They ought and they did. Jiggs and Maggie, Dinty Moore and the rest of the George McManus comic characters have come to life on the picture screen—and the result is one of the most hilarious comedies in history. "Bringing Up Father," will be shown at the Palace theatre, today, tomorrow and Saturday.

The new Cosmopolitan production is not a cinema caricature, either. It is an intensely human story, as a matter of fact, and the hilarious comedy that embellishes it is all the funnier because the characters are so real and human. There is a bit of heart interest—some romance, and everything else that goes into screen entertainment—but the laughs predominate.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, the screen's famous feminine comedy team, garner most of the laughs in an excruciatingly funny series of squabbles and other adventures. Miss Moran in the role of Maggie and Miss Dress

POETRY

The Finding of the First Mayflower

The gray mists on the hillside fall,
The gray gulls o'er the harbor call;
With silent tread they wander down
Through last year's leaves and grasses brown.
Said he, "The months go by, this year,
And all is still and dead.
Is it, then, always winter here?"
"The spring will come," she said.

An east wind cuts the mist in twain—
There is the straight sea line again.
She draws her mantle close, and he,
Turning his back upon the sea,
Speaks: "Lord, Thy servant here behold!
My sins upon my head;
But why, Lord, stay us with Thy cold?"
"The spring will come," she said.

She drops her head, and at her feet
There is a flower, white and sweet;
They brush the leaves aside, and there
Its pink and white are everywhere,
A ray of sun—and all the slope
Laughs with its white and red.
"It is the Mayflower of our hope;
The spring is come," she said.

—By Edward Everett Hale

Quaker Ladies

More shy than the shy violet,
Hiding when the wind doth pass
Nestled in the nodding grass,
With morning mist all wet,
In open woodland ways
The Quaker Lady strays.
Pale as noonday cloudlets are Floating in the blue,
This little wildwood star
Blooms in light and dew.

Sun and shadow on her hair
Flowers about her feet,
Pale and still and sweet;
As a nun all pure and fair,
Through the soft spring air
In the light of God
Deborah walks abroad.

Her little cap it hath a grace
Most demure and grave,
And her kerchief's modest lace
Veils the lovely wave
Above her maiden heart,
Where only gentle thoughts have part
Even the tying of her shoe
Hath beauty in it, too,
A delicate sweet art.

Hiding when the wind goes by,
Not afraid, yet shy,
The tiny flower takes from the sky
Life's own light and dew,
And its exquisite hue.
And the little Quaker maid,
Timidly, yet not afraid,
Unfolds the sweetness of her soul
To heavenly control,
And wears upon her quiet face
The Spirit's tender grace.

WAUREGAN COFFEE SHOP POPULAR WITH NORWICH PEOPLE

The Wauregan Coffee Shop has met instant favor with the people of Norwich, as well as with hundreds of people who travel through the city daily.

The Wauregan Coffee Shop, located just to the right of the Main street entrance to the hotel and with inside outlets into the hotel proper, is decorated in antique finish and presents a most pleasing atmosphere throughout.

Directly in the center of the coffee shop is the large horseshoe counter, finished in black and orange. Placed conveniently about this counter are low comfortable stools which assures every patron of the shop all the comforts of chairs.

Another feature of the coffee shop is the location of the broilers and ranges for cooking. Here may be seen the quick order cooks, working in full view of the patrons of the shop. To one side of the range is the spacious refrigerator, always freshly stocked with food.

The shop is ventilated with the latest of ventilating systems, thus assuring patrons that no odor of cooking may escape into the shop.

On three sides of the coffee shop is the balcony. Here are tables arranged especially for those who would prefer a little more privacy while eating. Tables are also placed on two sides of the main floor.

The former lunch bar, located in the hotel proper, connects with the new coffee shop. This is now nicely fitted out with tables and booths. An entrance from the lobby of the hotel affords patrons entrance to this room, which has been especially designed for more private patrons.

To everyone entering the Wauregan Coffee Shop one thing is instantly fixed in the mind. That is that the shop has been designed and furnished for quick and efficient service. Quick and efficient service plus delightful and properly cooked foods at popular prices is the policy of the shop. Norwich people have learned this already and the management of the hotel invites others to visit the shop and become acquainted.

AIRPLANE WILL DO FIRST WORK IN RE-VALUATION OF NORWICH PROPERTY

The first move in the work of carrying out the programme of revaluation of taxable property in Norwich will be made within the next few days when the L. & H. Aircraft corporation of Hartford will fly over Norwich taking photographs with the Fairchild mapping camera under the auspices of the Fairchild Aerial Surveys, according to a letter from Charles M. Emerson, general sales manager, addressed to the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, and received Wednesday.

As soon as it became known that the Manufacturers Appraisal company had secured the contract the chamber of commerce immediately got in touch with the Fairchild Aerial Surveys to find out if they could possibly take photographs for use in the publicity booklet which the chamber is about to publish. In reply to this Mr. Emerson says: "I have already informed Mr. Lamb that at the time the maps are made of Norwich, Conn., we will instruct our photographer to remove the mapping camera from the mount and take 3 high altitude oblique views of Norwich. This will give photographs from negatives 7 1-2 x9 1-2 inches in size, which will permit of enlargement to a size of 30x40 inches. The fact that these views will be taken with the Fairchild mapping camera will ensure the highest quality of photographs.

"This aerial survey will be made from Hartford as a base, and undoubtedly the flying will be done by the L. & H. Aircraft Corp.

"We are only too glad to cooperate with you in regard to the procurement of oblique views and wish to assure you of our earnest desire to give you every aid and assistance in your work that it is possible for us to give you. Thanking you for the interest shown in this matter, we are, Fairchild Aerial Survey Inc."

WON FIRST PRIZE IN PACKER ESSAY CONTEST

In the essay contest in Packer school in Canterbury, the first prize was taken by Anna Kucapaloff of the eighth grade. Her essay was upon "Good Citizenship," and was as follows:

In school this year I wanted to acquire proficiency in my studies so I could better fulfill my duties of citizenship. I did my best in arithmetic because when I leave school I want to be reliable in any work I may do. It is a discourtesy to impose poor spelling and illegible writing upon others so I worked hard to improve in both those subjects. History and geography helped me to be public spirited. I have learned to think honestly and never give or take unfair help. I was not afraid to tell my teacher what I did not understand in order that she might help me. "Do the right thing," was my aim when there was no one to tell me what to do. To be a good citizen of the school it was necessary for me to obey the laws of the school made by the pupils and teacher. I always began my work promptly when it was assigned, also did my home work and had all my papers in at exactly the time they were required. I did my part to keep the recitation going, never allowing it to lag nor criticising anyone unless I wished to help him.

This year I took special care of my health as it is one of the most important things in the world. I visited the dentist and had my teeth filled. In order to improve my eyesight I have had my glasses changed every little while. These things helped me to do better in my school work. I exercised out doors every day and slept more than ten hours with my windows open. I was clean and neat both in school and at home. I always carried a clean handkerchief and held it to my mouth when was sneezing or coughing. I tried to sit and stand erect. I began each day by washing my hands and face, ears and neck, combing my hair and brushing my teeth. In place of coffee, with my hot breakfast, I drank cocoa or milk and took plenty of time to chew the food thoroughly. Almost every day I had some kind of fruit and vegetables. During the last two weeks I helped my teacher in physical training period by teaching the lower grades new games.

When working or playing with other pupils I tried to be courteous, kind and thoughtful. I did useful things without being told both at home and at school. During play period I was loyal to my teacher and tried to have it win. At the same time I wanted to be a good sport and not boast if my team won.

In Bible class I tried to remember every important word spoken about God, obeyed the teacher cheerfully and did not talk or laugh while prayer was offered. I was careful not to interrupt others while they were conversing. I tried to be fair during the play hour and refrain from any unnecessary noise. I was polite to all and respectful to those older than myself.

When I was left at home alone for a short time, I was kind t. the animals and fed them regularly. If strangers stopped to inquire the way I was always willing to direct them to the best of my ability.

I was careful not to waste anything belonging to the school, home or neighbors. I did not spend money for unnecessary things and saved as much money as possible for graduation.

SUED FOR $5,000 FOR INJURIES BY AUTOMOBILE

Jacob Kopp of New London is made defendant in a $5,000 auto-negligence suit brought by Andrew Nichols of Waterford, according to papers returnable to the superior court.

Nichols claims that on March 27, 1927, while riding as a passenger in the defendant's car at about 12:30 a. m., when the car was crossing the Thames river bridge from Groton to New London, it crashed another car. The plaintiff claims that the accident occurred as a result of negligent driving by the defendant.

The plaintiff claims to have been seriously injured and also deprived of several weeks pay at $50 a week.

PROPOSE G. & E. OFFICE ON CITY BARN SITE

A new city barn is to be asked for at the special city meeting called for April 26th. The proposition is to turn the present old barn site at Union square over to the gas and electric department which will erect a modern three story building on the site and use the new building as their office headquarters. The gas and electric department are willing to pay over to the city $30,000 for the old building. This amount will provide for the erection of a new barn for the street department in some other location of the city.

The gas and electric department is paying a yearly rental of about $4,000 for their present quarters on Shetucket street. The present quarters are not large enough for the needs of the department, which has a lease on the floor space until 1931.

The gas and electric commissioners at a recent meeting voted in favor of the plan to purchase the city barn property and to erect there a modern three story brick building, fire proof, with adequate accommodations for its many uses.

The city proposes to build the new barn on land owned by the city on Brook and Baltic streets, now used as a dump.

Telephones denote a loss of eight for March of this year. The local factories are operating at about 68 per cent of normal.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that due to defective wiring a barn, icehouse and other buildings on the farm caught fire from the high tension power lines and were completely destroyed on April 10, 1928.

The state police of the Groton barracks instituted a drive Monday afternoon to enforce the restrictive features of the statutes pertaining to outdoor advertising and three East Lyme gasoline filling station proprietors were arrested by Officer John H. Smith, charged with erecting advertising signs at a distance of more than 200 feet from their places of business.

Those arrested were Mrs. Emily Dunn, owner of the Hill Top filling station on Niantic Hill, who is specifically charged with erecting a sign 1,200 feet east of the station; Harry Koss, also of Niantic Hill, charged with having a sign 800 feet east of his station, and John W. Flynn, whose garage in the Little Boston section of East Lyme, is alleged to have been advertised on a sign located two and one half miles away.

The three defendants were ordered to appear in the East Lyme justice court on Saturday. The arrests are the first that the state police have made, but it is planned to extend the drive against the obnoxious outdoor advertising evils existing in other towns of the county, and the drive it was said, will continue until this form of advertising has been brought within the bounds of the law.

ELECTRIC POWER MAKES FOR INDUSTRIAL SAFETY

Electrical power has been responsible for the removal in Connecticut of industrial hazards innumerable in number, which, if industry had grown to its present magnitude with the use of mechanical power alone, would have resulted in annual casualties and loss of life to an appaling extent. Electricity with its flexibility and possibilities of remote control has resulted in immeasurable advances in the comfort and well-being of the worker and his employer, just as it has brought ease and comfort into their homes.

Through the use of electricity it has become possible to transmit power from a central station to various places in a manufacturing plant without the use of the shafting and belts which have already reaped a disastrous harvest of deaths and injuries, not only in Connecticut, but throughout the entire world. Multiple control from positions near to or remote from the site of the operation of the electrically equipped machine is an exceptionally valuable factor in industrial safety in connection with large and complicated trains of machinery which is most safely controlled from a distance.

Use of electrical illumination has also been a factor of primary importance in bringing about safe methods of operation in industry not only because it is capable of providing satisfactory methods of lighting, but also because light can be applied intensively to any specific point at which operations are taking place by the use of cords and plugs.

REVISED FLOOD CONTROL BILL REACHES COOLIDGE

The Proposed Changes in the Bill Were Outlined to President Coolidge By Representative Tilson—Would Place Some of the Costs on the States Along the Mississippi River, Instead Upon the Federal Government—The Bill in Its Present Form Would Have the Federal Government Pay For the Entire Work.

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—President Coolidge late today took under advisement the proposed revisions of the senate $325,000,000 flood control bill which had been drafted after a series of conferences between house republican leaders and flood control proponents in an effort to meet the chief executive's objections to the bill.

Meanwhile on the house floor the measure was brought to the verge of the amendment stage with only 30 minutes of the lengthy debate program remaining before the amendments are considered. The house leaders hope to proceed through the amending of the measure by tomorrow and reach a final vote on Saturday.

Mr. Coolidge was presented the proposed revisions at a conference at the White House, by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican floor leader, Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee and Chairman Snell of the rules committee. Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, also attended the White House meeting.

The proposed changes of the bill, outlined by Mr. Tilson, include the placing of the cost of the rights of way of levees on the main Mississippi river upon the states instead of the federal government and the diminishing of the proposed planning board of the flood project from five members to three members, the chief of engineers, president of the Mississippi river commission and one civilian. The bill in its present form would have the federal government pay for the entire work.

During the day, two senators—Sackett, republican, Kentucky, and Hawes, democrat, Missouri, discussed the flood problem with President Coolidge and both left the White House with optimistic statements of a compromise being affected. Sackett said that slow but sure progress was being made while Hawes predicted that with a few changes the senate measure would meet with presidential approval.

GOV. TRUMBULL PROCLAIMS MAY 1 CHILD HEALTH DAY

HARTFORD, April 19—(AP)—May 1 will be set aside as Child Health day in Connecticut, according to a statement issued today by Governor Trumbull. In his statement, the governor asks the co-operation of health officers, social units, and of the general public in furthering a work which is vital to well being of future generations.

The statement is as follows:

"Whereas; it is universally recognized that the future strength of our nation and state must be built upon the health of the children of today; and that generally aroused interest in May day as child health day gives occasion to further the plans for the advancement of the health of our children; and

"Whereas; the citizens of the commonwealth of Connecticut are fully alive to the power of an ideal persistently kept before the public;

"Therefore; I, John H. Trumbull, governor of Connecticut, recommend that May 1 be set aside as Child Health day to be observed throughout the state.

"I request the hearty co-operation of all health officials, social units, and of the general public in furthering a work which is vital to the well being of future generations.

(Signed)
JOHN H. TRUMBULL, Governor.
"By Edward L. Kelly, executive secretary."

MONTHLY REPORT OF BUREAU CHILD WELFARE

HARTFORD, April 19—(AP)— More than 1,000 children were under the supervision of the bureau of child welfare of the state department of public welfare on April 1, according to the monthly report of the bureau. The report showed that on April 1, the bureau was supervising 1,068 children in private homes, 592 of whom were in their own homes or the homes of relatives and 476 in foster homes.

During March, 32 children were placed in private homes from the various county homes about the state. Twenty-nine boys and girls passed from care during the month, having become 18 years of age. During March the bureau made investigations in connection with 59 children against whom petitions were filed for commitment to county homes, but only 32 of these were committed, other plans being made for the remaining 27. Most of these were placed with relatives or returned to their homes.

On April 1, it was announced, there were 379 private homes licensed by the department of public welfare to care for children. During the month two homes were found which were not conforming to the state's requirements.

"BLACK LISTING" BREAK AT THE D. A. R. CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—The long expected open rift in the harmony of the 37th Continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution finally appeared today but with every indication that it will be squelched tomorrow.

The break came when Mrs. St. Omer Roy, delegate from Fort Scott, Kansas, and secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, submitted resolutions of protest against the "black listing" of speakers, by some D. A. R. chapters, the alleged "dictation of national policies by the national officers," and the national defense program. Later she sought recognition on the floor to bring up the subject but was ignored.

The resolutions committee will consider the resolutions tomorrow. If not reported out by the necessary two-thirds vote of the committee they may be ordered out by any delegate. Even their most ardent supporters, however, do not expect favorable action by the congress.

COURT DECISION IN FAVOR OF RAILWAY CLERKS

HOUSTON, Tex., April 19—(AP)—Another victory was scored by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks in its controversy with the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana here today when Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson made permanent an injunction restraining the railroad officials from interfering with the labor organization.

Judge Hutcheson held that the rail officials had disregarded the mediation provisions of the federal railway labor act of 1926 and had violated the terms of the temporary injunctions he issued almost a year ago by fostering a "company union" of clerks to displace the brotherhood.

Counsel for the road announced an appeal would be taken to test the mediation section of the federal statute.

Refusal of the company to accede to the brotherhood's demand for increased wages precipitated the court fight.

ARMS EXPERTS TESTIFY IN GUILFOYLE TRIAL

HARTFORD, April 19—(AP)—Ballistic experts who testified before the jury which convicted Gerald Chapman of the murder of a New Britain policeman, testified in the same court room today before the three judges of the superior court who are trying Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle for the murder of Mrs. Maximin Gaudet on Jan. 18. With their testimony on record, State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn announced that the state is about ready to rest its case.

The testimony of J. Henry Fitzgerald, the first ballistic expert called, was attacked by Robinson, on the grounds that Fitzgerald did not have photographs of the shells which he examined, nor had he any drawings to illustrate the markings which he described to the court. Fitzgerald declared that he had fired three shots from the automatic pistol which the state says was used to shoot Mrs. Gaudet and Guilfoyle, and that the markings on the discharged shells were identical with those on the shells which are alleged to have been picked up in the Guilfoyle apartment building after the double shooting. He also testified to the fact that smokeless powder leaves black or gray marks, depending on the distance the pistol is held from the object at which it is fired. Bullets in a wall of the building where the crime was committed, were fired from directly opposite, he said, but one entered the wall at a 90-degree angle.

TESTIMONY CONCLUDED IN THE SINCLAIR TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—The taking of testimony in the conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair was concluded today when the defense suddenly rested its case after placing on the stand character witnesses who said that the oil man's reputation for honesty and fair dealing was good.

The action was most surprising to the government prosecutors, who had expected that the long deposition taken by Sinclair's counsel from Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, would be introduced and that Sinclair might testify in his own defense. The deposition was not produced, defense counsel said, because evidence which it had been expected the government would introduce was not offered.

Closing arguments will be made tomorrow, with the prospect that the case will reach the jury by noon Saturday.

Defense counsel announced that Sinclair was not placed on the stand because M. T. Everhart, of Pueblo, Colorado, son-in-law of Fall, had told the story of the Liberty bond transaction between the two principals as the oil man himself would have told it.

SENATOR HEFLIN AGAIN ATTACKS GOV. AL SMITH

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—A threat to call the roll of senate democrats on the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith, for the democratic presidential nomination, was made today in the senate by Senator Heflin, dem., Ala., during another attack on the New York governor.

His threat was made after Senator Caraway, a member of the Arkansas delegation had failed to respond to an invitation to arise and deny published reports that the Arkansas delegation will vote for Smith at the first opportunity.

"I'm going to call the roll here on this question soon," Heflin shouted.

"You're fixing now to break up a quorum," Caraway retorted.

"If I do I will suggest the absence of a quorum and interrogate you as you come back into the chamber," the Alabaman responded.

Charging that there is a campaign fund for Gov. Smith, the like of which Mark Hanna never would have dreamed, Senator Heflin said he understood that his demand for a senate investigation of campaign expenditures now was under consideration.

LATEST REPORTS FROM MARINES IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 19—(AP)—Reports from the district east of Quilali between the Jicaro and Coco Rivers state that marine patrols have unearthed caches of supplies at a number of points indicating that the Sandino rebels have been planning to congregate in that region. Forty tons of corn were found in one place as well as blankets, cooking utensils and some ammunition.

Five patrols operating in that region during the past few weeks engaged a number of small bands of rebels. The marines believe that Augusto Sandino, the rebel leader, either is hiding in the wilderness in that region or is working toward the Honduran border.

GRAND JURY HEARING IN CASE OF MRS. KNAPP

ALBANY, N. Y., April 19—(AP)—The story of why and how former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp employed seven of her close relatives on the 1925 census was partly unfolded today before the special grand jury investigating her administration of the numeration by the first one of the seven to take the witness stand.

The witness was Mrs. Helen B. Smith, a sister-in-law, formerly of Hornell, N. Y., and now a graduate student at Columbia university, New York. Credited with having received $3,420 in census salary, she was closely questioned by Special Prosecutor George Z. Medalie regarding the allegation that she never had done any actual work. She will continue her testimony next Monday when the jury reconvenes for its fourth week.

Her husband, Charles Hubbell Smith, a brother of Mrs. Knapp, who is a graduate student at Harvard university, also was to have taken the stand, but the sudden illness of his sister, Julia A. Smith, forced him to leave the city. He will take the stand on Monday, together with Clara Blanche Knapp, a step-daughter of the former state official, and Julia Smith, if she recovers from her indisposition by that time.

Late in the afternoon, the grand jury suddenly shifted from its consideration of the relatives' part in the census by filing into the supreme court to ask instructions from Justice Stephen Callaghan regarding the possibility of indicting Dr. Walter Laidlaw, executive secretary of the Cities Census Committee, Inc., of New York city, and sponsor of the original charges against Mrs. Knapp, for his alleged failure to register as a "lobbyist" during the legislative sessions of 1925 and 1926.

A short time previously, Dr. Laidlaw had left the witness stand after telling in detail of his early inquiries into what he regarded as irregularities in Mrs. Knapp's conduct of the census. No hint came from the confines of the jury room as to the nature of the testimony.

MILLER NOT TO SEEK A STAY OF SENTENCE

NEW WYORK, April 19—(AP)—Counsel for Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, informed United States Attorney Tuttle today that Miller would not seek a stay of sentence or ask probation and would surrender himself on Monday.

Tuttle said that Miller, who was convicted of defrauding the government of his best services in allowing a $7,000,000 claim for return of war-impounded enemy property, would be sent at once to Atlanta to begin serving his 18 months sentence.

Miller was tried twice with former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. Both juries disagreed as to Daugherty and the first one as to Miller.

Miller will pay his own way to Atlanta and the expenses of a deputy to avoid traveling on a prisoners' train.

COMMANDER DANIEL TO LEAVE BRITISH NAVY

LONDON, April 19—(AP)—Commander H. M. Daniel, who wrote the letter of complaint respecting Rear Admiral Collard that brought about the famous "Royal Oak" court martial, has decided to leave the navy. The Daily Mail quotes him as saying that he sees no prospect of advancement, even if restored to a ship, and therefore he will seek a new profession.

Commander Daniel, like Captain Kenneth G. B. Dewar, was found guilty of conduct subversive to discipline and was sentenced to be reprimanded and dismissed from his ship. This meant that he had to go on half pay until reassigned to duty.

FLOOD OF APPLICANTS FOR ARTISTS' LEAGUE

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—Frederick Ballard Williams, noted American artist, announced today that more than 750 applications had been received for membership in the American Artists Profesional league now in process of organization. He expressed the opinion that 5,000 artists would be enrolled before the first annual meeting on Jan. 1.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE ACTION IN PLACE OF DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, April 19—(AP)—A legal technicality today forced Shelby Worrall Somerset to substitute a separate maintenance action for the divorce suit she had planned against Pat Somerset, English actor.

The fact that Mrs. Somerset has not lived in California a year made it impossible for her to file a divorce action. She said that her husband earns $350 a week and asks attorneys' fees, expense money and permanent alimony.

LONG ISLAND FOREST FIRE WAS VISIBLE IN CONNECTICUT

FAIRFIELD, April 19—(AP)—A forest fire on Long Island attracted the attention of residents and others along the beach here tonight. Although the sound is nearly 18 miles wide at this point, the flames were visible along the Connecticut shore. There were a number of calls from Bridgeport and surrounding persons who saw the reflection, and believed there was a fire at Fairfield beach.

CUBA STANDS BACK OF WASHINGTON AMABASSADOR

HAVANA, April 19— (AP) —The Cuban secretary of state, Rafael Martinez Ortiz, declared to the Associated Press correspondent today that Cuba stood behind Dr. Orestes Ferrara, the Cuban ambassador at Washington, in his statement in rebuttal of the charges intimated in the resolution of United States Senator Shipstead that the rights and property of United States citizens in Cuba were not being fully protected under the Platt amendment.

Fatality From Wind Storm in Hartford

Negro Girl the Victim—Several Persons Were Injured—Buildings Unroofed

HARTFORD, April 19—(AP)—One life was lost, several persons were injured, homes and buildings were damaged and a century-old 100-foot church spire rocked dangerously in the gale, endangering Main street below at the height of the evening rush hour as a result of a severe windstorm here today.

Shirley Jones, 7 year old Negro girl, of 130 Village street, was caught under a pile of bricks which tumbled from a four story building into the yard where she was playing. She died two hours later in St. Sinai hospital from a fracture of the skull.

Miss Minnie V. Stevens, of 300 Asylum avenue, was swept off her feet on Central row by a sudden gust of wind and pinned between two automobiles. She was taken to Hartford hospital in a dazed condition, suffering from abrasions and injuries to her scalp.

The South Congregational church spire, at Main and Buckingham streets, was observed to be swaying several feet under the force of the gale shortly before five o'clock. Police roped off a large area in the immediate vicinity and firemen who were summoned by a box alarm aided in clearing the streets. Hundreds of persons on their way home from offices and shops were forced to detour. Trolley and automobile traffic was tied up more than an hour.

DAMAGE WAS CAUSED BY WIND IN DANBURY

DANBURY, April 19—(AP)—One person was injured and several thousands of dollars damage was caused by the wind of gale velocity which swept this section this afternoon.

Miss Margaret McCarthy was injured when the temporary front of the new Palace theater which is under construction, was blown down and the heavy timbers pinned her to the sidewalk. She was taken to the Danbury hospital where it is said she is expected to recover.

Several store windows and a score of signs were wrecked by the wind and the telephone service was slightly crippled when a number of trees and one pole were blown across the wires.

WINDSOR TOBACCO SHED WAS DEMOLISHED

WINDSOR, April 19—(AP)—More than $5,000 property damage was caused here this afternoon, when the gale which swept this district, reached the height of its velocity at 4:30 o'clock. A large tobacco shed owned by Patrick Cleary was completely demolished, at a loss of $3,000 and a number of large trees and store signs were blown down.

NEW BRITAIN THEATRE UNROOFED BY WIND

NEW BRITAIN, April 19—(AP)—John Bernardo, 22, was possibly mortally hurt when the wind storm lifted 100 square feet of tin roofing from the Strand theater and hurled it into an area way at the rear of the building. Bernardo was caught beneath the twisted metal and suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. His condition is critical.

When the roofing was torn from the building someone sounded the fire alarm and members of the audience started for the exits in a near panic. Deputy Fire Chief M. T. Souney who was in the auditorium, jumped to the stage and in a few words quieted the spectators who left the building in an orderly manner.

CONSIDERABLE PROPERTY DAMAGE IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, April 19—(AP)—Considerable property damage was caused here late this afternoon by a wind which weather bureau officials called one of the strongest recorded in April during the last several years.

A few minutes after fourteen bricklayers and 12 laborers had left the Elks club building which is under construction the gale hurled a score of heavy iron beams from the top floor of the six story skeleton structure necessitating the closing of the street to traffic.

A three-story veranda on an Ellsworth avnue house was hurled 30 feet and demolished; a number of store windows were shattered and many trees in different sections of the city were uprooted.

Mrs. Charles Kirkland Roys, recently resigned as executive secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church in America, was elected dean of Wells college, a women's college at Aurora-on-Cayuga, N. Y.

Collapse of Wall of School Playgrounds

Two School Boys Were Killed and a Score Injured While at Play in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 19—(AP)—Two school boys were killed and a score injured, four so seriously they may die, today when an old brick wall beneath which they were playing marbles while awaiting the school bell, toppled over. The children were buried beneath tons of bricks as 300 other pupils on the playground looked on horror stricken.

Hundreds of parents, frantic with fear, rushed to the Plamondon school on the southwest side, scene of the accident, to hunt for their children.

While distracted mothers looked on or searched among the bricks, teachers, firemen or police uncovered the bodies of the injured or dead.

Classes were dismissed as school authorities started an investigation which immediately brought conflicting statements. Miss Hertha Giffey, principal of the school, said that the condition of the old cracked wall, eight feet high and 125 feet long, had been reported to the board of education three times.

Lewis Coath, president of the board, said no reports about the wall had been received.

A strong wind was blowing and some believed its force was sufficient to cause the wall to topple down. The two boys killed were Stanley Kamak, 7, and George Parritz, 11.

FLOATING ICE CAKES PREVENT RELIEF WORK

ASHLAND, Wis., April 19—(AP)—Floating ice cakes and great unbroken stretches barred the way tonight of those who attempted to reach Madeline Island, where residents are in need of food supplies, which have diminished during their isolation from the mainland.

A mild epidemic of influenza and the need of an operation by a woman resident was reported over the single telephone line connecting with this city today.

A blizzard last night blew some of the ice out of the channel in Chequamegon bay near the island, but efforts to reach the island today failed.

Members of the colony are in no immediate danger of starvation but their supply of meat and some staples, including flour, has been exhausted. Further efforts to reach the island from Bayfield, in a lanuch, will be made and a launch may be sent from the Bad River Indian reservation at Odonah if the need becomes imperative.

NEW JERSEY FOREST FIRES WHIPPED BY STRONG WINDS

NEWARK, N. J., April 19—(AP)—Whipped by strong winds, fire tonight swept over large territory in several sections of the state, burning here after acre of woodland and destroying, according to estimates, upwards of 30 dwelling houses.

The most extensive of the fires started in Warren Grove, about six miles southwest of Barnegat, and swept its way north to Wareton, and Manahawkin.

Burning over about seven square miles, the fire destroyed at least ten homes in the lower section of Barnegat and reports from the fire fighters stated that there were at least 20 other dwelling houses in the direct path of the flames in the outlying sections of the city which were believed destroyed.

MABSON DIVORCE HELD ILLEGAL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—The divorce that Hendon B. Mabson, millionaire hotel operator, obtained in Florida May 4, 1927, from his wife, Kathleen Anna Mabson, was held illegal by Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney today.

The court found in conclusions of law filed today that neither Mabson nor his wife was legal resident of Winter Haven, Florida, where Mabson owned hotel property and where they lived during the winter months prior to their separation.

Mrs. Mabson has filed a suit for separation in the New York courts and contested the validity of the Florida decree.

LITTLE POODLE DOG BIT TEN CHILDREN IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, April 19—(AP)—Charging as though mad into a group of children playing in the yard of the Elias Howe school at 1:15 p. m., today, a little brown poodle dog bit ten children before he was corralled. The children were playing during the noon recess. None was seriously hurt but all were frightened.

BREMEN AND ITS CREW MAY ARRIVE IN NEW YORK MONDAY OR TUESDAY

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen and its German-Irish crew will arrive in New York on Monday or Tuesday if the hopes of the expeditions sponsor are realized.

"Intend by all means coming by Bremen," Baron Von Huenefeld telegraphed the North German Lloyd offices here today from Greenly Island. "Plane, thanks to devoted assistance Cuisinier and his company (Canadian Transcontinental Airways), soon clear for start. Hope arrive New York Monday or Tuesday. Will telegraph time start. Intermediate landing probable."

It was believed the intermediate landing would be made at Murray bay, where a new supply of fuel could be obtained.

SNOW STORM SLOWING UP RELIEF WORK FOR BREMEN

LAKE STE. AGNES, Que., April 19—(Canadian Press)—A snow storm which blanketed most of Quebec province today slowed up plans to carry relief to the German members of the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen at Greenly Island.

Airplanes assembled here in preparation for flights to Greenly Island remained on the ground today, although the first consignments of repair parts and fuel for the Bremen arrived at her relief base. The parts included a new propeller to replace that which the Bremen damaged in landing.

FITZMAURICE SENT TO THE MAINLAND BY COMPANIONS

LAKE STE. AGNES, Murray Bay, Quebec, April 19—(AP)—Major James Fitzmaurice told an Associated Press correspondent today that it was decided to send him out to civilization from Greenly Island instead of one of his German companions on the ocean flight in the Bremen because money was the chief need "and they thought I, being an Irishman, might be able to jolly more out of people."

He laughed at his joke and then turned serious again, and told the real reason why he had been selected to go to the outer world.

"We did not flip a coin to decide it," he said, commenting on previous news dispatches. "My companions agreed that it would be better for me to come because I alone could speak English well.

"What did we need money for? Well, we knew that we would need it to pay for the labor to repair the Bremen. In addition to that, we needed money to buy new outfits of clothing. We did not have a clean shirt between us. And of course, in addition to that, we knew we would have to spend money in order to secure repair parts for the plane."

Fitzmaurice said he hoped to have the necessary repair parts for the Bremen shipped down to Greenly Island within 24 hours.

FAVORABLE RECEPTION OF SEC'Y KELLOGG'S PEACE PACT

Opinion in League of Nations Circles is That the Proposal Strengthens the Covenant of the League—The American Proposal is Regarded in Geneva of Such Importance That Hopes Are Expressed That the United States Eventually Will Arrange a Meeting of the Signatory Powers When War Looms as a Menace.

GENEVA, April 19—(AP)—The American peace pact proposed by Secretary of State Kellogg, in the opinion voiced generally in league of nations circles tonight, strengthens the covenant of the league, and does not weaken it.

The American consul, S. Pinkney Tuck, acting on instructions from Washington, has deposited with the league secretariat ten copies of the Kellogg note relative to a multilateral treaty for outlawing war, and this action in transmitting the text to the league immediately started an intense discussion on the subject in league quarters. It is pointed out that the American project possesses immense value to international peace by closing a serious gap in the covenant. This gap would render war possible should the league council fail to reach unanimity concerning any dispute liable to lead to a rupture between nations.

Article 15 of the covenant leaves the members of the league free to take whatever action they wish if the council is unable unanimously to agree upon which party to the dispute is in the wrong. But if all the members of the league sign the American pact, it is explained they would be stopped from engaging in war, even when the covenant authorized war.

In other words the Kellogg treaty would extend to the signatories what the Locarno pacts have accomplished in insuring peace on the Rhine.

The American move is regarded here as of such tremendous importance to peace that hopes are expressed that the United States eventually will proceed a step further and arrange a meeting of the signatory powers when war looms as a menace, thus extending to the entire world what the signatories are already committed to do in the Pacific under the four power pact signed at Washington.

It is added that this suggestion is not offered with the design of inducing the United States to enter the league of nations by the side door, but in the belief that consultation in a moment of peril would reduce the risk of war again convulsing the world.

TWO SCORE KILLED BY EARTHQUAKES IN BULGARIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 19—(AP)—A population numb with despair and fear was pictured tonight in reports from the Philippopolis district, visited last night by the second shattering earthquake within a week. Almost 100,000 persons are shelterless, and more than two score are known to have lost their lives.

Their homes are in ruins, their possessions gone, their highways broken, bridges have been destroyed and railway tracks twisted away on rights of way that have sunk six feet in spots.

The changing face of nature shows whole hills moved and their contours altered. In places underground reservoirs have broken through and are spouting water and sand like miniature geysers.

The dead are uncounted because of the interruptions to communications and disorganization of local governments. But in Philippopolis there are more than 20 dead and 60 of the more than 100 injured there are in serious conditions. In five villages near that city 27 persons were killed and scores injured. Sadavo, seat of a school of agriculture and model farms, was destroyed.

Borrisovovrad, which suffered severely in the previous quake, was again devastated.

In Philippopolis only the higher parts of the city are habitable. The other sections were crashed into ruin.

The quakes continue, in some sections there have been tremors on an average of a half dozen to the hour.

GANG LEADER BIRGER PAYS DEATH PENALTY

BENTON, Ill., April 19—(AP)—Charlie Birger, southern Illinois outlaw, paid with his life today for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams, of West City.

With a smile on his face, Birger was hanged in the yard of the Franklin county jail in the presence of more than 500 persons who crowded into the stockade. It was the last legal hanging in Illinois as the electric chair has been substituted for the gallows.

Birger was led from his cell at 9:45 a. m. by Sheriff James Pritchard and seven minutes later deputy sheriffs were moving the crowd toward the exits, shouting, "It's all over. Move out now." The execution had been scheduled for exactly 10 a. m., but Birger told the sheriff to "get it over with."

Birger ascended the scaffold followed by J. R. Mazur, East St. Louis rabbi, reading from the Bible.

Walking directly to the spot where he was to stand, Birger halted, smartly executed a "left face," learned as a cavalryman in the army, glanced cooly around and remarked "Beautiful world." He nodded to several friends among the spectators, while a deputy strapped his legs together.

Phil Hanna, volunteer hangman, stepped forward and asked Birger to forgive him for what he was about to do. "I'vn forgiven everybody," Birger said. They shook hands. Sheriff Pritchard extended his hand but Birger refused it.

The body was taken this afternoon to St. Louis, where it will remain at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ray Shamsky, until time for burial Saturday.

With two other men he went to Eastford early yesterday morning, parking an automobile near a tree on which were posted the fishing regulations. When Deputy Warden Willis came along, Acker was about one hundred feet distant on land owned by Paul Osut through which the Natchaug river flows. Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby
—Babies Have Nerves—
By RUTH BRITTAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the over-stimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends. Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting, and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Fretfulness, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep, yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhoea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.

JEWETT CITY

NO MORE TRAIN SERVICE FOR PASSENGERS AFTER 30TH

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 19.—The last trolley car was operated over the local steam iron two years ago last Nov. 30, and the motor coach service, which has proven efficient and dependable, began. With the advanced time summer schedules which becomes effective April 30, the last remnant of passenger service will be taken off with the discontinuance of both the north and south bound trains. This means that after the last train goes south Saturday night April 28, incredible as it may seem, no more passengers may "take the train" at the Jewett City station.

The road was built through Jewett City in 1839, and there have been times since that date when its passenger service, with its two express boat trains, was something for local jewelers to brag about. The morning north bound mail, and the Boston milk car will be handled much as usual, but on a different class of train.

The morning train from Plainfield to Providence, and the 4:10 p. m. train from Providence to Plainfield will be operated week days only as freight train.

The weather man controlling this section got things tail-end-to Thursday. Predicted showers for the late afternoon came in the early morning. The afternoon proved cloudless.

There are a few over 400 dogs in the town of Griswold, and up to Thursday evening there had been but a trifle in excess of 10 per cent registered.

With the trout catch in local waters far ahead of recent years, both as to numbers and size, Willow brook is being frequently cited. Somebody asked today "Just where is this Willow brook?"

Apparently the proposed new road construction, which is to eliminate the railroad crossing is at a stand-still. About 18 years ago a survey was made, contemplating the construction of a steel trestle which should pass over the crossing. The present grade was taken about opposite the John Bray store, and reached again at the lower end of South Main street. Main street was not a state road here then, and the town, through its attorney, the late H. H. Burnham, so vigorously and effectively opposed this plan that nothing ever came of it. Now, it is said that the railroad company will present a like survey, hoping for its adoption in the certain to come crossing elimination.

According to statements said to originate with Commissioner J. A. Macdonald, there will be nothing done here and in Sylvandale this summer. At the hearing in Hartford the commission promised that, in the case of new developments, relative to the lay-out of the survey, no action would be forthcoming without another hearing before the utilities commission.

An enjoyable party was given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Collins for their son Robert's fifth birthday, the little guests were Elaine and Archie Smith, Mildred McCarthy, Leonard Wilson, Roland and Robert Bryant, Lillian Greenwood, Chester Potts and Herbert Moray. Game swere played and Archie Smith won the prize for the donkey game. Sandwiches, cake, cookies, candy, fruit, ice cream and soda were served by Mrs. Clay Collins assisted by Mrs. Joseph Potts. The little host received many useful and pretty gifts. Music was furnished by Mr. Clay Collins. The table decorations were pink and white, with the birthday cake decorated the same color. Others attending were Mrs. Thomas McGowan, Miss Helen McGowan, Mrs. James Smith and Mrs. John Wilson.

VOLUNTOWN

Local fishermen were out bright and early on the opening day of the fishing season, trying out their favorite brooks. The luck seemed to vary. The best catch reported was that of Jim Hopkins and Wilfred Marshall who returned home by 9:30 a. m. with a string of thirteen, the smallest weighing one-half pound, while several went over a pound. To them at the season of the day.

-for saving your house

The same prescription . . . filled by the same two partners—the skilled painter and pure lead paint—always gives the same result . . . a weather-proof house.

DOES your house need paint? Then hesitate no longer. Delay means abandoning it to the weather, which knows no mercy . . . and shows none.

Call in a skilled painter . . . the man who always prescribes pure lead paint. With lead paint as his partner and his own skill with the brush, he will save your home and your dollars.

They're a great pair . . . the painter and lead paint, the kind made with pure white-lead such as Dutch Boy. They have been partners for generations.

They will put a paint film on your house that is tough . . . durable . . . weather-proof . . . that does not crack or scale . . . that is economical in every way.

"Dutch Boy" in two forms

Dutch Boy white-lead, in either heavy paste or soft paste form, is sold by leading paint dealers.

Mixed with linseed oil, it produces a superior gloss paint for exterior use. Mixed with Dutch Boy flatting oil, it makes a thoroughly washable flat paint for interiors. In either case, the paint can be colored to exactly the tint or shade you desire.

Free to property owners

DANIELSON

HEALTH OFFICER TO ASSIST IN DANIELSON CLEAN UP WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 19.—Health Officer W. H. Judson gives real impetus to the efforts in behalf of Clean-up week, which is just ahead, by issuing a formal notice elsewhere on this page today relative to what he expects the responsible public is expected to do relative to certain features in the interest of health and cleanliness. The notice sets forth that the comparatively few outside toilets remaining in Danielson must be cleaned out on or before May 5. The notice further indicates that the health officer desires that all ash heaps be removed, tin cans and other accumulated refuse of the winter season be rid of and that all garbage must be placed in cans and covered.

This particular official notice of Dr. Judson is far removed from the realm of propaganda. Those who may elect to regard it as such are flirting with the possibility of being haled into court for a disobedient act under the laws of the state. The notice must be obeyed—though the word must is not in too great favor just now—unless one would risk presentation in court and prosecution therein. In this particular instance, it is cheaper to obey than be negligent or tsubborn. Danielson has a real clean-up campaign on this year, and in issuing the formal notice Dr. Judson, as health officer, is merely asking people to do certain things that should be done for the general good of all.

CAR GOES INTO DITCH ON BROOKLYN-DANIELSON ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 19.—Construction operations on the Danielson-Brooklyn state highway, in course of being rebuilt, figured more or less in the ditching of a small closed car driven by Sidney R. Bard, of Brooklyn last night, and the wrecking of the machine, though no blame is attached in connection with the accident, either by those who figured in it, or others who checked up the case, to the contracting concern or the state itself. Both Mr. Bard, son of Treasurer Sidney W. Bard, of the Brooklyn Savings bank, and Warner Page, also of Brooklyn, escaped from the wreck of the car in which they were riding, with nothing more serious than a shaking up and a few scratches. Their experience, however, is a warning to all drivers to proceed with caution on the Brooklyn-Danielson route.

A feature of the contract being carried out is drainage operations. This involves digging across the state highway to install conduits. Half of the roadway is dug up at any particular point where this work is underway. Half the width of the road is always left open to traffic. Red lights warn night travelers to porceed with caution. However, there are red lanterns on one side of the highway in some place, and red lanterns on the other in some other places. The arrangement happens to be unavoidably, but is a bit confusing and slaw speed for all will spell protection. This information is given in detail here not so much because the accident in which the Bard car figured was serious as to warn all travelers to take their time over this route for the next few months.

A sudden death in Goodyear this morning was that of Joseph Varrier, 0 years of age, who for years post up to about three weeks ago was a resident of West Warwick, R. I. Mr. Varrier, who had been making his home with a son, arose from bed this morning, toppled over and was dead within a few minutes. Heart disease was given as the cause of death. The deceased was a native of Canada, but had lived in this country for many years. His wife died 36 years ago.

A sacred cantata entitled From the Manger to the Cross is to be given Sunday evening at the Congregational church in Brooklyn. James Royle, of Plainfield, is to be the director, and Mrs. Henry Leach, the organist. Mrs. Leach is of Wauregan. There is to be a chorus of 30 voices at this service, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Today can be characterized as just another day nearer the time, not so far distant, when Roland Lalone and Albert Raymond will be brought back from Springfield to Connecticut to stand trial for the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson, of which they are accused. Impatience here at apparent delay in getting the men back into Connecticut is unavoidable. Officers are working as carefully, yet as rapidly as possible, to build up a case against the accused, and are leaving no detail uninvestigated with a view to having as strong a basis for prosecution as possible when the alleged bandits come to trial in this state. This particular case is one in which all of the people of the state of Connecticut are interested. It is to be handled with the greatest exactitude—and that takes time.

Legions of cars bearing Massachusetts registrations in this vicinity today was evidence that the Bay State people were observing Patriots' day which does not happen to be a legal holiday in Connecticut.

An overabundance of trees and shrubbery at St. James' rectory and near the church have been cut down, accounting in a changed appearance of the parish property.

Strikers out of New Bedford cotton mills, canvassing this non-union territory for work, have discovered that jobs are not so plentiful, even at less money than the strikers were getting in New Bedford mills. In this connection there is the contention that they were getting more money prior to the strike than similar workers are being paid here.

A heavy shower this morning temporarily washed out the extreme danger of brush forest fires that have existed hereabouts for the past fortnight—and there is promise of more rain just ahead.

Amateur boxers will get back to battling in Danielson on April 27, if present plans do not go wrong. The bouts are to be held at the state armory.

Inquiry here does not establish that there has been recent progress in the negotiations of Powdrell and Alexander, Inc., for the purchase of the plant of the Connecticut Mills company, a matter that has been pending for several weeks.

Subsequent developments do not appear to indicate that William Sherr was more than superficially injured when he was struck by the car of a hit and run driver at Elmville Monday evening. No trace of the driver has been found.

Danielson golfers who are members of the Putnam Country club are getting out their sticks and taking imaginary slashes at the ball. Tyler Andrews, of Danielson, is to be the professional at the club this season.

Burglars that operated in Putnam last night passed up Danielson, and there was nothing here today to indicate that they had given this town a predatory survey in connection with their operations in this corner of Connecticut.

Among the varied activities that are to take place at Killingly High school as the school year draws toward a close is the annual typewriting contest, in which representatives of other schools in this territory will participate.

Land owners who do distrust trout fishermen are figuratively "kicking" sportsmen off the brooks this year. Several incidents of the kind have been reported. It appears that the fishermen are not welcome because they may be responsible for carelessness resulting in fires, or negligence as to their conduct in taking bars and not replacing them, tearing down walls, and the like.

No announcement has been made as yet as to who is to succeed County Agent F. L. Davis, resigned.

Executives of the Connecticut Mills company who were located here for years write back from Albany-Decatur, Ala., where the new plant of the concern is located, of the cordiality with which they have been received in the southern state and of the manner in which they are being entertained and shown about.

Wilfred L'Heureux, of Prospect street, has purchased from J. C. Witter of 10-room house on Connecticut Mills avenue.

PUTNAM

LITTLE OPPOSITION TO DAYLIGHT SAVING PLAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 19—The movement to put daylight saving time into effect in Putnam has not met with any opposition yet, excepting in the Putnam high school. In past years it has been necessary to keep the institution on standard time when the city went on the daylight saving schedule, in order to allow the pupils coming from Pomfret and Abington, which towns remain on standard time throughout the summer, ample time to reach the school on time. In Putnam it has greatly affected students who work after school hours, making them one hour late in reaching their work and in some instances it meant that the student was forced to leave his work.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph C. Jenkins stated Thursday that the high school would not advance its schedule one hour unless the Pomfret school committee could compromise on the question of time during the summer months.

Local Boy Scouts of troop 1 have pledged themselves to the destroying of caterpillar clusters throughout the city. Other neighboring cities have been launching campaigns for the extinction of the parasites and at a recent meeting of the Putnam troop, the scouts voted to devote their afternoon and week end hikes to the destroying of the clusters that live on the foliage of the countryside. The Boy Scouts attempt to ostrascize these tree pests which will be the first action taken along this line in Putnam.

The directors of the Windham County Farmers' association will meet Monday evening to discuss and probably elect a successor to County Agent Frank L. Davis who has tendered his resignation as director of the association work throughout the county. There are many applications now in the hands of the committee and it is thought that one will be appointed at the meeting Monday evening.

Mr. Davis tendered his resignation April 1 to become efective May 1, when he will leave to take charge of a bigger field in Boston. Mr. Davis during his term as head of the local farm association has greatly advanced its standing and his leaving is regretted by many of those whom he served.

One person in the downtown section of the city was heard today as saying "Putnam is surely in the news," which one might add, is quite correct. During the past few weeks fair Putnam with it's reputation for being a quite and peaceful city has been burdened with excitement that has been warranting front page space in many of the large Metropolitan newspapers. The greatest shakeup yet received in many years was the murder of Policeman Nelson, and closely following it was the recent looting by burglars in one of the local retail stores. Other incidents that have helped to disturb the calm are many and dangerous fires that have caused considerable damage to property.

Now to bring about another wave of Dame Gossip is the recent disturbance of the would be settled water question.

The third annual checker tournament for the championship of Eastern Connecticut will be held at the Putnam Masonic club on Saturday afternoon and evening. The past two meets have been won by Carl E. Hallen of Lebanon and trailing a close second was Putnam's favorite William P. Warren. At this meet Mr. Warren hopes to come out from behind and take the honors home with him. Many other Putnam kings of the spotted board will be on hand in an attempt to gain championship honors.

PUTNAM WATER BOARD DISCUSS RESERVOIRS AGAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 19—The water question that has slowly burned down to embers was stirred up again when the new water committee of the common council, composed of Mayor Charles A. Richard, Alderman Dean, Dubois and Ryan met in secret with the board of water commissioners, last week to discuss plans for a quick settlement of the question. The press was not invited to attend and facts concerning the meeting were learned only recently. Alderman-at-Large Warren Ames a member of the mayor's committee, was not present at the meeting. Many hot discussions bringing out all the facts on both sides were had, and it was learned that the committee representing the mayor and council stood in favor their original plan of the steel tanks as being within the city's fiancial means, even though the vote taken at the special city meeting was overwhelmingly against them and in favor the cement reservoir.

The water commissioners stated that they had already submitted two plans to the council and one had been favored by the people, they felt that they could not under the circumstances submit another to the council, but that they were willing to endorse any plan of improvement to the water department that was endorsed by the mayor and other officials commissioned to act. It was learned that Mayor Richard and the members of the common council are agreed that another and cheaper plan should be submitted for the improvements in the situation, but would leave it entirely to the common council to decide. No other definite facts concerning this meeting could be obtained from those present.

This statement from the water commissioners brings out the much discussed situation before the public once again to debate over. Little is known as what will be the outcome of this meeting until the mayor's committee make a report on their progress.

LOCAL SPECIALTY SHOP IS RANSACKED BY THIEVES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 19—Burglars who made their way into the Noel Dupre Ladies Specialty shop some time during the early hours of Thursday morning have thus far made their way in safety from the police. Only one clue was received by the local police, that of coathangers that were found along the Providence road. It is thought by police that the looters had made their way into Providence where they disposed of the stolen goods.

The local officers have checked up on all clues in Putnam but none of them were found to contain anything that would lead to the catch of the clothing store thieves.

It is now thought the police beats were watched and timed and that the layout of the surroundings were studied and the break was made at a time when the thieves knew that officers were covering some other section of their beat.

The stolen articles were valued in the neighborhood of $2500 and comprised ladies coats, dresses, stockings, silks and underwear. Police of neighboring towns and states have been notified and are all working in an effort to apprehend the looters.

Thursday's break is the first one to be made in Putnam for a period covering three months and police believe that it was done in connection with the same group that staged the overcoat robberies here a few months ago and who have so far eluded the officers.

District Deputy David D. Dercsler and staff of North Grosvenordale will exemplify the 3rd degree to a class of 12 candidates of the Cargill Council, K of C., of Putnam, on Sunday afternoon April 29, at St. John's hall, on Providence street. Mr. Dercsler and staff are frequent visitors at the local council of K. of C. and they have been the installing officers of many degrees worked in Putnam.

The Monthly Well Child conference will be held in Putnam high school auditorium on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Nurses from the state department of health will be present to examine all babies. All previous conferences of this nature that have been held at Putnam have been a decided success and it is thought that this one like others will be largely attended by mothers with theri children.

Richard Mahoney of Worcester is now the guest of his brother, Manager James F. Mahoney of the local theatres.

On account of death in the family, no Saturday evening dance at Abington hall until further notice.—adv.

THIS DOG WOULDN'T BARK EVEN WHEN HE WAS LOST

Marson Langworthy owns a bird dog named Chubby. He paid $175 for it and it came from a town in New York state. On Wednesday the whole village was out hunting for the dog, for it was lost. Young Langworthy said he missed the dog two days before that, going in his automobile around the woods of Ledyard and Old Mystic and North Stonington, burning gas, trying to find his prize dog. He was going to put up a $100 reward as young Langworthy held a record for getting the most game in season, so he was sorry to lose the dog. Early Wednesday evening, before going to bed, he went outside to look at the weather and as he was looking up in the air he saw his dog on the garage roof. It was too dumb to bark. The owner called him down, gave Chubby a good meal and was glad to find him again. The dog has never barked since he has had him, even while in the woods. Now the Boy Scouts can give up the hunt. The scouts were in charge of Walter Buddington.

The alarm rang for a fire on Cedar street at 11:30 Wednesday morning. It was a garage fire, a stone's throw from the fire house, and the engine was near a well. The fire started when the corn-borer scouts were burning a plot and some dead grass was under the garage and caught. The flames got away from the men. The smoke-eaters were in charge of Foreman Palmer. The floor was chopped away by the axe squad to get at the smoke, but no fire, for some of the grass was wet and the only damage done was to about 50 feet of floor. It took 35 minutes before it was safe to leave. The wind was blowing from the southwest. This is the second fire in three days.

The roads at Groton Long Point are being put in shape for the season, by Road Commissioner W. O. Wheeler and men. The roads are having sand put on them.

Eddie Morgan is spending a few days in Norwich.

Alden Brocky has returned from a visit with Taftville friends.

Howard Jackson has resigned as boiler-maker at the shipyard.

The Mechanics' pinochle team, Capt. John Bentley, marched to the fire room Wednesday night to play the second match for the championship of the village. Capt. Jack Ellis had everything ready upstairs at 8:30 and 100 were around the tables to cheer the teams. Firemen's hats and red lanterns were about the rooms. At No. 1 table were L. Brown and S. Fish for Mechanics, and for the firemen, Devesu and his mate, R. Rathbun. The Mechanics' players were trying to outbid the fire-fighters and found them on the short end of the score. Devesu and Rathbun, 5,000; Fish and Brown, 4,430. Then came lucky table No. 2, with J. Bentley and Patterson for the Lodgemen, while B. Balerstrine and A. Brocky were for the Smoke-Eaters. A. Brocky put the firemen back and the Mechanics won, Bentley-Patterson, 5,000; Balerstrine and A. Brocky, 4,880. Over at No. 3 table were three deep-sea fishermen and an A. P. clerk, Short-Weight R. Scaplan, Afraid-to-Bid L. Ashcraft, for the Mechanics, while Engine-Fixer E. Foster and Big-Shot R. Brocky were for the firemen. The Mechanics' players were holding good hands until someone in the crowd said, "How much is square?" Scaplan let a 400-hand slide by and bid 250, while R. Brocky made it 300. It was like hitting a Babe Ruth home run with two men on bases. It was an easy victory for the Fire-Fighters. Foster and R. Brocky, 5,000; Ashcraft and Scaplan, 4,460. At the last table, No. 4, were E. Schoomaker and Big Mike Passi for the Engine Co., with two best Lodgemen trying to win back what their pals lost—Nine-Spot W. Palmer and Heavy Oil O. Beebe. It was the Mechanics' last chance to win. While the Laddermen shot over a drop kick to the Lodgemen on the left, it was too hard to handle and Palmer and Beebe had to bow to the firemen's pinochle twins. The score: Schoomaker and Mike Passi, 7,000, while Beebe and Palmer held 2,150, making a score for the Fire Co., 9,000; Mechanics, 17,010. The Fire Co. lads lost out with a margin of 3,890 points. Ham sandwiches and coffee were passed and the Midgets trio of the Mechanics, Bentley, C. Patterson and R. Scaplan, sang "Wait until we meet again on Front street." The piano was played by Peter Shandeor.

PLAINFIELD

ST. PAUL'S ENGLISH TEA PARTY WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

A large audience witnessed the succession of thrilling scenes in the farce comedy, "Always in Trouble" presented by the entertainment committee of St. Paul's Episcopal church at the fifteenth annual English tea part, Saturday night. Supper was served in St. Paul's hall at five by members of the Woman's auxiliary assisted by members of the G. F. S. The play followed by a dance, took place in the assembly hall of Plainfield Community house.

Guests were present at the entire seven-hour program from points within a radius of seventy miles and the event proved very successful. Tea cakes, cold meats and many kinds of cake were among the good things served at the supper. The tables were decorated with carnations. Announcement was made that the senior boys' club of the parish would present a minstrel and dance in the parish hall in May under direction of the club leader, William Roberts.

The cast of nine, all members of St. Paul's who appeared in the comedy were, Arthur Lyon, Misery Moon; John Heyes, who carried the part of Gideon Blair; Frederick Lever, Tom Rissle; William Alexander, who made a hit as Hiram Tutt with a endless caution "Not Ed Lead." Mr. Roberts appeared as a ticket seller, and Mrs. Roberts as a charming piece of the poor old maid Samantha Slade. Mrs. Annie Wilson, Miss May Patten was Paula Malesk, a "Bolshevik," and Miss Doris Baxter was the captive girl. The entire cast which had been holding rehearsals over a period of three months, did remarkable work and plans further presentations. Mrs. Mollie Cooley played piano solos before the curtain rose on the comedy, and otherwise gave valuable assistance to the committee. Between the acts David Ratcliffe, assisted at the piano by Miss Florence Ratcliffe and Master Everett Lee, rendered concertina and banjo solos, respectively.

After the last curtain the greater number of the 200 persons present remained for the dance.

THE CITY BARN PROPOSITION

The idea of utilizing the city barn property at the corner of Bath and Chestnut street as an office building for the gas and electrical department is by no means a new one.

It has been urged before because the gas and electrical department has been cramped for room and found it difficult to get a central location that would adequately meet its requirements.

It has also been considered that such valuable property as now occupied by the city barn ought to be devoted to some other purpose than housing horses, carts, street equipment, tools and the small office of the street commissioner.

It has been a long recognized fact that even with the barn property used for such purposes it was insufficient to meet requirements and certain department equipment had to be left outside to deteriorate under attacks of the elements.

It has been generally recognized that the city barn could be located at some other point without harming the efficiency of the department, and that sanitary conditions would be greatly improved in the center of the city.

The matter of authorizing the use of the necessary funds in the gas and electrical department to take over the city barn property and establish a city barn elsewhere that would be much more advantageous for the department is in the hands of the citizens, and they will have a chance to express themselves next Thursday evening at the special city meeting.

Such a change as proposed would permit of the erection of a modern building for the lighting department on Union square, another one of a group of police buildings centered there, and would be in keeping with a practice which has been followed in other cities of grouping municipal buildings.

Such a site for the building would be central and such a building as is planned would be a decided improvement over the present structure long used for stable purposes.

The idea of getting the city barn out of the center, where it certainly does not belong, will probably be generally approved. The idea of replacing it with a building that will be a credit to the city and centrally located where it should be for the convenience of the public, ought to get the serious and considerable attention of the citizens.

NEW LONDON HAS IT!

Once again the question has been raised of building a new railroad from Providence to Palmer, Mass. The legislature of Rhode Island is being asked to grant a charter for such a line.

The reason advanced for this petition is that those backing the new four day steamship line across the Atlantic would require such additional railroad facilities and the impression is gained that those backing the petition feel quite confident that Providence can land the steamship company if it can provide this railroad connection with the Central Vermont and Grand Trunk.

If it is such a railroad terminal as would be obtained by this new construction that the four day steamship line demands, it cannot fail to give due weight to the fact that such a terminal already exists at New London. In addition to its harbor and facilities and the railroad facilities that are obtainable from the New Haven road, there is already in existence the terminal of the Central Vermont road at New London connecting with the Grand Trunk and furnishing direct connection with the very territory that is desired.

Thus if it is a question of such a railroad connection necessity doesn't lie in the construction of the Providence to Palmer line of unpleasant memory. That might be necessary in order to obtain the line for Providence, but the line can find such facilities without going to Providence, or some point in Narragansett bay. The fact cannot fail to register with the new steamship line as it checks over the assets of the several harbors which have been investigated.

FLOOD CONTROL LEGISLATION

Reports coming from Washington indicate that there will be a compromise in regard to flood control legislation. That means that instead of plunging ahead into a project without any regard for a limit on the expense heed will be given to the objections which have been raised by President Coolidge against such a bill as has gotten the approval of the senate.

When the senate acted there was surprise not only at the unanimous vote but upon the speed with which it was obtained. [illegible] that body was strong for flood control legislation but it meant that it was giving its endorsement that the measure had hustled along so fast. It is that it gave little attention to what the consequences might be.

It would be possible for the house to go ahead and pass the senate bill. But the folly of [illegible] apparent in view of the objections [illegible] by the president. The house [illegible] take the view that they should be given consideration and as the [illegible] the probability is that the House will produce a flood control bill that will come pretty near to being what will be ultimately adopted.

If the president yields on the point about participation in the expense by the states, it will be in keeping with an expressed willingness made some time ago. But more important than that will be the placing of a limit on the expenditures. Improved, the letting of contracts through the war department engineers and the provision for the rights of way for levees and spillways by the respective states.

By a compromise measure, with a basis of agreement established at this time, there ought to be no question but what the legislation will be adopted in such form as to get presidential approval. Flood control is a matter which has general approval but it is a big proposition and one that should be surrounded with all possible protection such as lies in the power of congress to establish. On the other hand it is [illegible] that ought not to experience too long delay because of unwise provisions.

MAKING PROGRESS SLOWLY

There has never [illegible] any indication that the St. [illegible] river development was going [illegible] rushed through hurriedly. The [illegible] strong advocates and the [illegible] opponents. While there are [illegible] who are lukewarm on [illegible] it is a matter, however, [illegible] only two nations so that [illegible] necessary to get favorable action in behalf of such a project in this country but it is also necessary to get Canada's approval. There [illegible] the first place be an agreement between the two countries as to [illegible] going to be done and how it is going to be done with a full setting forth of the plan of procedure, rights, powers, development and financing. It has been apparent from the start that it must move slowly.

There is cause for satisfaction, nevertheless, in the diplomatic notes which have been exchanged between Washington and Ottawa in the past several weeks for they indicate that an acceptable basis for negotiation has been reached.

Certainly high officials in Canada have recently been putting forth some valuable arguments in behalf of the development, showing where it would be particularly advantageous to Canada in various respects and combatting certain views which have been expressed in opposition. The notes from Ottawa, while favorable, indicate that much ground needs to be cultivated there yet and that while a basis for negotiations may have been found it will probably be some time before there can be a actual discussion of such a document.

Indications point to the fact that while Canada looks with favor in certain circles there is need for stronger support which will probably be forthcoming in time. [illegible] the two governments the United States shows the greater desire for early action. Canada is disposed to proceed more slowly and is not inclined to accept the suggestion by Secretary Kellogg that such additional information as it desires might be obtained while treaty negotiations were being conducted. There has been no time, probably, when the prospects were more favorable.

THE ICEBERG DANGER

The holding of services this week by crew of the ice patrol cutter near the spot where the Titanic went down 16 years ago recalls one of the great ocean tragedies of modern times, and emphasizes anew the service that is being rendered by the several governments in maintaining the cutter for detecting icebergs.

But near this anniversary of the great steamship's loss there was a collision with an iceberg by a steamship bound from Canada to England which shows the danger that exists even though the patrols are on service. The commander of the steamship, which was proceeding "dead slow" as one of the crew explained, was suddenly confronted through the fog by two large icebergs. It was a case for quick thinking and quick acting. There was no time to turn away from them, no time to stop and back up. To go between them would have meant the ripping out of the vessel's bottom. It was a case of going where the least danger threatened and this the captain did by striking the smaller of the bergs.

The crash was a hard one, two men were killed as the ship in the bow of the vessel, but all the damage was above the waterline and the vessel was able to continue on its way but destined for extensive repairs.

Such accidents accentuate the decided danger which prevails in navigation among the icebergs, and particularly from northern ports, which means that ice is bound to be encountered in some form. The ice patrol can keep tabs on a good many of the big bergs and flash warnings to all shipping by the cutters. Each must observe precautions for itself.

A WOMAN'S WORD

Bob, having captured a good, big fishing that day, was in a jovial frame of mind. Glancing at Dot, he mused to himself:

"I ought to give her a nice quiet point. Wonder what she'd like." Just then Dot looked up from behind the paper she was reading and said:

"Sable scarfs are quite the rage again this season."

"That so?" Bob replied casually, making a mental note of "one sable scarf."

The next evening Bob came home empty. The last sable scarf at Blake's had bounced and gone for.

"Don't forget this is the night we are invited to Carl and Sylvia Warner's to play cards," was Dot's greeting from the kitchen.

At the Warners' Bob overheard a conversation between his wife and Sylvia. Sylvia was effervescing.

"My dear, I have decided to be extravagant just once and buy a sable scarf!" Bob thought to himself:

"Gosh, I'm glad I bought that darned thing today. Dot will be tickled silly when I bring it home tomorrow."

"Oh, my dear," interposed Dot. "I'd never dream of doing anything so rash. What's a sable scarf? Of course, if you've set your heart on it, that's different—but as for me—there are a thousand other things I'd rather have." Bob felt a draft down the spinal column of his enthusiasm. Good heck, and he'd given the clerk a check for the full amount! A pretty pickle this. A fellow really ought to consult his wife before taking the fatal plunge.

They were almost home before the silence was broken by Dot. Then: "Bob, can you imagine anything so stupid as Sylvia Warner is going to buy a sable scarf. I guess I'm not as thought it would be more sensible for her to invest in a new vacuum cleaner."

"Great guns!" exploded Bob.

"Well?" flared Dot.

"Well?" echoed Bob, "maybe it wound."

Before he went to bed that night Bob opened the door to the closet in which Dot kept her vacuum cleaner. The old thing did look ready for the junk pile. Well, he could probably exchange the sable for a vacuum cleaner.

Saturday he came home at noon carrying something angular and grotesque.

"What in the world," called Dot "are you lugging up the back walk?"

Bob set the cleaner down before his wife, rubbed his hands enthusiastically and walked around it proudly. Then with a magnanimous gesture toward his gift, "It's all yours," Little surprise." He waited for an overflow of sentiment. It came in an overflow of tears. "For crimpy sakes, what's the matter?"

"If you were g-g-going to m-m-make-y-y-your w-w-wife a present," blubbered Dot, "that costs as much as a vv-vacuum cleaner costs you'd give her something elaborate like a sable scarf."

"Good Lord," groaned Bob. Yet after explaining everything all he could get out of his wife was, "You poor old dear, I thought you knew better than to take a woman at her word."

"Great guns!" grunted Bob. "I suppose they will let you switch back to the sable if you want it, but you will have to do the switching this time. That clerk looked at me as though she thought I was a heathen when I told her I had decided to buy a sweeper for my wife instead of a scarf."

"No wonder," replied Dot demurely. Then impulsively: "Think of it, a real sable scarf and Sylvia Warner won't get hers for two whole weeks yet. Oh, Bob, you are the most adorable husband in the whole wide world."

"I dunno about that," said Bob, dubiously, extricating himself from a suffocating embrace. "I'm getting shy of taking women at their word."—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

General Aiken's Early Political Recollection

Mr. Editor: Thanks for your kind notice of my birthday.

My earliest remembrance of things political is of a visit of the venerable ex-President John Quincy Adams, to my father in Lowell, Mass., about 1843, when he gave me a kind talk with hand on my head, and I remember his looks at a call on my father soon before his death in his chair in the house of representatives in Washington.

That was before I knew of the existence of our lamented A. Lincoln, martyr president, whom I knew personally, later.

Urges Participation in Corn-Growing Contest

Mr. Editor: We are much pleased to read in The Bulletin that the New London County Agricultural society is so much interested in the development of agriculture as to have a corn-growing contest by farmers all over the county, each planting an acre. There is no crop on a farm so easily and cheaply raised and so far-reaching as a source of profit as a well cared for good field of corn. It will thrive on home-made fertilizer from the stable and poultry yard. As a grain feed for stock and poultry there is no better. As a milk producer there is nothing better than well cured corn fodder; as a fore-runner for next year's potato crop it has no equal. Many farmers and poultry raisers ought to send in their names to the secretary for this contest. There is everything to gain and nothing to lose (perhaps win a prize) and it will do much to promote agriculture, which is much needed in these days.

Stories That Recall Others

Playing Tornado

Betty, aged five, entered a store crying. The proprietor asked her what the trouble was.

She answered amid her tears: "I was playing with my doll house and dolly that dolly brought me, and I played like a tornado hit 'em; so I knocked them off the chair and jumped on 'em. Mother whipped me cause I broke it all up."

Very Not Good

There is a certain elderly woman who makes a very fine lemon pie. One day she was giving a dinner, and, of course, made a pie for it. The weather was very warm and the whites of the eggs did not whip well for the meringue. When the pie was served one of the guests complimented her very highly on it.

"Yes," she said, "it's not as good as usual. The eggs aren't good."

NEW RESTING PLACE FOR BODY OF COL. TRUMBULL

NEW HAVEN, April 19—(AP)—The remains of Col. John Trumbull, soldier and painter of the American Revolution found a new resting place today in the basement of the new Yale gallery of fine arts. The removal from under the Yale Art school where he had lain since 1867 to a special constructed vault, was carried out in compliance of his will. The vault was installed a few days ago beneath the Trumbull gallery but was not sealed until this noon.

A slab on which is lettered the words "Beneath this Gallery" has been placed on the ground floor of the building directly over the vault. In the basement, over the grave, is another stone slab bearing the inscription, "Col. John Trumbull, patriot and artist, friend and aide of Washington, lies beside his wife beneath this gallery of art. Lebanon 1756-New York 1843."

There is a unique museum in Paris in which are gathered all objects relating to the ballet, including everything from tattered skirts to valuable jewels. Collecting goes on assiduously of all articles connected with celebrities of the dance.

Just see—whiter yet I did not scrub or boil this wash

I WOULDN'T believe it, if I didn't see it with my own eyes. Such snowy, gleaming whiteness—just by soaking and rinsing!

The secret must be in the suds. I could tell Rinso suds were different right away. So thick and creamy, my hands got lost in them! And how these suds last!

Now I just let the wash soak while I do my shopping, and then I rinse off suds and dirt together. It's marvelous the way Rinso soaks out the dirt and stains. No hard rubbing, even at the grimiest cuffs and edges. Naturally this gentle way saves the clothes, and my hands, too.

Why, I don't even need to bother about boiling things any more! Rinso is a real "no-work" soap—no wonder all my neighbors use it for washer and tub!

Just ask your grocer for,

Rinso

JAMES L. HUBBARD'S YACHT TO BE LAUNCHED SATURDAY

Two large masts which will be placed in the yacht Lou, the new 63-foot auxiliary yacht built in Charles Ferguson's shipyard, Groton, for James L. Hubbard of Norwich, were received at the shipyard Thursday.

The mainmast is 68 feet long and the foremast is 58 feet. Both masts are hollow and are constructed of spruce. They were brought to the shipyard on a truck and trailer. A force of Mr. Hubbard's workmen took the masts from the vehicle and placed them in the yard. When the masts were being moved into position for placement in the shipyard they stretched across Thames street, causing automobiles to stop for several minutes.

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the Lou will be launched in Groton harbor. She is completed, and presents a pleasing appearance in her cradle at the Ferguson shipyard. The boat is painted white above the water line. The hull under the water line is green.

Many have been invited to witness the launching of the boat. The Peerless orchestra from Willimantic has been engaged to furnish music at the launching in the event that the weather is favorable. If rain prevails there will be no orchestra but the launching will not be deferred unless there is an exceptionally heavy wind, Mr. Hubbard said Thursday when in Groton.

RHODE ISLAND REDS MAKE PERFECT SCORE

Seventy eggs in seven days, the best weekly score ever made in seventeen Storrs laying trials, is the enviable record that has just been set up by the Rhode Island Reds entered by Clarence E. Lee of Auburn, N. Y. This is the outstanding news of the report for the twenty-fourth week of the present competition. The total number of entries in seventeen Storrs laying trials is approaching the 2,000-mark, but not until the past seven days has any entry been able to establish a perfect weekly score of 70 eggs. Previously, the best weekly production has been 68 eggs a record that has been tied by several entries. Still another point of interest in connection with Lee's pen is the fact that the birds also laid 30 eggs in the last three days of the twenty-third week. Thus in the ten-day period ending on April 16, these Reds from New York shelled out exactly 100 eggs in ten days, a lay of 100 per cent for that period. If the scores for the last two weeks be added, the result gives a total of 137 out of a possible 140 eggs. All of which constitutes a remarkable record for consistency in production, and one which if maintained for any length of time will greatly improve the standing of this entry. In connection with this record of 70 eggs in one week, the management can say in all confidence that this is a mark that will probably stand for all time at Storrs. That it may be equalled is readily admitted but there isn't a chance in a million that it will be beaten.

First place on the honor roll for the week goes to Lee's Reds, and by the proverbial mile. An entry of Barred Rocks owned by the Kerr Chickeries from Frenchtown, N. J., placed second with a count of 64 eggs. Three pens tied for third position, each with a score of 63 eggs. They include the Rhode Island Reds entered by the Globus Poultry Farm of Attleboro, Mass., and Nascook Farm of Tyngsboro, Mass., and the White Leghorns owned by George Lowry of West Willington, Conn. Another pen of Reds entered by West Neck Farm of Huntington, N. Y., was fourth for the week with a score of 62 eggs.

George Lowry's White Leghorns which last week overhauled and passed two other entries to take the leading position among all competitors increased that lead in the past sevenday period. These birds have laid 1,334 eggs in twenty-four weeks, a score that puts them ahead of the Charlescote Reds from Sherborn, Mass. by 13 eggs, and in front of the Broadview Farm White Leghorns from Winsted, Conn., by 22 eggs. The excellent production of Lowry's pen at the present time indicates that still further increases over the above named entries may be expected. The 1,334-egg score of Lowry's entry for twenty-four weeks is 87 eggs more than the record of the Hollywood Poultry Farm entry in last year's trial for a similar period of time. All of which means that if Lowry's team of pullets is out to set up a new record at Storrs this year they are already 87 eggs to the good.

There were two changes among the leading pens during the week. In the Rhode Island Red class the entry of West Neck Farm passed Zephrim LaBelle's pen from Baltonville, Conn., to take fifth place. In the White Leghorn classification the entry of George B Ferris from Grand Rapids, Mich., passed the entry of Bournedale Farm from Millerton, N. Y., to take fifth position.

DECLARE WYOMING'S FORMER WOMAN GOV. INCONSISTENT

LOS ANGELES, April 19—(AP)—A second group of southern California women has taken in the welcome mat, so far as the political visit of Wyoming's former woman governor is concerned.

The Los Angeles Federation of Women's Christian Temperance unions, by resolution, has declared Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross inconsistent in avowedly backed a prohibitionist and at the same time campaigning in the California presidential primary in behalf of the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith of New York.

The resolution, made public last night, said in part:

"We deplore the position taken by Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, who is now in California proclaiming herself a prohibitionist and in favor of enforcement of the prohibition laws of the United States and yet is speaking publicly in support of the presidential candidacy of Governor Al Smith of New York, whose record on nullification of the prohibition law and whose personal sentiments in opposition to prohibition are well known to the people of the entire nation."

THE SMALL MATTER OF A TEN.

"It was just today," remarked Mrs. Tittleworth, "I saw my cousin who works in the barber shop." Behind his newspaper, Mr. Tittleworth remained silent. The account of the recent baseball game was more than usually absorbing.

After a few moments Mrs. Tittleworth put aside her needle and thread, removed some pins from her mouth, and said more distinctly,

"We discussed who will be the next president."

"Is he working?"

"He always works."

"Your cousin?"

"The president."

"Leave him out—and no disrespect meant."

"Well, my cousin is sort of resting a few weeks. An interesting man, my cousin."

"What's he done?"

"It's what he says."

Mr. Tittleworth's reply was superior silence. He turned a page with a moistened thumb and slid further down in his chair.

"And the way he says it," continued Mrs. Tittleworth.

"Says what?"

"Whatever he says. Sometimes it's this; sometimes it's that. A convincing talker is my cousin."

"Sure. I loaned him $10 once."

"Did he pay it back?"

"He convinced me he would."

"That's something."

"He stays away now. That's something, too. He's like a teller who came into the meat market today and stood around."

"I shouldn't think you would want people standing around."

"He's a customer," explained Mr. Tittleworth.

"Did he talk about who will be the next president?"

"No. He said—"

"That's what my cousin talks about. Told me to tell you he knows who will be the next president."

"How does he know?"

"He has some info."

"Info?" inquired Mr. Tittleworth.

"A nickname for information, my cousin said. Betting men use it. Then they can't lose. Especially when it's inside."

"Inside what?"

"The bet. And my cousin said he will tell you who is going to be the next president if you will call that $10 loan square."

"And what did you say?"

"I said," replied Mrs. Tittleworth, with dignity, "that my husband is not a betting man."

"That's right," agreed Mr. Tittleworth heartily. "I couldn't have made a better answer myself."

"He has other ways to use his money."

"Your cousin?"

"My husband."

"And what did your cousin say?"

"That the $10 he owes you is worrying him."

"If he paid me, he'd quit worrying."

"So, that he couldn't sleep at night."

"Does the $10 keep me from sleeping at night?"

"Or snoring?"

"No! Ten dollars is $10, but do I worry myself about it?"

"Or me?"

"No."

"Not the least bit?"

"Less than that. Take your loss like a man, Herman Tittleworth," says I to myself, and say no more about it. So I don't."

"And you won't in the future?" asked Mrs. Tittleworth.

"Not Herman Tittleworth. When his mind is made up, his mind is a closed book. Kindly remember that."

"And you'll say no more about it?"

"It's twice, I tell you—no."

"I just wanted to make sure. Because I told my cousin to tell me who is going to be the next president. It's worth $10 to me to know so that I can tell the neighbors."

"But—but——"

"Kindly remember," reminded Mrs. Tittleworth, as she took up her sewing again, "that your mind is a closed book."—Chicago News.

Callers and visitors at William Bitgood's Sunday were Elisha Bitgood and daughter Evelyn of Hope Valley and Charles Barber and son Joel, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gilberts and Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery of Jewett City and James Church of Providence. Mrs. Gilberts thinks Moses is a beauty. So did the ones that were with her.

Sunday, April 15, a few of the friends of Mrs. George Kenyon of Sterling Hill went to her home to celebrate her 88th birthday. The party that went were her sister, Ida Douglas of Sterling, Ina Weeks and son an dtwo daughters of Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pember and two children of Moosup, Mrs. George Burdick and children of Providence. Ina Weeks took her a cake with 88 candles on it and they had ice cream to eat with the cake. Mrs. Ina Remington sent her a nice box of fruit and candy and cards. Her sister, Mrs. Bitgood, sent her a card. She would have liked to have been with them if she had been able. We all wish her many more birthdays.

George Remington of Oneco went fishing as soon as the law was off so he could. He caught two fish. They measured between 10 and 12 inches and weighed nearly two pounds. He sent them to his great aunt on Sterling Hill for a birthday present.

Mr. Hikeman of Beach Pond lost a nice horse recently. It died in the harness. It had not been sick. Mr. Hikeman feels pretty bad over the loss as it was a fine horse.

CLARENCE DEMAR AGAIN WINS BOSTON MARATHON IN RECORD BREAKING TIME

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

BOSTON, April 19—(AP)—Clarence H. DeMar, the wiry, smiling little type setter and Sunday school teacher of Melrose, is still the king of American marathon runners but there is a new crown prince of the realm, Joie W. Ray, last time monarch of the milers.

DeMar, in as brilliant a race as he has ever turned in, stepped out over his favorite hills and dales today to win the classic Boston A. A. marathon, in record smashing style from the greatest distance running field ever assembled, but the heroic figure of this astonishing spectacle was gallant little Joie, who finished third in the first marathon of his career with as gritty an exhibition as any foot race has shown.

Gets Great Ovation

They lifted DeMar on the shoulders of cheering admirers as he broke the tape, seemingly as fresh as when he started, in 2 hours, 37 minutes, 7 4-5 seconds, shattering the course record for the full marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards he set last year.

They roared again when stocky Tommy Hennigan, of Boston, came trotting in second, fully two-thirds of a mile behind DeMar but finishing the route for the first time in his career and springing one of the biggest surprises of the year.

But there was a thunderous outburst, the greatest ovation of all, for Ray, weary, feet bleeding and blistered, as he forced himself through the finishing stretch and to the tape in third position, some 300 to 400 yards behind Hennigan. They carried little Joie from the finish too, but it was because he had collapsed after completing in gallant fashion the greatest test of his career.

Stepping out of his class on comparatively short notice, Ray, for a decade the greatest of American milers, exceeded the most optimistic expectations of his followers by forging toward the front from the start, remaining in a contending position for fully 20 miles of the rugged route and holding second place until forced to yield to Hennigan's superior stamina in a mile and a half from the finish.

500,000 Look On

DeMar and Ray were the central figures of this marathon drama, staged over the famous hill and dale route from Hopkinton to Boston on Patriot's day before probably 500,000 onlookers along the historic course.

The laurels went to DeMar, who established beyond question his supremacy in winning this thirty-first Boston classic for the sixth time since 1911 and for the fifth time in the last seven years. Along with it went the American championship for 1928 and a certain berth on the Olympic team that will seek international honors later in the summer at Amsterdam.

The glory went to Ray for the courage with which he overcame obstacles and stuck it out to finish after fully two thirds of the record breaking field of 244 starters had found the pace too fast or the route too rough. For the last ten miles of the race Ray ran on in spite of blistered feet that tortured him and regardless of a cramp that threatened to put him out of the race entirely. For the last five miles, with all hope of overtaking DeMar gone and only the honor of a place in sight, he ran on what seemed like sheer nerve.

DeMar Sets Pace

The pace was a record breaker from start to finish and from the bark of the gun, at noon, that sent the tremendous field scurrying on its way, DeMar was the real pace setter. Over the first five miles, he was content to let a tall, gangling youngster, William T. Simons, of Needham Heights, Mass., keep the lead. For the next twelve miles of the grind DeMar had the company of another persistent outsider, William Wilson, of the Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia. In fact it was Wilson's plucky efforts that kept the pace at a record breaking clip until well after the half way mark. Like most of the others, however, Wilson found the long grades of the Newton hills too severe a strain and he faded from the picture finally finishing seventh as DeMar went on alone.

Ray, always keeping the leaders in sight, varying from 150 to 300 yards behind, remained in a contending position until about the 20 mile mark.

'BOUT SPORTS

Once again the Academy attempts to open its season whereby it will be defending a state title for the first time in nearly 20 years. The first two games on the schedule, with the Alumni last Saturday and with the All Stars (or in other words, the Alumni again) Wednesday, because of rain and cold weather, respectively.

The opening this year is about the latest that the Wildcats have ever had and it also promises to present one of the stiffest inaugural tilts Deep River can truly boast of one of the best "little" teams in the state and maybe before the season is over she can also rank with the best among the "big fry."

Deep River was not rated very highly by either Bulkeley or Chapman Tech, whom she disposed of in very easy fashion. The Academy is not making that mistake believing it poor policy to underrate any opponent. Bulkeley expected to "boost her batting averages" but once Linder dug his spikes in and started pitching, the veteran Orange and Black club thought a lot different. Linder allowed the Whalers but two scattered hits and fanned fourteen. Against Chapman Tech he also scored a shutout, by 10 to 0 and fanned 20.

Today's game is the first of a long schedule for the Red and White and on their showing this afternoon local fans ought to be able to get a fairly definite idea as to what is going to happen during the next two months

OHIO BOXER NEAR DEATH AFTER BOUT WEDNESDAY

DEFIANCE, Ohio, April 19—(AP)—Howard Buck Lain, 19, Defiance boxer was reported near death in a hospital tonight from a severe concussion of the brain which he sustained during a bout last night with Frankie Jar of Fort Wayne, Ind. Lain was knocked out in the fifth round. His head struck the edge of the ring platform as he fell.

YANKS LOSE FIRST PLACE BY DIVIDING; RUTH GETS HOMER

BOSTON, April 19—(AP)—Babe Ruth made his first home run of the season here today as the Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees divided the Patriot's day double header. The Sox won the morning game, 7 to 6, by late rallies after the Yankees had piled up a lead of 6 to 0 in the early innings, but the New York team came back to win, 7 to 2, in the afternoon engagement.

Ruth's home run came in the fifth inning of the afternoon game. Harold Wilkie, the southpaw who gave the Yanks trouble last season, was pitching and nobody was on base. The drive sailed far over the heads of the fans lining the outfield and found a resting place in the right field bleachers, to the intense delight of the 10,000 spectators. Gehrig remained one up on the Babe in the 1928 renewal of their home run feud.

Ken Williams hit a home run for the Red Sox in the afternoon game. It was his third of the season.

The even break of the Yankees and the victory of the Cleveland Indians over Chicago dropped the New York team from the lead of the American league for the first time since May, 1926, except for the one day at the start of this season when the Red Sox technically led through winning from Washington a day before the other teams started. BLAKE ALLOWS TWO HITS WHILE CUBS GET 13-0 WIN

CHICAGO, April 19—(AP)—Sheriff Blake hurled a two hit game, Hack Wilson cracked out two homers—one with the bases loaded—and the Cubs rattled off a total of 21 hits to trounce the Cincinnati Reds, 13 to 0, today.

No one reached second on Blake. Blake and Joe Kelly of the Cubs also bagged four hits, Kelly hitting a homer with two men on the bags. Wilson, in addition to his two circuit clouts, hit a double and a single. He was hit by a pitched ball in his fifth appearance. The Reds used three pitchers, Luque, Jablonowski and Ashe. Score:
